HOME MISSIONS.

One Hundred and Sixth Annual Report.

The Board of Home Missions has pleasure in presenting to the General Assembly its one hundred and sixth Annual Report.

The following missionaries have during the year passed from their labors on earth to their reward in heaven:

Rev. Henry Nelson Bullard, Ph. D.....	Kansas City, Missouri.
Rev. George H. Haystead.....	Bellingham, Washington.
Rev. C. M. Nelson.....	Royse City, Texas.
Rev. William D. Rudolph.....	Sage, Arkansas.

The Board records its grateful appreciation of the labors of these its servants.

As the new year opens the tidings come to us of the death in Wichita, Kansas, on the morning of April seventh, of the Rev. S. B. Fleming, D. D., synodical missionary of Kansas. Dr. Fleming served the Board in that honorable capacity for more than twenty years and has left a record of loyalty and fidelity. Though during the last years his service was with depleted strength it was with unabated courage and devotion. He will long be held in grateful memory by the people of Kansas and by the Board of Home Missions.

FINANCES.

For the first time in ten years the Board is obliged to report a debt to the General Assembly. The amount of the deficiency is $47,717.73.

It was foreseen a year ago that by reason of the assumption of the work of the Cumberland branch of our Church, and of that part of the evangelistic work that relates to the missionary synods, the Board would be unable to meet its obligations unless there should be a large increase in the gifts of churches and individuals. There has been a gratifying increase in the sum of $25,958.43, but not sufficient to cover the excess of appropriations which amounted to about one hundred thousand dollars. How largely the panic which has prevailed during the past months is responsible for the fact that the gifts of the churches have not overtaken the increased appropriations cannot of course be definitely determined. There is no doubt, however, that it enters very largely into the account. The income from legacies has also been somewhat less than usual.

For the new year the Board has therefore made its appropriations conservatively. Nevertheless we have not felt at liberty to retrench. Our loyalty to the union with the Cumberland Church requires that the vast missionary work in that field shall not be halted. It affords indeed peculiar opportunities, and while by reason of the anti-union sentiment throughout that district the work is difficult, it is by that reason made even more obligatory upon our Church. We must stand by these brethren who amid hardships we cannot fully appreciate are so loyally standing by their work and by the reunion. The past year has been one of organization of the work in the South and Southwest, and with the new year—with better equipment and with splendid opportunities opening up—we may anticipate a larger advance.

SELF-SUPPORTING SYNODS.

In December an important conference was held in our Assembly room between representatives of the self-supporting synods and the officers and members of the Board of Home Missions. Synods were represented as follows:

Baltimore, Rev. William H. Logan; Illinois, Rev. William H. Penhallegon, D. D.; Indiana, Rev. William H. McCaughey, D. D.; Iowa, Rev. Ezra B. Newcomb, D. D.; Michigan, Rev. William T. Jaquess; New Jersey, Rev. Samuel McLanahan; New York, Mr. George P. Conard; Ohio, Rev. George E. Davies; Wisconsin, Rev. Charles A. Adams.

Two days were spent in discussion, which, while revealing great diversity of method, disclosed at the same time the devotion of each Synod to the plan which, from the study of local conditions, it had adopted. The following paper, after careful consideration, was unanimously adopted:

"It is the judgment of this Conference that, to the end that greater unity and more definite cooperation may be secured between the Board on the one hand and the self-supporting synods on the other, an Advisory Council shall be constituted of one member from each of the self-supporting synods—to be appointed by the synods themselves—to meet annually with officers or representatives of the Board of Home Missions for consultation and for the devising of plans of cooperation. This Council, among other matters, shall consider:

"1. Ways in which the Board can help synodical self-support, as by

- (a) Literature;
- (b) Help in evangelism;
- (c) In the question of immigration; and
- (d) In the question of church and labor.

"2. Ways in which the self-supporting synods can help the Home Board, as by

- (a) Open doors for literature and appeals;
- (b) Offerings, according to plans approved by the respective synods.

"3. Ways in which each can help the other, as by

- (a) Conferences; and
- (b) Evangelistic campaigns.

"And we recommend that the above plan of cooperation be carried to the General Assembly by the Board of Home Missions for the approval of the Assembly, and if so approved, that the home mission committees of the synods be requested to present the same for adoption and for the action necessary to complete the organization of the Advisory Council."

The budget plan was formally discussed and the following resolution was also unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That where in the judgment of any self-supporting synod it is inexpedient to take separate offerings for the national and synodical work of home missions, that the Board of Home Missions and such synod confer with each other as to the amount needed by the synod and desired by the Board, and shall together, by means mutually agreed upon, endeavor to raise the amount and divide it in the proportion previously determined."

The question of the general relationship of woman's work to the present day conditions in self-supporting synods and other territory was also carefully considered, resulting in the formal adoption of the resolution which will be found in the report from the Woman's Board of Home Missions herewith incorporated.

It was the judgment of all present that much help had been gained from the conference, and the conviction was manifest that a larger service in the interests of home missions throughout all of our territory would be the result of the plans formed in the conference and herewith presented for approval by the Assembly.

VACANCY AND SUPPLY.

The General Assembly of 1899 appointed a committee on Vacancy and Supply which made final report to the Assembly of 1905. In that report the Board of Home Missions was directed to assign the duty of caring for this service to one of its officers. This was taken up willingly and pushed earnestly under the assumption that there was no prohibition upon this officer sending the names of ministers seeking a church to the session of a church. This interpretation was questioned, and the matter came before the Committee on Home Missions of the last General Assembly. The recommendation of that Committee, which was adopted by the Assembly, is as follows:

"That the officer of the Board of Home Missions having in charge the matter shall send to said chairman of said presbyterial committee the names of ministers seeking a settlement, with such recommendations as such minister may furnish."

As this limited the access of such officer to presbyterial committees we regret to say that, when ministers sought our aid in approaching a church and were told that we could not communicate with any church but must send all names to the chairman of the presbyterial committee, they were so convinced of the hopelessness of the procedure that they withdrew their request. We are therefore reluctantly compelled to report that the Board has been of no service during the past year in the department of Vacancy and Supply.

The last Assembly directed the stated clerks of presbyteries to send to the Board of Home Missions a list of vacant churches. Such lists have been received from the presbyteries of Aberdeen, West Jersey, Washington, Philadelphia North, Syracuse, Solomon and Cimarron.

DIFFUSION OF INFORMATION.

In the diffusion of information throughout the Church during the past year many speakers have been employed, including synodical and presbyterial home mission officers, field secretaries and other field representatives; these speakers have been scattered broadly among the churches. The theological seminaries have been visited with some system; the most have been reached with official home missionary speakers on three occasions, for which definite arrangement had been made weeks beforehand, and to which much prominence was given; in addition, many other field representatives of the Board have visited and spoken before the students.

The Rev. A. F. McGarrah has been a special representative of the Board in prescribed territory. During the summer of 1907 he managed a stereopticon campaign, using five or six lecturers throughout a considerable portion of the season. Through this effort 196 lectures were given, 26,615 persons attended the lectures and interest in home missions through a broad section was greatly quickened.

Under Mr. McGarrah's inspiration and direction there was conducted at Grove City, Pennsylvania, a young people's missionary conference which proved of great value to the gathering of choice young people, leaders in their various churches. The institutes and studies of the conference included foreign as well as home missionary enterprises.

During the fall, winter and spring Mr. McGarrah has been under the special direction of the field secretary of the South and Southwest, laboring in that district. He has visited within the State of Missouri alone 140 churches to deliver set addresses; has met, in twenty others, with officers and members in the interests of more effective church and home mission methods; has delivered within the state 296 set addresses, and has been a large factor in the movement throughout the State of Missouri which bids fair to make the synod, as a whole, self-supporting at once. Mr. McGarrah has studied broadly and at the closest range problems of church finance and has been influential in introducing methods of solving this pressing problem in some of the self-supporting churches as well as in many of the home mission fields. His addresses at meetings of presbytery and home mission conferences have told powerfully in the interests of a more wholesome and thoroughly organized church life.

During late January and early February a series of important conferences, more fully reported elsewhere, were held with pastor evangelists and home mission committeemen in several presbyteries of the South and South-west.

Notable among efforts for arousing broader and deeper home missionary interest was the publicity campaign of March and early April. One-day conferences were held in the following cities, the program extending from ten o'clock in the morning throughout the afternoon and evening: Newark, Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Peoria, Chicago, Fort Wayne, Cincinnati, Columbus and Baltimore. Other cities reached in connection with the same campaign were New York, Bloomington, Springfield and Monmouth, Illinois. All of these centers lie in the territory of the self-supporting synods. Conferences bore especially upon the home mission problems of this territory. Effort was made everywhere, with a gratifying degree of success, to impress the unity of the home missionary enterprise and the need of a co-ordination and articulation of forces for meeting the present urgent and broad demands. Problems of immigration, church and labor and church finance were prominent. Representatives of the Board made special point of emphasizing the importance of synodical and other local home missionary enterprises, and the way was opened all over the field for a more complete and harmonious coordination of national and local enterprises.

Effectiveness and inspiration was contributed to the campaign by the presence and participation on the program in each center of the Moderator of the General Assembly, the Rev. William H. Roberts, D. D., LL. D. Officers of the Board were aided by the following Board members who gave their time and services to this work: the Rev. Henry Sloane Coffin, D. D., the Rev. Albert Edwin Keigwin, D. D., the Rev. Edgar W. Work, D. D.; the Rev. Thomas Clinton Moffett, special representative of the Board for Indian affairs, also assisted.

The volume of correspondence has vastly increased during the year. More exact information has been communicated to chairmen of home mission committees, the organization of these committees has been made more effective in many presbyteries, and progress has been made in many directions towards a completer unification of all home missionary affairs in the section covered by the self-supporting synods.

Gratifying response has been made from all the field to attempts at producing higher grade and larger volume of home missionary literature. The number of leaflets has been greatly increased, the issues greatly enlarged, and the foundations laid for a much more effective system of reaching the people of the churches with educative influences.

DEPARTMENT OF CHURCH AND LABOR.

It is five years since the Department of Church and Labor was established by our Board. The first two years were spent principally in a careful study of the industrial problem as it affected the Church in the principal cities of the United States, although practical suggestions were being made to the ministers in the various churches with reference to methods of work. The development of the department during the past three years particularly, has attracted the attention both of other denominations and of the public press.

The reception accorded our ministers in the shop meetings is not without significance. These workingmen have a new conception of both the character of the minister as a man and of the nature of the gospel which he preaches. The fact that workingmen will attend a conference of employers and employees under the auspices of the church proves their confidence in us.

The judges in the social economy section of the international exposition of books, papers and publicity held in Paris, France, last fall, awarded the Department of Church and Labor the grand prix, the highest possible award. Over two hundred photographs and sketches were shown in this exhibit, presenting the various practical ministries of the department's work.

Every Sunday afternoon, and sometimes on a week night during the past winter, the superintendent of the department addressed mass meetings of workingmen rarely numbering less than one thousand and sometimes reaching more than ten times that. These meetings were worked up by the men themselves, in most instances. Many of the mass meetings of the year, held in theaters and other large auditoriums, were conducted under the sole auspices of the central labor unions of the various cities, who paid all local expenses, besides becoming responsible for the speakers' traveling bills. In every case the same kind of an address was given which is used in the meetings held under church auspices. Invitations for such meetings—to be held under labor auspices—have come from many of our cities.

On Sunday, March fifteenth, a mass meeting of workingmen was held in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York, which was attended by one thousand trades-unionists. Such a meeting was made possible only by the five years' work which had preceded it.

Reports from our ministers indicate that the workingmen in their own cities are responding to their appeal. One of our fraternal delegates said that whereas the men in his congregation formerly numbered only fifteen per cent. now they numbered sixty per cent. During the early part of this year, one of the leading members of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, with which he has been identified for over twenty years, became a member of one of our churches on confession of faith. Similar instances might easily be multiplied.

One of the newer features of the department's work is a Correspondence Course in Applied Christianity. The object of this course is to meet the needs of ministers in difficult fields, especially in industrial centers. The course covers studies on the effective use of literature, evangelism for workingmen, institutional church, methods of social and economic reform, practical ideas concerning church advertising, and it also indicates how a man may master his own local field. Ministers of other denominations are among those applying for membership in this course. It has been adopted by one of our theological seminaries and other denominations are desiring to use it in connection with their work for the training of ministers in aggressive social and religious work.

For three years the department has been sending out weekly an article which is now being syndicated to three hundred and fifty labor papers, through which we are speaking to ten million workingmen.

Forty leaflets for both the Church and workingmen are now being issued by the department. Lecture courses and conferences covering the question of the Church's relation to workingmen and kindred subjects, are given in theological seminaries, universities and colleges.

The plan of the exchange of fraternal delegates between central labor unions and ministers' associations is continually growing in favor.

The department is also prepared to furnish those in less populated districts with information which they need for the meeting of the larger social and religious problems which are making insistent demands upon them.

IMMIGRATION DEPARTMENT,

Last year the Board reported to the General Assembly that it was looking for some one specially qualified by birth, training and gifts to take charge of its work among foreigners, for which the Assembly recommended that a special department be erected. After a vigorous search covering the entire year, the Board was unable to find any one both able and willing to undertake this work.

Persuaded, however, of the need of such a department, the Board has organized it by electing as superintendent the Rev. Charles Stelzle. He will conduct the Immigration Department coordinately with the Department of Church and Labor, but separate from it. The new department will maintain its own budget, helpers and methods of works. It will inquire into the conditions of social and religious life in the lands whence immigrants come. It will secure information as to their conditions at places of entry in the United States and the localities whither they go. It will also seek to secure, either abroad or at home, men and women fitted to preach the gospel to their people. It will be a bureau of information for any localities where there are foreigners among whom local churches desire to carry on Christian work. It will also endeavor to be a bureau of education to secure as far as possible, or to prepare, such literature in the various foreign languages as will be a source of supply to those doing work among foreigners in the various parts of the country.

During the past year the Board of Home Missions has expended $28,883 on this department. This includes $9,856 spent under the supervision of the Woman's Board. The work is scattered from New Hampshire to California and carried on in many languages and dialects, but for the most part it is conducted under severest limitations and only partially qualified ministers. While we cannot be too energetic we must also seek patience especially in training the young and from amongst them to find those who can be fitted for the gospel ministry. The training schools at Pittsburgh, Bloomfield and Dubuque are doing an excellent work and both deserve and need largest sympathy and support.

There is only a short story to be told of advance made by the presbyteries in seeking the Board's help. The Presbytery of New York has found it desirable to come into the closest relation to the Board in the endeavor to meet the needs of the large number of foreign-speaking people on Manhattan Island. The presbytery has asked the Board to appoint a superintendent specially for the city of New York for it does not seem possible to secure proper supervision in any other way. A most interesting phase or development of this mission to foreigners is an application to the Presbytery of New York on behalf of the Ruthenians. It would seem as if there were a national movement of that people to get away from the Greek Catholic Church; new light has dawned upon them, new hopes stir their hearts. They are not quite ready to become Presbyterians, and perhaps may hesitate to declare themselves Protestants, but they have turned to us seeking a helping hand. The Presbytery of New York has expressed itself in sympathy with these people and under the supervision of the Board of Home Missions will endeavor to care for them.

The following list of grants made by our Board during the past year shows the locations in which it has aided foreigners, the nationalities assisted, and the proportion of workers who are themselves foreigners ministering to their fellow countrymen.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.

Following out the plan projected a year ago by direction of the General Assembly, the Board of Home Missions has been carrying on evangelistic work in the missionary synods by the appointment of eighty pastor-evangelists under direction of the home mission committees of the presbyteries and supervision of the field secretaries.

It was not to be expected that this new departure would show the fruits which may ultimately be expected. The first year has necessarily been somewhat experimental. The reports from the various parts of the field, however, indicate evangelistic services have been very generally held in the presbyteries supplied by the pastor-evangelists, and usually with good results.

In order that the evangelistic work in the South and Southwest might be pressed in a measure somewhat adequate to the opportunity, the Board of Home Missions, conjointly with the Evangelistic Committee, appointed the Rev. Joseph P. Calhoun, D. D., as evangelistic secretary for that region with headquarters at Nashville, Tennessee. We present herewith Dr. Calhoun's report of the work:

"Beginning with July, evangelistic work has been carried on in the South and Southwest under a joint arrangement by the Assembly's Evangelistic Committee and the Home Board. An office was opened and headquarters established at Nashville, the field of operation embracing the nine synods of Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. A plan of work was prepared by the superintendent in charge and approved by the Evangelistic Committee, the Home Board and all of the synods above enumerated.

"Evangelistic conferences in connection with the meetings of the synods last fall were held, and nearly every synod in our jurisdiction gave us an evening hour for a popular evangelistic service.

"After the visitation of synods, presbyterial conferences followed. Many of these I personally attended, and where I could not go the home mission committee took charge. A suggested program was sent out from our office and used in substance by all the presbyteries holding evangelistic conferences. From these meetings many a pastor went back to his people with the fire of a new zeal burning on his heart. One pastor went out to assist his brethren and five hundred and eighty-nine confessed Christ, three hundred and fifty-four of these joining Presbyterian churches. Two other pastors started a tent meeting, forty made profession, were organized into a Presbyterian church, and a new church edifice is about completed.

"Another pastor became discouraged at the coldness of his people and he went out to a theater Sabbath afternoon and is now preaching to more people than ever before and many of them are following him into his church.

"In a union meeting of five churches, one of our pastors was called to preach and two hundred and sixty professed conversion and nearly all of them united with the church. All the pastors either have had or will have special revival services during the year. Scores of our churches where the spirit of unity prevails are rejoicing in gracious out-pourings of the Holy Ghost, and from fifty to one hundred added to the membership.

"Many of the presbyteries are organizing for a summer campaign by which a series of evangelistic services will be held in every church with or without a pastor. There is to be no cessation of evangelistic effort. This is the life of these ministers and churches, nay, their only salvation in this hour when they are being tried as by fire.

"Reports filed in my office indicate that pastor-evangelists during the last six months have held one thousand and fifty-four evangelistic services with eleven hundred and five confessions and one thousand and forty-seven accessions. For an entire year these figures might be multiplied by two. These are the number added to Presbyterian churches. There is no record of the considerable number that joined other denominations. I earnestly commend the good work of these faithful servants of the Master. They report to my office once a month.

"A number of approved evangelists have been holding meetings that were self-supporting, and all of them have had some meetings that were veritable Pentecosts.

"In the development of this special work for the South and Southwest your representative has visited the presbyteries, synods and many of the churches from the mountains of North Carolina to the plains of western Texas and New Mexico. He has everywhere met with the earnest cooperation of our ministers and churches."

Obedient to the action of the last General Assembly, our Board elected four field secretaries as follows: for the District of the Southwest the Rev. B. P. Fullerton, D. D.; for the District of the Northwest,—including Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Nebraska,—the Rev. Robert N. Adams, D. D.; for the Rocky Mountain District,—including Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, so much of Idaho as belongs to the Synod of Utah, Utah, New Mexico and Arizona,—the Rev. Robert M. Donaldson, D. D.; and for the Pacific Coast District,—including so much of Idaho as belongs to the Synod of Washington, Washington, Oregon, California and Nevada,—the Rev. William S. Holt, D. D. These report for their respective sections.

THE DISTRICT OF THE SOUTH AND SOUTHWEST.

For this section Dr. Fullerton presents the following statement:

In this district there are nine synods, Alabama, Arkansas, Kansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Texas; sixty-seven presbyteries and, according to the Minutes of the last Assembly, three thousand four hundred congregations, one thousand five hundred ministers and about two hundred thousand members. The number of congregations, ministers and church members will be found much less on account of withdrawals by those who oppose the union of the two Churches. These cover an area of seven hundred and twenty-three thousand square miles, with a population of twenty-one million people, or about one-fourth of the total population of the United States. Of this population three million, seven hundred and fifty-six thousand three hundred and ninety-two are negroes, or about one-third the negro population in the United States of America. The per cent. of foreign born people is very small, so that the problem of the race question in this district is confined to this single race.

PROBLEMS.

First of all is the problem of the change in presbyterial boundaries consequent upon the union of the Presbyterian and Cumberland Presbyterian Churches. In all of these synods, except Alabama, Arkansas, Kansas and Mississippi, this change was complete. In the synods of Alabama, Arkansas and Mississippi there were no congregations of the Presbyterian Church, except a few in the State of Arkansas that were attached to the Synod of Missouri; and in the Synod of Kansas there were not more than twenty-five hundred Cumberland Presbyterians; and in all of these four synods the congregations fell into the presbyteries within whose bounds they were located. But in the Synod of Texas, for illustration, there were three presbyteries in the Presbyterian church and twenty-one in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, which in the union were made into twelve. In the Synod of Missouri there were six presbyteries in the Presbyterian Church and thirteen in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, which were made into ten. This necessitated a complete reorganization of our home mission committees. Cumberland Presbyterians were not familiar with the home missionary machinery of the organization formed by the union of the two Churches, and it took time and labor to familiarize them with it.

Then in all of these synods, except the Synod of Kansas, there was a rather persistent opposition to the union of the two Churches which, in many cases, divided the local church and made congregations, that had been able to support a minister before the union, dependent upon the Board of Home Missions. At the same time, the discussion of the question diverted the minds of the people from the real mission of the Church. In almost all of these synods suits at law were instituted to determine the rightful possession of property. As long as this question is unsettled, congregations are more or less inactive and are hesitant about investing money in the development of the local church, especially where anything like the erection of manses or repairs on the church building is involved. This continued state of uncertainty has greatly crippled the efficiency of our people in these eight synods and time will be required materially to change this situation.

Another difficulty has been that, for the most part, the churches of these synods are in communities that may properly be called rural and the majority of them are not able, even with the help of the Board, to locate a minister in their midst for full time service, and it has been necessary to form these scattered congregations into groups for the purpose of forming a pastorate. This has added to the difficulty encountered in developing these churches in systematic effort.

Another problem which we have met is the scarcity of ministers, or at least the difficulty in securing ministers to take a divided pastorate, and we have not been able to supply many of these churches regularly with the means of grace; therefore there has been little opportunity to develop them either in evangelistic or home missionary work. Many of them heretofore had been ministered to only one Sunday during the month and that, too, by a minister who had not only divided his time between four churches but between the churches and some secular employment, from which the larger part of his salary was received.

DEVELOPMENTS.

In the first place, our presbyteries are now all well organized having carefully selected and, for the most part, efficient home mission committees. These committees have been so instructed regarding their duties and responsibilities that they are prepared to administer efficiently in the name of the Home Board in the presbyteries which they serve. They have come to understand, also, that they are not only an administrative agency for the Board but a stimulating force to the congregations in the interest of offerings for the Board.

Last summer a home mission conference was held in connection with the Missouri Sabbath School Assembly at Perle Springs, Missouri, when the work of the Board was carefully considered and the best method of developing the field discussed. At the Cumberland Country Bible Conference held in Lebanon, Tennessee, the first week in August the same instruction and inspiration were given. Mr. McAfee, associate secretary of the Home Board, was at both of these conferences and contributed very materially to their success.

Also, the last days of January and the first days of February of this year conferences between representatives of the Home Board, synodical missionaries, the Rev. J. P. Calhoun, D. D., the evangelistic superintendent for the district of the South and Southwest, the field secretary, and chairmen of home mission committees, and pastor-evangelists were held at Memphis, Tennessee; Forth Worth, Texas; and Carthage, Missouri. The Secretary of the Board, and Mr. McAfee, associate secretary, were present at all these conferences. The Rev. A. F. McGarrah, special representative of the Home Board, was present at the Carthage conference. These conferences did much to inform these representatives of the presbyteries and quicken their interest in the work assigned them.

Second. The home mission committees, being more familiar with their field and also with their responsibilities, have been able to group more wisely congregations into pastorates, thereby enlarging the possibilities of the field and the efficiency of the pastor of the group.

The further we get from the question of union and its disturbance, these committees have been able to inspire the various churches to a better service for the local work as well as a more liberal disposition toward the benevolent work of the Church. The pastors of these groups, receiving sufficient support to enable them to give their entire time to the work of the ministry, have become more efficient in the organization of their churches and in the development of their spiritual life. Many of these groups bulk a membership which would indicate an ability far beyond what is actual, but in view of the fact that they have services not more than twice a month and many of them not more than once, it would be unwise to enforce the ordinary requirements in their case. The assistance they have received from the Home Board has been of immense service in the development of their church loyalty and we may expect more of them for the next year. These are the feeders for our town and city churches and, while immediate visible results do not appear, it is a wise policy to continue this fostering care over them.

Third. The work of the pastor-evangelist has been of untold benefit in organizing and in spiriting these scattered and discouraged congregations, in assisting in grouping, in ascertaining their actual needs and in helping them to secure pastors or supplies, in addition to holding special evangelistic services in communities where there have been no churches. The work of these pastor-evangelists must not be judged from the financial returns this year. They have done pioneer work. They have gone to poor and neglected churches, resuscitating them, organizing them, encouraging them, and have brought them to such condition that they are willing to undertake to support a pastor for at least part of his time, and from such communities and for a single service financial returns have been small. Where pastor-evangelists have been able to hold evangelistic meetings the returns have been most gratifying. We believe that for the district of the South and Southwest the pastor-evangelist will be a most efficient and almost indispensable agency for years to come. This is especially so in the rapidly growing sections of the district, such as Oklahoma, Texas, Alabama and Mississippi.

The relation of the field secretary to the evangelistic superintendent and the synodical superintendents has been most cordial and fraternal, and their cooperation and assistance have been greatly appreciated. Dr. Calhoun, evangelistic superintendent, has contributed very largely to the success of the work in the district by addresses, special services, presbyterial and synodical conferences and by laying wise and practical plans to be used by pastor-evangelists, and has always been in fullest cooperation with the field secretary. The Rev. S. B. Fleming, D. D., synodical superintendent in Kansas, was in uncertain health during the year but by correspondence, and otherwise, kept in touch with the work and was helpful in advising because of his familiarity with the field. His family deserve the profound sympathy of the Church. The Rev. Donald McDonald, D. D., synodical superintendent in Kentucky, has kept in close and efficient touch with his field, and under his splendid leadership it is hoped that Kentucky will at no distant day assume self-support. The Rev. John B. Hill, D. D., synodical superintendent in the Synod of Missouri, by reason of his exact knowledge of the whole field and his tireless devotion to its interests, has been invaluable. The same may be said with equal truth and emphasis of the Rev. Calvin A. Duncan, D. D., synodical superintendent in the Synod of Tennessee.

OUTLOOK

First. In all of this South and Southwest district there is a rapid development and people are crowding into it from the North and East, new industries are springing up, new communities are being formed, and the church that is prepared to serve these new communities with the gospel will receive most hearty encouragement and support. When these communities have crystallized and their social and ecclesiastical connections have been formed, it will be much more difficult to build a church.

Second. Our effort during the year has been directed very largely to organizing the forces on the field and strengthening the things that remained rather than undertaking new work. It is our hope that we may enter many of these inviting fields and that we may have men and means sufficient for their cultivation.

Third. While the offerings of the people for home missions have not been large as the prosperity of the country and the number of members would warrant us to expect, the offerings made must be judged in the light of the circumstances surrounding these fields, and yet the increase in offerings for home missions over the past year is gratifyingly large. There is no reason why, with ordinary prosperity and pastoral oversight, this field may not be brought next year to make a much larger offering.

We are, also, gratified that we may announce that there is little doubt but that the Synod of Missouri will become self-supporting during this year; that is to say the churches in this synod will make an offering for evangelization to the Home Board equal to the grant of the Home Board for this purpose.

Profoundly grateful for the blessings of God upon the work during the year and deeply sensible of our obligations to the stronger synods and the Board, that have made possible the service which has been rendered and the results attained in this district, we look hopefully forward to a more prosperous year.

DISTRICT OF THE NORTHWEST.

For this section Dr. Adams presents the following statement:

In looking over the field embraced in the District of the Northwest, and giving to each synod composing it a somewhat careful inspection, we can gratefully report that the Lord's work is advancing and that the outlook is very hopeful.

We have made fairly good progress in putting into operation the new plans of the Board, and we have yet to hear a single criticism of the Board's new departure.

It will, however, require time to realize the large results that are sure to come, and to come as the result of better organization, proportionate giving and systematic effort.

Presbyterial home mission committees are now in a position to exercise their administrative gifts without sacrificing home interests or neglecting home duties.

Permanent, persistent, organized church-controlled and church-directed evangelism, will soon displace the irregular, irresponsible and professional evangelism with which we have been familiar in the years past. The duties of the home mission committees of the synods will no longer be perfunctory duties, but will greatly aid the Home Board in fairly adjusting the schedules and in distributing the funds of the Board equitably to the various presbyteries.

Last fall only two of our synods made this new departure, (namely, North Dakota and Nebraska) and placed upon the home mission committees administrative duties on the field; but it is hoped that the other two synods will take similar action next fall.

Such provision cannot be otherwise than helpful both to the field and to the Board; and while sacrificing no principle in the polity of our Church it does utilize the constitutional prerogative of the synods.

The progress in the work of the four synods composing the northwestern district has been very gratifying during the past year, and especially in the way of adjusting the work to the new plans of the Board.

MINNESOTA.

This being the semi-centennial year of the organization of the Synod of Minnesota, it was decided at the meeting of Synod last fall to celebrate the event by adopting and carrying out a plan of self-support under the Board. The plan was, simply and briefly, to contribute directly to the Board of Home Missions through the churches and women's societies an amount equal to that received by the synod from the Board.

In accomplishing this, the synod apportioned the presbyteries, and the presbyteries the churches, the required amount; and, while the figures have not been all received, reports from various parts of the synod justify the hope that the goal has been reached. It is confidently expected that the synod will make a still further advance next fall and that in two years, apart from the gifts of the women's societies, the churches themselves will give as much as the synod receives.

NEBRASKA.

The Synod of Nebraska at its meeting last fall also adopted the plan above outlined and are very enthusiastic over the promise of the future. In speaking of the plan, the Rev. William H. Kearns, D. D., who was recently appointed synodical missionary and evangelist of that synod, says that "the adoption of this new plan has the unanimous and hearty endorsement of the ministers and churches, and that when the plan is in good working order there will be no desire to sever the existing relations with the Board, but an earnest endeavor to reach self-support in harmony with the plans of the Board and under its supervision."

Dr. Kearns cites a number of reasons justifying the synod in taking this action; "First, it recognizes the authority of the synod, and forms a bond of union between the presbyteries, in all home mission work. Second, it gives the synod a voice in administering the home mission work within its bounds, sharing the responsibility with the Board, and thus allays friction between the presbyteries and between the synod and the Board." He further says, "Recognizing the efficiency of the apportionment method, the synod last fall recommended that for the year closing March thirty-first, 1908, each church raise an amount equal to forty-five cents per member. This is exclusive of money sent through the Woman's Board."

In speaking of the needs of his synod, he specifies the things of most importance: "More, thoroughly consecrated ministers; second, better business methods; third, systematic and proportionate giving; fourth, the quickening of the Holy Spirit."

The outlook for Nebraska, therefore, is very hopeful, and the calls upon our Church for help are constantly increasing. The construction of new railroads and the work of irrigation are opening up new and fruitful territory of which Brother Kearns says, "We are doing our best to occupy for Christ."

NORTH DAKOTA.

The outlook for North Dakota was never brighter. This is due to the large and continued immigration and character of the people settling there; to the faithful and efficient services of our missionaries on the field; to the untiring efforts and wise management of the superintendent of missions and the pastors-at-large; and also to a series of home mission and Sabbath school conferences, one of which was held in each presbytery except one, throughout the synod.

The synod also adopted the plan that utilizes the services of the home mission committee of synod along administrative lines. This committee, as the similar committees in Minnesota and Nebraska, has two meetings in the year; one in the second week in March and the other at the synod's meeting in October. At the first meeting the committee considers and passes upon the schedules of presbyteries, and its principal business at the meeting in October is to make up and apportion to the presbyteries the budget for the coming year.

Great good, it is believed, will come through their efficiency in operating the new plan.

By the method of apportionment, the gifts for the Home Board in North Dakota will be more than double what they were last year, and we are encouraged to believe that the operation of this method will show larger results in the year to come.

It may be of interest to state that many in the churches in North Dakota have adopted the scriptural system of tithing, and it is the plan to begin a tithing roll in each church in the synod. It is my purpose to inaugurate this method, as far as possible, in all the churches in the district.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

The Synod of South Dakota is a vast home mission field, and is filling up more rapidly at the present time than ever before with new settlers.

The fact puts an unusual emphasis upon the work of home missions and explains the large amount asked for new work in Central Dakota Presbytery.

The progress during the past year has been very gratifying but still greater work is to be done in the year to come if we keep abreast of material progress.

The synodical missionary, Dr. Carson, reports that twelve new churches were organized in the Synod of South Dakota since last annual report to the Board of Home Missions. That eighty-three churches have been aided by the Board during the year just closing, that these churches were served by seventy-nine missionaries; that seven churches have attained self-support and that with only a very few exceptions all aid-receiving churches will during the coming year ask less from the Board.

Evangelistic work, Dr. Carson reports, has not been prosecuted "in a special way as in the three years previous, because of no aid in the way of financial support of such work."

As to work among foreign-speaking people, not much has been accomplished; nor do I believe it is wise to spend much money in supporting gospel efforts in a foreign tongue. It is true that we are behind our Baptist and Congregational brethren in this work, but it is also true, in my judgment, that we can do most for foreigners in the United States language.

But we have a mission to the natives of our country that is not only important but imperative.

The Indian churches are being properly instructed along the line of benevolence, and contribute liberally to the support of work among their own people and to the general work of home missions. It has been reported that the Indian women in the Dakota Presbytery contributed one thousand eight hundred dollars to home missions this year. Those who sacrifice so much to help themselves and others ought to be helped.

Concerning this work, Dr. Carson reports that "We really need more aggressive and persistent work done in gathering into suitable schools for preparation for the gospel ministry and Christian leadership, such young men and women as may be found among the Christian families of the Dakotas."

In South Dakota the multiplication of churches in the last twenty years has not been large; only thirty-three new organizations have been added to the roll in that time and the increase in the number of presbyteries has been only one. Yet Dr. Carson says, "Our church membership has more than doubled, and our contributions have not quite doubled."

It is in such synods as South Dakota that the wisdom of the new departure on the part of the Board will be most manifest. No one therefore should become impatient with the Board if all that is anticipated through these new administrative features is not realized speedily. In a field so vast in extent, in a work so complicated, and with workers who in a large measure are to be trained, it will necessarily require time to get the wheels in the machinery of this great enterprise moving harmoniously and effectively.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN DISTRICT.

For this section Dr. Donaldson presents the following statement:

Germany, France, Holland, Sweden and the British Isles occupy a large place in the history of civilization, but cover less area on the map of the world than the states and territories which comprise this district. It is equal to one-fifth the entire area of the United States. Probably no section of our country is packed so full of undeveloped resources as this same region. It has long been noted for its mines of gold, silver and copper. It leads the Republic in the wealth represented by sheep and wool. It has one hundred thousand square miles of coal land. Montana alone has a larger area than the entire area of New England and New York. Harvests and orchards are going beyond the mines in material wealth, while in Colorado the manufactures of 1907 exceeded the combined values of mining and agricultural products.

All this spells progress—a progress that woos the capitalist, the laborer, the householder, the farmer, the merchant and the banker. It hires the teacher as well. All these interests demand the Church; and it is on the field making a faithful attempt to meet the demand.

Four synods and sixteen presbyteries comprise this district. By the manifest favor of God, the people felt the financial flurry but slightly. To Caesar has been rendered his due. It is time God should receive His full measure of tribute from those who seek health, wealth and pleasure in these high places.

SYNOD OF MONTANA.

During the latter part of the year a pastor-evangelist has been at work in each presbytery with encouraging results. The Milwaukee road building through the state opens up a new section where springing towns must be provided with the gospel. Never were there so many fields into which we could enter. For twenty-five years we have enjoyed the peaceable fruits of comity with the Congregationalists in Montana. A proposal along the same line comes from the leaders of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The whole force of Christian workers is thus attempting to adjust itself to a program of sane, practical work to which the Master will give His approval. All work, old and new, is being pushed along approved lines but has achieved little as yet in comparison with the need of the field or the hope of the toilers.

SYNOD OF COLORADO.

The question of union with the Cumberland Church, which has sometimes proved a source of anxiety, has been happily settled in every instance in Colorado. A movement is on foot to provide trained workers for the thousands of Italians and Austrians within our borders. No large additions to membership crown the work of the year, but the churches have gone steadily forward. Evangelistic effort was sustained either by the pastors themselves or in exchange with other pastors. Temperance and Brotherhood have made great gains in the synod.

SYNOD OF UTAH.

Utah is the modern sphinx. Mute, silent, and unresponsive she sits in her spiritual desert, while year after year the Church of God pours into her lap the costly sacrifice of life and treasure. But a new day is not far distant. Soon she will open both her lips and her heart to make confession of her sins. Already the signs are multiplying. Political dictation does not always secure Mormon domination in public affairs. The conscience of the people is asserting itself more and more. The Mormon Church finds it necessary to disguise its teachings and mask its life more and more. Even her own young men and women are growing restless under the stigma that rests upon their citizenship and their religion. Even here it is true that when the Son of Man is lifted up He will draw all men unto Him. There are abundant evidences that the preaching of Jesus Christ and Him crucified has not been in vain. An important item in the Christian work in Utah is the sentiment for federation which has recently expressed itself. There is no better field in which to protest against the unnecessary multiplication of churches and the waste of men and money from which God may well require larger returns.

The completion of large irrigation systems now under construction by the Government insures a rapid influx of desirable population. When the national Government, and capitalists, and smaller investors are impressed with the wealth of this undeveloped region; when the people have built for themselves as fine rural and city schools as can be found in any state, it would be worse than a misfortune for the Church to be blind to its opportunity or content with ineffective service. We have many consecrated men and women in Idaho who are eager to build both Church and State upon the foundation which is laid in Jesus Christ.

SYNOD OF NEW MEXICO.

The work in the South is dual in its nature and results. That among Americans makes more rapid progress both in membership and support. The work among Mexicans and Indians has numerical growth, but out of their poverty they have little to give toward the support of the gospel. Individual and government enterprise has brought about a wonderful transformation in the appearance and product of the country. The alluring prospect of statehood stimulates secular and Christian work alike. With commendable energy two presbyteries are considering the possibility of bearing the expense of the American work; but for many years the work among Mexicans and Indians will be pure mission work, and must be supported by the whole Church. The increase of population increases the responsibilities of our Church; nor does the increase of values in all products justify a hopeless forecast. God's bounties are beckoning us on to higher ground—to a more reasonable service. Most of the old fields are now occupied; but many new ones are without a shepherd. The work of the schools is becoming more and more valuable and imperative. The bulk of the evangelistic work must be done by the boys and girls who are trained to teach their kindred. Several young men from the Mexican schools are already under training for evangelistic work.

Intelligent men representing the trades and professions, are strenuously seeking gold and gain. They introduce an element, hopeful or otherwise, just as these new-comers do or do not ally themselves with the Church. The eagerness of Catholics and Mormons to occupy this region serves notice on Presbyterians that they must not be asleep. The host of health seekers from all over the continent make the moral and spiritual atmosphere of Arizona and New Mexico questions of vital moment to every community and every church in the East. For their sakes our people must build larger houses of worship. For their comfort and cheer the minister and his fellow-workers must spend many a precious hour, and give sympathetic ministrations that costs him more than money could ever repay. The erection of new presbyteries in both these territories was a wise plan, as has been shown by a keener interest and larger fruitfulness in the churches. Patience and hopefulness are the large words in our mountain vocabulary. For many years yet to come we must be content to lay foundations. In every community we must build upon Christ. In this work we crave the prayers and cooperation of the entire Church of Christ.

PACIFIC COAST DISTRICT.

For this section Dr. Holt presents the following statement:

SYNOD OF CALIFORNIA.

The most important step in the history of this synod during the past year is self-support in the Presbytery of Los Angeles. It is the strongest presbytery on the Pacific Coast, numbering seventy-four churches, with 12,065 members. The board granted to it for the year six thousand and five dollars. In December the matter of self-support was raised and the home mission committee was requested to prepare a plan for this action and report it at the January meeting. This was done and the committee presented a report recommending self-support on the Portland plan. This was adopted by unanimous vote, to take effect April first. The old home mission committee resigned on its own motion and a new committee was elected consisting of twelve members, and the Rev. Hugh K. Walker, D. D., of the Immanuel Church, was made chairman. The influence of this move will be felt throughout the synod.

The increasing number of Mexicans in southern California and the large number in the northern part of the state have attracted attention. It is felt that much more must be done for them. It is said that there are sixty thousand in southern California alone and they are still coming.

San Francisco is still suffering from the effects of the earthquake and fire. Mizpah Church, although having no adequate equipment, has made a great effort led by the pastor and has assumed self-support. New work is undertaken in the south part of the city and there is the desire to reach out into the rapidly growing suburbs. The Rev. Lynn T. White has done fine work as the pastor-at-large and has pushed the work with vigor.

New work confronts nearly all the presbyteries. The population of the state is increasing and this always means new calls for church work. The condition of the men who work in the forests of the north part of the synod has called forth strong expressions of desire to help them. It can be done only if the money is forthcoming. This sort of work has no permanent results for tabulation but needs attention.

Dr. Spining's travels among the Indians has drawn the attention of our Church to these people more than ever. We have some work for them but there are thousands for whom nothing is done by any one. There is good advance toward self-support on the part of many churches, but the salaries in California are too small, and a move to put them on a living basis would be wise.

There have been revival services in many places. Dr. Torrey has visited Fresno, but the results are not known at this writing. Much special work has been done in Los Angeles.

The pastor-evangelists have been found very helpful and the office is desired continued in the presbyteries which have enjoyed this help. Largely the work this year has been that of pastor-at-large and has involved much labor in looking after the weaker churches and helping them forward. In addition the synodical missionary has found his time fully occupied in organizing new churches, helping the older ones, holding evangelistic meetings and a multitude of work which can never be tabulated. The outlook for the whole synod is very promising.

SYNOD OF OREGON.

The first presbytery on the Pacific Coast to reach self-support is the Presbytery of Portland. It was undertaken by the unanimous vote of the presbytery at the October meeting, to begin April 1, 1908. By this act the presbytery relieves the Home Board of a burden of more than forty-five hundred dollars. It is a splendid effort, for the presbytery has but thirty-six churches and of these but thirteen are self-supporting. It means securing one dollar and fifty cents per member from the four thousand five hundred and twenty-five members. But it is pledged and will be paid. The plan is independent control of the work, under a strong committee of twelve men, half of whom are elders. At the same time the presbytery has pledged absolute loyalty to the Board of Home Missions and has arranged for financial help to the Board after paying its own bills. This presbytery then has set the pace in self-support for the whole Coast, and it is an example which will be followed. For the spirit of self-reliance is abroad. In addition to this move, the churches at McMinnville, in Willamette Presbytery, and Marshfield, in Southern Oregon have said good-bye to the Board.

There is much development in prospect for the entire state. New railroads are in process of construction although the financial depression has delayed the progress.

The government irrigation projects are making good headway and some of the land under the new ditches has been opened. The prospect is for large additions to the population of the state during the coming year.

There is still one county in the synod into which we have gone with one man for part of his time. But there is no Church which has a representative living in the county and giving his time to the work of the ministry. We hope to change this before another year closes.

SYNOD OF WASHINGTON.

In the Synod of Washington there is much progress. The building of two new transcontinental lines of railroad is opening up new portions of the state to settlement. Vast irrigation schemes are preparing the way for new comers. Extensive advertising in the East is producing its legitimate result in turning the attention of eastern people toward this progressive state. Washington has always shown energy in pushing her claims and has earned her prosperity.

The Alaska Exposition, to be held in Seattle next year, is attracting much attention also.

The fortune hunter on his way to the North finds in the flourishing cities of Puget Sound a convenient place to outfit for the rigors of the mines; and the timber dealer, everywhere immense forests awaiting the mills. The eastern part of the state not only yields large wheat harvests, but under irrigation the sage bush plains become orchards abounding in the choicest fruits. The resources and opportunities of this state can neither be over-estimated nor over-stated. All these things mean large calls for home mission work. For the entire state is a home mission field which we must cultivate with the certainty that the harvest will be a constantly increasing number of self-reliant churches.

We are still in the beginning of our history. While the East has its churches and colleges and other public institutions ready-made by the generations which have gone, we are in the first generation. We must found the churches and the colleges, and try to maintain them. At the same time we must build our homes, clear our own land, dig our ditches, and get ready for the generations to come, who shall be the heirs of our labor and privations. It is well for the Church to remember this when thinking of the Pacific Coast. We are the heirs of the spirit and energy which have made the East, and we will do for this Coast what they did for the East, but it will take time. In the meantime the eastern capitalist is cutting off the coupons from the western bonds and therefore should be, as he really is, willing to share the interest with us while we help to earn it.

Opportunity is writ large over the Synod of Washington and we, as a Church, are desirous of coming up to its demands. The Church is expanding. The mistake we are likely to make is in not planting it soon enough. We aim to be careful not to crowd our friends of the other Churches, and at the same time not fail to do our whole share in the evangelization of this nascent state. Our great home mission problem is coming to be in the rapidly growing cities. The smaller towns and villages are in the main cared for, except for the new ones built. But scarcely a city in the state has adequate church provision for its inhabitants. We need to meet that problem before it becomes too large for us. If we can take the cities now we shall escape the conditions which prevail in the great cities of the East. The wisdom of this is manifest.

Self-support is always a live question. It is receiving more attention than ever.

We chronicle the death during the year of the pioneer missionary to our synod, the Rev. George H. Whitworth, D. D., who came to the Coast in 1853, just in time to see the first church of Portland organized. He passed away during the meetings of the synod last October. He helped to lay the foundations of our Church in this synod, for when he began his work there was no Presbyterian church north of the Columbia River. He had an important share in all its work up to the date of his death, and lived to see it develop from a weakling to a strong and vigorous life.

THE INDIANS.

With the increasing interest manifested in the Indians by our Government and by various secular agencies, it is appropriate that special attention should be given in this Report to the work of the Board on behalf of those who have so long been called the "wards of the nation."

The earliest home mission work of the first Presbyterian churches in this country was for the Indians. It has developed until to-day, as the result of the labors of faithful missionaries scattered from the Atlantic seaboard to the Pacific coast, we have in our churches almost six thousand full blood communicants and about fifteen thousand adherents. In this number are included more than five thousand full blood Indians in the Sabbath schools. If to this we were to add those of mixed blood the number would be still larger.

Our present force on the field numbers twenty-six white pastors and nineteen helpers, while of Indian workers there are thirty-six ministers and forty-one helpers. These are in charge of ninety-eight regularly organized churches and twenty-nine out stations. The total amount contributed for beneficence by our Indian congregations last year is reported as more than six thousand dollars, while the maintenance of their own work cost them only a few hundred dollars more.

Apart from the Indian missions in New York State, our Indian stations are chiefly in the Northwest, the Southwest and the Rocky Mountain section. Little work is carried on in California. The tribes aided there are the Hoopa and Digger Indians.

In Oregon a most interesting and responsive field is found on the Umatilla Reservation. The present missionary pastor, the Rev. James M. Cornelison, has been on the field since 1899. He established his home in the midst of these Indians and won his way into their confidence, and is now consulted by them on all matters of importance. Upright lives and keen appreciation of financial obligations are witness to the high ideals which they have adopted. This field is unique in that it is the outcome of the labors of that famed missionary to the far Northwest, Marcus Whitman. A special feature of the past year was the celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of his massacre. Not many weeks later occurred the death of the last of the Indians won to Christianity through his personal ministry. One proof of the work is the addition of fifty-nine into the membership of the church last year.

In Washington our work has been among the Puyallup, Spokane and Makah Indians. The Rev. Hiram F. White, who has been in charge of the work among the Spokanes since 1902, has been compelled by depleted health, due in large part to exposure and constant labors on his field, to retire. It has been his ambition to raise up native workers who could take their places as helpers of their people. It is hoped that those suggested as ready for further instruction to this end will prove fit.

In Idaho the Nez Perce work, long notable because of the consecration of the lamented Miss Sue McBeth and the faithful carrying on of her work by her sister, Miss Kate McBeth, maintains a worthy place in the list. Here belongs the Rev. James Hayes, the Indian pastor who in recent years thrilled the General Assembly by his presence and his presentation of his people's needs. Much of the pioneer work that has been done among Indian tribes up and down the Rocky Mountain valleys is due to his consecrated and tactful ministry. The influence of the Nez Perce work is felt among the neighboring tribes of the Bannocks and Shoshonis.

Our church among the Shevuit Indians in southern Utah is the outcome of an evangelistic trip of James Hayes and his helpers.

South of Utah in Arizona, we find the long established work among the Pimas, under the never failing ministry of that devoted missionary pastor, the Rev. Charles Cook, D.D., who, after thirty-eight years of service, is having his earthly reward in a church roll of about two thousand souls. There are with him on this reservation a number of other faithful workers, both clergy and helpers.

Their neighbors, the Maricopas and Papagoes, have been reached by the influence of the Christian Pimas, as well as by the touch of their missionaries.

The Rev. Frazier S. Herndon was sent to the Papago Reservation in 1903. The erection of a manse and a little chapel—the John Eliot Memorial, the gift of eastern friends—has marked progress. Mr. Herndon's itinerating tours take him away from home weeks at a time; on these he reaches hundreds of Indians and yet there are villages he has never visited—where no service has ever been held.

To the Navajos we have gone more recently, and our four workers among them are giving whole-hearted service. The feature of the past year was the conference held in August of all workers of all evangelical denominations to the Indians of all that section—the "Indian Conference of the Southwest." As a result the denominations will be able better so to distribute their forces that each will accomplish the most without encroaching upon another's territory. Another subject carefully considered was the Navajo language, and the missionaries are asking permission to spend time in translating into that tongue the Scriptures, hymns and other helpful literature. The Rev. Alexander Black, one of our own missionaries, has indicated special aptitude in this direction. He has already translated the Lord's Prayer and the first four chapters of Mark. The process is unique. The missionary and his helper—or rather interpreter-teacher—work together. The missionary reads a verse in English and explains it carefully. After thought, characteristically Indian in its deliberateness, the interpreter suggests a translation which is written down, discussed and at last transferred in final form to the list of completed translations. It is not unusual to spend half an hour on a single verse.

The Rev. Charles H. Bierkemper is continuing his labors among the Navajos who can be reached from Ganado. The missionary's home has been open to them and they have availed themselves of it for care of every kind. Dr. A. H. Waterhouse was sent to this field as a medical missionary last summer, but left to accept work in Hawaii a few weeks later. Untiring search for his successor has been continued and it is hoped the place may soon be filled. Earnest pleading for a medical missionary and for a school leaves no uncertainty as to the need of these two agencies. Those who have sick ones carry them many miles to the missionary's house hoping, and often in vain, for relief.

Among the Mojaves on the western border of Arizona, our missionary, the Rev. Alfred C. Edgar, has been at work since 1902. Regardless of discomfort, fearless of danger, tireless in service, he has gathered a little group of communicants with perhaps four times as many adherents. While among the most difficult of our Indian fields, the genuineness of the conversions and the loyalty of these Indians is shown by the fact that in their poverty last year they contributed to the Boards of our Church fifteen dollars.

In New Mexico the work begun long ago among the Pueblos continues under the care of the Rev. Claude R. Broadhead at Laguna.

In Oklahoma the conditions have been confused. The Indian situation has been complicated by the recent government adjustments and plans are being considered for the unifying and strengthening of all our Indian missions in that country.

In Kansas, through the Woman's Board, we are touching the Kickapoo, Iowa and Sac Indians.

In Nebraska the Omaha and Winnebago Indians have long been our field. The past winter has witnessed a remarkable revival on the Omaha field. The work has been carried on by Dr. Susan La Flesche Picotte, one of the Omahas who came east as a young girl and who after her education returned to her people.

On the Winnebago field Henry Cloud, one of their number who studied in New England and who has become attached to the Dutch Reformed Church, has made arrangements for the transfer of the work to that body.

Work among the Dakotas was begun in 1834 by the Congregational Church and resulted in the organization of the Dakota Presbytery in 1871 when the field was transferred to us. Since 1860 the leader here has been the Rev. John Williamson, D.D., whose father was one of the pioneers. Reaching from Minnesota through the Dakotas and into Montana, the vast area covered requires long journeys and renders the task of oversight the more difficult. Assisting Dr. Williamson on the field are two other general missionaries each in charge of his own section. Twenty full blood pastors and thirteen helpers constitute the native force. The membership is more than fifteen hundred with adherents three times as many. Twenty-three of their thirty churches receive aid from our Board; the others are maintained by the contributions from the Indian churches themselves, so that in a very real sense they are carrying on their own home mission work. Besides, they contributed to the Church at large as reported in last year's Minutes $2,729—an average of nearly two dollars a member.

Among the Indians in New York the year has been marked by more than usual success. Special services have been more than ordinarily fruitful. Our missionary pastors are two—the Rev. J. Emory Fisher, and the Rev. Morton F. Trippe, D.D. Mr. Fisher came to the work in 1903. Dr. Trippe has completed his twenty-seventh year in this service. He calls the last year the best of the twenty-seven. We quote from him as follows:

"In the first place the year is marked by a zealous personal evangelism on the part of our Indians. The idea that they should tell to others the great things Jesus has done for them has been emphasized. 'Great things' indeed have been done. Men addicted to drink and under the spell of the gambling habit have been redeemed, and knowing the nature of the devil cast out and the power accomplishing this miraculous work they have gone to their homes and to their neighbors and told of Him who released them from the demon's grip. Without pay or thought of it, these devoted Christian Indians have given six weeks of the winter to evangelistic effort. They have left home, family, work and—for the most part paying their traveling expenses—have labored voluntarily for the salvation of their people. * * *

"This spirit to do personal work for Jesus is growing among my people. They teach to others this duty and privilege and enforce their teachings by splendid practice. They seek out families needing sympathy and religious instruction, and not only pray, sing hymns and exhort, but in cases of sickness render material assistance. * * *

"Your missionary accepts no credit for the good work in the special services held in the seven churches under his care, but accords, second to the power of the Holy Spirit, all credit to the splendid service of our Indian Christians whose fidelity, earnestness and consecration have brought such success during the year."

The Rev. Thomas Clinton Moffett, as last year, has been special field representative of the Board for Indian affairs; he has also spent a considerable time in the office collecting much needed and very valuable data which will guide in the further development of the Indian work. We now have, through his agency, as complete knowledge of the actual situation as regards religious work among the Indians as exists anywhere; the material he has accumulated will be of value in the further development of plans. He has made about one hundred and fifty public addresses; has gathered, in the way of special donations for specially designed objects, about forty-five hundred dollars, principally from individuals; has interested a large circle of friends in the special cause of the Indian; and the interest of many churches has been quickened in the enterprise. A considerable time was spent upon the Indian fields in Arizona, Oklahoma and Kansas, gathering information and formulating plans.

ALASKA.

The work in Yukon Presbytery is increasingly problematic, by reason of the increasing numbers from the states who find their way into the far away gold country of the Seward Peninsula, the constantly shifting centers in which these men are found, and the depletion of our missionary force. Early last year the Fairbanks church, in the heart of the Tanana country, was left vacant by the necessary return to the states of the former missionary, the Rev. Howard M. Frank. It was fortunate, however, in securing the services of the Rev. S. Hall Young, D.D., who returned from Nome early last summer to take charge of this, his own former field.

This report must go to the printer before word is received of the winter's work in interior Alaska. The last statement from Fairbanks indicates that the church and congregation are larger, stronger and more harmonious than ever, twelve having been added to the church roll, while half as many more were expecting to take the same step. A new parsonage had been builded, the church spire had been completed, the ladies' aid society with thirty-two members organized, the Sabbath school reorganized. The outlook for the field was encouraging.

The work at Council has been continued much as in former years. Both Council and Teller have been under the direction of the Rev. A. J. Whipkey, as formerly. Shut away from every advantage and outside interest, our missionary has devoted himself without reserve to his field. Especially has he been successful in ministering to the natives who have responded generously to his teaching, until there are few within a long range of those western stations who have not heard the gospel story. The Christmas in this far northern field was observed by the white people largely in helping to give the natives a good time. A tree prepared by the boys and decorated by the girls was laden with the usual Christmas tokens of candy and fruit, mittens and handkerchiefs, and was greatly appreciated. New Year's was a general feast day. The natives furnished ptarmigan while the missionary furnished rice, hardtack, ice-cream, cake and coffee. Each guest brought his own dishes. And so the hundred enthusiastic Esquimaux greeted the new year. It was an ideal opportunity for teaching of Him who invites all to His feast.

At Barrow, the farthest station to the north, the Ootkiavik church has continued to prosper under the direction of the Rev. Samuel R. Spriggs. He also holds services at Point Barrow proper. Much illness has compelled the Esquimaux to seek frequent help at his hands.

It has not been possible to secure definite information concerning recent conditions in Barrow. The exigency of the climate compels Mr. Spriggs, after nine years on that bleak shore, to bring his family home by the revenue cutter this summer. It is with great gratification we are able to state that as they leave they will be met by the Rev. H. R. Marsh, M.D., who carries not only the heart of a missionary but the skill of a physician and surgeon to the needy and responsive people to whom he and Mrs. Marsh ministered for years until their enforced return to the states in 1904,—a return which indicated no lack of interest in the work. After this respite they go again to this solitary station which was their home from 1897 to 1904.

The Skagway church, originally one of the churches of the Yukon Presbytery and later transferred to the Presbytery of Alaska, has been cared for this year by the Rev. George E. Good, who went last spring from McCormick Seminary with Mrs. Good to this, his first pastoral charge. Since their arrival the Sabbath school has more than doubled in attendance.

One secret of this success is undoubtedly in the fact that after each session the teachers meet for a season of prayer for the children and their parents. The attendance at the church services is largely a traveling congregation, as is so often the case in new countries. There has been, however, a gradual increase in the congregation. Three new members have joined the church and among the children there have been some conversions, but because of their youth their parents are unwilling that they should unite with the church for the present. The senior and junior Endeavor societies are efficient arms of the church. There is a boys' club and one condition of membership is that the applicant be a regular attendant of some Sabbath school. A building for gymnasium exercises offers healthful recreation and promises healthy development in other than physical lines. For a time the Skagway church was self-supporting, but the migratory condition of Alaskan populations has reduced its financial ability. Nevertheless, those who are seeking wealth are in need of the pastoral care and the Christian home that are found in the Skagway manse.

At Haines the Rev. Allen F. McLean has continued his enthusiastic and sympathetic work in behalf of the Alaskan native. The chief event of the year has been the securing through the personal efforts of Mr. McLean, who raised eleven hundred dollars during a few weeks' absence in the Northwest, of hospital equipment and a nurse for the building earlier used by the Woman's Board as a school. This opportunity to care for the natives, among whom a rapid death rate was working havoc, is made efficient by the courteous services freely rendered by the surgeon of the Post.

A much needed launch at last was secured for this field and in it Mr. and Mrs. McLean have been able to hold services for natives employed outside of Haines and who cannot be reached in any other way.

As to the spiritual side of the work, while some of their people have not shown the growth and deepening of the spiritual nature that is always desired, yet others have given evidence of development which should result in good through their example and effort. Ten have been received into the church on confession of faith after such testing as gives reason to believe that they will prove faithful. Fifteen infants and adults have been baptized. A new elder has been installed.

Our work in Haines is far harder than ten years ago. The people are becoming more and more familiar with the white man's evil ways and in their simple-heartedness they fail to make the distinction between the Christians and the commercial travelers, both of whom come from the same civilization.

Out of their slender income these people contributed last year twenty dollars for mission work,—an example that might well be followed by our churches at home, to the great increasing of the funds of the Boards.

Klukwan. In addition to the work at Haines, Mr. McLean is pastor of the Klukwan station, about twenty miles up the Chilkat river, opened six years ago and cared for ever since by Mr. Fred R. Falconer.

The special feature of the work at Klukwan has been the establishment of a water plant, sorely needed and made possible by the generosity of the Bible classes of Dr. Stearns. A visiting engineer gave his services in locating the site for the dam, determining its height above the street level, estimating the strength of pipe required, ordering the material and securing the benefit of wholesale prices in Seattle and special freight rates, saving on the freight bill alone at least fifty dollars. This same helpful friend gave the lumber for the dam; and picks and shovels, too much worn to be useful in the mines but in good condition for this work, through his influence were donated for digging the ditch for the water main. At least one hundred dollars was saved through the courtesy of the cannery people, who allowed the material to be landed on their scow and then towed it free of charge from Haines. The first instalment of material for the work was placed in the church for the Sabbath services and, like our harvest decorations, served as an incentive to thankfulness.

Progress at Klukwan has not been wholly material. The services are well attended and the interest good. The last hours of the old year were spent at a watch-night gathering. The next day Mr. McLean, from Haines, interested and instructed the natives with his stereopticon. Special services followed, closing with a communion service on the first Sabbath of the new year, three adults being received into church membership and a number of babies baptized. Again the stereopticon was a source of help, the pictures given being on the childhood of Jesus.

Reviewing the year and noting the discouragements, such as drinking, dancing and gambling, Mr. Falconer continues, "Yet in all we feel encouraged at the general outlook. While the harvest of five members received into the church does not show the actual progress made in spiritual things, which is made up so much in quiet growth in the individual members of the church, yet we consider it encouraging, especially as one of the five was a particularly hard character. The sacrament of the Lord's supper, with its spiritual uplift and its little ingathering of new members, is the brightest spot in the year. It is the point to which we look forward in anticipation and to which we look back with gratitude."

Sitka, formerly the capital of Alaska, has lost much of its prestige by the removal to Juneau of its government headquarters. The work there will be more than ever among the natives. The school under the direction of the Woman's Board gathers together from all parts of Alaska young people who are in after years the strength of the churches in the various Alaskan mission centers. The workers in the school have this year been the leaders in church work, as there has been no pastor on the field save for a few months last spring and summer.

At Hoonah the Rev. M. J. Caldwell has continued throughout the year, casting in his lot with the natives on this island in its isolation. Here as elsewhere the work has been hindered by the presence of whites who are either out of sympathy with the church work or hostile to it. Mr. Caldwell has visited the entire native population, seeking to lead them from their old habits and to consistent Christian living. As is so frequently the case among these people, music is a power for good and both the missionary's organ and the band organized among the natives are factors in the work.

The year at Juneau records change and progress. The transfer of the territorial government renders greater than ever the opportunities of this field. Our two churches there, native and white, report prosperous conditions. Under the continued care of the Rev. L. F. Jones, the native church counts as important events the reception of six adults on confession of their faith, and the baptism of fourteen infants; the Thanksgiving service when the native band assisted and many took part, giving thanks for personal blessings received; the attractive Christmas entertainment attended by over three hundred in the social hall elaborately decorated, the whole planned and executed by the natives themselves,—a forward step, as they had never before taken the responsibility for such an occasion; the compliment paid the native band by the white people of Juneau who engaged them to play at the Fourth of July celebration; and last, but not least, the reception into membership of one of the old-time chiefs, Anthlahosh.

The Northern Light Church began the year under the ministry of the Rev. Alexander Pringle, who was compelled by family interests to leave in September. The Rev. David Holford, of the Congregational church at Douglas, three miles distant, began holding morning services the first Sunday in October and so kept the people together. The result of his double work was his call by the Northern Light Church to become their pastor and his taking full charge in February. The Sabbath morning attendance has grown and in the evening the congregation averages more than one hundred. The Sabbath school is in good condition. A test of progress is the subscription, during the last months of the old fiscal year, of more than four hundred dollars to meet long standing indebtedness. The outlook for this field is full of hope.

The Wrangell field has been enlarged during the past year by the addition of Petersburg, a town some miles distant. About one hundred Indians there have sought help from our Wrangell missionary, the Rev. James S. Clark. In order to aid Mr. Clark in his large field and minister more effectively to Petersburg, the Board appointed William Wells, one of the former students at the Sitka school. A church building is asked for Petersburg but our Board has been able to do nothing in that direction.

Special Christmas exercises were a feature of the winter. The house was packed with white people and Indians, and the children—both white and Indian—joined in rendering a much enjoyed program of music and recitations.

While the past year has been one of trial and anxiety, it has also been a year of advancement here. Much of the old antagonism has been swept away and a better feeling is being shown toward Presbyterian work. Many more young people attend the Sabbath evening services than formerly.

The Indian work is in much better condition. Mr. Wells is a good, earnest and careful man among them, and his work tells for the right. In reorganizing the Christian Endeavor work they formed a temperance branch which is doing splendid work and bringing good results. Men and women of the society and church are preparing to repair their homes this year and brighten them up, and they have pledged themselves to better service in the church.

Klawock has been a scene of defeat and victory, brought to an encouraging point of progress under the leadership of the Rev. David Waggoner. He came last summer to the General Assembly and spent a brief time in the states with his wife and child. Upon their return at the end of the summer they found conditions which suggested the camp of Israel when Moses returned after the forty days on the mount. These natives, so recently the children of fallen and untaught generations, had been unable to withstand—not the temptations to which their fathers had been subjected—but the new temptations and vices brought in by the evil white men who took advantage of their shepherdless condition. The interpreter who had been left in charge could not exert strong influence over the natives of tribes other than his own, and the inroads wrought by evil forces were grievous. Bravely our missionaries faced the conditions which met and appalled them. Nor was the response of their people a tardy one. Little by little they have been coming back to the worship of the true God, confessing their sins and leading a new life.

At Christmas time an old-fashioned Indian dance was inaugurated and sprung as a surprise by some who had been the leaders in the summer's sin. A second old-time dance was planned for the New Year celebration. But Satan outdid himself and the people rose in united rebellion against the wrong, with their eyes opened suddenly as to whither they were drifting. That seemed the turning point.

The work is again in a hopeful condition. Our missionary begs for a building such as the one in Sitka or Juneau where social gatherings of a legitimate kind may be held. He also asks for this whole section a Christian physician. Is there none in the states who desires a field unlimited by the presence of another practitioner and with an opportunity to do untold good to both body and soul?

Mr. Waggoner also superintends three other centers, Howkan, Klinquan and Shakan, each with a native helper—a former Sitka School boy. Howkan with its "Jackson Presbyterian Church" of more than sixty members is under the direction of Samuel G. Davis who was the lay commissioner from the Presbytery of Alaska to the last General Assembly. Steady progress has been made on this part of the field, seven having been received into church membership and fourteen children baptized. Another elder was elected this spring. A good Sabbath school is one of the features here. The teachers are all young people, and are gathered week by week in Mr. Davis' home and taught by him the lesson for the coming Sabbath. The congregation has given liberally toward repairs for the church. They have not been made, however, because the needed material could not be gotten owing to lack of freight facilities. They have been ambitious to make their village "look like a Christian town" and have spent days clearing out the stumps and the rubbish from streets and yards.

The out-station of Klinquan with its church of fifty members in February was placed under the care of Mr. Johnnie Brown, one of the Howkan Sabbath school teachers. The Klinquan session is composed of good men but as they cannot read they are unable to study for themselves and the work has lagged for lack of a leader who could read and teach the people from the Bible. Nevertheless the church has advanced and under the new arrangement more rapid advance is anticipated. Seven new members have been received and three children baptized. A Sabbath school has just been started under Mr. Brown's leadership; as there are a large number of children of school age this is a hopeful phase of activity. One of the most encouraging signs on the field has been the erection of a chapel by the people themselves, with no other aid than a small grant from the Board of Church Erection. Unitedly and enthusiastically all have wrought both in securing funds and in the manual labor of building.

At Shakan a new church has been organized, ten of its members being transferred from Klawock. The Sitka school has contributed to this station not only its leader, Mr. William Benson, but also Mrs. Heizer, formerly an earnest worker on its staff. Four of the five elders chosen by the Shakan church are her former Sitka boys. The Sabbath school teachers' meeting and the Junior Endeavorers are under her care.

At Saxman, among the Tongas and Cape Foxes, the Rev. Edward Marsden has been at work as heretofore, reaching with his launch many people far away from any church services. He has visited Kasaan month by month as formerly, save when hindered by storm.

The winter has been peculiarly trying by reason of specially severe winds and weather. Both he and other Alaskan missionaries who reached their people by water-ways have been in serious peril, but have been mercifully preserved for further work.

A special feature of the year for all of our missionaries in southeastern Alaska was the holding at Juneau and Sitka of two conferences. They were conducted by the Rev. D. O. Ghormley, D.D., and the Rev. A. L. Hutchison, D.D., and proved an inspiration and uplift not only to the American missionaries but especially to the native helpers.

PORTO RICO.

The past year on the island of Porto Rico has been one of progress. A review of the work naturally begins with the capital, San Juan, where the Rev. Robert McLean has been since 1902. The chief event of the year in connection with Presbyterianism in that old Spanish city has been the complete refitting for both church and school purposes of the fine property secured a year ago and which now bears the tablet "Hugh O'Neill Memorial Presbyterian Church."

The building was dedicated on the last Sabbath of December, the Rev. Judson L. Underwood coming from the western end of the island to assist Mr. McLean by preaching the sermon. Governor Post and a number of other government officials honored the occasion by their presence, and in various ways since have manifested their appreciation of our missionaries and their work. The generosity of Mrs. Hugh O'Neill, of New York, which made possible our present substantial equipment in the capital, has been abundantly repaid by the added efficiency and prestige given to Protestant Christianity.

The holiday season in San Juan was marked by a delightful Christmas celebration in which our Sabbath school children joined in a mid-winter picnic. A car specially chartered conveyed them all to Borinquen Park. On their return the children began to sing as they passed through Santurce and kept it up even to the center of the old city. All along the way people stopped to look and listen. Mr. McLean wrote: "I could not help contrasting the happy faces with those same faces, eloquent of misery, four years ago."

The Santurce church is reported as one of the best organized and most enthusiastic in the presbytery. Proof of the earnest purpose and practical consecration of the converts here is shown by their carrying on the work at the out-station, Congrejo Arriba. The people there are buying a lot for a sorely needed chapel which three hundred dollars will erect. With the help of four native workers, Mr. McLean has carried on church services in the city churches and ten outlying villages. Two of these are Toa Alta and Naranjito, under the care of two native workers, residing respectively in each. In both are organized churches, making in this district three church organizations, with a membership of about four hundred. Though the year has not been marked by large additions in membership it has been characterized by a deepening and strengthening of the work. The labors of Mr. McLean have been ably seconded by the forces in the school and hospital which to the limit of their ability have given generous help. Under their direction both institutions have become strong factors in evangelization. Fuller reference to both will be found in the section of this report presented by the Secretary of the Women's Board, under whose charge they are maintained.

Also in San Juan District is the field of Corozal. Financial limitations have hindered the development of out-station work, but centering in the town itself there is a strong organization with about one hundred fifty members and five services each week under the direction of the Rev. Howard T. Jason. An indebtedness of six hundred dollars rests upon their new church which was dedicated last May—three hundred to the Board of Church Erection and the other three hundred for painting and plastering the building. The young people in Corozal are ambitious to become teachers. Earnest request is therefore made for schools under our Board. This is a common need with the towns of Toa Alta and Naranjito. A tent and a portable organ will greatly increase the opportunity of the missionary to do an enlarged work.

A unique feature in Corozal is the private orphanage which Mr. and Mrs. Jason are maintaining in their own home, having added to their own family of children four Porto Rican children for whom they are caring and whom they are instructing daily. In connection with the classes attended by the children in the Jason home, they have been besought to receive applicants from the town. These, of course, they have been obliged to refuse.

An illustration of the mediaeval attitude of the Roman Catholic Church in Porto Rico is the fact that last May, for sending his children to the mission school rather than to the public school, Mr. Jason was arrested, found guilty and suffered two days' imprisonment.

Passing to the westward, among the first stations reached are Isabela and Quebradillas. These are under the care of the Rev. E. A. McDonald, who, with the assistance of a single native helper, Luis Sanchez, conducts services also at six other stations each week. At Isabela and Quebradillas four weekly services are held; at two of the out-stations two services weekly.

At Jobos the results of the work crystallized in the organization of a church on the twenty-ninth of March, with a membership of eighteen. Two elders and two deacons were elected. This field has had the advantage of a church building, for so they call the two small buildings made into one with a thatch roof and palm slabs for floor and sides. This cost the Board less than sixty dollars, and has saved already in rent at that station more than thirty. This humble house of worship is treated with a degree of reverence accorded no building used for any other purpose than church services.

Of the four new stations opened during the past year, two had to be abandoned for lack of places in which to conduct the meetings. In the other out-stations just such small shack churches as the one at Jobos are sorely needed.

In Isabela the missionary's attention has been given partly to the erection of a manse. It is made of concrete bricks manufactured on the ground and affords a degree of comfort not formerly possible while our missionaries were in their ill-adapted Porto Rican house.

In and around Quebradillas work has been especially strengthened. Much good has been done here as elsewhere on the field by the services of Mrs. Adela Sousa who is greatly beloved.

Another field not far distant is that of San Sebastian, in charge of the Rev. E. S. Lheureux. Of this field he says, "There has been slow progress." Three services at San Sebastian weekly are supplemented by work at five out-stations. Of these the most promising are Guayataca and Collaso. In both there are good congregations. The interest is increasing and has resulted in the addition to the San Sebastian church of five members. As the towns are not more than five or six miles distant from the central church it has seemed best to have but one organization. The contributions—always a test of Christian consecration—are good, considering the poor crops of last year and the fact that work is scarce and wages low. Farm hands receive fifteen cents for a half day. Women are glad to secure work at ten cents a day and board themselves. One aged woman, a widow, nearly blind, gives for the church and its work the income from her little poultry yard.

Our most northwestern center is Aguadilla, under the direction of the Rev. Leland H. Tracy, with three native helpers and the assistance of Mr. W. Frank Gloeckner, formerly an active worker in the Y. M. C. A. and now licentiate of the presbytery. The Aguadilla field includes three districts: Aguada, Moca and Aguadilla, subdivided into fifty-three barrios, with a population of nearly forty-one thousand and an area of nearly one hundred square miles—an average of four hundred twenty-five people to the square mile.

One of the first towns where our work started, we have now a membership of between six and seven hundred and twelve out-stations with from one to two services each week. The three organized churches of this field are Aguadilla, Malesa Alta and Moca. The last year has included the following special features: The building in Aguadilla of a manse with the new cement bricks; the organization of a school for poor children in a district of Aguadilla formerly given over to all kinds of vice but now so transformed that the worst characters have been forced out, the ward is being cleaned up and here as a result of this year's work over sixty are members or candidates for membership; a woman's society which it is hoped will later develop into a young people's missionary society though at present it includes only local interests; an industrial school (which is self-supporting), whose purpose is to develop the native industries of lace making, drawn work and embroidery, thus aiding poor and deserving girls. There are about sixty in the school. They pay their own teachers, house rent and running expenses.

The introduction of the tithing system is meeting with cordial response and self-support is the aim of the field. Over one hundred new members have been received and nearly two hundred candidates for membership are yet under instruction.

More than five hundred participated in the Christmas program, and hundreds were turned away. On Thanksgiving the house was crowded and included in its audience representatives of all classes, from the barefoot peon to city and county officials.

Further summing up this remarkable story of progress, the missionary writes these suggestive words:

"In all the district there is practically no opposition. The greatest danger now is the indifference to all things religious and spiritual which is growing."

Following the curve of the coast toward the south, we reach Añasco. The Rev. Arnold Smith has continued his work here and reports, in addition to the three stations maintained a year ago, the opening of three more. Three little churches in as many centers are the pride of the people. The testimony of the neighborhood is that since the coming of Protestant workers there have been given up not only many vices common among the people but also many Roman Catholic customs. As proofs of this fact there may be cited cock fighting and the worship of the Virgin Mary.

This field now has a most promising outlook. Many are anxious to join the church, and the church building in Añasco is crowded when open for service. An earnest appeal has been made for a new building, as we are renting the only one suitable for services and it may be demanded at any time by the owner. If sufficient funds can be secured soon the building may be purchased.

While the record of Aguadilla work indicates that all opposition is past, the record here includes persecution for the sake of the faith. Mr. Smith writes of those who have entered the church at one of the out-stations that they need a great deal of instruction but they will surely "make stalwart Christians because they have to endure so much for Christ."

In the hill country of western Porto Rico we have one center, Lares. The Rev. E. A. Odell has continued his work there and has opened three out-stations. A year ago the church at Lares had just been organized. This first year has been given to strengthening it, and to this end mid-week services were held in every part of the town. The wisdom and effectiveness of this plan are shown by the addition of fifty-one members to the twenty-two with whom the year began. The Sabbath school has been enlarged and a young people's society has been organized and encouragingly maintained. The former native helper, Vidal Martinez, has continued his efficient services.

On the western coast "the Presbyterian city," Mayagüez, has seemed to enter a new epoch in making requisition on the hitherto latent force of a working membership. The following statement, submitted by the Rev. Judson L. Underwood, missionary in charge, presents briefly some of the many activities of this field.

"There has been brought to light a new zeal on the part of the people to have part in the development of a religious sentiment. The response given to the call for contributions for the building of a small chapel in one of the wards called Balboa, was worthy of note. In this thickly settled ward we had been holding services for several years against discouraging circumstances, not being able to secure a fit place to worship. When a favorable opportunity was presented for the purchase of a small, damaged brick building, the people said, 'Buy it and we will fit it up for a chapel.' A good friend in the states gave us two hundred fifty dollars and the church here has done the rest, and we now have a chapel that will hold one hundred seventy-five worshippers, and an enthusiastic people.

"When call was made for volunteers to hold street meetings in connection with the recent special evangelistic services in the hard field in the Playa of Mayagüez, two professors, members of the church, one of them an ex-justice of the municipal court and formerly considerable of a politician, together with a number of the Training school students, offered themselves for the work, and went from corner to corner, preaching the gospel and gathering in the men for the fine men's meeting that was held that evening in our Playa mission. When we need men for the out-station work, the regular workers being engaged in other services, lay members are called into service, our good elder and beloved physician, Dr. Manuel Guzmán, going frequently on trips to the country or holding services in one or other of the missions.

"With this spirit of service manifest on the part of the people, with the better equipment for the work in permanent homes for the mission in the Playa congregation and mission school, the gift of Mr. John Converse, located in one of our finest, though hardest of fields in the island, the chapel for our Balboa work, the dispensary where the sick are attended with loving ministration by our Dr. Black, with the permanent home for both the mission school in the city proper and the Theological Training School where twenty-eight young men of the flower of our churches are being fitted to be the future shepherds of the churches that are fast increasing both in membership and in number,—we have reason to feel that progress has been made, and that there is a bright future for the work here in this city, the principal center of influence both commercial and educational on the west end of the island which is worked almost exclusively by the Presbyterian Church, and through this as a center, for the entire island.

"In the Mayagüez church are held six services each week, one of which is in English for the American colony, at which the average attendance has been about forty-two, or one-half the number of resident American population. At the regular preaching service in Spanish, the average will run over two hundred; at the Wednesday evening prayer-meeting, about one hundred fifty. The Sabbath school has about two hundred twenty-five scholars. Besides the services of the central church we have eighteen services each week in nine out-stations, missions and churches, including four Sabbath schools with two hundred fifty scholars.

"The work is carried on by the missionary in charge with the help of two unordained helpers and the voluntary service of the Training School students and professors and the help of the ladies teaching in the mission school, who help in the Sabbath school and Christian Endeavor.

"Owing to the burden of work connected with the direction of the Training School and fifteen hours of teaching in the same each week, together with the editing of the weekly paper, the organ of the church, it is physically impossible for the missionary in charge to do much in the way of visitation among the large flock committed to his care, and he is compelled to rely for this largely upon three Bible women, one of whom has been supported by the members of this church."

Three organized churches, six out-stations and nearly six hundred members briefly summarize results on the Mayagüez field.

Another phase of the Mayagüez work is that of the Training School briefly referred to above. The school began its second year last September with the number of students increased to twenty-eight. The new property secured by the Board affords an opportunity for far better and more economical adjustment of the school interests. The first floor gives the recitation rooms. The boarding club is conducted by a married student and his wife and is maintained by the contribution from each student of seven dollars and fifty cents a month. The teaching force is as follows: Presidency, with sermonizing and practical work, Biblical theology and preparatory class in Bible, Rev. Judson L. Underwood, fifteen periods of forty-five minutes each, each week; theology, Church history, Old Testament introduction and history, Greek and New Testament interpretation, Rev. James A. McAllister, twenty periods; English, higher mathematics and self-government, Prof. José Osuna (native); Spanish, physics and Latin, Prof. Arturo Salguero; Bible and logic, Prof. Pedro Gil; all the other preparatory branches, Prof. Evaristo Lugo.

The attendance and work, as a whole, have been good. For the most part a fine Christian spirit has been shown by the students and a faithful application has characterized the year. The standard of the course is being steadily raised.

Financially the work has justified itself. On September first the treasurer of the school had in hand $253.37. After paying all running expenses, new books and extra expense incident to entrance into the new building, he had a balance of $65.71, together with bills receivable for books and tuition which were practically enough to tide the school over to the end of the year. Including the salaries of the native workers, the school is costing about thirteen hundred dollars a year. Nor should this outgo be charged up wholly to the school, as both the students and Professors Salguero and Lugo have helped freely in various services. During the last quarter of 1907 the students, by actual count, assisted six hundred times. In many of these they have taken entire charge. Several are regular superintendents of Sabbath schools. Several throughout the year have been responsible for a particular outstation. The Añasco missionary has had no help save what one of these students could give. The Maricao and Rosario fields have been practically carried on by them. The extensive work centering in Mayagüez would have been impossible without their help. They have aided the San German missionary. Thus they are getting practical work which, under the care and supervision of the missionaries on the various fields, is a valuable part of their training for the life work which they anticipate.

These Porto Ricans have the acute, inquiring mind of the east and after years of torpor are awakening to the use of their repressed powers. They are demanding that their doctors, lawyers, teachers, engineers and other leaders, have the best education that can be gotten in America or Europe. We can be content with only the best preparation for those who are to look after their spiritual welfare.

Cabo Rojo and Maricao, developed at first as out-stations of San German, have commanded attention as a separate field, occupying the southwest corner of the island.

The Cabo Rojo district contains some six small towns and nearly twenty thousand people. It is famous as the center of the hat industry. A railroad just being completed through the town adds much to its importance. It is the largest town in the Presbyterian field where there is no resident helper. It is in charge of the Rev. James A. McAllister, who has directed its services in connection with his duties in the Training School and with only such help as he could secure from its students. Last summer a church was built on the principal street, near the public school and the town hall. Its cost, including furnishings, with bell, organ, sidewalk and fence, and seating for three hundred, came within the appropriation of thirty-five hundred dollars. The Sabbath school has paid for all its supplies and has increased to one hundred twenty. The Sabbath evening and Wednesday evening services alike average about one hundred twenty-five. Systematic giving has been begun during the year, and the congregation, before entering the new building, voluntarily assumed all the expenses of the church. A large number of men attend the services and there is a men's class in the Sabbath school of twenty to twenty-five.

The Maricao district, while under Mr. Underwood's supervision, is entirely separate from Cabo Rojo and lies among the mountains eighteen miles east of Mayagüez. During the summer a student, Juan Fernandez, did good work. In the fall different students took turns and have kept up weekly visits. A preparatory class of those desiring church membership looks towards an early organization. If a resident worker could be stationed at Maricao the advance, which has been definite, would be rapid.

The work of the San German field has shown decided progress under the leadership of the Rev. J. Will Harris.

There are three main points—San German, Sabana Grande and Lajas. Three native helpers, one living in each place and devoting his time to that particular field, over which he has charge, are doing good work. About forty have united with the church and there are many more who wish to do so. They need further instruction, however, and for that reason are being held back.

Twenty-seven services are held weekly in this district with twenty preaching points. There is reason for gratification over the twelve months' work which has been characterized by seed sowing rather than by reaping in this stronghold of the Roman Catholic faith.

Mr. Harris has spent most of the year in the building of a church and a manse. This work gave him opportunity to become acquainted with nearly all of the leading men of the district. They came from far to watch the "crazy Protestant" make rock out of sand (concrete blocks). They would stick their knives into the soft blocks and laugh. Returning within a few days they would try the knife trick again, but this time to fail. Public sentiment began to change and within three months Mr. Harris had offers to purchase his brick-making machine. The priests, of whom there are a goodly number, and the nuns are beginning to build of concrete blocks. Five houses of concrete blocks are planned and a factory of the blocks is the latest thing in the town. It may be said that this is a worldly victory. So it is. But had there been failure it would have resulted in serious hindrance to the cause. Now, however, the missionary is consulted by all builders, not excluding the priests themselves; and their idea of Protestants has changed. Sneers have given place to bows. Men are inquiring more and more and in greater numbers. In every part of the field the missionary is welcomed. More chapels—just cheap ones—would more than double the efficiency of the station.

An important phase of our work in Porto Rico is found in that done by the medical missionaries and the teachers. Of this fuller account will be found in the report of the Woman's Board on a later page. The only part of the medical service aside from their excellent hospital at San Juan is the dispensary at Mayagüez. Since the autumn of 1906, James H. Black, M. D., has been the efficient physician in charge. To his work appreciative reference is made by Mr. Underwood in the earlier section given to Mayagüez. Family reasons are compelling Dr. Black's return this spring. Loyal to the service, he has lingered to make connection with his successor who went down in March—Willis W. Creswell, M. D., of Minnesota.

The attitude of Governor Post, as quoted in the following extract from a letter of his to one of our missionaries, is significant.

"During the five years that I have been on the Island I have watched with great interest the work which is being done by all the religious organizations on the Island; and I have always felt the most kindly interest in every proposition looking toward the moral and physical betterment of the people of this Island, and it has always been a pleasure to me to assist them in every way possible. I have seen organized and operated the Presbyterian Hospital in Santurce. * * * Here in Porto Rico we all have more work to do than we can possibly accomplish and we ought to joyfully welcome any and all workers who are enlisted for the cause. There is room for all of us and more than enough work to keep us busy, and I wish to see hearty cooperation between the Government and all organizations for good in the work for the betterment of the Island and its people."

CUBA.

The following report of last year in Cuba is sent us by the Rev. J. Milton Greene, D.D., our missionary superintendent there:

Those who look beneath the surface will easily discover that the convulsiveness of Cuba and the political chaos which reigns among her people are traceable logically to moral causes, and that the only effective remedy for this general prostration is an improvement in the intellectual, moral and spiritual conditions which are the legacy of four hundred years of Hispano-

Romish domination. Material improvements are well undertaken, legislative reforms are excellent, political expedients will do much, but true national well-being is attainable only as a civic character is built up among the masses, on the basis of an intelligent grasp of what God requires and promises in His Word. Along this line our efforts have been directed for the last seven years, and the results already apparent justify our view of the situation.

It has seemed wise to the Board to concentrate our efforts in and about Havana rather than to occupy widely separated points. We thus have the advantage of facile and economical supervision. But in so deciding we have grappled with the enemy in his strongholds. With the exception of our flourishing work at Sancti Spiritus, all our activities have been confined to the provinces of Havana and Pinar del Rio. This means that we are face to face with the mightiest forces of Romish prestige, social glare and demoralization, aggressive infidelity, sensuous indulgence, religious indifference, materialistic absorption and practical atheism. Havana is a tropical Paris, and Pinar del Rio is familiarly spoken of as "El Continente Negro" (The Black Continent).

The wisdom of planting in Havana an imposing and beautiful edifice, wide open to all classes without distinction of race, color, rank, or moral character, was long since abundantly demonstrated by the impression of solidity, dignity and spirituality made upon the public mind, and by the great number of those who have attended our services from curiosity, not a few of whom have become regular attendants, and some have already confessed Christ. Of course, as always happens in these countries, for social, industrial and moral reasons, the great majority of these are from the middle and humble classes.

Besides our central church we have in Havana and its immediate suburbs five other stations, in one of which, Regla, a strong, live and constantly growing church has been organized and committed to the special care of the Rev. Antonio Mazorana. During the last year fifteen members have been received there. The total number of communicants is now forty-five. In the central church twenty-seven new members have been received during the year, making the number of enrolled members one hundred and fifty. At Marianao, where the Rev. Gregorio F. Martinez is in special charge, a marked advance has been made both in numbers and interest, and day by day our influence extends more and more widely in that field which has always been considered most unfriendly to evangelical work.

In our six Sabbath schools two hundred and fifty children are in actual attendance, and two strong Endeavor societies are training some fifty young people in active Christian work. The missionaries of the Woman's Board have been most helpful. Visitation from house to house in the city and at the hospitals has been continued by Miss Louise Conklin, who has proved a messenger of light and comfort to many souls. Her services in the conduct of one of our Sabbath schools, and as organist at our various services, have also been invaluable.

Under the direction of Miss Martha Bell Hunter, our day school has been reorganized during the year, and our hope and prayer are that it may soon be enlarged into a normal and boarding school for the education of a force of native teachers. Such an agency seems to us an imperative necessity to complete our equipment, and we doubt not that it would be largely self-supporting. In order to the best results in our educational work we must create as far as possible a domestic environment for our pupils, and supply in daily life and customs what is often so sadly lacking in their homes. In this respect we may well take lessons from Jesuitical policy, which during the year has established just such an institution within a stone's throw of our new church.

The congregations of Bejucal, Güira, Artemisa, Carlota, Cayabo, San Cristobal, Bahia Honda and Buenaventura all lie west of Havana, and all have suffered to a considerable extent from the recent revolution and the social demoralization consequent upon it. In Candelaria our work has been well-nigh destroyed, but we do not yet abandon the hope of seeing it revive. Never in our history have gambling, cock fighting and social laxity reached such proportions as during the last year, and never has such a free rein been given to the priesthood for their processions and other so-called religious acts outside of their churches. But, with the exception noted, our work has been energetically prosecuted and with a good degree of success, the faithful proving themselves more true on seeing the defection of many others. The points mentioned have been cared for as follows: Güira and Bejucal by the Rev. Evaristo P. Collazo; Artemisa, Carlota and Cayabo by the Rev. Francisco Castro; San Cristobal and Candelaria by the Rev. José Lopez. At Bahia Honda and Buenaventura, for lack of laborers, only monthly series of four or five services have been conducted alternately by Dr. Greene and Mr. Martinez.

Passing out to the field of the Rev. A. Waldo Stevenson at Güines, forty miles southeast of Havanna, we find that this faithful pastor has with unremitting diligence continued his work there, and also at Gamara and San José de las Lajas in the suburbs, being most ably seconded in his efforts by the flourishing day school maintained by the Woman's Board, with its eighty pupils and four teachers, which Miss Beulah L. Wilson has conducted so successfully. The Güines church now has a total membership of one hundred and fifteen, twenty-three having been added during the year. Two Sabbath schools hold regular sessions with an enrolment of one hundred and thirty, and an average attendance of about eighty. An interesting Bible school is also carried on at San José in connection with the weekly services.

Next in order, fifteen miles farther away in the same direction, we reach Nueva Paz and San Nicolas, which constitute the field of the Rev. Hubert G. Smith, and where the rich blessing of God has rested upon our work, the total membership of the church at Nueva Paz being seventy-five, nineteen members having been added during the year. Mr. Smith has a very efficient helper in Mr. Ricardo Viamontes, an elder, who has charge of the Sabbath services at San Nicolas. The pastor is also greatly helped by a prosperous day school of thirty pupils under the care of Miss Daisy M. Stearns, the missionary of the Woman's Board.

At Sancti Spiritus, two hundred and twenty-five miles east of Havana and in the province of Santa Clara, we have a field which has from the first responded most cordially to the faithful labors of their pastor, the Rev. Herbert S. Harris. Here we have a church of one hundred and sixty members, sixteen having been added during the year. Two Sabbath schools are maintained with an average attendance of over one hundred. The day school of the Woman's Board, under the direction of Miss Mary F. Ross, is very prosperous, eighty-five pupils being in attendance, and many of these coming from the most favored families of the city. At the station of Cabaiguan, fifteen miles northwest, the work has prospered to such an extent that we now have a church there of twenty-five members worshipping in their own building, a neat little edifice with a seating capacity of about one hundred. In this work Mr. Harris is aided by Señor Luis Gomez, an elder and a licentiate of the Presbytery of Havana. To his faithful labors Sabbath by Sabbath are largely due the inception and growth of this work. The church here was organized August eighth, 1907, and on the same day the edifice was dedicated. The site is one of the most eligible in this rapidly growing town, and was donated by one of the families of the congregation. The edifice cost in money about three hundred dollars, of which the Board contributed seventy-five, the remainder being supplied by various friends and by the congregation. The work of painting was a free-will offering of Mr. Gomez, and a fellow elder donated the bell.

For the statistics of our Cuban mission see the Assembly Minutes. Enlargement of the territory occupied would have been reported if only we could have secured additional helpers. The fields on all sides are white to the harvest.

Too much cannot be said in praise of the Woman's Board for their generous cooperation in our Cuban work. In all these Romish countries the chief emphasis must be placed upon the education of the young, and we trust that the day is not distant when every congregation can be supplied, at its own expense, with its own day school, taught by a native teacher, educated in a school established by our Woman's Board and under the direction of consecrated missionary teachers.

LITERATURE DEPARTMENT.

Constantly increasing demands have necessitated expansion. Last autumn our stores and office equipment were removed to more spacious quarters, and it is cause for gratitude that neither the financial stringency nor the toils of moving have made it necessary to record a decrease in the receipts for literature, which have reached their highest point. The total income of the department amounts to $7,138.02,—an advance of $1,091.31 over the receipts of a year ago. $4,916.42 of this was paid into the treasury of the Woman's Board, and $2,221.60 to the treasury of the Board.

The increase in the sales of the Prayer Calendar may be taken as a proof that this little hand-book is becoming an indispensable blessing to many Presbyterian homes. The receipts from its sales reached the good amount of $965.41, which is $146.82 more than last year. The income from these and the mission study books is equally divided between the treasuries of the Board and our Woman's Board. The books have brought in $2,207.75—gain of $502.79—representing sales of about eight thousand copies. By far the greater number of societies have studied "Aliens or Americans?" by the Rev. Howard B. Grose, D.D., though many have derived profit from the use of the new book for the year entitled "The Challenge of the City," by the Rev. Josiah Strong, D.D.

Pictures talk so effectively that the method of presenting home missions by the use of lantern slides is increasingly winning favor. Lectures and slides illustrating eight home mission topics have traveled all over this country during the year, and it is the policy of our Board not only to enlarge the scope of our lecture department but to increase its efficiency.

The many testimonials in acknowledgment of our leaflet, of which an average of 64,500 copies have been printed monthly on the topics, witness to the fact that—when printed attractively—missionary literature will be used and appreciated. These leaflets have been sent only to churches promising to distribute them wisely. We have orders from 1,138 churches, of which 204 have been added to our mailing list during the year. In addition to these, a large number of churches have used literature and envelopes in connection with their taking annual collections. To supply all the demands, our Board has printed 1,715,400 copies or 7,809,400 pages of leaflets. Five hundred thousand collection envelopes, one hundred thousand coin cards and five thousand collection boxes have also been put into circulation. These figures include only the leaflet issues of the Board, those of the Woman's Board being reported elsewhere.

Our department bespeaks the cooperation of pastors, sessions, and Presbyterian home mission committees to secure the appointment of one responsible man in each church who shall give enthusiastic, systematic and consecrated service in the distribution and use of literature regarding the conditions and needs of the home mission field. Equipment for this work will be supplied if the address of the representative is sent to headquarters. By this method we are hoping to conduct an educational campaign that shall extend from the smallest to the largest of our Presbyterian churches.

A request which recently came from a librarian in one of our larger cities shows not only that our publications are being appreciated, but it also suggests an admirable method for using them. After asking for printed helps for his personal use, he writes: "Please send to our public library such pamphlets as you think would be useful in a reference room. Scarcely a week passes but some calls are received for literature on Presbyterian activities."

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEPARTMENT.

The following report from the Young People's Department has been received and approved:

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL AND MISSIONS.

Among the most gratifying items of progress the past year has been the development of interest in the plans for missions in the Sunday school. The International Sunday School Association already has considered definitely the question of allotting certain Sundays to the study of missions. A satisfactory method is undoubtedly the use of several consecutive Sundays for the full lesson time. This cannot be brought about at once but is coming to be the view of larger and larger numbers of Sunday school leaders.

Meanwhile, three or four other methods are actually used by Presbyterian Sunday schools:

(1) Supplemental lessons for ten minutes on successive Sundays, following courses of six or eight weeks, are successfully undertaken. The use of the new home lessons, "Desert, Mountain and Island," is already being considered by about a hundred Sunday school officers.

(2) A number of schools have instruction from the platform for five minutes; some every Sunday, some once a month only, and others all the Sundays of one month each quarter.

(3) Other schools utilize review Sundays for missionary lessons or addresses. The Presbytery of St. Louis is inaugurating this plan with home and foreign studies on alternate quarters.

The interest of Sunday school leaders in missions has been developed largely on the score of the educational values of the subject but also because no comprehensive education of the young for churchmanship can omit the study of these great church affairs.

MISSION STUDY.

The enrolment of mission study classes has increased rapidly. There is considerable indication that complete records have not been secured, but the number of classes reporting the study of home missionary text-books this year has reached two hundred and fifty-seven. There have been sent out from the New York offices of the Board thirty-three hundred copies of the text-book on immigration, "Aliens or Americans?" and twenty-one hundred copies of "The Challenge of the City." There is no means of knowing the number of Presbyterians who have secured texts from other book rooms. Thus the total of those who have studied these great home subjects is reckoned by thousands.

COOPERATION.

The Young People's Department has kept in close touch with the other agencies of our Church. It has arranged with the Young People's Superintendent of the Board of Publication for circular announcement of mission study courses and for a special rally among Presbyterian societies in the interest of mission study. Joint plans are now under way for a Presbyterian young people's summer conference at Winona Lake, Indiana.

With the Sunday School Department of the Foreign Board, the department has cooperated in circularizing the Sunday schools, suggesting an adequate policy for missions and in the issue of a Prayer Cycle for scholars.

The department joined with the Education Department of the Foreign Board in preparing and conducting a missionary rally and two institutes for the city of Pittsburgh.

MEETINGS AND CONFERENCES.

Aside from a large number of meetings in individual churches and presbyteries, your secretaries have personally shared in giving missionary instruction at important gatherings, such as: International Christian Endeavor Convention, Lake Geneva Missionary Conference, Religious Education Association, Missionary Young People's and Sunday School Institutes in Baltimore, Washington, Portland, Los Angeles, Kansas City, Minneapolis, New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Hoboken, and Indianapolis.

For other summer conferences and city institutes assistance has been given in securing delegates. Names of all Presbyterians attending such gatherings have been collected and filed for literature. Advice concerning the preparation of missionary programs at conventions has been variously given.

Both secretaries have visited outlying missionary work of the Board, including Porto Rico, South Dakota, Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico.

LITERATURE.

The department has issued printed matter for Sunday schools, for Christian Endeavor programs, and for mission study, as well as special leaflets, in large numbers. The department has sent out field letters on Alaska, the Indians, the Mexicans, the Mormons and the Porto Ricans, besides contributing to the Home Mission Monthly, The Assembly Herald, Over Sea and Land, The Missionary Record, and the Presbyterian papers.

SPECIAL OBJECTS.

The young of the Church support many far-reaching labors that bless countless lives. They assume three hundred thirty-nine scholarships in schools and provide the salaries of thirty-five missionary pastors and teachers, as follows:

Alaskan Field. Three full salaries.

Indian Field. Five salaries and partial expenses of the schools at Good Will, South Dakota, and at Tucson, Arizona.

Mountain Field. Eight salaries and aid to the general work of the Farm School.

New Mexican Field. Four salaries.

Mormon Field. Three salaries.

Porto Rico. Eight salaries, some shares in the San Juan Hospital and contributions toward its Endeavor Building by the juniors.

Cuba. Four salaries, one of which is furnished by the intermediate societies.

Respectfully submitted,

Von Ogden Vogt,
M. Josephine Petrie,
Secretaries.

WOMAN'S BOARD.

The following report from the Woman's Board has been received and approved:

The twenty-ninth annual report of the Woman's Board of Home Missions is the record of faithful service on the part of Presbyterian women at home and on the field.

Money has been gathered through the woman's auxiliary societies, young women's societies, mission bands, Sunday schools and young people's societies, and transmitted through the regular channels to the treasurer of the Woman's Board.

Organizations have been stimulated by synodical and presbyterial officers, while inspiration for the work has been gained through the presentation of the needs on the field, and a knowledge of how these needs are being met.

The union with the Cumberland Woman's Board has been perfected and we report three new synodical societies—Alabama, Arkansas, and Mississippi—while fourteen synods have been strengthened by the addition of whole presbyteries and of many auxiliaries tested by years of service in the Cumberland Woman's Board.

The gifts for this year from these societies, new to us, can hardly be taken as the criterion of what we may expect another year, inasmuch as they continued to send their money for the first quarter through the Cumberland Woman's Board, which was organized for both home and foreign mission work, and the change whereby funds must be designated for home missions was not understood by all. Increased gifts will follow increased knowledge of the work being done on the field.

Not in gifts alone did we receive help from the union of the Churches, but from the ranks of the Cumberland Presbyterian membership there were furnished not only all the teachers for Bell Institute and Mt. Neta and Hopewell, but three other workers for the mission field.

We have missed through the year our president, Mrs. Darwin R. James; but we now rejoice at her return to America and are sure that the inspiration of her presence and leadership will aid materially in the advance for which we must work again this year.

During her absence the vice-presidents residing in New York and vicinity have presided in turn, and no effort has been spared on the part of the Advisory Committee to secure an economical and efficient administration of the funds entrusted to the Woman's Board.

HOME MISSION CONFERENCES AND STUDY CLASSES.

Four interdenominational home mission conferences were held last summer, and home mission study classes conducted at a number of other summer meetings. As a consequence there has been a marked advance in the number of home mission study classes in women's societies.

The favorite topic was Immigration, but many classes studied "The Citizens of To-morrow" and "The Challenge of the City." The results have been added information and a feeling of personal responsibility on the part of many individuals to share in the home mission work. Several young women have offered themselves as missionaries who have dated their call to service to the interest aroused in the mission study class.

So sure are we that gifts of money and talents can be traced to an intelligent understanding of the needs of the field, that we shall continue to commend the home mission study class as an important adjunct in creating and sustaining interest in the evangelism of America.

The topic for 1908 and 1909, "The Frontier," has been agreed upon by the Young People's Missionary Movement, and the Woman's Interdenominational Committee for home mission study, and the text-book for women's societies, "The Call of the Waters, A Study of the Frontier," has been prepared by Miss Katherine R. Crowell of our own Board. The text-book for bands and juniors on the same topic is entitled "The Pioneers," and has been written by the same author.

HOME MISSION SPECIALS.

The Woman's Board of Home Missions has continued the plan which it has employed from the beginning of assigning special objects and in this way putting societies—auxiliary, presbyterial, and synodical—in close touch with the work on the field. The support of a special mission teacher, or scholarship pupil, greatly increases the interest of a society, and the erection of a new building may combine the energies of an entire synod. A number of synodical and presbyterial societies have celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversaries by gifts for the permanent work in the erection and completion of several buildings.

FIELD SECRETARIES.

While apportionments have been made from the office, the field secretaries have rendered valuable service by the presentation of the work to societies and individuals.

Miss Hughes, for the Southwest, has spent the entire year in Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky, and in telling about the work has done much to cement the union of the former Cumberland societies and ours.

Mrs. Palmer, for the Northwest, has stimulated societies, and gifts have increased in some places five-fold.

Miss Fraser, for the Pacific Coast, has inspired to larger pledges and systematic giving, and has attended many missionary institutes where she has conducted home mission study classes.

A number of missionary teachers and several synodical officers have assisted greatly in presenting the work at public meetings.

THE FIELD.

The beginning of each year finds the Woman's Board confronted with many requests for new schools and mission stations, and also with requests from stations already established for additional workers and new buildings; many repairs are, of course, necessary. While it is difficult to refuse to open new schools, yet the work already undertaken must be cared for first, and careful provision must be exercised that the entire amount appropriated may not exceed the reasonable expectation of receipts.

Never was there a more loyal body of women to be found anywhere than those who make up the constituency of the Woman's Board, and because they look upon the gifts of one year as the pledge of the next, notwithstanding the financial depression, nearly every presbyterial shows an advance.

Through the pledge of the California ladies we were able to assume partial support of Mrs. E. O. Campbell, at St. Lawrence Island, Alaska. This is probably the loneliest mission station in the world.

By means of special gifts from individuals for the support of the nurse and the maintenance of the beds, and through the efforts of the Rev. Allen F. McLean, pastor of the church, the little hospital at Haines, Alaska, was opened in December, and it will do much toward lessening the sufferings of a dying people and in preventing tuberculosis, by teaching hygiene and so lessening contagion.

Among the Indians we note that Henry Kendall College has been transferred to the Synod of Oklahoma, and removed to Tulsa. They are to erect new buildings, and the property at Muskogee will be sold to provide an endowment. The Woman's Board will contribute toward the support of this college a lessening amount each year, with the expectation that in a few years it will become self-supporting.

The buildings and site which were occupied by the Indian Industrial School for the Pimas and Papagoes at Tucson, Arizona, have been sold and a new site purchased, three miles and a half from the city, on which new buildings are now being erected. A Training School for Indian evangelists will be established in connection with the plant, and with its new equipment the influence of the school will be more far-reaching than ever.

By request of Highland Presbytery, who furnish the money, the Woman's Board of Home Missions has assumed the support of the Bible reader for the Kickapoo Reservation, Kansas.

By the request of Nebraska Synodical, work has been undertaken among the Omaha Indians in their Reservation in Nebraska, and a Bible reader commissioned.

Among the Mexicans we rejoice in the opening of the Mary E. James School for Mexican boys at Santa Fe. This new school will have a warm place in the affections of the women of the Church, because it was built with the twenty-fifth anniversary offerings, and established as a testimonial to our beloved president. The interest on the endowment fund will provide for the salaries of the workers, but scholarships, at seventy-five dollars each, will be needed to help support the boarding department.

Los Angeles Presbyterial has provided the funds for a Bible reader among the Spanish-speaking people of Los Angeles.

In the Mormon field we note the closing of the school at Wellsville and the sale of the property, but also note the opening of the new school at Panguitch, Utah, with two teachers.

The fact that the public school system in Utah is being greatly improved will probably mean other changes in this field, but the Woman's Board confidently expects to establish new schools in places not provided with educational or religious advantages.

Among the Mountaineers there are some changes to report. The schools at Crab Orchard and Grassy Cove, Tennessee, have been closed because the public school authorities seemed able to care for the school work, and a new boarding and industrial school has been opened at Huntsville, Tennessee.

The Woman's Board has appointed a Bible reader at Gormans Bridge, North Carolina, the salary being provided by Cleveland ladies.

The purchase of our part of the new building at Mayagüez, Porto Rico, was made possible through the gifts of many societies for the building fund, and the summer offering of 1906.

Widespread interest is manifest throughout the Church in the work among foreign-speaking people. In December an overture was received from the Board of Home Missions and the self-supporting synods expressing the conviction that the work among foreign-speaking people presented a most important field for 'the enlarging energies of the Woman's Board, and asking that some plan be adopted for the extension of Woman's home mission work so that in cooperation with and agreeable to the plans of synods and presbyteries this pressing need may be more adequately met.

The following reply was made to the overture, to which we ask your approval:

The Woman's Board heartily recommends to all auxiliary societies participation in work among the women and children of foreign-speaking people, and among the women and children employed in various industries and not provided with religious advantages,

It further recommends, That a year from the adoption of this report, in April, 1909, the Woman's Board shall appropriate an amount equal to at least five (5) per cent. of all its receipts from women's auxiliary societies, for work among foreign-speaking people,—this per cent. to be annually increased as the readjustment of the work will permit.

It further recommends, That in each presbytery in which such work shall be undertaken in conjunction with presbytery there shall be a joint committee from the presbytery and the presbyterial society, which committee shall recommend to the Woman's Board the location of the work, and the kind of work to be done.

Gifts of the women's missionary societies may go through the regular channels to the treasury of the Woman's Board, provided the location and kind of work shall be approved by the Board and the workers commissioned by the Board. The kinds of work recommended are: Bible readers, missionary nurses, kindergartens and schools—mission, evening, industrial, and so forth.

In view of the fact that the inauguration of enlarged work among foreigners will require a largely increased number of trained workers, this committee of Bible readers and deaconesses and to devise a plan whereby such workers may be trained.

Recommends: That a committee be appointed by the Woman's Board to gather information in regard to the training

On inquiry of presbyterial presidents we find a great deal more money is being raised by the women of the Church for work among foreigners than our books show, because the administration is vested in home mission committees, and the money does not go through our treasury. This is especially true in Pennsylvania and in the self-supporting synods. The adoption of the above plan will not only provide for the support of additional work but for complete records of the same and for the training of workers.

Freedmen's Work. In addition to the regular work there are supported in whole or in part among the Freedmen, by means of funds contributed by women's societies, but administered through the Board for Freedmen, seventy-five teachers in boarding schools; sixteen teachers in academies, and forty-five teachers in parochial schools.

For the details of the work on the field we refer you to the report of the Superintendent of Schools, the Rev. Robert M. Craig, only emphasizing the fact that the mission schools of the Woman's Board are administered as an evangelizing agency and that everywhere the mission school is either the forerunner or the right arm of the Church. Souls are being saved through its agency communities transformed, and children educated to become good citizens.

IN MEMORIAM.

We record our profound sorrow at the death of the Rev. George F. McAfee; D. D., for ten years our superintendent of school work, and our appreciation of his devoted service to the cause of home missions on the field and in the office. His consecration to the work, his knowledge of the details of every school and his kindly consideration of the workers on the field were phenomenal.

MAGAZINES.

Many monthly papers have felt the effect of the financial depression, but the Home Mission Monthly, true to its record of twenty-one years, reports an advance in its subscription list of five hundred sixty-eight. Its economical and businesslike management is attested by the fact that even though no advertisements are admitted, its receipts paid all the expenses, and the editor turned over to the treasury of the Woman's Board $2,000 for the general fund.

Over Sea and Land also shows an advance of four hundred.

When we consider that the subscription list of a children's paper changes entirely about every four years, this means the little paper has reached a great many new readers.

LITERATURE DEPARTMENT.

This year has brought to our Literature Department the best financial returns in its history. The total amount paid to our treasury is $4,916.42. From sales of leaflet publications alone we received $3,158.75, or $448.10 more than our record a year ago. The receipts for Prayer Calendars, text-books for study class work, and the lecture department are also in advance of last year. These are equally divided between the Board of Home Missions and the Woman's Board, the share for the latter only being included in the totals just given.

The demands from societies have necessitated the printing of 5,717,540 pages, which, bound together, made 618,215 copies of leaflets, including both reprints and new issues; 557,742 collection envelopes, and 53,375 mite receptacles. Fifteen thousand copies of the new praise service, "Friendship," and twenty-six thousand day of prayer programs, entitled "Ten Words of Jesus," have been used with appreciation.

It gives us special pleasure to recognize in the steadily increasing growth of our department the results of the indefatigable effort of our local, presbyterial and synodical secretaries of literature, who lose no opportunity to show the value and usefulness of our publications. It has been the aim of our publication committee to issue only such helps as should be worthy of their recommendation. Their realization of this fact has seemingly established a confidence between them and our department, which has been wholesome for the work's sake.

Because of the increase in the work, it became necessary last fall to move the offices of this department into more commodious quarters, and it is anticipated that this larger equipment will make possible more prompt and efficient service.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEPARTMENT.

The Young People's Department is a joint department, the receipts from Christian Endeavor societies, young people's societies and Sunday schools, and administrative expenses being equally divided between the Assembly's Board and the Woman's Board. The work is stimulated by synodical and presbyterial secretaries, who are in constant correspondence with Miss Petrie and with local societies. Special objects or salaries and apportionments have been assigned in every field.

Field letters, special programs, study class helps, and personal instruction have been freely sent as in former years, but to an enlarging constituency. Home mission study is growing in popularity.

Intermediate societies have increased in number, and the plan of giving them a special salary and a special letter has proven helpful. Junior societies show an increasing interest in their definite object, and have given more generously to the support of Endeavor Building, Presbyterian Hospital, San Juan, Porto Rico.

In November, 1907, the Woman's Board was asked to send a committee to Chicago to confer with the Westminster Guild Committee, and the result of the conference was that hereafter Westminster Guilds, which have been exclusively for foreign work, and under the direction of the Board of the Northwest, now become national in scope. The present plan, therefore, is that Westminster Guild chapters shall be organized for the young women not already affiliated with missionary societies, and three courses of study adopted—home, foreign, and a Bible course—each of these courses to cover three months. Requests have already been made for a special object, and the medical work at Haines, Alaska, has been assigned to the chapters.

The number of missionary conferences is increasing, and this department makes a thorough canvass for delegates and keeps in touch afterward with those of our denomination who attend, especially if they are members of the home mission study classes. Realizing the opportunity for presenting this work, and the opportunity it gives to find workers for our mission fields, it is hoped that at all such conferences home mission work may be presented, and recruits gained for home mission service.

Many new mission bands have been organized this year, and the systematic study of home missions is adding much to the general information of these young people.

The special object for Sabbath schools for the Sunday before Thanksgiving was the hospital at San Juan, Porto Rico, and while the response was generous, there are still many Sabbath schools that fail to use this opportunity for instructing the children of the Church in the work of the Woman's Board.

The subject of what is being done for the children of the exceptional people is one of unfailing interest to Sabbath school children, and helps to give them an all-round view of the missionary work.

The total receipts of the Young People's Department were:

From Christian Endeavor and Young People's societies	$26,592.96
From Sabbath schools	30,476.69

Total $57,069.65

We have transferred to the Board of Home Missions funds received through presbyterial treasurers:—

Finally: The books are closed, but the work of the year is not ended. Forces have been set in operation that will continue for all time. Prayer has been offered, the answer to which will affect the work in years to come. New workers have been enlisted both at home and on the field who may mould the work in the future. But we bring the gifts of the women of the Church, gifts of time, money and talents, we bring them to be used in the work of our Master, and shall continue to pray that they may be used to win souls for Him who died for all.

Respectfully submitted,
ELLA A. BOOLE,
Secretary.

CONCLUSION.

Concluding this report the following large facts stand out to view:

First. This has been the year of the largest receipts from living sources in the history of the Board of Home Missions. There has been some falling off in legacies, but the gifts from churches and individuals are larger than ever before, and the treasury of the Woman's Board has exceeded any former year by about fifteen thousand dollars. This, in a year of unsettled financial conditions, is a matter for profound thanksgiving to the Head of the Church.

Second. In several respects the work of the year has been tentative. In two directions the work assumed by request of the General Assembly has devolved upon the Board important new plans and reorganization. The evangelistic work carried on in nearly all the missionary presbyteries has not only shown good results, but has given distinctive promise of still better things when the organization of the work shall have been better effected, and when experience shall have guided to the wisest plans and the best methods. The work in the Cumberland branch of our Church has been rendered peculiarly difficult by the suits entered by the anti-unionists in so many of the courts in the South. These suits are still in process, and the uncertainty which prevails as to the issue has interfered seriously with our work in nearly the entire field. Notwithstanding, much has been accomplished by the organization of presbyteries, the gathering together of scattered congregations, and the quickening of religious interest by evangelistic services very widely held. Those most conversant with the South and Southwest are persuaded that rapid progress can be made as soon as pending ecclesiastical questions are settled, and that our Church in that vast and rapidly developing region has an opportunity of unsurpassed promise.

Third. The Indian work, which is varied and extensive, meets with many limitations and difficulties by reason of various local conditions. It is so unique and separate from the ordinary missionary field, and presents a problem so interesting at the present time, that it is the judgment of the Board that for efficiency of administration it should be operated as a special department. For this purpose it is believed the Board should have authority to make appropriations directly for the Indian work in the different districts, the budget being separate from that of the presbyteries and being maintained as far as possible as a separate item of the Board's treasury. The proposed plan will not curtail the authority of presbytery over the Indian churches and ministers; these will sustain the same ecclesiastical relation to the presbytery as heretofore. The only change will be in the administration of home mission funds. The Board desires to have authority to decide the appropriations for the different Indian tribes, the location of missionaries, and the general conduct of the work. The Board hereby asks the approval of the General Assembly for the erection of such a department along the lines herein indicated.

Fourth. We take up the work of the new year with a deep sense of responsibility but with large expectations. We cannot stop. In all directions the demands are loud and the opportunity great. Our hope of being able to meet the large obligations assumed for this fiscal year is in the appreciation by the Church of the day to which we have come, and in the adoption of plans for educating our people to a knowledge of the vast harvest fields, and to some systematic ways of expressing their loyalty and devotion.

The General Assembly of 1907 gave the Board of Home Missions authority to amend its charter so that a full membership would consist of thirty. Under that authority the Board of Home Missions elected to the class of 1908 the Rev. George L. Curtis of Bloomfield, New Jersey, and Mr. J. C. Cobb, of Odessa, Missouri; to the class of 1909, the Rev. C. E. Hayes of Decatur, Illinois, and Mr. T. H. Perrin, of Alton, Illinois; and to the class of 1910 the Rev. T. W. Work, D. D., and Mr. Fleming H. Revell, both of New York City.

The term of service of the following members of the Board expires with this Assembly:

Ministers.

Rev. Allan Douglas Carlile, D. D.
Rev. George L. Spining, D. D.
Rev. Wilton Merle Smith, D. D.
Rev. George L. Curtis.

SYNODICAL SELF-SUPPORT AND SUSTENTATION— 1907-1908.

SYNOD OF BALTIMORE.

For sixteen years the Synod of Baltimore has conducted its own home mission work:—for five years in connection with the Board of Home Missions, and for the last eleven years doing all the work, but receiving aid from the Board in bulk. The synod has always contributed much more to the Board than it has drawn from the Board.

During these eleven years the synod has received from the Board fifty thousand dollars and paid into the Board ninety-two thousand and forty-four dollars for evangelization, or forty-two thousand and forty-four dollars more than we drew out.

In the same years the synod contributed, through the women's societies to school work one hundred and twenty-two thousand one hundred and twenty-six dollars, a total contribution to the work of home missions of two hundred and fourteen thousand one hundred and seventy dollars or one hundred and sixty-four thousand one hundred and seventy more than we received from the Board for our own home mission work. This plan has worked very well so far, and it is a question whether any other plan would be better.

The past year has been a quiet one in the churches, but has been developing Christian character. Most of the churches have been regularly supplied with preaching. All have been kept open. Fifty churches have been aided, two hundred and ninety persons have been added to these churches on confession, and one hundred and seventy-one by certificate, a total membership of three thousand two hundred and forty-eight. Twenty-four adults and one hundred and eighty-six infants have been baptized. Church edifices are valued at two hundred and fifty-two thousand one hundred dollars, and parsonages at twenty-six thousand dollars. Three thousand five hundred and sixty dollars was raised for benevolence.

On an average the churches raised two-thirds of the ministers' salary and pay their other current expenses, and are aided by about one-third of the salary. Our great problem is the country church, and the church in the small town where population is stationary. At the same time a large work is being done in the suburbs of the cities, and among the foreigners. Upon the whole the work is carried on economically and successfully.

W. H. LOGAN,

Chairman of Sustentation Committee.

SYNOD OF ILLINOIS.

A summary of the home mission work conducted in the Synod of Illinois for the year ending September 30th, 1907, shows ninety-seven ministers serving one hundred and thirty-two churches and missions with nine thousand three hundred and forty-seven members, of whom one thousand and forty-eight were added by profession of faith and five hundred and six by certificate. Three hundred and seventy-two adults were baptized and four hundred and eighteen infants. In one hundred and twenty-four Sabbath schools there was a membership of twelve thousand six hundred and fifty-one. The assisted churches to the benevolences of the Presbyterian Church. Nine churches advanced to self-support. A number of the weaker churches were supplied by members of the presbyterial committees and by other ministers without compensation, thus keeping alive churches which otherwise could not have maintained their existence. These self-denying labors of ministers already heavily burdened with their own work cannot be too highly commended. The contributions from all sources for Home Missions as reported in the Minutes of the General Assembly was one hundred and one thousand nine hundred and ninety-eight dollars.

Evangelistic meetings were conducted successfully in a number of churches. The General Assembly's Committee on evangelism contributed eight hundred dollars to this fund, and this together with the money raised in the churches in which the meetings were held, met all the expenses. As the Evangelistic Committee was unable to renew their appropriation, the Presbytery of Ottawa supplied the deficiency from invested funds, so that the work might go on.

Work among the foreign-speaking population was a marked feature of the year. Through the coöperation of the Board of Publication and Sabbath School Work, a second canvass was made of the mining districts by a Lithuanian colporteur who visited seven hundred and twenty-three families in twenty-five towns, six hundred and seventy-three of these being Lithuanian, and the others belonging to five different nationalities. He sold many Bibles and much religious literature. A mission among the Italians was undertaken in co-operation with the Congregationalists at Ladd and Spring Valley. An Italian worker was sent to the field, and he has schools and preaching appointments at both stations. After a thorough canvass of the field, a Bulgarian mission was established at Madison and Granite City, manufacturing towns near St. Louis. The minister in charge, Rev. T. S. Bagranoff, holds religious services and conducts schools at both places.

The final consolidation of the Synod of Illinois with the synod formerly connected with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church took place during the year. The Church Extension Association of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, which had been conducting the local home mission work, preserved its organization until all property interests are finally adjusted in the civil courts, but all home mission work in the reunited synod is conducted by the synodical committee in accordance with the system in operation in the Presbyterian Synod of Illinois. Rev. C. E. Hayes, D. D., former Superintendent of the Church Extension Association, was appointed Associate Superintendent, and Rev. W. V. Jefferies, Superintendent of Home Missions in the Synod of Illinois.

The Presbytery of Chicago has reorganized its work under the name of the Church Extension Committee which includes the work of Church Extension and Sabbath schools as well as home missions. The new arrangements were not perfected when the report of this presbytery was made to the synod in October, but it was found that thirty-one churches and missions had been supplied by twenty-eight ministers. These churches contained three thousand five hundred and thirteen members, of whom four hundred and thirty-one were added by profession of faith and two hundred and sixty-nine by certificate, these figures being included in the total of the synod. This presbytery has been paying special attention to work among foreigners, and maintains one Italian church, one Italian mission, two Bohemian missions, one Chinese mission, one Slavic and one Persian, with two mixed missions for Germans and Scandinavians, and one mixed Irish and Jewish. There are six hundred and thirty members of these churches and missions, of whom ninety-five united during the past year. Rev. Edgar P. Hill, D.D., is Superintendent of the Church Extension Committee of the presbytery, adding this to his duties as professor in McCormick contributed sixty thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine dollars to their own support, and five thousand seven hundred and forty-one dollars Theological Seminary, and using his double office to enlist the energies of a number of theological students in practical mission work. He is ably assisted by the Rev. George B. Safford, Ph.D.

THOS. D. LOGAN,

Chairman of the Committee on Home Missions.

SYNOD OF INDIANA.

Seventeen years has past since the Synod of Indiana undertook the work of sustaining her own mission fields. Under her plan each presbytery receives into its home mission treasury the contribution of the churches, one-eighth of the total being sent by the presbyterial treasurer to the treasurer of synod, thus creating a fund from which by vote of the synod's committee the weaker presbyteries are assisted, the synod at the same time guaranteeing that the New York Board shall receive a sum not less than one-tenth of all our contributions.

During the last year they received from the churches.....	$11,497 64
Received from the Yandes funds.....	3,208 19
Received by special effort for different departments of home work	3,365 68
	<hr/> $18,071 51

Amount sent to Home Board in New York, not including some sent to Woman's Board.....	$8,680 46
Amount from Society sent through the Woman's Board....	8,155 53

Total of money collected within the bounds of synod.....	$34,907 50
--	-------------

The synod is thoroughly loyal to its plan although it is the conviction of the synod's committee that the plan is not being worked. The amount contributed is far short of what should be gathered in a great state like ours. We are barely keeping pace with the work in hand, while but little is being done to claim the fields that are opening. Within the year one hundred and twenty-one churches have aided in the support of fifty-six ordained men and all other workers. Three churches have reached self-support, one new self-supporting church has been organized and three new mission stations started.

During the year we have also secured a worker among the Syrians in our state. This man is well equipped and gives promise of doing efficient work in the five or six centers where these people have gathered. This, however, is all that is being done in a direct way for the foreigners in our state. New industrial centers are opening along our lake shore especially at Gara which should be provided for at once, and for which little or nothing is being attempted. The rapid developments of our coal fields and of many of the cities throughout the state calls for immediate and decisive action. New conditions growing out of the recent union of the two branches of our Church have made the year one of adjustment on the more purely mission presbytery and consequently we have not made the advance that we perhaps should have made or that we had hoped for. We feel, however, that interest is deepening, a greater sense of responsibility is apparent and we hope for better things in the future.

WM. H. McCAUGHEY,

Chairman of the Home Mission Committee.

SYNOD OF IOWA.

The work of self-support in the home mission work of Iowa has been carried forward with the usual measure of success. The plan differs from that of many other synods which have assumed self-support in whole or in part, by being strictly and thoroughly synodical. For the better carrying on of the work, with this conception of it, there is a corporate organization, "The Board of Iowa Presbytery Home Missions," chartered under the laws of the state.

Financially, the fund is raised by an apportionment on each church of two-fifths as many dollars as there are members, with the urging on churches of the larger and abler class, that they make the proportion one-half as many dollars as members, and thereby secure a place on the "Honor Roll." Many of them reach this, and thus balance the deficiencies from other churches. Collections are made through the presbyterial treasurers, who remit to the synodical treasurer, who makes the payments to the missionaries, who have been commissioned by the Board's secretary, on the recommendation of the presbyterial committees. The total receipts during the year were about seventeen thousand eight hundred dollars, or approximately the amount of the total apportionment. The synodical expenses of administration, including the salary of the superintendent, were about two thousand three hundred dollars.

At the meeting of the synod in October, 1907, the Iowa Board was authorized to change its plan in the direction of a forward movement for co-operation in the general work, through the Board in New York. For this purpose it was directed that instead of all the receipts being used for Iowa work, ten per cent. of all moneys received by the presbyterial treasurers from the churches on their apportionment, should be sent to the treasurer of the Board in New York, credited to the churches individually. It was with some hesitation that this step was taken, in the face of threatened financial difficulties—which have since materialized. But the condition of the treasury at the end of five months of the synodical year, encourages the hope and expectation that with this added incentive to giving, the churches will make good to the Iowa work this sum of about one thousand seven hundred dollars, which will now be diverted from Iowa to the general cause of home missions.

The endeavor to put a Bohemian missionary into the work of the synod was not completed as was expected last year, it being impossible to find the man desired. But there is now promise of a competently equipped missionary for this important work, who will labor under the joint authority and support of this Board and that of Sabbath school missions.

EZRA BUTLER NEWCOMB,

President of the Board of Iowa Presbyterian Home Missions.

SYNOD OF MICHIGAN.

The home mission work in the Synod of Michigan is one of steady progress. More than five years have passed since we assumed self-support under a plan which has not divorced us from the Home Board and not a single criticism or obstacle has arisen to question the wisdom of this relation, in fact we believe that a closer relation even would be beneficial. We have at present sixty-six commissioned ministers in more than a hundred fields also a superintendent and two assistants whose duties include the work of the whole synod. Besides this ten students were employed during the months of last summer half of their salary being paid by the Committee and the other half by the fields in which they worked and so satisfactory has been this kind of work that an equal or greater number will be used this vacation. Our synod took the stand at its last meeting of refusing to commission a regularly ordained minister to any church or group of churches whose members are not willing to guarantee him a living equivalent to seven hundred and fifty dollars per year. And while we have not been able to carry out this action in all cases it has resulted in larger salaries being paid in independent as well as dependent congregations.

The Synod's Committee of Home Missions is operating this year under an arrangement with the Board of Publication and Sabbath School Work which unifies all missionary work being done in the synod. And while it will take more than one year to work out the plan and test its usefulness there are already many evidences of its wisdom. The problem of the foreign born citizen is a serious one with us as it is elsewhere yet we have accepted it as God given and under His guidance are achieving results. In the city of Detroit a property consisting of a church building and church house has been secured and a splendid work among the Italians carried on in connection with it. A minister and two teachers are employed and hundreds of this nationality are in vital touch with the work. Also plans are under way for a similar work at Calumet where ten thousand Italians are living. Throughout the whole state our work is in most encouraging condition and the prospects are better than ever before.

WILLIAM T. JAQUESS.

Chairman Permanent Committee of Home Missions.

SYNOD OF NEW JERSEY.

The twenty-first year of Synodical Home Missions in New Jersey, which ended September 30th, 1907, was marked by continued increase in contributions and in work. The receipts for the year were twenty thousand seven hundred and sixty-three dollars and eighty-two cents, a gain of six hundred and four dollars and seventy-two cents over the preceding year. Seven out of the eight presbyteries shared in this increase and all but two gave more than the amount asked by synod. These facts make evident, as scarcely anything else could, that interest and appreciation of the work prevades the state.

While there has been some increase in the number of points aided, the increased cost of the work has sprung chiefly from change in the nature of the work. Few new churches for English-speaking people have been recently started, because few have been needed. New enterprises of this kind in towns and cities are steadily working to self-support. But the enlargement of the work among the people of foreign tongue, which has been taking place all over the state, and particularly on behalf of the Italians, calls for much larger outlay for each separate field, while financial returns from this are small and in the nature of things will increase slowly.

The statistical summary printed elsewhere shows that work has been carried on through the aid of these funds at one hundred and fifteen or more points by seventy-three ordained and twenty or more paid unordained men and women. The congregations to which they minister contain at least six thousand communicants and the Sunday school more than seven thousand members. During the year three hundred and twenty-six joined upon certificate and four hundred and seventy-two made profession of faith in Christ. Synodical aid helped to make available about ninety churches and chapels, worth over four hundred thousand dollars. The aided fields raised for buildings, expenses and salaries over eighty thousand dollars or more than four fifths of the total cost. They gave to church boards and other causes outside their own parishes nearly six thousand dollars, thus making a pecuniary return to the Church at large in a single year of more than thirty per cent. upon the amount of aid given.

The needs presented from the several presbyteries to the Synod's Committee and through it to synod for the year beginning October 1st, 1907, exceeded by ten per cent. the large amount received and expended last year. But upon a detailed presentation of these needs by representatives from different parts of the state, the synod enthusiastically undertook to accept the budget as proposed and to raise the amount.

The bringing of all salaries up to a minimum of eight hundred dollars and a house, increasing the effectiveness of the present work, and provision for the rapidly growing colored population of the state, are lines of advance proposed.

SAMUEL McLANAHAN,

Chairman of Committee on Synodical Home Missions.

SYNOD OF NEW YORK.

Missions! He who is looking for the kingdom of this world to become the kingdom of our Lord feels the thrill of expectancy when this subject is under consideration. But,—ah the buts—like the poor they are always with us,—how often does the intensity of the thrill decrease in an inverse ratio to the square of the distance of the particular field under consideration. God forbid that we should discourage the thrill which is the foretaste of the joy to be experienced when the world, the whole world, is won for Christ. But often it might be said,—this you should indeed have done, but not have left the other undone.

From every pulpit and every pew let us emphasize the resolve to win the world for Christ and acting in accord therewith, also remember the wisdom of Nehemiah when every man built the wall over against his own house.

Synodical home missions in the State of New York for the year just closed has again been bereaved by the death of the Chairman. The Honorable John I. Platt died at Poughkeepsie, New York, May 6th, 1907, after having served as chairman for about eighteen months. Many years of public life gave him a wide circle of acquaintances, a thorough knowledge of the field and a mature judgment. In private, as well as public service, he was chiefly concerned that the emphasis of his life should be given for God and the betterment of his fellow men.

The social and industrial changes which have been brought about in the last two score years, making rural pursuits unattractive and unprofitable, have greatly lessened both the financial and numerical strength of the rural and village churches. The marvelous growth of our cities has drained the country side of its life's blood and bread-winning power. The larger opportunities and more lucrative employment of city life, lead young men and women to leave the homestead and the home church, and the responsibility for their support falls upon those whose energies are already spent. It is safe to say that in some sections our country churches in numerical and financial strength have declined at least fifty per cent. in the last two score years. That is to say, a church in the country districts which forty years ago was able to pay its minister six hundred dollars a year, would not to-day be able to give more than three hundred toward his support. The community may be just as thickly populated, but it has changed in at least three particulars; it has lost its young people, its old-time thrift and prosperity have departed, and it has gained an element with ideas and ideals which are foreign to its soil. Its new people are not in sympathy with the things that the Church stands for.

The lack of appreciation is not altogether chargeable to the presence of an alien people. Without the wholesome restraints and inspiration of stated worship, the descendants, even of the founders of these religious communities, soon become degenerate. It is this falling away from the church which has laid the country side open to the charge of becoming "paganized." Every such community is an ugly blot upon the fair page of our civil and religious life. The best citizen is he who loves his country because he loves his God and forgets not to serve him.

The administrative work as usual has been conducted by Dr. Jacks, as superintendent. The long service, wide acquaintance with both field and men, mature judgment and thorough sympathy and understanding of the needs of rural church life, have made his services invaluable to the cause. The many friends of the Superintendent rejoice in the renewal of his vigorous health and old time zeal.

Financially, the work has received support comparing favorably with that of preceding years. With a constant increase in the number of people of foreign speech in all our communities, the growth in suburban districts, and the requirements of the work in country districts as above referred to, the demands of synodical mission work are increasing to an extent that would indeed be alarming did we not remember that this is the Lord's work, and that with the ever-enlarging opportunities opening before us, He will correspondingly enlarge the capacity to care for His work over against our own house.

GEORGE P. CONARD,

Chairman of the Permanent Committee on Synodical Missions.

SYNOD OF OHIO.

"An evolution" may be a proper characterization of the unity plan and its operation in the Synod of Ohio. In its tenth annual report to synod the committee was able for the first time to represent the work of the seventeen presbyteries. Ohio Presbyterians waited to be "shown." The wisdom of the plan has at last vindicated itself to all the presbyteries.

Loyalty to home missions within our bounds has not militated against a comparatively generous support of the Home Board in New York. This is evidenced in the increased offerings to the Board. In the year 1896-97 the Board received from our synod thirty-two thousand six hundred and two dollars and in return cared for our mission churches to the extent of three thousand four hundred and twenty-one dollars. The past year after ten years of operation of the unity plan the Board received from our synod from all sources forty-six thousand four hundred and ninety dollars while we spent about ten times the amount for home missions within our bonds given for that purpose ten years ago by the Board. We rejoice in the prosperity attending the Home Board. Its splendid conceptions and its noble achievements evoke the pride of all loyal Presbyterians. The most cordial relations exist between the committee and the officers of the Board. Our appreciation of the magnitude and importance of its trust constrains us to hope and plan for a larger participation in its greater operations.

Yet candor compels the confession that Ohio is one of the needy home mission fields of the entire country. We have more than one hundred and twenty-five vacant churches, occasioned by a lack both of men and of money. A host of strangers of foreign speech are without gospel privileges. Growing cities are demanding additional churches. In fact ours is a field white unto the harvest. The accompanying report would indicate that something is being done to meet the responsibilities of the situation. It must be confessed however that there is slight cause for self-congratulation.

During the past year we have had the services of Superintendent S. S. Aikman and the Rev. D. D. Bigger, D.D., missionary. The thirty thousand dollars expended for home missions was done so at an administrative cost of one-tenth of one per cent.

We have elected as superintendent Rev. Walter H. Houston of Columbus, vice Rev. S. S. Aikman resigned. The "Ohio Presbyterian Board of Home Missions" was authorized by synod and has been incorporated under the laws of the state. Its primary function will be the receiving, holding and managing of property given for home mission endowment.

As a partial solution of our pressing problems the committee have decided upon the creation of five districts out of the seventeen presbyteries. It is hoped ultimately to place a district missionary in each.

Plans for larger things in co-operation with the Home Board are being devised so that the better future is not without hope of its realization. We confidently trust "Of the things o'er which we now slumber we shall some day cease to dream."

GEORGE E. DAVIES,
Chairman.

SYNODICAL HOME MISSIONS IN PENNA.

The Permanent Committee on Synodical Home Missions in Pennsylvania reported to the Synod in October, 1907, that it had under its care 188 churches and missions, ministered to by 133 ministers and missionaries; that to these churches had been added 1,530 members during the year, and that the whole number of communicants was 10,982; that the number of Sabbath-schools was 153, with a membership of 12,305; that these fields had raised for pastors' salaries and current expenses $73,566, or an average of $6.70 per communicant; and that the Synod had supplemented the salaries of these missionaries to the extent of $26,826, or an average of $166 per pastoral charge; that the aided churches had contributed to beneficence during the year $12,244, or an average of $102 per pastoral charge.

But Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Huntingdon presbyteries carry on their work under Presbyterial missions, and are not included in the foregoing statement. Including these, we have 183 missionaries, 253 churches and missions, 2,443 additions to membership, 16,424 communicants, Sabbath-school membership 17,600, and a total expended in support of churches and missions within the synod $104,863.

This is an increase of over $11,000 as compared with last year.

The work of Home Missions is growing tremendously in Pennsylvania.

I. THE PLANTING OF NEW CHURCHES.

By reason of the building of new railroads and trolley lines, the opening of new mining fields, and the locating and re-locating of mills, many new towns are springing up, and necessitate the planting of new churches to meet the religious needs of these new centers of population. Synodical Home Missions seeks to occupy these new fields promptly.

II. THE SUPPORT OF OUR WEAK CHURCHES.

It is impossible to overestimate the importance of this part of the Home Missions work in a synod such as ours. The churches in the villages and rural districts of Pennsylvania are being depleted constantly by the removal of families to the cities and larger towns in search of employment. A new population is occupying the places made vacant; much of it not readily responsive to the claims of the Gospel. But we dare not neglect them. The Synodical Committee seeks to keep the pastors in these weak churches to visit the new families, to gather the children into the Sabbath-schools, to minister in time of sickness and sorrows; and by these ministries a foothold is gained, and from such sowing abundant harvests will surely be gathered by and by.

In one such field last year, after years of patient labor, the pastor received 62 members on confession of faith. But for our Sustentation work the doors of this church and many others would have been closed long ago.

One Presbytery employed a missionary evangelist last year to visit its vacant fields, and reported as the fruit of nine months' labor, thirteen weeks' special meetings held, ten communions, and 187 members received on confession of faith. Where can fields be found whiter for the harvest? Other presbyteries are adopting the same plan of presbyterial evangelization.

III. EVANGELIZATION OF OUR FOREIGN POPULATION.

This is the great Home Mission problem before the Presbyterian Church in Pennsylvania. Over 200,000 foreigners, largely from eastern and southern Europe, are crowding into our State every year. Over 2,000,000 persons of foreign birth are in our great commonwealth at this time. They come, most of them, to better their condition and that of their children. Can we blame them for coming? No small part of our material prosperity is due to their labor. We can not do without their help in developing our industries. These multitudes are largely ignorant of the essential truths of Christianity. Their very presence in this Gospel-enlightened land is God's call to us to give them the Gospel.

As the Synod said in its action at its last meeting, "The responsibility for bringing the Gospel to the many thousands in our bounds is one that can not be transferred nor neglected without our being guilty before God."

Fifteen years ago a few feeble beginnings were made. But we were without properly qualified missionaries to speak to these people of strange tongues; we were without experience as to methods of work. We have moved on carefully and yet earnestly, seeking to learn from experience. To-day we have quite a number of earnest, devoted, proved missionaries who have sowed seed and are gathering fruits; a few churches have been organized from which are coming earnest young men and women as candidates for service as trained workers. At Pittsburg a school for the training of young women for work as teachers and Bible women has been established and is sending out each year consecrated workers who are eagerly sought for to take up work in various places. The need of a similar school for young men is urgently needed and a movement is on foot to establish such a school in connection with the Western Seminary. The work is rapidly passing the experimental stage; the outlook for the future is encouraging. With its own great work pressing, the synod of Pennsylvania sent over $200,000 to the treasury of the Home Board in New York last year in gifts from its churches, Sabbath-schools, young people's societies, woman's missionary societies and in legacies.

GEO. S. CHAMBERS, Chairman.

J. M. MCJUNKIN, Secretary.

Synodical Missions and Sustentation.

SYNOD OF WISCONSIN.

Another year of Synodical self-support has passed and the result is most satisfying. A total of eighty-seven churches have been aided, beside twenty-eight missions connected with these churches. There have been two hundred forty-five additions on confession of faith, and the total membership is three thousand one hundred eighty. Two church edifices have been built and two thousand five hundred fifty-three dollars of debt has been cleared away. Six mission churches have been organized and several others have been asking for organization. Six churches have reached self-support and a number have reduced their applications for aid, which will enable us to give help where it is more urgently needed.

Opportunities for new church organizations are being presented all the time and it is only a question of money and men to help them. Men are more scarce than money and it is a serious problem to find workers for the new fields. Railway lines are being completed and new towns are opening. In such places we ought to plant Presbyterian churches. The opportunity is great and the time is now.

Enthusiasm for self-support is increasing. During the year ending March 31st, 1907, the synod gave the sum of eleven thousand six hundred eleven dollars and fourteen cents; and for the year just past the sum of fourteen thousand two hundred twenty-six dollars and fifty-seven cents was contributed. Our aim has been to secure one dollar per member, and while this has not been accomplished, thirty-four churches gave the full quota according to the membership in the last Minutes of General Assembly. Fully seventy-five churches reached the dollar mark if actual resident membership is considered. The weak churches strive with the strong to be placed on the honor roll, and home mission pastors find their people ready to do their part for this great work.

Much has been done in the way of urging self-support. Where this has not been possible many churches have applied for a smaller amount than a year ago. The committee is exacting in requiring each church to do its best before asking for aid, and it is plainly understood that the same amount will not be granted two years in succession, unless for extraordinary reasons. The call for help in the newer parts of the state has been repeatedly sounded and all our people are interested in the development of this new work.

Northern Wisconsin is developing rapidly. Although the pine is nearly gone, other interests have come in to take its place. The rivers are being used for water-power and varied industries are making use of this power. Settlers are coming in and the forest is giving way to the farm. This great northern section is found good for dairying and creameries are springing up in great number. To keep pace with this material development is the problem of the Church, and so far she has been far behind and has failed to occupy this land that is open for her possession.

Mention ought to be made of the loyal support given by our women to this work. While loyal to the Woman's Board and while performing all the obligations pledged to that work, they have supported the assistant synodical missionary and Miss Austin, his helper. They have also supported one of our missionary pastors, and the coming year promise us four hundred dollars additional for other missionaries as we may direct.

Our Sunday-schools and Christian Endeavor societies have helped us royally. They have not only paid all they pledged to the general work, but have given to Wisconsin as well.

The year on which we are entering will doubtless surpass the one just closed in receipts and in work accomplished. There is no thought of retreat, but on the contrary each Presbytery is calling for an advance along the line. Our people are learning to give, and old and young rejoice in the progress that has been made.

L. S. SMITH,

Synodical Supt. of Home Missions for Wisconsin.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

For the first time in ten years the Board of Home Missions is obliged to report to the General Assembly a deficit on its year's work, that deficit amounting to $47,717.73—this, in face of the fact that receipts on current work account have been the largest in its history. The taking over of the Cumberland home mission work, and of the evangelistic work in home mission synods (by direction of the General Assembly) accounts for the enlarged expenditures, which amount to $1,038,948.35, and are in excess of last year's expenditures by $75,155.86.

The table given below will indicate the status of receipts as compared with those of last year:

It will be seen that from the "live" sources there is a substantial gain, the congregational offerings alone scoring an advance of nearly twenty per cent. This advance in Church offerings, however, is not indicative of an advance of that amount among the majority of our congregations. It will be remembered that our Cumberland brethren are now helping to swell the receipts, and an item of $10,000, credited by request of the donor to a church in the west, is an individual gift. While very many of our churches have, in loyalty to the work and to the request of the General Assembly, made an advance of twenty per cent., and many of them a very much greater advance, the large majority of the churches have not done so.

As the years pass and the work of the Board of Home

Missions broadens and new lines of activity are entered upon, it becomes more than ever imperative that our churches must adopt, from the largest to the smallest, such plans of systematic support of the work that each year there shall be ample funds for carrying it on. More and more it is becoming evident to broad-minded church men, that the great business of the Church must be conducted along the most approved business lines or we shall fail of the best results.

The Systematic Beneficence Committee of the General Assembly has on file very many comprehensive plans for the carrying on of systematic beneficence in congregations. These plans differ so widely in detail that it will be possible for every congregation to find something that will meet its needs. The work most insistently demands that the business men of our congregations shall look carefully after the systematizing of the gathering of income for the work which is committed, by the Church at large, to the Boards.

The office of the Junior Associate Secretary of this Board is also prepared to give valuable information concerning Systematic Beneficence plans.

Legacies. While legacy receipts this year are about up to the average, they do not measure up to last year's receipts by $33,348.77. But for one large legacy, the receipts would have fallen far below the average.

Woman's Board. Receipts from this source show an increase as compared with last year. In addition to the amount shown in the statement, $73,535.22 was collected through the agency of the various Women's Societies, and, through these offices, forwarded to the Board for Freedmen.

Presbyterian Building. Owing to the fact that several large items of rental have been vacant for the year past, and to the further fact that last year's figures included an accumulation of rentals in addition to the twelve months then under consideration, the net earnings for the twelve months show a considerable decrease. It is expected, however, that very shortly the large floor space now vacant will be under rental, the income from which, during the coming year, will largely increase the receipts.

Annuities are still being paid on account of gifts for the building mortgage at the rate of 4 per cent. upon $134,375.00.

Mrs. Rachel B. Crane, who so generously gave to this board $100,000 upon the annuity basis, to apply upon its mortgage upon the building, has passed away during the current year. The amount, therefore, which was being paid to her in annuities, will now accrue to the credit of rent account.

Permanent and Annuity Funds. There have been received for these purposes during the year, the total sum of $10,509.83.

Receipts by months and quarters are given below :

April.....	$20,253 67	October	$53,687 80

Loans. In order to carry on the work during the year and keep salaries and expenses promptly paid up, it has been necessary to borrow the sum of $325,000. Until the financial disturbance in October, this was carried at the uniform rate of four per cent., at which time, and for some months thereafter, interest was charged at the rate of six per cent. The total amount paid out in interest on these loans was $9,085.41.

While the financial disturbance seemed to cause no diminution in the offerings from congregations and societies, it undoubtedly accounts for the lack of a larger increase, and the consequent caring for all liabilities. It is predicted that the effects of the panic will be felt, during the coming fiscal year, as they have not been felt during this year, and it is therefore more than ever obligatory upon all to cooperate in a systematic endeavor to swell the income in order that the work may be carried on without abatement, and that the debt brought over, may be provided for.

Percentage of Expenditures to gross receipts for 1907 and 1908 are as follows:

Expense of administration.....	4.11	5.07
Disbursements, not administrative.....	.86	.83
Cost of communicating information, including disbursements directed by the General Assembly..	2.11	1.92
	7.08	7.82

The percentages above are based upon the receipts for current work alone. Figuring them upon the basis of the total amount of cash actually received aggregating $1,189,665.48 and which total includes the receipts for current work, permanent funds, Freedmen, Sundry Boards, etc., they are as follows:

	1907.	1908.
Expense of administration.....	3.12	4.07
Disbursements, not administrative.....	.36	.67
Cost of communicating information, including dis- bursements directed by the General Assembly..	1.60	1.54
	5.08	6.28

NOTE—The cost of operating the Woman's department, $33,865.76 has been deducted from the gross receipts of the Woman's Board before figuring these percentages, thereby placing this Board on the same basis with other Boards receiving money from Women's Boards.

The financial statements, constituting the Treasurer's Report, will be found on pages, 94-101. A careful study thereof is asked. On pages 310-311 will be found a showing of receipts on account of the combined home mission work of our denomination, covering both the receipts of this Board and of the self-supporting Synods.

Respectfully submitted,

HARVEY C. OLIN,
Treasurer.

APPENDIX.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE ON HOME MISSIONS

The Standing Committee on Home Missions respectfully reports that it has examined the One Hundred and Sixth Annual Report of the Board of Home Missions. It has also examined the Minutes of the Board's meetings, the annual report of the Woman's Board of Home Missions and the report on Young People's Work.

Behind this report of the Board of Home Missions now presented to the One Hundred and Twentieth General Assembly lie one hundred and six years of wonderful history, for the most part unwritten. This report concludes the story of more than a century of the heroic labor and consecrated sacrifice of seventy-five thousand home missionaries and the administering of twenty-five millions of dollars on behalf of the evangelization of America.

Built upon the foundations of other men's labors and facing opportunities and obligations born of a century of preparation, this report should have the prayerful consideration of the General Assembly and of the whole Presbyterian Church.

The Committee desires to express its confidence in the loyalty, wisdom, capacity for well directed endeavor and fruitful achievement of the Board of Home Missions and its officers. We affirm before the Church that amid growing perplexities of field work, intricate problems of executive service and the vast responsibility of financial management, the Church has reason to believe that there is in her Board a wise, economical and efficient administration. The Board invites inquiry from business men and contributing friends throughout the Church as to her methods and urges from every source all possible suggestions as to more efficient and economical service on behalf of the cause.

The Committee is glad to report that the Young People's Department is seeking to reach and teach the young in Sunday schools and study classes and is meeting with a large measure of cooperation throughout the Church. There is no future to evangelization if the young are not to be trained and inspired. Intelligent Christian patriotism is the need of the hour in our land, and its saving influence can enter the lives of a large portion of our people only through the gateway of childhood and youth. We call especial attention of the Assembly to the plans in operation in this department.

The Woman's Board of Home Missions in close fellowship with the parent Board has concluded a fruitful year. Its offerings have been increased, its corps of field workers enlarged and its adjustment of relations with the women of the former Cumberland Church highly satisfactory. Increased interest in study classes seeking information and duty concerning the urgent needs of our city and alien population and the adoption of a new society for mission work and study among young women called the "Westminster Guild", together with much new and interesting literature, indicate the steps by which the Woman's Board has found progress. The Woman's Board is to be commended for its resolution to devote, beginning April, 1909, five per cent. of receipts from its auxiliaries to the work of evangelization among our foreigners. In view of the crying need for a gospel ministry among these people and more evangelization throughout the land, this step meets with the hearty approval of the Committee.

During the past year a sudden and painful panic paralyzed our great money centers and depressed our whole country. It wrought losses and embarrassment for many of our generous people. The opening of a great field in the southwest brought to us last year an opportunity for mission work, the like of which our Church has not confronted in this generation. Into this opportunity with added executive and field forces and with increased cost the Board has gone. Seventy-five thousand dollars more was spent in the work than in the year 1906-07. The offerings of the Church have increased twenty per cent. over the previous year, reaching the highest point in the history of the Board. Legacies have declined to the amount of thirty thousand dollars and a deficit of forty-seven thousand dollars is reported. This comparatively small deficit must not be allowed to halt the great work in the new southwest nor hinder the Board in pushing evangelization wherever our flag floats.

The Committee rejoices to report the signal success of the plan of self-support in a growing number of synods. The cause of evangelization has had no greater impulse from any source than from the efforts of synods to care for their own work, while in no wise losing interest in the larger cause. There is growing up amidst this company of self-supporting synods a fine spirit of federation and desire for practical unity under the Board and a sense of obligation to the greater work of saving the whole nation, for which task every unit is responsible. Larger gifts, more effective management and a sympathetic co-operation with the Board of Home Missions are the present day features of work in self-supporting synods.

In the Report of Home Missions presented to the General Assembly there are two underlying principles of church work that we never should forget. The first principle is a wise and effective adaptation of the gospel to new and varied conditions in American life. No nation on earth has come quicker upon larger problems than America. No nation has ever come up out of such a splendid pure blooded homogeneity into such a mixed, polyglot national life as America. Our old proud colonial blood is diluted. Our boasted unity has gone. Our moral solidarity is broken. Our educational average is impaired. Rural leisure and social simplicity have vanished and with their going the serene and edifying character of the home life and the redeeming contact of the Church are seriously threatened. The Church, therefore, must rise to meet with divinely inspired invention and agencies these new perplexing conditions of modern life. She must find her gifted leaders of Immigration, authorized by a previous Assembly, now organized under Rev. Charles Stelzle, touches the spot of intense need in our nation's for these complex fields of service now unoccupied and setting them forward, must follow them. The power of the Presbyterian Church to adapt herself to the changing needs of the modern life, to make herself a vital shaping influence in American society at every stage of its development is challenged to-day. The Board is undertaking the splendid purpose of answering this challenge, and with encouraging success is finding that the Presbyterian Church, under her form of government as well as in the disposition of her people, is adapting herself to these new and changing conditions of modern life.

There is a second principle that needs to be kept in the mind of the Church while she urges her Board to adapt itself to modern conditions of service. The Church must be preserved from an overwrought fractional administration of her power while seeking to adapt herself to all the new and varied needs in the changing church conditions and the complex problems of society. The Church must unify her home mission agencies while seeking to diversify her life and distribute its power effectively through all needed channels. The Board of Home Missions confronts the most mixed and complicated conditions and needs in its work. The Church with a new heart urges it forward to meet these new conditions. In her synodical, presbyterial and individual responsibility, the Church must know the way to largest efficiency through management and work as wisely unified and centralized as is consistent with the inviolable presbyterial rights and presbyterial initiative.

Upon the proper interplay of these two great working principles of adaptation to modern conditions and a strong, united, intelligent method, the success of our work depends.

The Department of Church and Labor, under Rev. Charles Stelzle, has continued to meet with large and earnest commendation from the world of labor and with increasing indorsement from the Church. When discord and differences of opinion divide brethren and mar the social peace and industrial welfare of the country, it is well that the Church stand forth to speak her message of brotherly love and urge the practice of Christian principles in the world of commerce and industry. The Department of Church and Labor, through its aggressive and extensive propagation of literature, has softened the prejudices of the labor world throughout the country and put the Church and her gospel of salvation fairly before millions of wage earners.

The alien is not our menace but our opportunity. The flood of immigrants that is sweeping in upon us brings to the Christian citizen a chance for the assertion of the purest principles of American patriotism and to the Church a chance for the display in devoted services of her love for God and man. We cannot view indifferently this aspect of our national life nor leave unapproached this great opportunity that God has set before the Church. We, therefore, view with gratitude the organized advance of our Church into this needy field. The Department life. It is the latest response of the Presbyterian Church to the challenge of our new day with its new needs. The world at large takes heart when the Church assumes so positive and aggressive an attitude toward vital issues of the day. We can renew the confidence of men in the Church and turn afresh toward the Church that tide of interest of the alienated peoples of the world in no better way than by giving our hearty, prayerful sympathy and support to the work of the Board in its new Department of Immigration.

The evangelistic work of the Board of Home Missions keeps the heart of the Church beating warm and true. No church will lose her spiritual life amidst the vast machinery that the vast work calls for if she keeps clear in her conscience the call of her Master to preach the gospel to every creature. If the purpose of every machine and the final cause of every department be the saving of men for time and for eternity, there will be no deadening of the spiritual life through the multiplying of organizations and the increase of machinery. The evangelistic work of the Board, as it revives the spiritually dead fields here and there throughout the Church, keeps alive the heart of the Church that bids the work to be done and kindles anew her love of souls.

The following recommendations are submitted for adoption:

1. That the records of the Board be approved.
2. That the following persons whose terms of service expire with this meeting of the Assembly be re-elected:

Ministers.

Laymen.

Rev. Allen Douglas Carlile, D. D.	John E. Parsons,
Rev. George L. Spining, D. D.,	H. Edwards Rowland,
Rev. Wilton Merle Smith, D. D.,	A. Noel Blakeman,
Rev. George L. Curtis,	Calvin B. Orcutt,
	J. C. Cobb.

3. That the efficiency and progress of the Woman's Board and their resolution to enlarge their work by participating in the evangelization of our alien people be noted with joy and heartily commended.

4. That on the Sabbath preceding Thanksgiving Day an offering be taken in our Sabbath schools for the mission school work and on the Sabbath nearest Washington's Birthday an offering for the general work.

5. In view of the desire of certain presbyteries for a reference of presbyterial estimates to the synodical committee on home missions for their approval before the forwarding of the same to the Board it is recommended; That the matter be referred to the Board of Home Missions and that the Board be directed to confer with the presbyteries and report to the next General Assembly.

6. After conference with the Assembly's Committee on Synodical Home Missions, we recommend that the plan of cooperation proposed at the conference between the Board's representatives and the self-supporting synods in December, 1907, be approved as follows:

"It is the judgment of this Conference that, to the end that greater unity and more definite cooperation may be secured between the Board on the one hand and the self-supporting synods on the other, an Advisory Council shall be constituted of one member from each of the self-supporting synods—to be appointed by the synods themselves—to meet annually with officers or representatives of the Board of Home Missions for consultation and for the devising of plans of cooperation. This Council, among other matters, shall consider:

“1. Ways in which the Board can help synodical self-support, as by

- (a) Literature;
- (b) Help in evangelism;
- (c) In the question of immigration; and
- (d) In the question of church and labor.

“2. Ways in which the self-supporting synods can help the Home Board, as by

- (a) Open doors for literature and appeals;
- (b) Offerings, according to plans approved by the respective synods.

“3. Ways in which each can help the other, as by

- (a) Conferences; and
- (b) Evangelistic campaigns.”

We recommend that the home mission committees of the self-supporting synods be requested to present the same to their respective synods for adoption and for the action necessary to complete the organization of the Advisory Council. And that further details of cooperation be referred to the proposed Advisory Council to report to the next General Assembly.

7. Referring to Overtures No.'s 90 to 120 bearing upon the work of evangelizing the Jewish population, it is recommended that the matter be referred to the Department of Immigration with the instruction that work among the Jewish population of the country be undertaken as soon as the way be clear.

8. Recognizing that our Indian work is unmistakably different from the ordinary mission field and in order to secure a larger efficiency of administration, we recommend that the Indian work be carried on through a special department. And for this purpose we recommend that the Board of Home Missions be authorized to make appropriations directly for the Indian work in the different districts, the budget being separate from that of the presbyteries and being maintained as far as possible as a separate item of the Board's treasury, and we further recommend that the Board of Home Missions shall have authority to decide the appropriations for the different Indian tribes and the general conduct of the work, but the location of the missionaries shall be left to the presbyteries, and we recommend that the General Assembly give its approval to the Board of Home Missions for the erection of such a department as is proposed herein.

9. That in view of the growing needs of the field, the General Assembly asks the Church for $1,200,000 as the least sum with which the Board can conduct unimpaired the work now undertaken and meet the new responsibilities awaiting the Church on every hand, and especially in the South and Southwest.

WILLIAM CHALMERS COVERT, Chairman.

CHARTER.

CHARTER GRANTED BY THE STATE OF NEW YORK, APRIL 12TH, 1862.
LAWS OF 1862, CHAPTER 187.

AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS OF THE PRESBY-TERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

PASSED APRIL 12TH, 1862—CHAPTER 187.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows :

SECTION 1.—Walter Lowrie, Gardner Spring, William W. Phillips, George Potts, William Barnard, John D. Wells, Nathan L. Rice, Robert L. Stuart, Lebbens B. Ward, Robert Carter, John C. Lowrie, citizens of the State of New York, and such others as they may associate with themselves, are hereby constituted a body corporate and politic forever, by the name of The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, for the purpose of establishing and conducting Christian Missions among the uncivilized or Pagan nations, and the general diffusion of Christianity; and by that name they and their successors and associates shall be capable of taking by purchase, grant, devise or otherwise, holding, conveying, or otherwise disposing of any real or personal estate for the purposes of the said corporation, but which estate within this State shall not at any time exceed the annual income of twenty thousand dollars.

SECTION 2.—The said corporation shall possess the general powers, rights and privileges, and be subject to liabilities and provisions contained in the eighteenth chapter of the first part of the Revised Statutes, so far as the same is applicable, and also subject to the provisions of chapter three hundred and sixty of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty.

SECTION 3.—This Act shall take effect immediately.

LAWS OF 1894, CHAPTER 326.

AN ACT TO AMEND CHAPTER ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SEVEN OF THE LAWS OF EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-TWO, ENTITLED "AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA," AND TO REGULATE THE NUMBER OF TRUSTEES.

BECAME A LAW APRIL 19TH, 1894, WITH THE APPROVAL OF THE GOVERNOR; PASSED, THREE-FIFTHS BEING PRESENT.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows :

SECTION 1.—Section three of chapter one hundred and eighty-seven of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-two, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America," is hereby amended to read as follows :

SECTION 2.—"The management and disposition of the affairs and property of the said Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America shall be vested in twenty-one Trustees, who shall be appointed from time to time by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America for such terms as the Assembly may determine. But the number of such Trustees may be increased or decreased at any time by the said General Assembly, and in case of an increase the additional Trustees shall be appointed by such General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America; provided, however, that the members of the Board as at present constituted shall continue to hold office until their successors have been appointed by the General Assembly. Not less than eleven members of the Board shall constitute a quorum for the purpose of electing officers, making by-laws, or for holding any special meeting; but for all other purposes, and at stated meetings, five shall be a quorum."

SECTION 3.—This Act shall take effect immediately.

LAWS OF 1900, CHAPTER 136.

AN ACT TO AMEND CHAPTER ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SEVEN OF THE LAWS OF EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-TWO, ENTITLED "AN ACT TO INCORPORATE THE BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA," AS AMENDED BY CHAPTER THREE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SIX OF THE LAWS OF EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND NINETY-FOUR.

BECAME A LAW MARCH 15TH, 1900, WITH THE APPROVAL OF THE GOVERNOR; PASSED, A MAJORITY BEING PRESENT.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1.—Section three of chapter one hundred and eighty-seven of the laws of eighteen hundred and sixty-two, entitled "An act to incorporate the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America," as amended by chapter three hundred and twenty-six of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-four, is further amended so as to read as follows:

SECTION 2.—"The management and disposition of the affairs and property "of the said Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the "United States of America shall be vested in twenty-one Trustees, who shall "be appointed from time to time by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian "Church in the United States of America for such terms as the Assembly may "determine. But the number of such Trustees may be increased or decreased "at any time by said General Assembly, and in case of an increase the "additional Trustees shall be appointed by such General Assembly of the "Presbyterian Church in the United States of America; provided, however, "that the members of the Board, as at present constituted, shall continue to "hold office until their successors have been appointed by the General Assem- "bly. Not less than eleven members of the Board shall constitute a quorum "for the purpose of electing officers, making by-laws, or for holding any "special meeting but for all other purposes, and at stated meetings, five "shall be a quorum. All the business of the said corporation shall be con- "ducted by the Board under and subject to the direction of the said General "Assembly, so far as such direction shall be in accordance with the laws of "the State of New York and of the United States of America."

SECTION 3.—This Act shall take effect immediately.

ACTION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Seventy-first Annual Report of the Board of Foreign Missions and the manuscript volume of its Minutes for the year ending April 30, 1908, were presented to the General Assembly in session at Kansas City, Mo., May, 1908, and were referred to the Standing Committee on Foreign Missions.

The Committee presented its Report to the General Assembly, which was adopted. The Report, condensed, and recommendations submitted, is herewith presented:

"In the Providence of God, and by His blessing, no branch of the Church of Christ has an organization so perfect to become a missionary community as that of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America; and if her highest judicatory, in first raising the missionary standard, should, in the fear of God and in humble reliance on His blessing, inscribe upon her banner, 'It is the duty of the Church to send out and support every qualified missionary that may be accepted for the foreign field,' it would be an effort pleasing to God, and which the angels and good men would rejoice to contemplate."

Thus declared the Board of Foreign Missions in its first report to the General Assembly. That declaration was made seventy years ago. Your Committee, in presenting its report to this Assembly, raises high before your eyes that old-time banner, and urges this Assembly to carry it, with integrity of purpose, throughout the entire Church:

"IT IS THE DUTY OF THE CHURCH TO SEND OUT AND SUPPORT EVERY QUALIFIED MISSIONARY THAT MAY BE ACCEPTED FOR THE FOREIGN FIELD."

May it be "A cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night," to inspire us to make new progress on old lines. Having placed our rich inheritance, this old battle-scarred flag, in the van, let us with the Home Board and all the rank and file of the Church, shoulder to shoulder, hand in hand, present a united front to the host of sin, and begin a conquering missionary extension campaign for Jesus Christ and His Church, at home and abroad, around and throughout the whole wide world.

The Board must keep pace with the ever-widening opportunities that world-wide commerce, politics, diplomacy and brotherhood demand. Our greatest efforts are challenged. The foreign commerce of the United States is measured by hundreds of millions of dollars and tens of thousands of active business agents on the field. We have been praying for many years for the open door to the Orient, and God has opened it, flung it wide open, never to be closed again. Now let us pray that the hearts and pocketbooks of the American people may be opened, and that we, one and all, may have an abundant entrance to the larger door of opportunity of making Christ known to every creature in this great day of His grace. Indeed, "Our self-preservation as a Church is conditioned upon our obedience to the great commission. Now it is preach or perish, evangelize or fossilize; ours must be a saving Church, with girded loins, bearing a lost world on the heart day and night."

You are invited again—nay, are urged; really you should be compelled—to read the reports of the various Boards placed in your hands. Shame upon us that so few ever open them or give them the consideration they merit! Will you, at your earliest convenience, give your diligent attention to what has been accomplished by our Church? The right kind of reading will arouse your enthusiasm and inspire further your co-operation by prayer and by gifts.

Did you know that our Board is represented on the field by 938 missionaries—men and women—in 148 principal stations and over 1,700 out-stations. We have nominally one missionary for every 900,000 natives, but that includes the wives, many of whom have family cares at home. More men is the cry; more money is needed to send the men. There are now at this time at least twenty-five missionaries whose credentials have been accepted, and who are waiting for money in order that they may undertake for God the difficult life. There are now more than 85,000 communicants enrolled in 500 of our foreign Churches, besides a great host of enrolled catechumens. Do you know that our Board is a great educational enterprise, supporting schools, colleges and universities with an enrollment of 40,000 students? Has the fact gripped you that this Board manages fifty-seven hospitals and fifty-nine dispensaries, treating the last year at least 426,000 patients? The Master healed in His day; our medical missionaries follow in His train. It is no little thing that seven printing presses turned out more than 139,000,000 pages of the Word of God and of Christian books and pamphlets; and last, and better than all, more than 10,000 communicants have been added to the rolls of the Churches in foreign lands. "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

Developments in Korea, the most vulnerable point of heathenism, continue to startle and stir the Church. The native Church seems almost unique. Less than a quarter of a century since the mission work was begun, and yet to-day Korea easily ranks first in results.

In no period in the history of India—this oldest and most intellectual of non-Christian people—have the needs and opportunities been so great as now. In one section of the North India Missions more than 2,000 persons were received during the year. The opportunity amongst this class is practically unlimited.

The Presbyterian Church in Mexico, but a few years old as an independent organization, has over 5,000 communicants. With a field of 3,000,000 people, peculiarly its own, it is pushing forward in the eighteen States of Mexico. The Mission's educational work has been strengthened by union with the Cumberland Church. The college and seminary in Coyoacan is educating a large number of young men who are looking forward to the ministry—the only Presbyterian seminary for Cuba and the Republic of Mexico. The great educational event of the year was the silver anniversary of the Normal School at Mexico City. Twenty-two of the sixty-six graduates of the school were present.

A mere handful of laborers are holding up the symbol of the cross in Guatemala, Colombia and Venezuela; isolated, sometimes faint, yet ever pursuing their work, they greatly need reinforcement.

The work in Chili shows more than 10 per cent. net gain in membership and a great gain in local support, 100 per cent. over that of the year preceding. A native ministry of faithful men is coming to the front, and the work is well organized for progress along every line.

From Brazil comes the word, "Vast encouragement and limitless outlook. There has been extensive itineration this as well as in former years, with results exceeding all expectations."

From widely separated parts of South America there comes the report of an invasion of monks and nuns, expelled from other countries, to bolster up superstition, retard progress and exclude the Gospel's blessed light. And our Church scarcely makes a perceptible increase in its missionaries in what is, perhaps, the most thinly manned field it occupies in all the world.

About 2,100 adults were received last year in the Presbyterian Churches in the Philippines, and the membership has now passed the 8,000 mark. The Philippine Archipelago is now one of the most fruitful fields in all the world.

Never before in the history of the West Africa Mission has the outlook for evangelistic work been so bright. Particularly gratifying is the progress educationally. The most encouraging is the great strides in self-support. This work has advanced and taken on dimensions such as were scarcely thought possible five years ago. It is only three or four years since most of the churches thought they had fulfilled their financial obligations when they had contributed the sum of one dollar to each of our Boards. That they were under obligations to support themselves had not occurred to them. More than two-thirds of the churches are self-supporting.

Persia, in spite of political unrest, during the past year has moved forward. We must think of a new Persia, and the friends of Missions believe that religious liberty, which has either been unknown or much restricted, is now to give way to religious toleration.

The Siam and Laos Mission has had a quiet and prosperous year. Conferences for deepening the religious life have been held among the missionaries and native pastors, and the evangelistic work has resulted in a gracious revival. The Board's report calls our attention to the fact that no record of the mission work in that part of the world is complete which does not mention some men who, though not officially connected with the Mission, are nevertheless in a very real sense an important part of it. Prominent among these is Dr. George MacFarland, Superintendent of the Government's Hospital in Bangkok, a member of this Assembly, and the American Minister to Siam, the Honorable Hamilton King, a Presbyterian elder.

A great opportunity faces the Church in Syria, and our missionaries and native workers are gathering up the experiences and teachings of over two-thirds of a century and praying and working with inextinguishable faith.

Phrases new to old China, the vastest of the non-Christian nations, like "The New China," "New Times," "New Spirit," "Reform," "Patriotism," and "Love of Country," sufficiently indicate the spirit of unrest which has seized the people. Korea seems stirred by a newly awakening religious consciousness. China's so-called awakening is material, social, intellectual and governmental. And here is the crisis, for modern influences are banishing that superstitious fear which alone impels to idol worship. Her new learning is flooding her provinces with literature both harmful and helpful, and her new national life, now in the making, is rapidly showing the stamp of present day forces. The impact may be as lasting as China's oldtime conservatism. We must strike now, that China may herself be saved and then be saved to the world. Every missionary acquainted with the situation is asking for immediate action, or the day will be lost. Now strike; now is the cry. One-third of the human race lies plastic to our hand, an opportunity never before known, and not yet appreciated. Awake, Christian, awake! China is awakening; this is the accepted time.

Japan, the so-called imperial power in the East, has been stepping forward by strides. The mission work, however, has not escaped altogether from the war talk of the "yellow Press" at home and abroad.

Then we must keep well in mind that up and down our own Pacific Coast the Board has a soul-saving work among the Japanese and Chinese, and more recently the Koreans. The Chinese Church in San Francisco has been rebuilt in "Chinatown," the first of the Missions to be restored, the first church of our own denomination to be rebuilt in the burnt district. The Japanese work on the Pacific Coast has suffered from the exclusion talk, the race riots, and the tempest stirred up by the San Francisco Board of Education. We can hardly expect foreigners from Asia to discard their own religion and embrace that of a people treating them unfairly, as many did then and some continue to do now who live on the Pacific Coast. Dr. Maltbie Babcock was right when he said at the New York Ecumenical Conference, "The so-called 'Yellow Peril' is America's golden opportunity."

Your Committee most respectfully presents the following recommendations for the Assembly's adoption:

1. That the records of the Board are found accurately and attractively kept, and that they be approved.
2. That Rev. George Alexander, D.D., Rev. John F. Patterson, D.D., Rev. J. Ross Stevenson, D.D., Mr. Warner Van Norden, Mr. John T. Underwood, Mr. D. W. McWilliams and Mr. J. M. Speers, whose terms of office expire, be re-elected; and the election of the Rev. John McDowell, D.D., and Mr. Alfred E. Marling in the class of 1907-10 be confirmed.
3. That the Board be directed to continue its consideration of the feasibility of Presbyterian work in Europe, which was referred to the Board by the last Assembly, and upon which the Board reports correspondence in progress.
4. The Assembly approves the resolutions unanimously adopted by the Omaha and Philadelphia Conventions, and commends them to the thoughtful consideration of the whole Church.
5. That the Assembly's Evangelistic Committee be invited to follow Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston's visit to foreign fields by sending another representative to the Mission stations, and to do it at the earliest possible time; that whenever the Board of Foreign Missions can do so, that one of the Secretaries be asked to visit the Board's fields, so that first-hand information may be gained, and that the missionaries may have the benefit so much coveted by contact with a Secretary on their own field.
6. That the Assembly reiterates the appreciation expressed by many former Assemblies regarding the remarkable devotion and success with which the Women's Boards and societies are conducting their splendid work for Foreign Missions.

7. That, in line with the recommendations of former Assemblies and the well-established custom, the Sunday-schools be called upon for a special offering for Foreign Missions at Christmas, and both Sunday-schools and churches for a special offering at Easter.

8. That the Assembly commend the organization by the Board of a Sunday-school Department, for the purpose of awakening a most intelligent interest in Foreign Missions in the Sunday-schools, and that it urge the speedy adoption by every Sunday-school of the following fourfold missionary purpose:

Systematic graded instruction, definite daily prayer, proportionate and systematic giving, and effort to secure missionary recruits.

9. That the Assembly learns with interest and gratification that the Third Ecumenical Conference on Foreign Missions is to be held at Edinburgh, Scotland, in June, 1910, and commends this Conference to the interests and prayers of the whole Church.

10. That the volume prepared by the Board, entitled "Distinct Missionary Responsibility of the Presbyterian Church," be commended to the thoughtful and prayerful study of all our ministers and people as a remarkable statement of the magnitude and needs of the work in non-Christian lands which God has laid upon the Presbyterian Church.

11. That the Assembly approve the printed statement entitled "Special Gifts and Current Work," issued by the Board, May 6, 1908, and that it authorizes and instructs the Board to press the policy therein described, to the end that the work approved by the Missions and the Boards may have that priority to which it is entitled.

12. That the Assembly record anew its recognition of the ability and devotion with which the foreign missionaries are conducting their arduous labors, and that upon behalf of the whole Church we assure them of our sympathetic and prayerful co-operation.

13. That while the Assembly believes that the real and permanent financial dependence of this work must be, under God, upon proportionate systematic gifts of people in moderate circumstances, it also believes that proportionate and systematic giving for Foreign Missions is the duty of those of large means, and we cordially commend our institutions on the foreign field for equipment and endowment through legacies and the large gifts of the living.

JOHN WILLIS BAER, Chairman.

INTRODUCTION
TO THE SEVENTY-FIRST ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE U. S. A.

The Board of Foreign Missions herewith presents its Seventy-first Annual Report to the General Assembly.

In spiritual results the year has been the best year in the history of the Board. The reports from the Missions are not complete, and in some cases the relations of the Missions to the independent native churches which have grown up make it impossible to calculate the exact results of their work. It is clear, however, that more than 10,000 communicant members have been added to the churches during the past year.

At home there has been a deepening interest in Missions on the part of the men, the work of the women having been already comparatively well developed. The Laymen's Missionary Movement has aroused a great deal of interest, and has resulted in the formation of similar movements in the interest of Foreign Missions in England and Scotland. The men of the Eastern States held a great Convention in the interest of Foreign Missions in Philadelphia, February 11 to 13, 1908, which was attended by 1,682 delegates, of whom 1,113 were laymen. A Committee on Resolutions, appointed by the Convention, presented the following, which the Convention unanimously adopted:

"We, men of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, thank God, for the command of Christ, determining forever the highest mission of His Church, the evangelization of the world. We are grateful for the share He has given us in this work, grateful for the larger share He now offers us, and grateful that the work is making the workers one at home and abroad, as shown by spiritual fellowship and practical co-operation.

"Recognizing the urgency of present conditions and our corresponding responsibility, we plan and propose as follows:

"I. That accepting the conclusions of the Omaha Convention as defining our specific part in the world's evangelization, and moving toward the six million ($6,000,000) dollars standard there established, and knowing the immediate demands of the world field, we now set ourselves to the task of raising at least two million ($2,000,000) dollars during the coming year.

"II. That to this end each Synod, Presbytery and individual church assume immediate and specific organized responsibility to raise its full share, determined by its ability; none limited by, but all surpassing if possible, the standard set by the Omaha Convention.

"III. That we urge upon the men of each church the duty of gathering and giving information concerning the progress of Missions, using the means provided by the Church, and all other means that will make the information definite and inspiring.

"IV. That believing the Holy Spirit will do through us even more than we ask or think in Christ Jesus, our Lord, we solemnly renew our faith in united, unceasing, definite prayer, and suggest that, in unison with other bodies, the noon hour of each day be a time when all men may appeal to the Throne of God for the speedy evangelization of the world."

The work of the Board in the home field has been carried forward very earnestly throughout the year. In the four districts of the home field the work has been developed along the lines which it was believed would be most effective in each. In the Eastern District there has been persistent and systematic work on the program which has been followed for several years with steady progress. The aim kept constantly in view is to enlist every member to have an intelligent, prayerful and practical part, by systematic offering, in the support of the Parish Abroad, so that the entire Church shall be brought to realize its primary function as being essentially a missionary society. To this end the normal method employed, along with the use of literature and correspondence, has been the campaign under the direction of the Presbyterian Foreign Missions Committee, commencing with a day's conference of pastors and elders representing the Sessions, and including a visit to each church in the course of continuous itineraries by missionaries and Secretaries of the Board. In the course of these campaigns within the year, 302 churches have been visited in Presbyteries of the Synods of New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Under the direction of the Foreign Missions Committee in the Synod of Ohio, the experiment has been tried of utilizing the services of a returned missionary as "Synod's Foreign Missionary Evangelist" continuously for a period of about six months, under the general supervision of the Synodical Committee, but with the more immediate direction of the Presbyterial Committee during the time spent within the bounds of a Presbytery, usually about one month.

The members of the Foreign Missions Committees of the Synods and Presbyteries in the East have twice gathered in conference during the year, once in the Conference at Pocono Pines and again at the Convention in Philadelphia. In December, the Chairmen of the Synodical Committees of the East met and laid out broad lines of policy for their work. The Leaders' Conference at Pocono Pines has come to be considered a permanent institution with a fixed basis of representation, which includes in addition to members of the Synodical and Presbyterial Foreign Missions Committees and the pastors, ex-officio, the President or Chairman of each missionary organization in a church, together with one delegate for each 200 members or fraction thereof. This year's Conference is to be held September 1-4, provision being made to make available the freshest information from each of the principal mission fields, and the results of the best experience in missionary methods in the home churches.

The year in the Central District has been one of great inspiration and encouragement. Presbyteries and pastors have shown a commendable zeal in the work of the world's evangelization. The new standard of an average of five dollars a year per member is proving a healthy tonic to both the rich and the poor, the large and the small churches. Its virtue lies in the fact that it is not an arbitrary standard, but, so far as has thus far appeared, a standard the realization of which may mean by God's will the evangelization of the world in this generation, so far as our Church is distinctly responsible for such work. Several of the churches of the Central District have already attained the new standard; many are already heroically working toward it; many are approaching it; none, so far as known, have been discouraged by it, and all of the churches seriously and practically adopting it are being revived by a new unction from the Holy Spirit, arousing the Church in all departments to more eager and loyal Christian service.

In the Western District active operations began with meetings of the Synods. Resolutions of a practical nature were adopted, urging activity along educational, spiritual, recruiting and financial lines. Twenty-three institutes to further these ends have been held, in conjunction with Home Missionary workers, in California, Oregon, and Washington. Special stress has been laid this year upon the educational and spiritual work. The Western District Prayer League has been formed, its membership being based on an agreement "habitually to pray daily for Missions," and 2,500 applications for the special prayer lists have been received. The District Secretary has spent most of his time in the field. Two Presbyterian campaigns have been conducted, and the manifest rising tide of interest in world evangelization throughout the district is most encouraging.

The work in the Southern District has been largely one of organization and information. The work of appointing and reorganizing permanent Foreign Missions Committees in the Synods and 103 Presbyteries of this district was vigorously pushed, so that by January 1 eight Synods and sixty Presbyteries were fairly well organized with permanent Committees on Foreign Missions. Since then many more have been added. Much information has been furnished to the churches in the Southern District, most of whom were formerly under the Cumberland denomination and unacquainted with the vast extent of the field occupied by the missionaries of our Board.

The work of missionary education has steadily developed during the past year. The output of literature continues to increase in quantity, variety and quality. The text-book for the current year has been sold more widely than any that preceded it. An excellent book has been prepared for the intermediate grade, and text-books for other grades are in course of preparation. These are being issued with an ever clearer understanding of pedagogic principles. A large interdenominational Convention in the interest of missionary education, held at Pittsburg under the auspices of the Young People's Missionary Movement, was attended by over 3,000 delegates. The number of Presbyterians present was slightly in excess of that of any other denomination. More Summer conferences than ever before have been planned for the coming season. Those held in the past have yielded very encouraging results. Delegates have gone home from them to live altogether different lives of missionary activity. Of Mission Study Classes in the Presbyterian Church there has been a gratifying increase, but the number studying Foreign Missions is but little larger than that recorded at this time last year, over 10,000 persons having been enrolled in Foreign Mission Study Classes.

The Sunday-school Department of the Board has sought this year the accomplishment of a few definite things, viz.: (1) The outlining of a comprehensive missionary policy adapted to the local needs of all classes of Sunday-schools, emphasizing graded education, vital prayer, Scriptural giving, and the need of missionary recruits. (2) The presentation of this policy to the Sunday-school superintendents and workers, by circularization and by personal visits of the Secretary in campaign work to local Sunday-schools, conventions, conferences, institutes, Presbyteries and Synods; actually demonstrating wherever possible how to conduct a Missionary Sunday in the Sunday-school. (3) The offering of graded helps to the schools to make effective the above policy. These have been catalogued and may be obtained on application, and the material has been advertised and displayed to great advantage in campaign work. (4) The securing of a few schools in strategic centres to adopt such missionary methods as appeared locally feasible, so that such schools might become object lessons throughout Presbytery of what may be done along missionary lines. (5) The securing of the appointment on Presbyterial and Synodical Foreign Missions Committees of a well-qualified member to develop missionary interests in the Sunday-school, the Sunday-school Department co-operating with him in every feasible way. So far there have been fifty-one favorable responses, either a member for the Sunday-school being appointed or the chairman undertaking the work. (6) The preparation and distribution of special programs for Sunday-school use at Christmas and Easter. The call for the latter program has exceeded the demand of several previous years.

The organs through which the Board has sought to bring information to the churches during the year have been The Assembly Herald, The Missionary Record, All The World (a quarterly magazine generously provided for under the auspices of the Forward Movement Committee, and mailed to those who contribute $5 a year for the Foreign Mission work of the Presbyterian Church), Woman's Work and Over Sea and Land.

The result of all the activity of the year cannot be mathematically estimated. It has been a hard year financially, as all business and benevolent agencies have known. What the outcome of the year might have been, if it had not been for all the effort put forth, no one can say. The Board had hoped that it might be possible to report no deficiency, but, instead, must regretfully announce not only that the deficit of $92,-146.65 with which the year began has not been removed, but that the current year's accounts show an additional deficit of $107,751.83. The income for the year was $1,347,265.20, as compared with $1,268,057.31 from the same sources the year before. The liabilities of the year, however, were very much heavier, and not all of the additional money received by the Board was available toward meeting its regular liabilities, but was given for property and other special objects, very necessary but outside of the regular budget of the year.

In spite of these heavy deficiencies, the Board has been obliged to increase the appropriations for the year 1908-9 by the amount of $52,000, in order to provide for the salaries and furloughs of missionaries now on the field, and to supply what is most urgently needed for the support of schools, hospitals, native preachers, teachers, itinerating work, etc. This enlarged budget does not provide one dollar for new missionaries, or for new property, or for the emergencies of the year, and it falls $90,000 short of what the Missions feel that they should have at once for the adequate support of their present work. In view of the rapidly changing conditions in Asia and the absolute necessities of the missionaries, and in accordance with the Overture referred to the Board by the General Assembly two years ago, the salaries of the missionaries have been increased to some extent in Japan, China, Siam, Laos and part of Persia.

The Missionary Record, which was the organ of the Cumberland Board of Missions, has been continued during the year as the joint publication of the Boards of Foreign Missions, Home Missions and Church Erection. These Boards, feeling that it has served its purpose as a joint magazine, have agreed to discontinue it from June 1.

The work of the Women's Boards has been done with customary efficiency, and the Board rejoices, not only in the financial success, but also in the sound judgment and large spirit in which their work has been projected and carried forward. The Women's Board of Northern New York, after an honorable and fruitful career, has voted to dissolve its separate existence, and two of the Presbyteries composing it have already organized Presbyterially to become connected with the New York Women's Board.

The union of the Presbyterian and Cumberland Missions on the field was consummated with perfect harmony, and the united work in Mexico, Japan and China has, it is believed, resulted in increased efficiency.

The reports of the various Missions contained in the following pages need not be detailed here. The wonderful development in Korea has continued with increased power. Some of the special revival features of the work a year ago are naturally becoming less prominent, but the work itself moves steadily forward. The additions to the communicant membership of the churches during the year were 3,421, and the movement represents a great moral reformation. A Scotch Presbyterian missionary in Manchuria writes of having gone into a Chinese church at Moukden, to hear the report of two Chinese Christians who had been visiting Korea:

"This morning I went to the church before 10, as I wished to hear about the work in Korea from a Chinaman's standpoint. The church was three-quarters full even then, and the women's part quite full. Mr. Chang gave a very interesting and stirring address. 'The work,' he said, 'was genuine, as borne witness to by Chinese merchants in Pyeng Yang, who know nothing about Christianity themselves. Being strangers, they naturally found their way to the house of these Shantung merchants, and got into talk with them. 'Who were they?' 'Christians from Manchuria.' 'Were there Christians in Manchuria also?' 'Oh, yes.' 'Are they the same sort as the Christians here?' 'Don't know. What like are the Christians here?' 'Good men. Good men.' 'How do you think so?' 'Oh, a man owed us an account five years ago of twenty dollars. He refused to acknowledge more than ten, and we had no redress. A few months ago he came and asked us to turn up that old account, and insisted on paying it up with interest all these years.' Instances like this were happening all over Korea."

The Philippine and South China Missions have also yielded rich fruitage. Two thousand one hundred new members have been added in the Philippines. Mr. Taft has spoken with unqualified approbation of the work which the missionaries have done in the Philippines and the contribution which they are making to the development of the people and the solution of America's problem. In India, the work among the low castes is of unlimited possibilities, its development depending merely upon the willingness of the missionaries to receive the thousands who are prepared to come over to the Christian Church and to place themselves under its training. The Nationalistic movement in India has not died away, but its fanatical mood has been subdued for the present.

The Centenary Missionary Conference, held in Shanghai, April 25 to May 7, drew the attention of the world to the immense changes which have taken place, and are taking place, in China. The Committee on Correspondence of the Conference made bold to declare, in one of its letters in behalf of the Conference, that within half a generation it is possible for Christianity to be established as the most decisive force in Chinese affairs. Among the various missionary questions considered in the Conference none aroused more interest than the question of church union. The mind of the missionaries moved far beyond the old questions of comity and co-operation, and laid hold of what we must believe to be the mind of Christ for the oneness of His people. The convictions of the Conference crystallized in the following resolution:

"WHEREAS, It is frequently asserted that Protestant Missions present a divided front to those outside, and create confusion by a large variety of inconsistent teaching, and whereas the minds both of Christian and non-Christian Chinese are in danger of being thus misled into an exaggerated estimate of our differences, this Centenary Conference, representing all Protestant Missions at present working in China, unanimously and cordially declares—

“That this Conference unanimously holds the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments as the supreme standard of faith and practice, and holds firmly the primitive Apostolic faith; further, while acknowledging the Apostles’ Creed and the Nicene Creed as substantially expressing the fundamental doctrines of the Christian faith, the Conference does not adopt any Creed as a basis of Church unity and leaves confessional questions to the judgment of the Chinese Church for future consideration; yet, in view of our knowledge of each other’s doctrinal symbols, history, work and character, we gladly recognize ourselves as already one body, teaching one way of eternal life, and calling men into one holy fellowship; and as one in our teaching as to the love of God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Ghost; in our testimony as to sin and salvation, and our homage to the Divine and Holy Redeemer of men; one in our call to the purity of the Christian life, and in our witness to the splendors of the Christian hope.

“We frankly recognize that we differ as to methods of administration and Church government; that some among us differ from others as to the administration of Baptism; and that there are some differences as to the statement of the doctrine of Predestination or the Election of Grace. But we unite in holding that these exceptions do not invalidate the assertion of our real unity in our common witness to the Gospel of the grace of God.

“That, in planting the Church of Christ on Chinese soil, we desire only to plant one Church, under the sole control of the Lord Jesus Christ, governed by the Word of the Living God and led by His guiding Spirit. While freely communicating to this Church the knowledge of truth and the rich historical experience to which older Churches have attained, we fully recognize the liberty in Christ of the Churches in China planted by means of the Missions and Churches which we represent, in so far as these Churches are by maturity of Christian character and experience fitted to exercise it; and we desire to commit it in faith and hope to the continued safekeeping of its Lord, when the time shall arrive, which we eagerly anticipate, when it shall pass beyond our guidance and control.”

The same thought of unity is finding large place in the plans which are now in formation for the Third Ecumenical Missionary Conference, to be held in Edinburgh, in June, 1910. which will be one of the greatest company of Christians ever assembled and, it is hoped, may draw the different Christian bodies closer together.

In the same spirit and in accordance with its historic principles, the Board withdrew, during the year, from the Station of Keng Tung in the Laos Mission, in order that the Station might be occupied alone by the missionaries of the American Baptist Missionary Union.

The reports on the Persia Missions, with the introduction thereto, set forth the troubled political conditions of that country, and also the enlarged opportunity for work among Mohammedans which the political upheaval has brought.

In Japan, the great missionary question has continued to be the question of co-operation with the Japanese Church. The Board has held hitherto steadfastly to the view that everything possible and right should be done to promote the development of independent national churches on the mission field, and has encouraged the Missions to welcome the developing spirit of independence and responsibility.

The formation of the independent Presbyterian Church in China was consummated on April 19, 1907, at Shanghai.

The Honorable Darwin R. James, the Vice-President of the Board, returned from his long trip to the mission fields in April. Mr. L. H. Severance, who followed Mr. James and made a careful and most generous study of the needs of many of the Missions, expects to be back in time for the General Assembly.

The following missionaries finished their work and entered into their heavenly rest during the year: The Rev. Wallace S. Faris, the Rev. John Reese Jones, Miss Grace Dorothy Lynch, Mrs. Amelia P. Lowrie, Mrs. Henry H. Jessup and Mrs. James S. Gale. Mr. Faris and Mr. Jones both died from sickness contracted in the work of famine relief.

In accordance with the rule of the Assembly, authorizing the Board to fill vacancies in its membership between the meetings of the Assembly, it elected the Rev. John McDowell, D.D., of the Presbytery of Newark, to succeed the Rev. Stanley White, D.D., in the class of 1907-1910, and Mr. Alfred E. Marling, of the Presbytery of New York, to take the place of Mr. Alexander Maitland, in the class of 1907-1910. The Board would respectfully request the confirmation of Dr. McDowell's and Mr. Marling's election and the re-election of the following members of the Board, whose terms of office expire with this meeting of the Assembly: The Rev. George Alexander, D.D., the Rev. John F. Patterson, D.D., the Rev. J. Ross Stevenson, D.D., Mr. Warner Van Norden, Mr. John T. Underwood, Mr.

D. W. McWilliams, Mr. James M. Speers. Mr. Maitland, who died at Princeton, October 25, 1907, had been a member of the Board for seventeen years, and was a man of truest Christian character and of genuine devotion to all the interests of Christ's Church.

The last General Assembly directed the Board to "report to the Assembly as to the feasibility of active co-operation with other Boards in apportioning the work in Europe, with a view to the maintenance of the established work and the organizing of new work." The Board has conferred with other Missionary Boards with reference to the work in Europe, and has been in correspondence with representatives of the Presbyterian Churches of Great Britain, and also with the General Assembly's Committee on Work in Europe. The Board has not been financially able to undertake any work on the Continent, nor has it been convinced that it would be wise for it to do so; but it prefers to make no final report to the Assembly at this time, and asks for another year in which to give the matter further consideration and investigation.

In the Summer of 1906, the Board addressed to the various Missions a communication on the Distinct Missionary Responsibility of the Presbyterian Church on the foreign field, in which an attempt was made to define in general terms the measure of the obligation of our Church, and to suggest the various practical considerations which must be kept in mind in working out a comprehensive missionary policy. This letter and the replies of the Missions have been printed in a paper book for the information of the Board and the Missions and the Church. What action should be taken upon them can only be determined by the Board after further consultation with the Missions and the most careful and prayerful consideration. It is clear that boundless opportunities for world evangelization are before the Church at the present time; that these opportunities constitute grave responsibilities; that while the precise number of missionaries that will be needed to discharge these responsibilities cannot be exactly calculated, and while no emphasis on the number needed should be allowed to obscure the importance of our laying full responsibility upon the native churches and developing the native agents, who must be the chief forces in the evangelization of their own people; nevertheless many more missionaries of the highest character and ability must be sent, and immediate enlargement of the missionary contributions of the Church is required, if the men and women are to be sent and the institutions are to be developed which will raise up the men and women on the field who will co-operate with us and with whom we must co-operate, in order that the whole world may hear of Him in whom life was provided for all mankind.

There are many and grave problems of mission policy and administration awaiting solution by the Board and the Missions, but no problem is more pressing or more grave than the problem of a more adequate support of the work, a problem whose solution rests chiefly with the individual pastor and the individual member of the Church.

WEST AFRICA MISSION.

RELATION TO GOVERNMENT.—The Stations of the West African Mission are located in French, Spanish and German territory. The relations existing between the missionaries and the governmental authorities have continued most friendly during the year. We note with pleasure certain changes that must prove beneficial to the peoples of West Africa.

In Congo-Francais the Government has organized secular schools with normal and primary departments, taught by white teachers. It is the intention to train native men as teachers for the district schools, and also as clerks in the various bureaus. While these schools in one sense may supplant the Mission schools, we welcome their coming, since it means a better education of the people, and the Mission is urging native helpers to attend these Government schools when such attendance does not interfere with their other duties. The competition induced by the Government schools will be an additional incentive for improved curriculum of the Mission schools and will give the governmental approval to all educational work.

For a number of years, owing to the fact that there was no Spanish-speaking missionary at Benito (Spanish Guinea), our school work has been carried on in a very unsatisfactory way, the Government insisting, and justly, on the teaching of Spanish and the missionaries being unable to comply with this request, not knowing the language. This year a Spanish-speaking missionary, Dr. O. H. Pinney, was sent to Benito. He has proved himself tactful, sympathetic and efficient, both in the matter of gathering children for the school and in conciliating the Spanish authorities. No better evidence of this can be found than the following letter sent to the Rev. J. S. Cunningham and Dr. O. H. Pinney, missionaries in charge of the Benito Station:

In the visit of inspection made to Rio Benito as Sub-Governor of New Bata, I take pleasure in showing to you that I hold a very good impression of the training that I saw among the native boys and girls, that they are being well educated in the Mission and that they worthily conduct themselves. My attention was called to the difficulties in teaching the natives to speak correctly the Spanish language. They are also being taught to venerate Spain and its laws. At the same time I shall give the same account to His Excellency, the Governor General, of the brilliant instruction the native children have, and I am obliged to recommend the vigilance and effort of the professor (missionaries), whom I compliment in the name of the nation of which I am the representative on this Continent. May God grant you many years.

(Signed) GINES GARCIA DE PAREDES Y CASTRO,
Sub-Governor of New Bata.

The most notable advance, however, was made in German Kamerun, where are four of the Mission Stations of the West Africa Mission. His Excellency, Governor Seitz, December 18-19, 1907, called a council of representatives of all missionary societies at work in Kamerun. Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Schwab were appointed to represent the West African Mission at this conference. The report submitted to the Mission at its annual meeting is most suggestive:

The first question to be discussed was the language to be taught. The Colony running expenses per year are 6,000,000 mk., only half of which is raised on the field, hence it seemed only just that German should be taught in the schools. There was some slight misunderstanding on the part of the Governor as to whether English was not taught in our Mission schools. We assured him that this was not the case; that it was our practice and purpose, in addition to the vernacular language, to teach the German language in all our schools, so far as our facilities would permit.

The next question discussed was the possibility of one native language for the entire Colony. This was shown to be impracticable.

The general question of education was thoroughly discussed in all its aspects. The question of a bonus to be given to schools attaining a certain grade of proficiency and having an established enrollment was considered. It was suggested that an examining commission, consisting of a member from each Mission and a Government official, would conduct the examinations, and on the recommendation of this commission the distribution of the bonus would be based.

The number of years a pupil should be required to attend school and other minor questions were discussed in detail, the conclusion being that a minimum of five years be required, two years in the vernacular and three years in German. With these points in view the Governor proposed to work out a schedule to be presented later on for criticism and approval.

The matter of compulsory education received considerable attention. The consensus of opinion was that this was not feasible, but it was decided that if a pupil came to school of his own accord or was brought by a parent or guardian, such action would be considered as a contract binding upon the pupil or parent or guardian to keep the pupil in school for the five years' course or be subject to whatever penalty the Government thought best to inflict.

During this discussion the Governor stated that he was shocked during his latest trip through the Colony at the number of small children he saw staggering along under heavy loads. He promised that there would be no more of it in the future. Pregnant women were also to be debarred from carrying. The selling or marrying of young girls was also prohibited in the future. A law has been lately enacted prohibiting these. In the Duala District at least all desiring to marry must appear before the magistrate to enable him to see if the contracting parties were of suitable age. All dowry money must be paid over to the father before the magistrate at the time of their appearance. This is designed to put an end to future claims on the son-in-law for more dowry, an almost universal practice among these people. It will also be a punishable offense for a father to receive goods for his daughter from more than one man. Also if a man marries a woman he will not be permitted to sell her to another man. When he marries her he makes with her a permanent contract. The whole policy of the Government is to be in the direction of discouraging polygamy.

The question of lepers was alluded to, His Excellency expressing surprise at the number he saw during his last trip through the southern part of the Colony. He stated that the Government doctors have the matter in charge, and it was thought that segregation would be the solution.

Regarding the rum traffic the Governor stated that he was amazed at the number and size of the caravans that he met in the southern part of the Colony laden with rum. It is thought that the railroad will help to kill the traffic, as it will not be allowed to transport rum. The cash payment law which goes into effect April 1, is aimed at this traffic. So much of the paying of the carriers is made in rum that if this has to be made in cash it will lessen greatly the amount of rum sold. The Governor further stated that he was sorry he could not put a stop to the traffic at once. He thought that a convention composed of representatives of the various colonies in this region of the west coast could not be held for at least five or six years. At that convention it would be attempted to put the same law into effect that is now enacted in East Africa, namely: No arms, no ammunition, no rum.

Angola presents a real difficulty, as there they have a large number of distilleries. And at the last convention the Portuguese proposed that they furnish all the rum needed in West Africa. Attempts have also been made to distill rum from the waste of the cocoa plantations. If this is successful, another problem will be encountered in dealing with this new industry of the Colony.

Thus ended the discussion. Another convention is to be held some months hence, when all these points will be drawn up in final form and presented to the delegates present for criticism and adoption. The points are not yet laws, but must first be brought before the Council.

In closing, let us say that we believe that it was the hand of God himself that led the Mission to send delegates to this conference, and we can see only great good coming from it.

CHURCH RELATIONS.—A few years ago there was more or less friction in the churches of the Mission. All this has passed away. The spirit of unity and harmony and progress seems to have permeated the entire Christian body. The letters herewith appended from the Stated Clerk of the Corisco Presbytery are milestones showing the progress of the work. The first is a part of the record of the Benito Church:

It was moved and seconded that they (i. e., the Benito Church constituency) do thank Mission cordially for the aid which has been received for many years. Now we do ask to let this aid be ended. We can manage the work of supporting our own preacher and Bible reader.

The second letter is a translation of a communication sent to Corisco Presbytery at its last meeting from the Bata Church.

We members of the Church of Bata ask Corisco Presbytery that it find us a man who will keep the Church of Bata. A man to remain with us. We will give him all his wages and he will eat and clothe himself from his wages. But supposing that he is a stranger of the place, then the church will try looking after his food for a time, supplying it. We wish any man that the Presbytery may please to send to the Church of Bata. We members of the Church of Bata are willing to support the Bible reader Mekábi. We will give him according to our poverty, but even though we may be able to give him but little, we will give the little not grudgingly but freely.

We members of the Church of Bata give God thanks for the help He has given us.

Signed for the Session,
Elder, IPUWA JA NGANDE.

The last letter is from the Hanje and Corisco Churches:

TO THE PRESBYTERY OF CORISCO:

The two Sessions of Corisco and Hanje did authorize her Moderator and Clerk, F. S. Myongo, to write a letter of gratitude to Corisco Presbytery, informing, that those two Sessions do from their heartfelt thankfulness to the Mother Church of America for her great love and kindness for what she has done for many, many years supporting and aiding these two churches. Now we promise to support our own churches. And do hereby express by satisfaction that now let the aid and support from America be discontinued.

Moderator, F. S. MYONGO.

The most significant advance in the Stations has been along the line of self-support. The report of the Committee on Self-support presented to the Mission at its annual meeting was a remarkable document as evidencing the development of the grace of giving in the African Christian. The report in part is as follows:

This work has advanced and taken on dimensions such as were scarcely thought possible five years ago. It is only three or four years since most of the churches thought that they had fulfilled their financial obligations when they had contributed the sum of one dollar to each of our Boards. That they were under obligation to support themselves had not occurred to them.

Three years ago, when we adopted the plan of turning over ten per cent. more of the cost of their support to themselves each year, we thought we were preparing the way for self-supporting churches in ten years. Now while but three years of the ten have passed we find to-day that more than two-thirds of our churches are self-supporting. The fact is, the native Christian, once the matter has taken hold on him, finds giving a privilege which he greatly enjoys.

CHURCHES.—Our fifteen churches in Corisco Presbytery have contributed this year $1,499.14 against $1,089.52 for last year, a net gain of $409.62. Eleven of our fifteen churches will support their own preaching during the coming year, and eight of them will also care for the evangelistic work within their bounds.

The most of this amount has been expended in paying for their own preaching and for evangelistic work within the bounds of the churches. However, Lolodorf and Ubenji have been building new churches and Kribi has almost completed a new house for Pastor Eduma.

We believe firmly that never within the history of this Mission and Presbytery has the outlook for the evangelistic work been so bright. Needy fields are appealing to the churches for evangelists, instead of as formerly coming to the Mission asking for Bible readers.

SCHOOLS.—The schools have also made an advance this year. The Station schools have received from tuitions as follows:

Elat	$185.52
Efulen	140.64
Lolodorf	45.76
Baraka	40.00
Batanga	31.86
Benito	28.00
	$471.78

This is in advance for all our schools over last year except Batanga.

In connection with our four Stations in German territory there are twenty-eight village schools. The tuition from this source for the year has been $279.36, while the amount paid for teaching and supervision in these schools has been $295.40, leaving a deficit of $16.04 to be taken care of by the native churches.

MEDICAL.—Unfortunately the receipts from natives have not been kept separate from those received from white people at all our Stations. At Elat the receipts from natives for the year are $420.48; Efulen, $265.20; Benito, $40.69 (two and one-half months); total, $726.37.

At Batanga the amount received from natives for the last few months has been from $40 to $50 per month, while Lolodorf reports a profit for the last year of $76.24.

Only three years ago we had only seven village schools in the Kamerun field and they were supported almost entirely by the home Church. Now we have twenty-eight village schools supporting themselves.

A few years ago our native ministers and evangelists received almost their entire support from the Board. To-day their number is larger but less than one-third of them receive any part of their support from the Board.

The Committee on the choosing of a new Station site, now in the second year of its existence, spent much time in itinération with a view to finding a suitable location for the opening of a new Station in the interior. The most favorable sites found were Metet and Nkole si. Metet is seventy-six miles beyond Elat and Nkole si eighteen miles beyond Metet. The definite location will not be determined till next year, after a careful and accurate weighing of all the facts.

Another evidence of the development of the native Church is the increased number of candidates studying for the ministry. More than twenty men are now looking forward to the ministry and pursuing studies under the missionaries that will fit them for this glorious work.

Ntyuakero, the beloved and efficient licentiate of the Baraka Church, died after a short illness in the French hospital at Libreville of the dreaded African sleeping sickness. So far as is known this is the first case recorded in the West Africa Mission, or in this section of Africa, from this disease, which has wrought such havoc in other portions of Africa. It is interesting to note that after his death one of the young men at the Baraka Station declared his desire to study for the ministry, because "It is the need of my heart."

BENITO: 77 miles north of Baraka; occupied as a Station, 1864. Missionaries—Rev. J. S. Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham, Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Pinney.

BATANGA: 170 miles north of Baraka, on the coast; occupied as a Station, 1885. Missionaries—Mr. A. G. Adams and Mrs. Adams, J. E. Blunden, M.D., and Mrs. Blunden, Mr. C. H. Funk.

EFULEN: 45 miles east of Batanga, behind the coast belt, and 180 miles northeast of Baraka; occupied 1893. Missionaries—Dr. Silas F. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson, Dr. W. H. Lehman and Mrs. Lehman, Mr. Geo. Schwab and Mrs. Schwab, Rev. L. D. Heminger, Rev. W. C. Johnston and Mrs. Johnston.

ELAT: 38 miles east of Efulen and 195 miles northeast of Baraka; occupied as a Station, 1895. Missionaries—Mrs. C. W. McCleary, Rev. A. N. Krug and Mrs. Krug, R. M. Johnston, M.D., and Mrs. Johnston, Rev. Wm. M. Dager and Mrs. Dager, Rev. M. Fraser, Mr. F. H. Hope and Mrs. Hope.

MACLEAN MEMORIAL STATION: at Lolodorf, headquarters of the German Government in the Ngumba country, 70 miles northeast of Batanga and 210 miles northeast of Baraka; occupied as a Station in 1897. Missionaries—Mr. R. B. Hummel and Mrs. Hummel, Rev. F. O. Emerson and Mrs. Emerson, Dr. H. L. Weber and Mrs. Weber, Mr. F. B. Guthrie.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Dr. H. L. Weber and Mrs. Weber, Rev. Wm. M. Dager and Mrs. Dager, Rev. A. N. Krug and Mrs. Krug, Mr. F. B. Guthrie, Rev. L. D. Heminger, Mr. A. G. Adams and Mrs. Adams, J. E. Blunden, M.D., Miss Jean Mackenzie, Mrs. T. S. Ogden, Dr. W. S. Lehman and Mrs. Lehman.

BARAKA STATION.

Owing to sickness, Mr. and Mrs. Langlois were compelled to resign, and the work was carried on mainly by Mr. and Mrs. Ford.

EVANGELISTIC.—Baraka has had to struggle against the greatest difficulties within church work. The death of Licentiate Ntyuakero was a severe blow. The church services and the instruction of catechumens was carried on by Iguwe, yet very little aggressive work was done. Three have been admitted on confession of faith. The total membership of the church is 122. The Sunday-school has a native superintendent and ten native teachers in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Ford, who teach Bible classes in English and French respectively.

Little itineration was possible. Mr. Ford made one trip of eleven days to the south, visiting six Fang towns, five Orungu and one Shekiani town. At this latter town there was a small number of Bakowa or dwarfs, who, although not pygmies in stature, are undoubtedly one branch of that tribe which is usually found only in the depths of the forest.

EDUCATIONAL.—

The resumption of the school work was slow and quite discouraging. The present number of boarders is thirty-five girls and twenty-five boys. The amount of cash paid in by them for nine months was 205 francs, besides their purchasing their own school supplies, for which 100 francs were received. Two of the boys have begun an apprenticeship with a tailor, attending school in the morning. The girls have done quite a little clearing on their side of the yard and have planted cassava, corn and beans. Some of them have developed quite an aptitude for cutting and fitting not only their own clothing but garments for the boys as well. They have also been taught laundering. This is important, as it is one of the few ways open to Christian women to gain their livelihood in Gaboon.

MEDICAL.—

No attempt has been made to give medical aid to outsiders, but the frequent needs of the children have required the expenditure of a good deal of missionary time. There has been a demand for medicines, chiefly iodide of potassium, for which payment was made either by fowls or by native food.

MISCELLANEOUS.—

The material work of the Station has been considerable. No grass cutting had been done for two or three months before the return of Mr. and Mrs. Ford, and the entire place was so badly overgrown with grass, weeds and brush as to be a serious menace to health. Mosquitoes have been worse than for several years and snakes have been killed in the immediate vicinity of the house.

Mr. Ford presented to the Commissaire General, Monsieur Gentil, in the name of the Mission, a petition that he would take under advisement the suppression of the liquor traffic in the Colony, quoting the two resolutions on that subject passed by the Mission at its last meeting.

ANGOM STATION.

This Station, closed for several years, has been reopened this year.

Dr. Johnson says:

We have had a share in reclaiming the once beautiful Station of Angom from the dense tangle of forest growth which was making a determined effort to swallow up the spot Mr. Marling had bravely wrested from it, and where for sixteen years his voice was heard proclaiming the love of Christ; and which holds his grave with its mute but powerful appeal.

We had a part also in the work of repairing the decaying buildings and erecting some necessary new ones, and also in gathering in some boys and persuading them that school was worth while.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright assisted in the school and Mr. Wright was able to take trips with Dr. Johnson on the "Dorothy," gathering school-children.

EVANGELISTIC.—

There was keenly felt the need for Catechists throughout the field. During the year eight members were received on confession of faith. Five members were suspended. Sunday-school and church services were held every Sunday morning. A Catechumen class, composed largely of school-children, met on an average of once a week from May to November. Itineration was carried on for the most part in an endeavor to secure pupils for the school. We are pleased to note growth in the lives of some of the Christians, and an awakening of interest in spiritual things on the part of those not professing Christianity.

EDUCATIONAL.—

There were two terms of the school year held. Fifty-three pupils the first term and forty-nine the second; average attendance, forty. The effort in school was directed to creating and establishing a demand among the Fang for education. Therefore, the emphasis was placed upon quantity and quality of knowledge among the pupils rather than upon large numbers in attendance in school.

MEDICAL.—

No regular medical work was carried on at the Station on account of the French law, which does not permit any but a French licensed physician to practice.

BENITO STATION.

Mr. Cunningham reports visiting Melega, Hanje, Corisco, Ndomba and Gaboon, Bata, Evune, Myuma and Batanga. Mrs. Cunningham accompanied him and added much to the interest by means of the organ and her singing. The special work was in bringing the churches to self-support. Dr. Pinney has given his mornings to the school and the afternoons to the dispensary.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The church services at Benito for the last eighteen months were under the care of the Session of the church. The Session did its work remarkably well. Since the opening of the Station in June, the audiences have increased and the church is well filled each Sabbath. The Sabbath-school has had over 200 in attendance, 130 of these being children. Nineteen persons confessed Christ and sixteen added to the church.

The Corisco Church had a good year, making great advance in self-support.

Hanje Church had a prosperous year. Thirteen were received. They not only paid what Mission asked them, but they in addition gave to their pastor $28 in cash and $40 in goods, besides paying $60 in goods to a Bible reader, and have a balance in the treasury.

Bata Church has had a fruitful year. Forty-two persons have been received into the church. The catechumens number now over sixty. A thorough canvas of this church was made by the Session and the total amount pledged was very large.

Eyune Church and Myuma Church had a good year. Eyune Church received twenty-one on confession and two by letter. Myuma Church received nineteen on confession of faith. Both of these churches are now able to care for themselves.

EDUCATIONAL.—

Only two and a half months to report, but in that time the attendance grew from fourteen the first day to seventy. Instruction mostly in Spanish and includes the "three R's" and grammar and geography. The Bible is used for reading in the Benga language and Benga and Spanish Catechism is taught by the native assistant. Spanish songs are taught and the children have entertained the military and civil officers at the Government post with their songs. They sang "Rock of Ages" and "Hold the Fort" in Spanish for the Governor during his visit. School is held in the mornings and the boys and girls work three hours each afternoon. Mrs. Cunningham and Mrs. Pinney instruct the girls in sewing and those duties which go to make a home and to better their methods of housekeeping, dress-making and laundry work. The school was a success financially, the boarding pupils paying at the rate of thirty-five cents per month, besides three hours each day for their work. The amount received was $28. The day-pupils pay for all the materials used.

MEDICAL.—

The medical work is in the hands of Dr. Pinney, who gives his afternoons to the dispensary work. From lack of time and hospital facilities, operations, excepting minor ones, are refused. There is no lack of patients, however, as 410 patients in three months or 727 separate treatments indicate that the Doctor has been kept busy. He has received $40.69.

BATANGA STATION.

Rev. F. D. P. Hickman gave most of his time, in the absence of Mr. Adams on furlough, to the work of Treasurer and all that this involves in Africa, attending to carriers, looking after missionaries coming and going and innumerable details connected with the receiving and shipping of goods.

Dr. and Mrs. Blunden arrived at Batanga in September, and Mr. and Mrs. Hummel returned in September. Mr. and Mrs. Hope spent part of their time at Batanga, arriving August 31, and later were sent to Efulen. During October and November, they were at Efulen. Mr. Heminger started on furlough early in March. He had charge of village schools before going. Mr. and Mrs. Adams left later in March. Dr. and Mrs. Lippert remained until August, when they returned to the United States on furlough. It was then found that Mrs. Lippert was suffering from a severe illness which would prevent her return to the field. Their resignation was presented to the Board and most regretfully accepted. Dr. Lippert went out in 1898 and has been a most faithful, efficient and self-denying missionary. It is only since October that Batanga has had a regular force of workers.

EVANGELISTIC.—

Mr. Heminger, until his vacation, was Moderator of the Batanga Church Session and, with the assistance of Ndenga Bipa, he managed all the affairs of the church. The attendance at church has been very good, and there has been a steady growth in the church life. The friendly attitude on the part of the people has been most grateful and we trust that it will continue.

EDUCATIONAL.—

Dr. Lippert had charge of the school and taught in it about four hours each day. Mr. Heminger had general oversight of the village schools when the Station school was closed. The Station school was carried on regularly, the attendance was good and the advancement on the part of some of the pupils was commendable. Village schools were held in five villages for a few months at a time, and here the young men who had been prepared as teachers in the main school had an opportunity to apply their teaching. Mr. Hummel conducted on his return a short term of eight weeks. His chief effort was to establish there a system in the minds of the native teachers. The educational situation is much more promising than it was a year ago.

MEDICAL.—

Dr. Lippert, in addition to teaching in the school, was the Doctor of the Station. He made a few trips to the surrounding towns, and did much medical work. Dr. Blunden, on his return, gave considerable time to superintending the painting of buildings and the improvement of the grounds. From eight to twelve in the morning and four to five in the afternoon he was at the dispensary attending to the many cases that came for treatment.

The general outlook at the Station is the marked improvement over previous years.

EFULEN STATION.

Mr. Johnston had the care of the church. Mrs. Johnston had charge of the medical work of the Station until the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Schwab. In addition to educational work, Mr. Schwab did some itinerating and some literary work, and Mrs. Schwab acted as Station Treasurer.

EVANGELISTIC.—

Twenty-one members were added to the church during the year; three were suspended. The present enrollment is ninety-eight. Toward the latter part of the year an effort was made to have the church members and inquirers pledge a definite amount per month.

The pledges ranged from one to twenty-four cents per month; the greater number were for two or three cents. The amount pledged is about fifty marks per month, cash. Since the taking of the pledges the offerings have been ranging a little above fifty marks per month. In April there was an offering taken for the China Famine Relief Fund which amounted to $18. The expense of the village schools, in so far as they have not been self-supporting, was met by the church. During the first half of the year Christians were sent out by twos to itinerate. Twelve companies held 349 meetings, preaching to 13,000 people. This has proved a great blessing. The Sunday-school has been under a native superintendent and native teachers, the missionaries also having classes in the school. The average attendance for the year was 470. There have been on the roll in the inquiry class 372; sixty-three are in the advanced class. These inquirers are scattered up and down the main road for forty miles on either side of Efulen and on by-paths from fifteen to twenty miles from the main road. With the aid of two young men who are studying for the ministry, we have endeavored to keep trace of these inquirers. Three hundred and nine are enrolled in the first class. Only one meeting for women in the villages has been carried on during the year. On Sunday afternoons a women's meeting has been held by one of the women. A little Sunshine Band of five women has been organized, who have been helpful in bringing others out to meetings and in visiting the sick.

EDUCATIONAL.—

Station School.—The time when one must tramp about the country in search for school-boys has passed in our territory. The last term saw the largest enrollment in the history of the school, 290. The average for the year was 259. After the beginning of the first term a palaver and cookhouse was built for the boys. Native beds were replaced in one dormitory by board beds, and a premium put on the personal cleanliness of the occupants. Blankets were put on the beds. The new schoolhouse, fitted up in modern style with benches and desks, has been occupied by the German department. A number of maps and charts have been secured as a nucleus for much needed material for giving instruction. Mrs. Johnston's weekly lectures on physiology and hygiene were greatly appreciated by the boys. This is attested by the number of unused peppers on our pepper bushes at the end of the term—something rarely witnessed. Eight village schools were conducted during the year. The schools had a total enrollment of 269, or an average of thirty-eight.

INDUSTRIAL.—

A large number of rubber trees were planted early in the year, but did not prove very successful. Classes have been conducted in sewing for girls; also a daily tailoring class for boys, and a class in carpentry.

MEDICAL.—

No physician at the Station. There have been 142 patients in the hospital for treatment. The receipts for the year have been 1,105 marks.

MISCELLANEOUS.—

Mr. Schwab gave the greater part of one school vacation to the correcting and revising of the Bulu-German Dictionary for the Handbook Mr. Krug is preparing. During the other two vacations he did considerable evangelistic work among the villages. The women of the Station have also spent considerable time on the road doing evangelistic work.

ELAT STATION.

R. M. Johnston, M.D., attended to the medical work of the Station and Mrs. Johnston assisted in teaching. Mrs. McCleary was in charge of the school work and evangelistic work among the women. Until his furlough, Rev. A. N. Krug devoted his time to teaching German, while his wife assisted in work among the women. Mr. Fraser gave considerable time to the revision of the Four Gospels and Acts and of the Bulu Hymn Book and other matter for use in Sabbath-school and catechetical work. Dr. Johnston, in addition to his medical work, has been teaching in the school.

On Saturday, November 9, 1907, a mysterious illness seized little Alice Johnston and within the space of one brief hour the tender little life had gone out from that home, bringing the friends, and especially the parents, face to face with the mystery as well as the wisdom and love of God's inscrutable Providence.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The life of the church, under the care of Mr. Fraser, has given evidence of the continued presence and blessing of God. The total membership was 68; 22 persons united by confession; 9 infants baptized; total contributions 1,058 marks or $252. The church, which will seat 800, has often been full and sometimes overflowing. The record kept shows that 822 persons have confessed Christ. It is next to impossible to follow up all these people, scattered over the country and wandering as they are, but many of them will eventually become true followers of our Lord and Master. The pastor's assistant, the devoted elder, who is not highly educated in book-lore, but has zeal and common sense, has rendered valuable service in caring for the flock near and far.

The Sabbath-school, of which the superintendent and all the teachers excepting one are natives, has had an attendance varying from 211 to 1,192; average 600.

The Society called Nsamba met Tuesday afternoons for instruction and devotion. Fifty-two persons have been taken into the Society and are thus prospective members of the church within one year. A general meeting for all other persons than those in the Society was held on Monday afternoons. Sabbath afternoons a young men's Society, with a membership of ninety-four, has held its meetings. The meeting is entirely in the hands of the Society itself with its three executive officers. Simultaneous with this meeting is that of the women, conducted by the ladies of the Station.

Catechetical classes for boys and girls have been held evenings at least once a week, conducted by competent natives. Sunrise Station prayer meetings have been held regularly, led by the missionaries alternately, and then by the natives as well. Many meetings in the contiguous villages have been held, conducted by the women of the Station.

Itineration has been carried on by the missionaries. The most suggestive item, however, in the report is the work done by the natives. A distinct evangelistic effort was the visit of two, Ake'e, Ze'e and his wife, Ajap Evina, about 100 miles north by east, where a site for a new Station has been under consideration. These two young people, strong in the faith and ready for service, spent the entire two months of September and October among the Bene people about Metet and the people on both sides of the Nlong River. They returned reporting an open door to both themselves and their message. Fifty-four meetings were held, at which over 3,200 people heard the Word. The going thus of this manly Christian boy to stand forth before "big kings," big meetings, one of them numbering 923 people, and unadulterated heathenism such as himself has emerged from, and of this girl to illustrate clean womanhood among the women, is a spectacle worthy of all praise and evidences the grace of God.

At the Station there have been thirty-two weeks of school divided into two equal terms, and twenty-six weeks of village schools. Total enrollment at the Station, boarders, 426 boys, 49 girls; day-pupils, 201 boys, 113 girls and women; village schools, 430, total 1,219. Number studying German, 150; in the normal course, 20. More girls and women have been in the school than at any previous time. This welcome change has been due to the influence asserted by the civil officers in charge. The officers announced the decision that girls should be at liberty to attend school, and also declared that little girls should not be given or taken in marriage. This has changed the whole aspect of education in Bululand. The girls' school will now show great increase. The eight village schools have been doing a good work; they have become self-supporting. Seven hundred and fifty marks in tuition have been received; all school supplies have been sold or held as property in use; the gain over all expenses has been 102 marks.

The industrial work has yielded tangible results. It was superintended by Mr. Guthrie and later by Dr. Johnston. Seven hundred palm trees were planted in March, covering an area of about ten acres. These trees should furnish a large amount of food for the boarding pupils in six or seven years. The lemon grass which had bordered the walks since 1901 and become large and irregular and a hiding place for creeping things, was all removed and reset. Paths have been repaired and some grading done. The usual amount of garden ground was cleared and planted. The school-girls contributed their share. During the last term they made 6,006 sticks of cassava, planted corn, potatoes, peanuts, etc. Two afternoons of the week they were taught sewing. The boys have made 4,971 bamboo mats for thatching, each six feet in length. The following buildings were reroofed: One boys' dormitory, hospital, lumber shed, sheep shanty, donkey barn. A kitchen was built for the girls, 12 x 21 feet; for the boys 45 x 10 feet. Feed house was erected 17 x 11 feet. Doors and windows were put on all the boys' dormitories. In two of the dormitories double-decker beds were placed, leaving room for dining tables instead of the floor. Half of one dormitory was converted into a much needed hospital for boys; desks were put in the Bulu school-room. A class in carpentry, consisting of four young men, has been instructed by a native Dúala. Doors, windows, tables, chairs and beds have been made and sold. Two dish-cupboards, three bureaus and two washstands were made and the boys have been instructed in lathe work.

MEDICAL.—

Dr. Johnston has spent much time in caring for those who come for medical assistance. An unusual amount of sickness seemed to prevail among the natives. The number of treatments in the hospital were 7,203; at the dispensary, 2,527. Cash receipts from natives 1,752 marks. Treatment of school pupils 3,734. High premium on the medical work is apparent when we think of the bungling, cruel, superstitious methods of the natives practicing medicine, and of its bringing those treated in personal contact with the Gospel and its influence.

MACLEAN STATION.

Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Lehman were at this Station until their furlough. Mr. R. B. Hummel, until his return to the United States, did most efficient service in teaching and in superintending building. Rev. F. O. Emerson and Mrs. Emerson, while new missionaries, spent much time in learning the language, but assisted in teaching and in general evangelistic work.

Dr. and Mrs. Weber, on returning after furlough, were assigned to this Station and did most effective work along medical and educational lines.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The evangelistic work cannot be tabulated, though some significant statements are possible. Twenty-two members have been admitted to the church, after careful consideration in each case; fifty-seven have entered the advanced class; 250 have been enrolled on the inquirer's roll, after showing signs of sincerity in their seeking and declaring their past injuries against other men to be atoned for.

Regular services have been held throughout the year, including Sunday-school and morning church service on Sunday and week-day meeting. Records of Sunday-school cover only the last thirteen weeks, and in that time there has been great increase in both numbers and interest. The average attendance is not far below 400. The flourishing condition of this department is due almost entirely to the attention and supervision of Dr. Weber. A Sunday prayer meeting service was held for school-boys during the first two terms of school, and this has now been organized into a men's meeting, with rules and membership recorded. During the first school term and twice during the last term, school-boys were sent out two by two for work during the Sunday interim. By actual count 3,454 people were spoken to on these last two Sundays and the entire number reached was several times that number. The three candidates for the ministry have done much itinerant work having preached the Word to thousands.

The first term of three months was full in both numbers and interest. The attendance in both schools was 250. The second term, owing to various local causes, the number was reduced.

The village schools were numbered as five last year. To this number others have been added, and still others are waiting to be manned. The oldest school, that at Lam, had but one term this year, owing to a weariness on the part of their former teacher. It should be opened the coming year. Mainly through the lofty Christian spirit and consecrated labors of Elder Bianin in that vicinity, Lam still ranks first both in loyalty and devotion to the Mission and to truth. The largest school at Ngonbok had two very successful terms; then their teacher caught the spirit of change, and, without waiting to see a successor installed, went for a long tramp. The school is now in a third short term, though with largely reduced numbers. The school at Ndonejap has perhaps served its purpose for the present, having prepared most of its scholars for entrance into Matthew and German. A small school continues there and is still in session. A small school at Ngozip, a centre among the Beti, recently closed its first term. The attendance was not large, but the school gives promise for the future. One term of school was held at Bonelo. It was small and cannot become a large school, but it served good purpose during the irregularities at the two neighboring schools.

The little school at Lolodorf is conducted in the interests of the Christian women near there, and is doing commendable work. It pays its own way and is a source of great satisfaction to its faithful participants. A school was attempted at Leminzhwon, down the river from the old site, but it proved not equal to the airy hopes of its founder, and closed early. The teacher's salary was shaped to match the sum of the tuition received. The school at Malumba existed for a term with mild success. Unfortunately the self-support phase was not at first strongly insisted upon; later this question became so aggravated as to be serious and the second term of school there lasted but five weeks. The project of sending some strong man to camp among the Dwarfs, with no pretense at permanent building or tuition, is under discussion. It seems unpractical to work the Dwarf villages through a school among another tribe. At least three other localities report completed houses and are asking for teachers; still other houses are under construction. The project will fail only for want of teachers of the proper stamp.

MEDICAL.—

The variable force at the Station and the abundance of interest makes the most complete statement of medical achievements impossible. A balance of statements for half the fiscal year in the Medical Department shows a profit financially of $76.24. Few remarkable cases have been handled, yet much has been done and much of real interest might be recorded. The cordial relations existing between this department and the Government throughout the year is worthy of comment. This helps greatly in fostering the congenial terms on which the Government and Mission Stations at Lolodorf meet in all their dealings.

MISCELLANEOUS.—

We cannot hope to rival the great feat of our predecessors in their opening of the new site, nevertheless things have been doing this year also in material ways. The boys' town now numbers seven houses instead of four. The house for the girls' school has been added. The carpenters and skilled workmen have attained quarters of their own. A guest house and a helpers' house have each been added. House No. 2 and the Bulu schoolhouse have been brought to completion, excepting permanent seats for the latter, and mats have replaced the leaf roofs temporarily placed on houses Nos. 1 and 2, both schoolhouses, dispensary, and on part of the lesser buildings. The most conspicuous addition of the year is the new church, now completed and nearly paid for by native and voluntary contributions. The entire site is beautified and its convenience heightened by a system of paths, arranged according to an approved plan, and capable of expansion and adoption to every need of the entire site.

MISSIONS IN CHINA.

One-half of the population of the world lives in Asia, and one-half of that half in the Empire of China. It is the largest single, unified mass of humanity in the world. Whatever its differences of dialect, and however weak its political patriotism may have been, the Chinese race is, nevertheless, a unit, making, as one great integral section of humanity, the most powerful appeal to the Christian Church which has come to her in all her history. A few years ago a political writer on the problems of the Far East quoted, with reference to China, the couplet:

"Aloof from our mutations and unrest, Alien to our achievements and desires."

This was measurably true of China in those days, but the mighty people have begun to stir now, and whatever reactions there may be, there is no power on earth than can stop their movement.

Apart from all other signs of advance, such as railroads, armies, newspapers, surpassing them all is the tremendous educational movement. The thousands of students who have gone to Tokyo, more than 15,000 of them at one time, are only a sign of the hunger for education which has spread over the nation. The old Confucian examinations are gone forever, and the nation faces the practical alternatives of a superficial, materialistic education—such as it may be able to give itself, with such aids as it can borrow—and the thorough Christian education, such as the Mission school and colleges have been providing, in part, and might provide in sufficient measure to give shape to the whole education of the Empire, if only they were adequately supported.

The great missionary event of the year was the Centenary Missionary Conference, held in Shanghai, April 25 to May 7. It was a delegated body, at which representatives of all the Protestant Missions in China were gathered together. The work had been gone over carefully by committees in advance; their reports and resolutions were printed and in the hands of the delegates, so that instead of long papers or addresses, the time of the Conference was taken up with practical discussion on the reports presented. The significant feature of the gathering was the spirit of unity before the mighty task. The letter addressed by the Committee of the Conference on Communications to the Executive Committee of the Inter-Church Conference on Federation in the United States, shows what the spirit of the Conference was and what can be hoped to be its outcome:

"DEAR BRETHREN:—Your letter of February 13 has been presented to the China Centenary Missionary Conference, in session at Shanghai. We have been instructed to reply to your welcome message. In so doing, we desire to thank you most heartily for your appreciation of our work, for the sympathy which prompted your letter, and for your desires and prayers for our success. In the first hundred years of our work in China, the Lord has done great things for us. The early missionaries hoped for 1,000 converts after a century, and they were men of faith; but to-day we report more than 175,000 communicants, with certainly 500,000 adherents. Beyond this, Christianity has already proved itself a leavening power in the national life of China. No one knows how much of the new spirit is due directly to missionary efforts, but we are sure that all the uplifting influences now manifesting themselves are from the Spirit of God, and we give thanks. Stirring as the past has been, its greatest interest is in the astounding promise it gives for the future. The tasks before us are tremendous and immediate. Within half a generation, it is possible for Christianity to be established as the most decisive force in Chinese affairs. To this task we propose to set ourselves with renewed devotion and a new sense of its urgency. In this emergency we require the backing and co-operation of Christendom. Your prayers, your fellowship, your efforts, united and forceful as ever before, are a source of profound gratitude on our part. It is not less important that we, on the far-flung battle line, shall be one in spirit and aim, and that we shall co-operate in our common work. This has already led to union or combination in educational work, increasing economy of working force by division of labor, and frequent consultation in our plans. At the present Conference, Protestant missionaries, representing many countries and many branches of the Church of Christ, have come to a new realization of our unity, and have given definite expression to a common desire and hope that in China we shall not perpetuate our Occidental distinctions; and we have expressed our definite purpose to plant one Church, in which all disciples may have a common fellowship of joy and service. We have taken action which will soon result in organic union between Churches having a common policy. And we have planned for a federation of all Christians in the empire. In these deliberations we have been conscious of divine guidance, without which all our plans must fail. Please accept, on behalf of this Conference, this expression of sympathy with your committee, as you undertake a work similar in many respects to that on which we are entering here.

In prayerful dependence on our common Master and Saviour, we remain yours in His name, etc.

In the last report an account was given of the steps toward Presbyterian union. Dr. Garritt, Secretary of the Committee on Presbyterian Union, writes:

I have had the great pleasure of seeing the committee complete its work and quietly pass out of sight. The Chinese Presbyterian Churches, North, South and Central, have now become autonomous, in six Synods, and in April, just before the Centenary Conference, delegates from these Synods and their Presbyteries erected the Council of the Presbyterian Church in China. By this Council the Synods are closely affiliated, and in a few years we hope to see a General Assembly. This movement was heartily approved by the Centenary Conference as being a step in the direction of a United Christian Church in China.

The detailed information regarding the various Missions is given in the following reports. Attention is called to the reoccupation of the Lien-chow Station, to which the missionaries returned in February, 1907, to build again the walls destroyed in the massacre of October 28, 1905.

CENTRAL CHINA MISSION.

CENTRAL CHINA MISSION.

SHANGHAI: on the Woosong River, 14 miles from the sea; occupied as a Mission Station, 1850. Missionaries—Rev. J. M. W. Farnham, D.D., and Mrs. Farnham, Rev. J. A. Silsby and Mrs. Silsby, Rev. G. F. Fitch, D.D., and Mrs. Fitch, Mr. Gilbert McIntosh and Mrs. McIntosh, Mr. C. W. Douglass and Mrs. Douglass, Rev. John M. Espey, Miss Mary Posey, Miss Mary Cogdal, Miss E. A. Lindholm, Miss Emma Silver.

NINGPO: on the Ningpo River, 12 miles from the sea; 100 miles south of Shanghai; occupied as a Mission Station, 1845. Missionaries—Rev. J. E. Shoemaker and Mrs. Shoemaker, Rev. A. R. Kepler and Mrs. Kepler, Rev. Harrison K. Wright and Mrs. Wright, Miss Annie R. Morton, Miss Edith C. Dickie, Miss Lavinia M. Rolleston, Miss M. D. Morton, Miss Margaret B. Duncan.

HANGCHOW: the capital of Chekiang Province at southern terminus of Grand Canal, 100 miles northwest of Shanghai; occupied as a Mission Station, 1859. Missionaries—Rev. J. H. Judson and Mrs. Judson, Rev. E. L. Mattox and Mrs. Mattox, Rev. C. D. Herriott and Mrs. Herriott, Rev. F. W. Bible and Mrs. Bible, Miss J. Ricketts, Mrs. M. E. Lyon, Miss Lois D. Lyon, Mr. Arthur W. March, Rev. Robert F. Fitch and Mrs. Fitch.

SOOCHOW: 70 miles west of Shanghai; occupied as a Mission Station, 1871. Missionaries—Rev. J. N. Hayes, D.D., and Mrs. Hayes, Rev. O. C. Crawford and Mrs. Crawford, Miss Mary Lattimore, Francis F. Cattell, M.D., Elizabeth Esther Anderson, M.D.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. J. A. Silsby and Mrs. Silsby, Miss Mary Cogdal, Miss Juniata Ricketts, Rev. F. W. Bible and Mrs. Bible, Miss Mary Lattimore.

The only new missionary added to the regular staff of the Mission during the year was Dr. Elizabeth Esther Anderson, who went to Soochow to take the place of Dr. Mary Fitch, who had been married to Dr. F. J. Tooker, of the Hunan Mission. Miss Moomau resigned. The location of the various missionaries has been unchanged, with the exception of the transfer of the Rev. Robert F. Fitch and Mrs. Fitch, on their return from furlough, from Ningpo to Hangchow, Mr. Fitch hoping to reach the influential classes in Hangchow through the college as a base, as he had been able to reach the literati and merchant class in Ningpo.

NINGPO STATION.

NATIVE WORKERS AND CHURCHES.—The force of native workers has been decreased, during the year, by the death of two faithful old men, and by discipline necessary in some of the churches through the mixing up of preachers and elders in lawsuits, misusing the influence of the church and bringing its name into ill-repute.

The Station report says:

The death of Pastor Bao Kwông-hyi occurred about the time of Mission meeting last year. He was born in 1838. His boyhood was spent in the Presbyterian Academy. At the age of seventeen he was baptized by Dr. Nevius. Then, at the age of twenty-nine, he was ordained pastor of the Yü-yiao Church. In thirty-one years he baptized over 300 persons. At the age of sixty his eyes were failing and he became quite blind, but even then he engaged in daily street chapel preaching as long as he was able. We are glad that his mantle has fallen upon a worthy son, who is now the pastor of the church at Yü-yiao.

In August of this year another of our pastors passed away, Rev. Uôh Cong-eng. At fourteen he entered the Academy. At seventeen he was converted. After further study he was licensed for the ministry at the age of twenty-seven. The following year he was ordained and installed as pastor of one of our village churches, where he continued until failing sight compelled him to retire from pastoral work. Twelve pastors, licentiates, and Mission helpers have come from that center of Christian work.

The work of the organized churches this year has been marked by an unusual call for acts of discipline rather than by a great evangelistic movement. But the purifying of the church's inner life is an indispensable preparation for healthy growth. After the close of the last Presbytery meeting, which had developed a deep sense of the unsatisfactoriness of the moral state of the church, one of the pastors remarked that "next year the church's success would probably be measured by the number of unworthy members expelled rather than by the number of additions." The prophetic nature of this remark was proven by the fact that there have been two called meetings of Presbytery during the year. One was to release the pastor of Song-ô Church, which was dying from lack of proper discipline. Mr. Shoemaker was made stated supply, and has been carrying on a work of elimination, which promises to leave less than thirty names on a roll of ninety. The other meeting was called to deal with a quarrel between workers which involved the Dziang-ô-z and Hae-deo regions. This trouble had been going from bad to worse despite the efforts of the Presbyterial Committee until the Station felt compelled to end the matter by suspending the two men concerned.

The state of things in these churches seems to indicate that the time has come when our present form of church government will be so modified as to give the Presbyteries some control over the make-up of the Sessions, and also provide a kind of executive committee which shall have a general oversight of the churches between the meetings of the Presbytery. The time is propitious for action in this direction, as these cases of insubordination were against the Presbytery, not against the Mission, as has sometimes happened before.

Itineration.—Mrs. Shoemaker reports of her own trips and those of Mr. Shoemaker:

During the year I have visited thirteen of the out-stations, spending fifty-one days in this work, exclusive of travel. In some of the Stations the time was spent almost entirely in helping the meetings which Mr. Shoemaker was holding. In other places, visiting from house to house and teaching as opportunity offered. I have kept up my work in the villages near Yü-yiao, and find the work encouraging. Eleven women and girls have learned to read; some having attended the school in Ningpo, others by slow and persevering effort learning at home, getting a lesson as I visited them from time to time and bringing their books on Sunday for help. There is no difficulty in getting a hearing among the common people, and many of the better class are open to me. I have been teaching two very intelligent young ladies in one of these homes. Such families are often afraid of the ridicule of others, and do not come out openly and declare their belief.

The weekly woman's meeting for prayer, Bible study and study of the Romanized has been held in my home this year, the pastor's wife taking charge of it in my absence. At a recent meeting, women and girls walked from a village over three miles away to attend the meeting; some of them carrying their babies that distance. Unfortunately our house has no room large enough to seat more than twenty-five comfortably, so that an audience of thirty and over is something of a problem. My meeting for children on Sunday afternoon was well attended.

Sunday-schools.—There are in Ningpo three Christian Sunday-schools, with an average attendance of 240; the Bible class at the City Church, and two primary Sunday-schools with heathen children, with an average of 120, the teachers and students in the boarding schools assisting as teachers in the Sunday-schools.

Women's Clubs.—Miss Morton writes:

Early in the year the women of the church were formed into a club of about forty members, conducted along parliamentary lines. Two meetings a month have been held, at which papers prepared by the members were read on such subjects as "Marriage Customs," "Foot-binding," "Education," "Training of Children," etc.

Somewhat along this same line a work was begun among the wealthy gentry ladies in the city, where a committee of three Chinese ladies and myself began a series of monthly lectures for women only, on subjects of general interest. The success of these meetings has been most surprising and very gratifying, and they have become quite the popular fad. The Tao-ti's wife has attended twice; the gentlemen of the Educational Association of Ningpo (quite the strongest and most powerful organization in the city) have become much interested and have rendered valuable assistance in many ways, loaning their own buildings for the meetings, combating what opposition there was, and serving personally as guards at the gates to prevent the entrance of any objectionable characters. Probably no other agency has done so much to break down the prejudice against Christians, as not only are the Christian women welcomed at these meetings, but a large part of the speakers are necessarily our Christian teachers, as very few ladies aside from those educated in Mission schools have the courage or ability for public speaking. The cordial relations established between the foreign missionary as well as the Chinese Christians, and the hitherto exclusive and inaccessible gentry and official ladies, must lead to many opportunities in the future as it already has in the past, not only to explain the truths of Christianity but for real personal and spiritual talks. A totally new atmosphere has been created, one of confidence, friendship and mutual helpfulness.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Day-schools.—There are two day-schools in Ningpo for boys, with an average attendance of forty-four; one at Yu Yiao under the care of a graduate from the Academy; one day-school at Hae-deo for girls, with an average attendance of twelve.

Boys' Boarding School.—There are forty-three boys in the Boys' Boarding School. Mr. Wright reports:

The government of the boys was divided among three of the teachers, who agreed to reside in the school. At Chinese New Year a class of seven boys was graduated, all of them professed Christians. Three have gone to St. John's College, Shanghai, for further study; three have taken positions as teachers. After the Chinese New Year the number of students in attendance was considerably lessened. The cause was twofold: on the one hand, the rise in the price of food made it impossible to receive any students at the old cheap rates, cutting off more and more the number of Christian students until there can be provided a larger financial support for the school; one of its chief aims—the education of children of Christians—will thus not be fulfilled. On the other hand, the school gives less instruction in English than other schools of like grade in Ningpo, whose prices for heathen boys are the same as ours. We do not think, however, that it would be wise to introduce more English into the curriculum, in view of the cost of English-teaching Chinese of competent ability—certainly not before the need for a good education in Chinese for the children of poor Christians has been met.

Eight boys have decided to enter the ministry, six of them in this year's graduating class.

Girls' Boarding School.—Miss Duncan reports forty-four boarders and forty-four day-pupils.

The Christian Endeavor Society in the school has a membership of twenty-five, which included all the pupils of twelve years and over. During the time of famine in the north they sacrificed many things and saved their cash for some time to make up a purse of three dollars and a half to send to the sufferers. Also when a fire near us left three or four families destitute, they gathered together quite a number of half-worn garments and about a dollar (U. S. currency) to help in their time of need.

Every morning the members of the Prayer Meeting Committee take turns in teaching the little ones a verse of Scripture, praying with them fifteen minutes before breakfast.

This year the first class of girls to finish the new eight years' course of study was graduated at Chinese New Year. All five of the graduates have been earnest Christians for several years.

Twenty-four pupils attended the Girls' Short Term Boarding School.

Most of them showed great desire to make the best of the time, and all, except two little ones, went home the happy possessors of the Romanized Testament and Hymn Book; which in most cases they were able to read with more or less difficulty.

The Misses Morton report for the Anglo-Chinese Girls' School:

There has been an enrollment this year of twenty-two pupils. Most of them were from purely heathen homes; very few having even the faintest idea of what Christianity was before entering the school. One of them in fact was in perfect terror at first of attending a Christian service, of which she had doubtless heard wild rumors. The mother of another girl, accompanied by the sister-in-law and cousin, made it a point to come to the church on the first Sunday that the daughter was in school to satisfy herself that her child was not being subjected to anything outrageous or improper. These pupils are a pleasure to teach. They have such beautiful manners, and are so obedient and respectful and so eager to make progress, we have to restrain them from study rather than urge them.

Think of the privilege of introducing such a class to the Bible, to them a perfectly new and strange book. They read it with keen interest and bright intelligence, seeming to grasp much of the spiritual teachings.

There is no need to make a rule against foot-binding, for the pupils of their own accord are only too glad to unbind. Among the boarders there was only one girl who did not release her poor crippled feet, and it was a great grief to her that she could not do so. She is betrothed into a very conservative family, who absolutely refused to permit this innovation.

Physical exercise and drills of all kinds are quite the fad now; and the benefit of the daily dumb-bell drill and marching was evident in a short time. Stooping shoulders were straightened, the mincing walk changed to a freer step, and there was a decided improvement in color and appetite, so marked that the parents spoke of it. It is not easy to exercise for half an hour on feet about five inches long, for they do not become the natural shape and size at once.

Public entertainments have proven to be one of the best means of advertising the school. They are a great novelty to the Chinese and have become very popular. At the close of the last term we invited about fifty guests, but many more than that came; some even asking for an invitation. The programme was a lengthy one, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, essays and recitations. The music was the attractive feature, and the audience was most appreciative, seeming to thoroughly enjoy the classical selections, which were rendered very creditably by the pupils. We have been most fortunate in having for our music teacher the daughter of a merchant in our port. She is an excellent musician and a most successful teacher, and so much interested in the work that she gave double the time she was paid for.

Women's Classes.—Twenty-five women, ranging in age from twenty to sixty years, attended the women's class, scarcely any being left who could not read the Romanized Testament.

Men's Classes.—Yu Yiao yielded one man who gave promise of fitness for the work of a lay helper, and he was sent to pursue preparatory studies under the care of one of the native pastors. Four young men from this field have gone to the Theological Seminary at Nanking. It is hoped to send four or five of those from the present graduating class of the Boys' School.

In February there was held the first general conference which our church in this region has convened; a coming together of our pastors and Christian leaders from Hanchow, Soochow, Shanghai, and the country districts around Ningpo for a season of prayer, Bible study and discussion of vital questions pertaining to the work, resulting in a great blessing to all. Successful business men had their hearts stirred to the depths as they learned of the heroic faithfulness of the pastors of little flocks in scattered country places, and these same pastors praised God and took courage when they listened to the earnest, practical and spiritual talks given by these men who had put their business aside for a time because the desire of their hearts is to put Christ first.

SHANGHAI STATION.

The Station report opens with the statement:

It is but fitting that our report should open with thanksgiving—for the grasping of deeper spiritual truths by many of our Christians, for the consecration to Christ's ministry of one of our promising young business men, for more children in the schools and splendid native Christians to mould them, for the vivifying Conference for Chinese at Ningpo and the thrill of fellowship that came to us at the great Centenary Conference in Shanghai, and for continued health even though two of our number were at times amid the perils of the famine in the north; for all these patent blessings and for the myriad mercies that only the Father's eye has seen we would express our gratitude to Him, who is able to guard us all from stumbling.

There are three Chinese Presbyterian churches in Shanghai, each of them self-supporting.

OUT-STATIONS.—

In all the great plain east of Shanghai forming the field that is given us Presbyterians as our own special sphere we have had during the past year but one resident native evangelist, Mr. Kyung at Dooka-aung. Mr. Silsby has made several trips and twice met the Session there, at the last meeting baptizing nine men who have a further probation before coming into full communion. Some twenty-three others desire to become Christians. Mr. Kyung makes frequent trips to the neighboring villages, and at the services in the chapel of Dooka-aung from thirty to forty people attend. The following is the closing sentence of his own report written in English: "Thanks to God for the Christians here. They will preach the Christianity to others wherever they find any chance."

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Mrs. Fitch writes:

One of our women has surely learned the secret of prayer and had many answers; the last one being her husband, of over sixty, cured from the opium habit of more than twenty years. His wife's patience has been a constant wonder to him, but he says now he understands how "when Christ comes in" He makes us lowly and loving. He has just lost nearly his earthly all in a fire, but thanks God for it, as it burned up the idol of wealth he had wanted to take down. The oldest son, who was in business with him, had insisted that it should not be disturbed. Only a few months ago this father was a weary, sick, sad old man. Now his face is a happy one, his eyes bright, and his skin seems to have come again as a little child's. Some of the Christians who thought that a year ago his case was almost too hard for the Lord to heal, are now testifying to the wonders of God's grace shown forth in him. One dear old woman who has been considered rather hopelessly stupid, whispered to me one day, "I say my verses in the night: 'Repentance toward God and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ,' 'Blessed are they that hear the Word of God and keep it.''" And then she added, "I tell the Lord that I do not know much, but I do love and believe and trust Him." A few of the women show more interest in learning to read, too, and really one sees them grow in grace as they feed upon the little that they so laboriously acquire. Would that the many who can read would value the truth in the same way.

Miss Silver's work falls naturally under three heads—personal work with the Christian women in the South Gate Church, touring among the unevangelized masses in the region known as Pootong, lying just across the river from Shanghai, and Bible instruction for inquirers and possible Bible women. Miss Silver writes:

The conference for Christians of our whole Central China region held at Ningpo at Chinese New Year was rich in blessing to our delegates and through them to the South Gate Church. A red-letter day it was when two of our elders and a deacon told the church of the meetings, unconsciously revealing how deeply they had been stirred. Praise and thanksgiving filled our hearts as we listened to their graphic words, and we broke through our inherited reserve when the elder, whom the church for more than a year has wanted for its pastor, told of the absolute consecration, cost what it might, which he had made of himself to God's service. Although as a young man he prepared for the ministry he has stilled his conscience by the plea that the church had not the money to pay its pastor a living salary and that when he had laid by enough to be able to preach without pay he meant to give himself to that ministry. But he said that he had now so seen the love of God that should employer, friend and wife seek to hinder him, he would obey the Lord, even though it brought him to the place where the Lord first found him—a waif with but one garment and a string to tie it on.

In a number of places people ignorant of the Bible and of the true purpose of the church are joining together in societies called the Jesus Church. This will prove a menace to the Gospel unless there are properly instructed evangelists to oversee them.

The missionaries in the Press carry on such evangelistic work as is possible outside of the long hours in the Press, Mr. McIntosh giving special attention to the work among the sailors and Mr. Myers to the work among the Japanese.

EDUCATIONAL.—Lowrie High School.—

Under Mr. Silsby's management the last term of the school year saw the largest attendance in the history of this school. One hundred and three students were enrolled, all but thirty being boarders. Much of the success of the school was due to Mr. Waung Hyien-ming, the faithful and efficient Chinese superintendent who has won the confidence and respect of pupils and patrons. The two teachers from Ningpo, as well as other members of the staff, have done good work. Along religious lines there has been considerable interest. Two of the boys were baptized and about twenty others have declared their purpose to live for Christ. They have not yet been received into the communion, but are enrolled as candidates for church membership. The Old Students' Society has continued to take much interest in the school, paying the salary of two teachers, giving prizes to pupils for scholarship and athletics and help in other ways. The martial strains of a brass band proclaim one of the latest gifts of former pupils. The music has added not a little to the interest and enjoyment of the boys. There was but one graduate this year, the son of Pastor Thaung. Lowrie High School is the oldest boys' school in Shanghai and one of the oldest in China. It has educated a large number of useful young men who are occupying important positions in the church and in business life.

Girls' Boarding School.—During Miss Cogdal's furlough, Miss Lindholm carried the burden of the school, which proved a very heavy one with the inadequate help at her disposal. The average attendance has been sixty-two. Thirteen girls joined the church during the year.

The scholarship this year has never been excelled; it seems as though the present stress that the Chinese are laying upon education has added zeal and a feeling of responsibility to the work of the girls. To the excellent example of the normal class pupils much of the year's success is due. Some of the more advanced pupils have helped to teach a day-school on the compound and taken much interest in the work. This year we have stepped out a little from our convent seclusion and actually taken part in a concert given in the heart of the foreign settlement. Some of the church members who were assisting in opening an orphanage, requested that the girls be allowed to sing at a concert given for raising orphanage funds. Months afterward the Taotai's wife expressed to us her great pleasure in hearing the singing of the "Pure Heart School" students.

Miss Posey has been active in the development of the kindergarten work.

Dr. and Mrs. Farnham have continued their literary work, and Dr. Farnham and Mr. Silsby have rejoiced to see the translation of the Old Testament into Shanghai colloquial, in which they have been interested for years, completed at last.

Dr. Fitch and Mr. Espey gave time, also, to the arduous work of famine relief in the destitute sections of the North.

HANGCHOW STATION.

Mr. Bible and Mr. March each spent two months in the famine region, trying to relieve the sufferers there. The pastors of the two self-supporting churches at Hangchow and Sin-z, Mr. Dzi and Mr. Tsang, carried on their work with great zeal and faithfulness.

In the Upper River field the three old patriarchs, over seventy years of age, are still at their posts. Three new lay workers have been taken on during the year; all natives of Tong-yang. The most important feature of the work at Sin-z was the "swarming" of a group of Christians who live about eighteen or twenty li northeast of Sin-z. For some years the inconvenience of attending church at a distance of six or eight miles has been keenly felt, so this year about thirty of the Christians were set apart. The house of one of the Christians became the meeting place, and two men were made leaders. Once in three or four weeks Pastor Tsang spends the day here, and once in two months the Christians all go to Sin-z for the communion service. This new development is entirely due to the Chinese and is intended as the beginning of a permanent policy.

Outside of Hangchow and Sin-z, work is carried on at Haining, Zeh-men, Dzang-an, Tse-wang-miao, Yun-hwa, Tong-yang and P'u-kyang. Of Tong-yang, the report says:

Five new out-stations have been opened in this part of the field: three in Tong-yang, one in I-u and one in P'u-kyang; all having resident native helpers. One chapel was opened at Wang-dien-fan, a large market town in the south of Tong-yang, where the Gospel has never been preached before. Our helper there will have virgin soil indeed. The support of this chapel, at $16 annual rental, is to be the home mission work, undertaken by the church of Tong-yang. It was hard for Mr. Yang Yao-foh and family to leave their old home in P'u-kyang, where their ancestors had lived for hundreds of years, and go to I-u, a city of entire strangers. They feel the loneliness more than the missionary in the foreign clime. His salary had to be increased from six to nine dollars, which was met for eight months by the missionary in charge until the Station could assume his complete support. He is still our most industrious, indefatigable, indispensable worker in this whole field. If we had some one who could possibly take his place, we would gladly send him for a brief course in our theological seminary.

Itineration.—Miss Ricketts, Mr. Bible and Mr. Herriott spent all the time they could, and went as far as they could with the inadequate funds at their disposal, in the itinerating work. Twenty-eight men joined the training class in Hangchow in December for three weeks, most of the teaching being done by the Chinese pastors and preachers.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Hangchow College.—

The year which is covered by the present report is marked by a decided change in the administration of the college. The five members of the Mission, one from each of the four Stations, and one from the college faculty, were appointed at last annual meeting as a Board of Directors. Thus began a new era in the history of the college; its administration from this time on being under a Board of Directors.

The Board nominated Rev. J. H. Judson, Rev. E. L. Mattox, Rev. R. F. Fitch and Mr. M. K. Chow as members of the college faculty and also elected J. H. Judson as president of the college till the next Mission meeting.

A beautiful new college site, with more than sixty acres, has been purchased for about $1,000 gold on a cliff overlooking the Dzien-Dang River, about six miles outside the city walls.

A local railroad running from the foreign settlement to Kyang-de (the place where ferryboats cross the river), is already nearly completed. This will take us within two miles or so of the college land. The prospects are that in the near future the road will be continued up the river and just past the college grounds cross over the river and on to Ningpo.

One hundred and forty boys were enrolled during the term, a number of whom decided for the ministry, as the result of a visit from Dr. Garritt to the Chinese brethren.

A dozen or more boys during the year have given work as part pay towards their tuition. They have mopped floors, cleaned windows, cared for the physical and chemical laboratories, rung the bell, etc., thus saving the employ of more servants. The applicants were more than we could furnish work for. There is no longer difficulty as there once was in the boys being unwilling to work, or in parents being unwilling to have them work.

Girls' School.—The highest enrollment during the year was forty-two, thirty-three of whom were boarders and nine day-pupils, one-third of them being church members, one-third from Christian families, and the remaining third from heathen homes.

The financial problem of the school has become very acute of late owing to the rise in price of food. During a year and a half the price of rice—the staple food—has risen fifty-four per cent. At present in Hangchow, a city of 800,000 inhabitants, four Christian girls' schools accommodate 170 students, and it crowds us to do that much. Four heathen schools have an enrollment of 256, and they are ready to expand, and new schools are opening.

SOOCHOW STATION.

The work of the churches of the Station have now been united in one. The work has been consolidated at Tsongmen, where the hospital is located.

The financial status of the church is encouraging. Two or three years ago they were scarcely contributing a cent. Now nearly every one gives regularly, a few give a tenth, and two-thirds of the pastor's salary is paid by the church. True, some of this comes from the foreigners, but the fact remains that a great advance has been made in the grace of giving.

There are out-stations at Ng Kong, Moh Doh, Kwong Foh, Hyu Z Kwan and Lion Mountain.

Between the place mentioned and closely connected with them are the small market towns of Zhōn Nyin Gyao, Tong Chu, and T'ong On Gyao. In one of these places a merchant and his son and in another a merchant are interested and intelligent inquirers.

Hyu Z Kwan is only thirty li from Kwong Foh and thirty li from Soochow on the Nanking and Shanghai R. R. It is a great market town. It has a probable population of 30,000. Though so near Soochow it has never had a preaching place until we opened ours in March of this year. Renting proved difficult, and though the place we were finally able to rent is not the most desirable, it has been a splendid place for preaching; great crowds filling the place and street at the door every time it is opened. Immense numbers of books and tracts have been sold here.

Itineration.—

Mr. Crawford has spent sixty-eight days in the country, but has not been on any long trips. This time was put in at the out-stations and the immediate country around them.

In November Dr. Cattell and Miss Lattimore, accompanied by the Bible woman, Mrs. Li, made a trip to Li Yang. Both coming and going they stopped at Changchow, where the family of this Bible woman lives. They found a marked change in the attitude of the family—and especially of the mother, now seventy years old and a vegetarian for many years—toward Christianity. The daughter had been almost an outcast since she became a Christian; the family even refusing to eat a meal with her. This time they were most friendly. They came to the boat to visit the party and invited them into the home for a feast. The mother invited the neighbors to see the foreign physician and many patients were seen in the home.

Boys' High School.—The Boys' High School has also been moved from the old property to the Tsong-men. There have been thirty boys in the school. Only twenty-two, however, can be accommodated in the available quarters at the new site.

There are two day-schools for boys and one for girls, having an enrollment of sixty-seven.

Tooker Memorial Hospital.—

One hundred and eight patients were in the hospital during the year. During the Spring months there were many serious cases and some deaths. Nine deaths occurred during the year.

A little girl of eight, who lost all her toes from gangrene, won all of our hearts. She was sunny and bright and learned so quickly. Alas, she was in the hands of a brothel keeper, and we knew she would sell her into that life. We did all we could to rescue her, but there seemed no way. We can only hope and pray that the seed sown in her heart will help in the days to come and that in His own time God will open the way for her to be rescued.

In the dispensary, which was open every day in the year except Sunday, 3,031 new patients were registered. The return visits numbered 2,269. Two thousand two hundred and fourteen bought medicines at the gate, making a total of 7,514 visits to the dispensary. More outcalls were made during the year than any year before; 69 to foreigners and 118 to Chinese, making a total of 187.

MISSION PRESS.

As the year 1907 marks the one hundredth anniversary of Mission work in China, so it also marks our first touching the 1,000,000 mark in our output. It is interesting to observe how constant has been the increase of the work performed by the Press from year to year, and though native presses have arisen on every side and competition has waxed keener and keener, yet our work has continued to expand, with never a year of backward movement, and to-day we hope we are more necessary to the work of the missionary body in China than ever before. From present indications it does not look as if we could relinquish the work for a long time to come.

Our new buildings for the printing work, which we thought at the time of building were capacious enough for many years to come, are already taxed nearly to their fullest extent, and we are already beginning to think of more room, our foreign bindery having overflowed into a room that we had designed for presses.

There is a call for a new literature in connection with the demand for an education on modern lines. When one contemplates what is involved in the matter of school books for a nation of 400,000,000, awakening for the first time to their needs of mental pabulum different from that on which they have been satisfying themselves for the past 2,000 years, the wherewithal to supply this demand is something almost staggering in its enormity. For the most part, however, this demand is for scientific, educational and secular literature, not for religious. The call for the last, however, is increasing, and it is only institutions like this Press that are prepared to meet it. Much money is to be made in the supply of this general literature, and there are many seeking to enrich themselves at the present juncture. While we attempt to supply more or less literature, both in English and Chinese, of a high class of educational character, yet, of course, our pre-eminent aim is the religious.

While Presbyterian in name we strive not to be exclusively such, and while nominally a publishing house, there are many other departments in which we are able to serve the missionaries of other denominations in such a manner as to relieve them of the necessity of having to support an agency of their own to carry on necessary work. For example, in the matter of shipping, receiving and forwarding goods from the United States, etc., we are able to accommodate several other Missions, with no great inconvenience to ourselves, as we have of necessity to keep quite a staff of our own for such work, and much to the relief of the Missions so helped. We thus help the American Episcopal, the American Baptist, the Foreign Christian Mission, the Southern Presbyterians, and others.

The total foreign staff engaged for the Press numbered thirteen.

The output for the twelve months ending June 30, 1907, is as follows:

PAXTON TRAINING SCHOOL, KUNGCHOW, CHINA.

HAINAN MISSION.

Two hundred and ninety miles southeast of Hong Kong lies Hainan, a large island off the southeast coast of China from which it is separated by a strait about fifteen miles wide. It is in about the same latitude as Cuba, and has practically the same tropical climate. It is about 160 miles long and ninety miles wide, with an area of about 14,000 square miles. It is about twice the size of the State of New Jersey and comprises, a prefecture of the Kwang Tung Province. Its population is approximately 2,500,000, and it was occupied by missionaries in 1885 and established as a Mission in 1893. No other missionaries except the French Roman Catholics are there. Post-office, Hoihow, China, Via Hong Kong (Hoihow is the port three miles from Kiung-chow and a part of the Station).

The missionary force of the Hainan Mission has undergone considerable change during the year. In the absence of Dr. Lasell on furlough, Dr. Bryan was transferred to Kachek. This necessitated Dr. Kelly's transfer to the medical work of Nodoa Station and he moved there in December. In the early Summer Dr. Bryan was called to Hoihow on account of the serious illness of Mrs. McCandliss. Upon the departure of Dr. and Mrs. McCandliss for America in the latter part of June Dr. Bryan was removed to Hoihow to take charge of the Hoihow Hospital and the medical work of Kiung-chow Station.

The work, which received last year a new impetus through the gifts of Mr. A. W. Killborne, Mrs. William M. Paxton, Mr. L. H. Severance and Mrs. Albert J. Pitkin, has gone steadily forward. Some of the new buildings have been finished and the others are being rapidly pushed towards completion. Through the efforts of Dr. McCandliss money has been received towards the building of a new chapel at Hoihow, and the interest of the First Church of East Orange has made it possible for the Hospital to be re-equipped with some modern surgical appliances. Although this is one of the younger and smaller Missions, its rapid growth has proved the wisdom of taking possession of this large and otherwise unevangelized field.

HAINAN MISSION.

KIUNG-CHOW: 3 miles from north coast of island; occupied as a Station in 1885. Missionaries—H. M. McCandliss, M.D., and Mrs. McCandliss, Miss Henrietta Montgomery, Rev. C. H. Newton and Mrs. Newton, Rev. W. M. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, Miss Alice H. Skinner, Rev. George D. Byers, Rev. David S. Tappan, Jr., and Dr. Herman Bryan, M.D.

NODOA: 60 miles southwest of Kiung-chow; occupied as a Station in 1891. Missionaries—Rev. J. F. Kelly, M.D., and Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. M. R. Melrose, Rev. William J. Leverett and Rev. P. W. McClintock and Mrs. McClintock.

KACHEK: 60 miles south of Kiung-chow; occupied as a Station in 1902. Missionaries—Rev. Frank P. Gilman and Mrs. Gilman, Miss Kate L. Schaeffer, S. L. Lasell, M.D.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Sidney L. Lasell, M.D., Dr. H. M. McCandliss and Mrs. McCandliss.

KIUNG-CHOW STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—The most extensive itinerating done by the Kiung-chow Station this year was a trip made by Mr. Newton in company with Dr. Bryan, at the request of the Kachek Station to meet with the Christians at Gai-ciu. The route of travel was through the rugged and somewhat dangerous Loi country to the Five-Finger Mountains, and then back to Kachek and from there to Gai-ciu City near Lak-lah, where the out-station is located. Mr. Newton says:

We arrived at Lak-lah on March 18, and remained until April 5, busy all the time teaching the people. Although very busy at that time of the year in their fields, they attended fairly well. Many people came for medical treatment, and a number of calls were made for the doctor to go to the villages. In one instance we went out several miles into the country to the home of a wealthy man whose father had been a kunag, the most bitter and determined opponent of our missionary in that entire region. He gave us a feast and was very friendly. Among other patients was a young grandson of Dang Lau si, the most influential man in the market. Another member of the same family has since come up to Kiung-chow and entered the school there.

The condition of the church, or rather the congregation, in Lak-lah is very encouraging. We have a total membership now of twenty-seven, seven having been received at the time of our visit. Among these is one named Ui, a man deeply learned in the Chinese classics, held in high honor in his own village.

The whole region through which we passed seems fully open to the Gospel, and we should make every effort to get men located where they can work it.

Besides this trip made by Mr. Newton, the evangelistic itineration has been done by Mr. Campbell and Mr. Tang, the only native evangelist in this Station, who has been engaged part of the year in work among the patients in the Hoihow Hospital three days in the week and in preaching at Kiung-chow at the Sunday services. He has done evangelistic work in Kiung-chow and in the villages of the vicinity.

The attendance of the Christians upon Sunday services at Kiung-chow has been quite regular. Besides those in the Mission schools frequently there was in attendance a number of students from the officials' school, Sunday being a holiday with them. The attendance has averaged about 75. At Hoihow it has also been good, some days as many as 120 were present. Through the Sunday-school at Kiung-chow and the Bible classes at Hoihow, effective work has been done; seven persons have been received to communion at Kiung-chow on profession of their faith and two children baptized.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Paxton Training School for Christian Workers.—The new building made possible by the gift of Mrs. Paxton, of Princeton, N. J., has been completed and school was opened March 7. It is well suited for school work and gives abundant room for dormitory as well as recitation purposes. The use of the second floor as dormitory has been eminently successful in promoting the health of the school, there being no case of serious illness during the year.

On account of the absence of Mr. Newton on an itinerating trip to the south of the island last Spring, Mr. Campbell opened and had charge of the school until his return. Before the end of the first term there were enrolled thirty-seven, but many new students left on account of the epidemic of cholera, which broke out close to the city. Although a few deaths occurred on the street the school was not closed. The course has included the Chinese Language, Arithmetic, Geography, Chinese History, Bible, English, and Physical Drill. The Bible is taught to all the boys.

In order to make the school effective, greater strength must be put upon gaining the help of the educated Hainanese and the time has come for the school to take on its distinctive character as a training school for Christian workers. It is hoped that through the evangelistic work five or six good earnest Christian men may be found to train for service as preachers. This will supply a long felt need.

Girls' School.—The girls' school, located across the street from the Paxton Training School, is under the direction of Miss Montgomery. During the last session there was an enrollment of thirty and a regular attendance of twenty-three, with three day-pupils. The course of study has been the same as last year, with the addition of Physiology and Algebra. The scholarship of the school-girls is very satisfactory, and favorable reports have been received concerning the student who is studying medicine in Canton. All but four of the older girls are professing Christians, being members of Kiung-chow Church.

With the $1,700 gold donated by Mrs. Pitkin it is expected that a girls' school building will soon be erected, enabling us to do greater work in uplifting these girls of Hainan who have no opportunity of an education except as it is given them in the Mission schools.

MEDICAL.—Hoihow Hospital.—The hospital grounds have been considerably increased in size by buying land on the south side, and by having a plot on the east side donated by a wealthy Chinese gentleman. The Chinese merchants of Hoihow donated money for the erection of a large isolation ward on the piece of land recently purchased. That part of the main hospital building formerly used as a sanitarium has been partly arranged for the reception of surgical patients. Cement floors have been put in the two smaller rooms, one to be used for a sterilizing, and the other as an operating room. Some surgical beds have also been provided for the large wards and some new seats for the hospital chapel.

During the past eleven months there have been 285 patients in the wards: of these fifty-one were important operative cases. The total daily attendance at the dispensary for the eleven months numbers 6,674.

WOMAN'S WORK.—A regular weekly Bible class at Kiung-chow composed of women who can read has been conducted by Miss Montgomery and Miss Skinner, who have also taught in the Sunday-school. Miss Montgomery has directed the work of three Bible women most of the year. At Hoihow the work has been conducted among the women of the congregation and the hospital out-patients four days in the week. These meetings were conducted by Mrs. McCandliss until she was taken ill, and after her return to America Mrs. Campbell took over the work.

NODOA STATION.

The work at Nodoe Station is described in the following graphic if somewhat colloquial way.

To our outward eyes our work seems to have had a healthy boom in all departments this year. We all of us seem to feel that we have gotten things on the move and we mean, by God's grace, to keep them going.

This, however, has not been without a rather exciting interruption, as will be seen by the following:

On the midnight before the 20th of April, we were aroused by the town authorities and told that a camp of 200 and more Chinese soldiers, with headquarters thirty-five miles distant, had mutinied. Before daylight the next morning they were within five miles of our compound.

After a hasty consultation with the local gentry at hand, we first saw that all the Chinese women and children on the grounds had scattered to places of safety. Then we (five adults and three children), without waiting for breakfast, or to gather more than one or two extra pieces of clothing each, started on four ponies and two wheels for Dam-ciu, the nearest walled city. We reached there an hour after dark with no other mishap than a broken bicycle. We lived for a day in a village and then for two or three days more in a house kindly lent us by one of the officials and situated on his own grounds.

In the meantime, the soldiers, who seem to have mutinied against their officers on a sudden angry impulse, as suddenly had returned to their posts and given themselves up, and the terror of 200 soldiers armed with repeating rifles was removed from an almost defenseless region. One officer had been killed and five soldiers and several hundred dollars' worth of money appropriated. The nearest they came to Nodoe was one-half mile.

CHURCH AND EVANGELISTIC.—With each succeeding year there are coming to be more and more isolated Christians living in regions at long distances from Nodoe. They cannot possibly attend the weekly worship here, and it is difficult to get to them with the notices of communion services, which are held the first Sunday of every other month. To remedy this the Station adopted a year ago the plan of getting the people to spend a few days at the Mission compound, where they could be instructed and feel the effect of being surrounded by a Christian atmosphere.

The time chosen has usually been the Wednesday before communion, and the writer of the Mission report says:

We have been surprised at the number of people that have come and taken up the study with earnestness. With the children and with the Christians from a distance, and with those who have not been accepted as catechumens, we have had nearly one hundred to look after at one time. We have only four or five small guest rooms. The beds, of course, are made of wood. We put in beds till it was "lying room only," and that was all taken, four or five in a bed sleeping crosswise and knees doubled up or hanging over the edge.

The other day, after a village wedding, in the evening, the host was worrying around trying to arrange for as few crosswise sleepers as possible, when one of them said, "Oh, don't worry, we will do the Mission compound way. Who cares?" There was a general laugh, the host's brow cleared, and the "Mission compound way" went. It seemed that night to include a stock of good nature as well as crowding.

Evangelistic Work among the Women.—The women's prayer meeting and special services have been well attended, averaging a larger number than any previous year. The two new Bible women have studied several hours a day in the school, and have had five hours a week at special Bible instruction. At different times they have gone out itinerating with the old Bible woman.

The women who come to study "the doctrine" have to carry their children with them, a long weary journey of from two to thirteen miles and then while there must look after their babies as well as study. The accommodations are anything but good. They are crowded and uncomfortable, with but the plainest food, yet they seldom find fault, but study with a zeal that puts the rest of us to shame. Mrs. McClintock writes:

I shall not soon forget the evening when I saw 100 men and women sitting around pieces of matting placed on the grass in lieu of tables, eating rice and vegetables by the light of a candle stuck in a green mango.

The women's wards of the hospital have been full to overflowing most of the year, and have afforded a matchless opportunity to teach and preach the Gospel, and at the same time try to instill into them more cleanly habits and modes of life.

EDUCATIONAL.—Boys' School.—The one in charge writes:

We are grateful to God for the very encouraging features of the work, especially for the wider influence of the school as seen in the larger territory from which we are drawing our pupils. As imitation is said to be the sincerest form of flattery, we feel a little flattered by the fact that native schools, opened or to be opened in Lim-ko and Dam-ciu districts, have followed our custom, studies and books to some extent, and have drawn on our boys for teachers.

The school was completely disorganized for a week owing to the mutiny of the "Fifth Camp." On reopening applications flooded in. Ninety-one were enrolled, and the average attendance during the first half year was seventy-five. The boys came from all parts of Dam-ciu and Lim-ko.

One of our boys stood fourth in the District Magistrate's examination in the Chinese classics, while another took seventeenth place.

The spiritual side of the school life has received careful and personal attention. Each Sabbath we have preached to the boys sermons carefully prepared with a view to their needs.

On Sabbath all boys receive Biblical instruction in the Sabbath-school. During the week Mr. Vang holds classes, explaining and enforcing the doctrinal truths. Memorizing the Bible is also required. All the upper class boys with one exception are Christians, and we try to make them feel their responsibility in drawing the others to the Saviour. Some of the new boys have applied for baptism.

Girls' School.—The enrollment has reached twenty-six the past year, the largest in the history of the school. One of the students left to go to a medical school in Canton, and it is hoped that she will be of great service to the women of her own district in the years to come. She certainly has shown firmness of purpose and stability of character, which is not always a characteristic of Chinese unmarried girls. The work of the year has been faithfully done, the girls doing all their own work, cooking, cleaning the dormitories and recitation rooms, even carrying the water. Of course, this tends to decrease the expenses of the school, but the chief point gained is to teach the dignity of labor.

MEDICAL.—Mary Henry Hospital.—The year began with Dr. Bryan still in charge until December 10, when Dr. Kelly arrived. An unfortunate but curious episode happened during this first month, which frightened the patients away from the hospital. A village priest had been taken in as a patient, but his superstitions were too much for him; all the time he was in a state of delirium, and being sure that the devils had done him he got up and ran. He was afterwards found dead, lying in a shallow stream of water. This frightened the patients and nearly all left the hospital. The hospital was vacated a second time in April when everybody fled to get out of the track of the Koang-si soldiers in their insurrection. But for the greater part of the heated season the hospital has been too full to allow the best results in treatment. In prophylaxis of plague the hospital seems to score a particular triumph. For several years plague has raged in all the regions surrounding this point. Last year it was especially severe in the market towns around, but at Nodoa and Nam-fong, where the Station work centres, we have been free from the scourge.

A "Tau-koa," a lieutenant, from a Koangesi camp of soldiers near Dam-ciu city, forty miles away, was seriously burned from an explosion of gunpowder, and after several days' treatment under native medicine, gave up hope of recovery, took a sedan chair for the Mary Henry Hospital, and in a state of high fever accomplished the long, painful journey. All of his face, his neck, his scalp, greater part of the abdomen, chest, thighs and feet, were suppurating from the burn. Both eyes were rigidly swollen shut and one eye was damaged beyond recovery of vision. When on his feet again he was a most grateful man, attended chapel services and became our warm friend.

When his fellow-soldiers later broke out into open rebellion, he refused to join them. There are many like him in the Dam-ciu district.

The statistics of the Mary Henry Hospital from November, 1906, to October, 1907, eleven months, are as follows:

Attendance of patients at the hospital from November 1, 1906, to October 1, 1907.....	7,700
At Nam-fong	468
Visits to Nodoa Market	50
Trips to villages and Nam-fong.....	25
At Fah-hih clinics during three visits.....	100

KACHEK STATION.

This has been the most quiet year of progress since the opening of this Station in 1901. The missionaries have been in good health and have had faithful assistance. On account of the absence of Dr. Lasell and the removal of Dr. Bryan to Hoihow in May, leaving the Station without a physician, the medical work has been light, but in all other departments there has been active work.

EVANGELISTIC.—Besides the regular church service the Sunday-school and the weekly prayer meeting at the hospital chapel, there has been a preaching service in the street chapel every market day. This service is mostly conversational in method. The brick walls of the Chinese shop in which the meetings are held are decorated with pictures of Scripture scenes, with texts of Scripture and covered with hymns written on muslin. The chapel keeper can generally be found on any market day explaining a hymn or describing a Gospel picture to a dozen or more interested listeners.

The heathen festival which was held in the month of August increased the population of Kachek more than tenfold what it is on regular market days. The assistance of a native preacher from Kiung-chow was secured, and for about a week there were three preaching places for men open daily in different parts of Kachek, while Miss. Schaeffer and her Bible women were occupied at the manse entertaining and instructing crowds of women visitors.

Kachek has four chapels under its care.

Lak-lah out-station continues to be the most fruitful field worked by the Kachek Station. Dr. Bryan and Mr. Newton visited it in March, making the long journey down and back by way of the east coast. They found that much interest had developed under the faithful preaching of our native assistant, Mr. Ngang.

Itineration.—During the year there has been one and sometimes two colporteurs visiting the region around Kachek. The Vun-sio district, which had not been visited for ten years, has had two extensive visits from our colporteurs, besides two visits that were made in company with Mr. Gilman during July and August. Of these latter Mr. Gilman reports:

We sold hundreds of books and found friends of missionaries nearly everywhere throughout the region visited and in several places met those who had some knowledge of the Gospel. One day while on the streets of a small town in Vun-sio selling Gospels a man came up and asked in good English: "What books are you selling?" I replied, "Christian books." "Let me have a book that tells about Jesus Christ." I sold him a Gospel of John and learned from him that he had joined the Roman Catholic Church in West Australia and was at home on a visit for a few months.

WOMAN'S WORK.—The work among women is slowly making progress. Visitors have been received in the manse in increasing numbers. The ladies of the Station and the Bible woman have called in the market and nearby villages, and Miss Schaeffer has made with her helper four visits to Doa-lou, two to Ui-hong and three to No-lak.

In June a Station class for women was conducted by Miss Schaeffer. The girls' school teacher, the Bible woman and other women to the number of seven met for a few weeks of Bible study. Two hours a day were devoted to the study of I Samuel, one hour to memorizing Scripture, and one hour to reading Chinese character.

MEDICAL.—Early in the present year the hospital so long needed in this Station was completed. This hospital was the generous gift of Mr. A. W. Killborne, of Orange, N. J. It was given a house warming last November by holding the annual meeting of the Mission in the new building. This was opened for hospital purposes by Dr. Bryan on Christmas day, and the Chinese immediately showed their appreciation by bringing their sick for treatment. The absence of Dr. Bryan and the medical assistant during the month of March and April necessitated the discontinuing of the medical work for a time, and the hospital buildings were then used for housing the boys' school until the new dormitory was completed. Dr. Bryan was transferred to Hoihow in May. The hospital has since been under the care of the assistant, whose chief qualification is readiness to help, although he has acquired some reputation in the cure of ulcers.

During the ten weeks that Dr. Bryan was in charge there were forty-seven in-patients, with a few chloroform patients, and 751 visits by dispensary patients.

EDUCATIONAL.—Kachek Boys' School.—This is the fourth year that there has been a school opened under the direction of the Kachek Station. The difficulty of securing a teacher who would look after the discipline of the school has partly been overcome by securing a Christian graduate of the Nodoa boys' school. The number of boys enrolled is thirty-two, but the average attendance is about twenty.

The new dormitory erected by the Station with funds given by Mr. H. B. McCormick, of Harrisburg, Pa., together with furniture given by him, makes our school building one of the most attractive and useful for its purpose in all Hainan.

Girls' Day-school.—The lower market quarters being free for other than dispensary uses a girls' day-school was opened there. At first the girls were embarrassed at the thought of "going to school," but at the June examinations the ten little girls who had been in regular attendance were proud to see their names on a list with their standing in reading, writing and memorizing recorded.

Some of their parents showed a very gratifying interest, visiting the school frequently. After a vacation of ten weeks in the Summer, work was resumed on August 26 and continues in session at the present time.

Boys' Day-school at Lak-lah.—This school consists of twenty boys, who are all sons of church members and adherents and has a Christian teacher. From here have come four of the best boys in the Kachek boys' school.

HUNAN MISSION.

The Hunan Mission, although founded in 1899, and therefore one of the younger Missions, has now through the union with the former Cumberland Church become one of the largest of the Missions of the Presbyterian Church. There were eight members of the Cumberland Mission occupying two Stations, so that with these added to our own there are now five Stations and thirty missionaries. The work extends from the extreme south of the province, where the first work began thirteen years ago, to the lake on the north of the province. It is by far the largest Mission in the province, and one of the largest in China. There have necessarily been several changes in the personnel of the Mission, owing to the coming in of the Cumberland members, and this has involved transfers of workers from one Station to another, in order that all might be properly equipped. Mr. and Mrs. Irving G. Boydston withdrew from the Mission and Miss Mary Venable was married to Dr. Berst, and Dr. Tooker to Dr. Mary E. Fitch, of Soochow. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Gelwicks and the whole Mission was saddened by the shadow that fell with the long illness and death of little Elizabeth Gelwicks, while joy has come with the restoration to health of Mrs. Derr and Mrs. Crabb, and the birth of a little daughter in the Mitchell home.

The gift of $5,000 from Mrs. Russell Sage to the Siangtan Building Fund has been used for the boys' and girls' school, and Dr. Lewis has completed his hospital at great personal sacrifice. It now only needs equipment to make it efficient in service. The crying need of the Mission is for suitable houses for the missionaries. At four of the five Stations, new residences are imperative, some of the missionaries being threatened in health if not in life by remaining where they are. In no better way can $3,000 be used than in protecting these valuable lives, so essential to Christ's cause.

SIANGTAN STATION.

The past year in Siangtan has in the main been one of advance in organization and equipment rather than in direct enlargement of work. There has been no place for discouragement, however, even though much that was hoped for has not been realized. One of the greatest blessings is the spirit of prayer which has quickened zeal and made hearts warm and tender.

EVANGELISTIC.—The new church building was completed and dedicated on the 5th of December. Already it has meant much to the Station to have a common house of worship, and it will be a large factor in unifying the work. Mr. Lingle has held preaching services there every Sunday morning. The Blakeslee Lessons in Old Testament History have been used by a large part of the school. During the Christmas holidays an entertainment was held with a Christmas tree. The boys and girls from the schools sang and recited, and all enjoyed the celebration.

A building to be used as chapel and dispensary was built in the Fourteenth Ward and dedicated in March. Of it the Station writes:

We are grateful to Mrs. George D. Tooker for giving this building as a memorial to her husband.

The out-stations of Tsi Ho and I Kia Wan have been visited by Mr. Lingle each week. He writes:

The chapel at I Kia Wan has been opened for four years. Just recently three men were baptized from there, the first fruits of our labors. The past year eight men and one woman have been baptized, and about an equal number have been dismissed for conduct unbecoming Christians. One man who had been suspended has been restored. We still are sowing the seed, and hope in due season to reap by the help of God.

The latter part of the year Mrs. Lingle held two meetings for women on Saturday afternoons in the lecture room of the church. She says:

The first class is composed of church members and inquirers who have some education and some knowledge of Christianity. This class has been a great joy to me, for the women have shown great interest and have carefully prepared their lessons.

All the ladies received many guests, but Mrs. Berst, nee Venable, by actual count, had over 1,000 callers from October till May.

MEDICAL.—Siangtan Hospital Report.—

The year just passed has been an unusual one in many ways, owing to the conditions arising from the flood, viz., lack of proper food and shelter, resulting in fever, smallpox and a train of ills that have aroused our deepest sympathy for these unfortunate souls.

I have noticed this year more even than before that Siangtan is full of tuberculosis, and I think it is quite safe to say that fully one member of each household is suffering from that dread disease. In order to treat that disease we should have a special ward well separated from the other wards.

The pressure brought to bear by the Government in closing up the opium dens and in otherwise making it hard for them to get opium, has increased the number of those who wish to be cured of that habit.

The first military official of this prefecture has been under treatment for some time and is much better. He said he was going to present a banner, and also said other nice things. My teacher (who, by the way, is now doing the work of hospital evangelist) at that time said: "These men come here and work from day to day, not for their own glory, nor do they work for cash; they do this work hoping that you may come to know the Lord and Jesus Christ, His Son."

We have had one girl of eighteen during the year who seemed very much interested in the Gospel. Dr. Tooker operated on one of her eyes for cataract and I operated on the other. Both operations were quite successful. I found her a short time ago on the way to the dispensary walking alone, and she seemed to have fairly good eyesight,

She always told Dr. Tooker that his eye was just the least better to see out of than the one I operated on. Then when I asked her how my eye was getting on, she would give my side just a little the preference, so I think she will get along in the world, and I trust not forget what we tried to teach her.

Two months ago we operated on a priest of one of the largest temples in the city (in the Fourteenth Ward), a very pleasant old man, who has been in that same temple from his childhood up, now seventy years old. The operation was of great interest to him; he would not take chloroform, as he said he wanted to see us do it.

A young man of about twenty years has been just cured of a very bad burn indeed. He nearly died during the Winter, but finally after three months of treatment and care he began to improve. Mrs. Venable took a very active part in nursing this boy, bringing him soups and dainties from her home several times a week, and helping in all that was done for him. He is a sincere convert, I believe; wishes to enter the church, and has now a fair knowledge of the catechism and a saving knowledge of the Gospel.

We have had at the Kwan Siang Men 522 new cases, 455 return cases, made thirty-five visits to homes, and performed five minor operations.

In four months at the Liu Tsü Hong there have been eighty-one new cases, thirty-six return cases, eleven visits to homes and two minor operations performed.

At the main hospital, in four months, there have been thirty-two in-patients, 227 new cases, 572 return cases, thirty-one minor and four major operations, eleven visits to homes, and we have filled out prescriptions for lenses for ten people.

There have been two patients who have made confession of faith.

Respectfully submitted,

ERNEST D. VANDERBURGH.

EDUCATIONAL.—Boys' School.—The boys' boarding school was conducted from September until November 20 by Mrs. Lingle, owing to Mr. Lovell's absence. The average attendance during the year was twenty-five pupils. The boys organized a Y. M. C. A., subscribed for periodicals and made a contribution towards the expenses of a delegate who was sent to the Y. M. C. A. convention in Shanghai in March. A good piece of land has been bought near the compound for a new building; a wall has been built enclosing it.

Girls' School.—The attendance of the girls' boarding school has been limited to twelve on account of cramped quarters. Most of the classes in Western learning have been taught by Miss Kolfrat. A noon prayer meeting has been of much help to the girls.

The day-school in connection with the city chapel has had seventeen pupils. Mrs. Lingle has visited and taught in this school once a week. The day-school at Tsi Ho has progressed with about the same number of pupils under a wide-awake teacher. That at I Kia Wan has not done so well on account of a poorer teacher. At the 1st of March a day-school of about twelve pupils was organized in the lecture room of the church by Mrs. Vanderburgh; it was supported privately until June, as there were no funds for it, and from now on is to be supported by the Siangtan Church. Already this little school has borne fruit in the increased friendliness of the neighborhood.

HENGCHOW STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—Of this work Mr. Gelwicks modestly writes:

The evangelistic work of the Station, save that among women, is practically a personal narrative, for the recital of which the writer finds no enthusiasm. It has been a hard year, a weary year, and while not a barren one, yet the search for visible fruit would not be a most inspiring pursuit.

One incident which might almost be called a modern version of the centurion's appeal to Christ will be of interest:

The story of one of the four men who have received baptism at the city chapel is of more than usual interest. He had been a casual attendant at the street chapel when his daughter and only living child became afflicted with demon possession. Although her father is a physician and proprietor of a medicine store, all efforts for relief were useless. She refused nourishment, became worse and worse, being subject to hysterical ravings. Everyone said she must die. This was during the missionary's Summer vacation. At length, in spite of opposition of wife and friends, the father appealed to the Chinese evangelist to come to the house and pray for the child. He did so and straightway the child's ravings ceased and her progress towards restored health was steady. This led the entire family to believe. The father is an educated man and takes pains to teach his wife and child. They sing hymns together at home and are doubtless the best illustration of a Christian household that the Station affords. This man has recently been appointed teacher for a boys' class in the Sabbath-school, which has hitherto consisted of simply an adults' class taught by the evangelist.

In June a special meeting of the Christian Endeavor was held for the consideration of aggressive work other than the weekly prayer meeting of the society. The evangelistic work planned involved the personal visitation of and leaving some Christian literature at every house in the city, while the temperance workers have opened a refuge for the breaking off of opium. An infusion made from a plant which grows plentifully here is efficacious to this end.

Much progress has been made in the development of Christian responsibility and church support. During the year the custom of receiving an offering at each Sabbath morning service was instituted. Of this five-tenths is to be used for local church work, three-tenths for Christian work in China, and two-tenths for missions—that is work in some other land than China. The converts of this Station were early instructed that it would be the rule when a place had ten baptized church members to have them provide their own place of worship. In the case of Hengchow City they might continue to worship in the Mission's chapel by paying rent for same of not less than $1 per month, this money to be used in renting a chapel in some country town. The church members are now subscribing this sum in addition to the Sabbath offerings, and with it our first chapel in the west country field has been rented.

The early impressions of Christianity in this prefecture were that it was something to be feared. In so far as our Presbyterian Mission is known, people are coming to understand that it is nothing to be feared, and in the country fields there are growing evidences that the attitude of apathy or distrust is yielding to one of discussion as to the merits or demerits of the Gospel. Three evangelists are faithfully at work on their respective circuits, a service that certainly requires more devotion on their part and ought to provide more light to those who sit in darkness than if each one should confine himself to a single chapel during the twenty-nine or thirty days of each moon. Five men were baptized at one of the country Stations, making a total of nine so received during the year. The present communicant membership of the Station, not including Evangelist Hwang and wife, is twenty-four.

MEDICAL.—This being the first year of Dr. Robertson's medical services, these were confined to such patients as thrust themselves upon him, who were for the most from among our own people or their friends. Some eighty-five patients received treatment, in addition to the doctor's services during the last illness of Margaret Gelwicks. The doctor regards the people as eager for treatment and that the prospects for hospital work are very bright. From a small stock of simple remedies Mrs. Gelwicks has relieved frequent cases of suffering, notably cases of burning or scalding of children.

WOMEN'S WORK.—

During the whole year, however, two weekly meetings for women were held, one at each of the chapels. An encouraging advance of the year was the inducing of several wives of church members to meet regularly to learn to read or to study a catechism. Five women have thus been studying regularly. Both Mrs. Gelwicks and Mrs. Crabb have received many women visitors in their homes.

EDUCATIONAL.—

During the middle of his second year, or about April 1, Mr. Crabb opened a boys' day-school, using an old Chinese building on the property and the services of his personal language teacher, there being no funds available for this work. Nine boys, two of whom are children of church members, have been in attendance.

Beginning in February Mrs. Gelwicks has conducted a girls' day-school with five regular pupils, the expense of the same being met from private funds. The two older girls, who were also under instruction last year, have memorized and recited the entire Gospel of John in Chinese.

Theological Class.—

The Mission's theological class of six students was taught during January, February and March, with recitations every day, except Sabbaths and the first of the Chinese year. Of the students three were from Hengchow, one from Chenchow, two from Siangtan. The students all worked hard and their attainments were in the main satisfactory.

As a part of his training each student was required to give at least one evening a week, an evangelistic address at one of the Station's chapels, and to attend Sabbath preaching service and Christian Endeavor meeting, together with Wednesday evening Bible class for church members, at which the Bible study text-books of the Y. M. C. A. are used. At Sabbath morning church service a series of twelve sermons was preached, designed especially for the class, and embracing cardinal points of Christian belief and conduct. A full written outline of each sermon was given to each student prior to the service.

CHENCHOW STATION.

The past year's work has been one of progress and increased blessing and happiness. Greater additions than in any previous year have been made to the church, the whole number baptized during the year being thirty-five. The annual Bible Study Conference at Chinese New Year's time was held with increased attendance and greater interest and helpfulness to all. The C. E. Society, with a membership of nearly fifty, has continued to be a help and inspiration. The hospital and dispensary have treated more patients than in any previous year. The boarding schools have had more pupils than ever before, and the work is better and is organized strictly according to the Mission's course of study. More women's meetings have been held and have been better attended than before. The two new houses have been completed and are found comfortable and satisfactory. The foundation for the new hospital has been laid.

EVANGELISTIC.—The additions to the churches have not been large, two having been baptized at Kia Ho and four adults and seven children at Linwu. The work has been crippled by the death of the preacher at Kia Ho and the practical destruction of the Linwu church building. The fact that this Station is near to Lien-chou has made the fear of persecution a deterring factor. Through the kind offices of Mr. Locke, who brought the matter to the attention of the local authorities, the condition has been changed.

Early in the year a small shop was rented in a central location and repairs were made, fitting it for a street chapel. It was opened during the Chinese New Year season, and two services have been held daily. Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Locke also held Bible study classes four times a week. The crowds have been large and the attendance well sustained. The evening preaching, a new feature of the work here, is a great success, many merchants and craftsmen attending these services. For lack of room two services are held on Sabbath mornings.

The second annual Bible Study Conference was held during the Chinese New Year season, in the school building for lack of a better place. The visiting guests ate and slept at the hospital and the school. Those in attendance from the out-stations were nearly fifty. Courses of lectures and sermons were given on books of the Bible, and at the close of the conference the Lord's Supper was celebrated, over fifty partaking, and twelve were examined and baptized.

At the out-stations, Lansan, Hsingning, Yuihsing and Kweiyangchow, work has been carried on by occasional trips of Dr. Lewis, Mr. Locke and Mr. Mitchell, and while the work has been hindered by lack of men and buildings, it has been encouraging as presenting a great opportunity some day to be improved.

Itinerating.—There is a vast field, and little real work is possible until three or four zealous evangelists can be obtained. The great need is native workers. May the Lord of the harvest thrust forth his own called Chinese laborers into this needy field.

Woman's Work.—Weekly evangelistic services, conducted by Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Locke, were held in the Ma Teo Si building until Chinese New Year. Later weekly evangelistic services were held on the new compound, conducted by Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Derr, and also in the chapel on Sabbath mornings, conducted by Mrs. Locke. The attendance at all of these services has been good; much more regular and attentive than last year. The women seem to come now from a real desire to worship, and not out of pure curiosity.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Girls' Boarding School has had a successful year. There were nine pupils—five elementary grade, three second grade, and one advanced grade. Besides thorough instruction in the regular curriculum, the girls were taught needle work and various household accomplishments. Perhaps the most important result in regard to their health and general culture, and certainly the most conspicuous, was the improvement in the personal appearance and cleanliness.

Boys' Boarding School.—The Fall term opened September 18. There were seventeen boys in attendance. Mr. Mitchell had charge of the school till December 1st, when Dr. Derr returned and took charge. Each evening, from 7 to 9 P. M., the pupils gather in the main room and study in silence. This is a departure from the orthodox Chinese method, where the boys study out loud so that the teacher may know they are not idling. A teacher was present each evening to preserve order.

Fourteen of the larger boys earned part of their expenses by manual labor, helping in the leveling of the compound. Besides the financial benefit, this outdoor work was excellent exercise. A day was set apart for field day sports and prizes were awarded in contests in running and jumping.

The boys are mostly of sturdy mountaineer stock, have a rugged build and enjoy excellent health. There was no case of serious sickness. The pupils are favorably inclined to religious instruction, most of them coming from Christian homes. During the Bible Study Conference five of the boys united with the church.

MEDICAL WORK.—During the seven months from October to April the hospital had only five in-patients, of whom four were opium cases. The out-patient work was well patronized, and the doctor gave over 2,700 treatments, or an average of about twenty patients daily. Sun Pao Chen, who has been chosen as hospital evangelist, spent three months in the theological training class at Hengchow with marked improvement in his Biblical knowledge and zeal for winning souls. Since his return he has been giving valuable assistance in the street preaching chapel. Dr. Lewis hopes this Fall to start one of two boys in the study of the elements of medicine, so that in a few years they may enter a good medical school for thorough training.

On the 4th of October, 1906, land was bought for a hospital compound. During the Fall and Winter the wall was built and the hospital foundation was laid. The work of building is being pushed, in the hope that it will be completed this Fall, especially since so many will desire to take the opium treatment, in view of the Emperor's recent edicts. Appropriation for the land and wall are needed.

CHANGTEH STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—

There has been a steady prosecution of this work by the pastor and the two evangelists. One of the evangelists gives his entire time to work in connection with the hospital, preaching in the street chapel to out-patients on dispensary days, and teaching and catechising the in-patients. The other evangelist preaches in the street chapel two evenings in the week, takes turn with the pastor in the Sabbath services, conducts the class for inquirers, and in general does the work pertaining to his office. These men pursue a regular course of study, the class being held on Monday evening.

Ten members have been received into the church during the year, the membership now being forty. A class of instruction for increasing knowledge of the Bible and for strengthening the spiritual life of these Christians is held weekly, and the character and conduct of a very few have given cause for grief.

The contributions of our Christians have been liberal. They pay 1,000 cash each month toward the support of one of their number, whom age and infirmity have incapacitated for work; they help to support one who is away studying for preparation as a Bible woman; they made a very liberal contribution for famine sufferers; they have paid for the books that are used in Bible study and in other ways have shown themselves, in proportion to their ability, cheerful and liberal givers. In our church there are three families in which every member of the family is a Christian and in one of the families three generations are represented—grandmother, son and grandson.

EDUCATIONAL.—The work of education, at present limited by lack of accommodations, gives great promise of the future through the acquirement of new property.

The Girls' Day-school had an attendance of thirty-three, this number being practically sustained throughout the year.

For the Boys' School land has been bought about three miles from our present location, on the opposite side of the river on a hill known as Teh Shan (or the Hill of Virtue). It is approximately 300 by 700 English feet in size. On this site a four-room residence, suitable for the missionary in charge, has been built, and this has been surrounded by a bamboo fence, but no other improvements have been made. There remains on hand for the furtherance of this enterprise $1,872.90 (gold), and while this amount is not sufficient to complete the school and build a wall around the place, we hope to obtain the necessary sum.

The Girls' Boarding School.—With money given by the Woman's Annual Missionary Meeting held in Paris, Texas, last year ($5,000) for the establishment of this work, a site for this school was purchased, the location of which is on the same street as our present compound, about three blocks away. The measurements of this piece of ground are something over 60 by 300 feet. The purchase price was slightly over $1,000 gold, leaving nearly $4,000 with which to further the work.

WOMAN'S WORK.—

The ladies of the Mission have been most earnest in doing evangelistic work among the women. Mrs. Logan, in addition to hospital duties, has preached to the women and held a special class on the Sabbath. Mrs. Preston has visited in a number of homes.

MEDICAL.—

During the past year the work has been strengthened in the person of Dr. W. L. Berst. Dr. Berst took full charge of the medical work, Mr. Preston serving as interpreter during most of the time Dr. Logan was taking his vacation in the Summer.

The Station report says:

Next, perhaps, in our thankfulness to having Dr. Berst is the knowledge that our three Chinese medical students—Pao, Kong and Tai—have been making such good progress in the medical college at Hankow. Pao, God willing, will join our work in March next year, being a full M.D. with an enviable record both in morals and study, not inferior so far as book knowledge is concerned, so his teachers tell us, to the average graduate in England or America.

He has agreed to work for us for the munificent allowance of $12 Mex. (about $6 gold) per month, with the understanding that this shall be advanced from time to time as he may seem to deserve.

Kong and Tai follow Pao one and two years later, respectively, and we hope that they may all be retained in the Mission as assistant physicians in our different Stations. The cost of giving these boys a medical education has been about $55 Mex. a year each, and has been paid chiefly by private funds of the missionaries.

During the year we have had more calls from the official class than ever before. The taotai and the present magistrate are both friendly to the work and have given subscriptions of about $100 Mex. each to the work in recognition of services rendered during the past two years. The time seems to have arrived when we can start a subscription list among the officials and more prominent business men and thus take another step toward self-support. It has been the policy of the Station to work toward self-support cautiously but surely, and every year has found us further on the road to this ideal.

Dr. Logan writes:

The work of the year has shown an increase over past years and has been made pleasant by the coming of my colleague, Dr. Berst, who has brought help, hope, cheer and counsel to the work. Another pleasant surprise has been a substantial voluntary subscription from the taotai, accompanied by a fine sign-board setting forth fancied virtues of the doctor. A duplicate of this board was made in red satin with gold letters with the explanation that it was to be carried about wherever the doctor should go—presumably as a credential to the unsuspecting public. A larger half of the honor we have received should go to Dr. Tooker, who first attended this official at Hengchow and who rendered a far greater service than we of Changteh did. Evidently the gift was made where it was most needed rather than where it was deserved.

A great need is a building for a woman's ward, for the reason outlined as follows:

Having but one building for in-patients, with only twenty-five beds, and having had painful experience in trying to accommodate both men and women patients in this building, we have adopted the necessary rule of excluding all women in-patients. The gift of $1,000 gold that was given some years ago by the Cumberland Woman's Board to help buy the adjoining land, was recently transferred to the Girls' School account by the donors, because we had not been able to buy the adjacent property. We had hoped that this amount might be retained and increased by a like sum, thus enabling us to provide in a modest way for the care of some of the women patients who often come long distances for treatment. No one but a nurse or a doctor knows the pain that comes from turning away poor suffering women who might be cured if we had any place to house them.

The hospital report closes as follows:

There has been an increasing willingness on the part of the Chinese to come as in-patients and to submit to surgical operations, and we are most thankful to our Heavenly Father that there has never been a death in the hospital of any patient whose condition was not considered practically hopeless by the Chinese when he was brought in. While this is true, we are still far from the point when we can attempt all necessary operations that involve great danger to life, for our good name might be easily lost if we had only an occasional fatality in surgical work.

The statistics for the calendar year 1906 are as follows:

Out-patients, old and new.....	7,323
In-patients	157
Operations with local or general anæsthetic.....	114
Operations without anæsthetic.....	363

TAOUEN STATION.

The work is progressing about as last year. There is a Bible class for men and also a class of from thirty to forty boys, the outgrowth of which is a day-school of fifty boys; some of these little fellows are very zealous in the study of the Bible and the singing of songs. They sometimes gather at one of the boys' homes and will hold a meeting, such as singing, reading of Scripture, and prayer, having audiences ranging from 50 to 100. Many are throwing away their idols and some of these boys refuse to worship the idol.

The reading room has been found to be a great help in reaching the educated class. Many of the students of the different schools of the city come to listen to the Gospel on Sundays, as they do not have school on Sunday. What is needed is an addition to the number of books and periodicals; for it is imperative that the appetite for knowledge which has been awakened should be satisfied by the kind of reading that will establish the faith of the more intelligent Chinese.

Medical work has been carried on as well as possible with a meagre equipment and several critical cases have been treated.

A street chapel service is held every night, Sunday and midweek. These are all well attended. There is also a 4 o'clock prayer meeting for the school workers, and any others that may wish to attend. The Station was without an evangelist for three months, and has only an earnest but not a learned man now. The doorkeeper and bookseller is developing into a good worker, and is one of those who have been received into the church. He sells books from 10 A.M. to 4 P.M. each day of the week.

This is one of the Stations where the house problem is most acute, as the following will show:

We are very much hampered in our work by not having a suitable place in which to live. Our house is worse than many of the stables in which the people at home keep their horses. It is dark and damp and has the foul smells that accompany many of the Chinese houses. Four of our rooms are uninhabitable except for the rats, the filth from a neighboring cesspool soaking in through the wall, and there are no available houses for rent. We had to leave our work a month earlier than we would have done if we had had a suitable house.

KIANG-AN MISSION.

NANKING: on the Yang-tse-Kiang, 90 miles from its mouth; occupied as a Mission Station, 1876. Missionaries—Rev. Charles Lehman and Mrs. Lehman, Rev. W. J. Drummond and Mrs. Drummond, Rev. J. C. Garritt, D.D., and Mrs. Garritt, Rev. J. E. Williams and Mrs. Williams, Miss E. E. Dresser, Miss M. A. Leaman, Miss Jane A. Hyde, Miss Grace Lucas, Rev. Alfred V. Gray and Mrs. Gray, Mrs. A. M. R. Jones.

HWAI-YUEN: 150 miles northwest of Nanking; occupied as a Mission Station, 1892. Missionaries—Rev. E. C. Lobenstine and Mrs. Lobenstine, Rev. D. B. S. Morris, Rev. J. P. Cochran and Mrs. Cochran, Samuel Cochran, M.D., and Mrs. Cochran, Miss Rose Lobenstine.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. W. J. Drummond, Rev. J. E. Williams and Mrs. Williams, Rev. J. P. Cochran and Mrs. Cochran, Samuel Cochran, M.D., and Mrs. Cochran.

The work of famine relief, which cost the life of Mr. Faris of the West Shantung Mission, took Mr. Jones from the Nanking Station. While working in the famine region, he contracted typhus fever, and after two weeks of struggle, passed away in Nanking on June 24. Mr. Jones went to the field in August, 1905, but had already, in this short time, made excellent progress in the language and had come to fill a large place in the life and work of the Station. Mrs. Jones decided to remain in the work, and there were sent out from the United States, the Rev. and Mrs. A. V. Gray, to reinforce the Station. Mr. Gray being already acquainted with the language through previous service in China in connection with the China Inland Mission.

Among the visitors to the Station during the year were the Rev. John Fox, D.D., Mrs. Charles Cuthbert Hall and Miss Delano, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Noyes, of St. Paul; Mr. L. H. Severance and Dr. Ludlow, of Cleveland, and Mrs. F. C. Stone, of Saginaw.

NANKING STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The country Station of Tung-Dzing met with a great loss in the death of Elder Gung Sih-dji, who had been for many years a faithful worker, building up in his village a church of more than forty members and bearing for many years, a good Christian testimony among the five or ten thousand villagers round about his home.

The two churches in Nanking have been without Chinese pastors, the missionaries acting as stated supplies and the students from the Theological Seminary aiding in the services. Dr. Li, the Chinese evangelist, whose visit a year ago made a deep impression upon the Station, made a second visit in December, the missionaries as well as the Chinese Christians benefiting by his clear and searching addresses.

STREET CHAPELS.—Mr. Leaman writes:

Our street chapel work has been largely neglected on account of insufficient help, but much has been done, especially on Sabbaths, to meet and to reach the masses on the street as they pass through the city from all the provinces in China. Among these are students and young policemen and soldiers, all awake to the new things that are happening in China.

Dr. Garritt says:

Occasional preaching in street chapels has convinced me that the present is a time for concentrated work in preaching the Gospel. Listeners never were more quiet and respectful, and the character of those who attend our street chapels is far more satisfactory than in the past. China is beginning the quest for truth and knowledge. Preachers must be both trained and employed.

At Shwang-tang the most fruitful work of the year has been carried on. Five of the adults baptized were from this place, mostly satin weavers.

Since August of last year, there has been a day-school here taught by an old Christian named Djang. Half of his salary is paid by patrons of the school and half by the Mission. This man, now over sixty years old, has been an opium-smoker almost all his life, but when he became a Christian, he broke the habit of his own accord, and with no other help than the grace of God.

COUNTRY WORK.—The country work has been carried on at Tung-Dzing, Shwen-hwa-djeng, Sing-dien, Lih-shui, Tien-wang-si, Shang Kan, Du-han, Sueh-pu and Lih-yang.

Shwen-hwa-djeng.—This place, so long barren of fruit, has at length begun to bud and blossom as the rose. It is much more difficult than the other Stations, Lih-shui or Tien-wang-si, inasmuch as there are few settlers from other provinces. Superstition and idolatry are much more firmly established among the natives than among these settlers. Yet fully half of the inquirers and nearly all the members are natives of the place. They have not escaped petty persecution. The small official is very friendly and much interested in Christianity.

Sing-dien.—Four years ago the work was begun here in a day-school room conducted by one of the first inquirers, but before the year was out, a house was leased for a term of three years and fitted up as a chapel. All this initial outlay, amounting to fully $200 Mexican, was borne by members of the Mission and city church. This Station has now become five Stations. There are now twenty-four members and about fifty inquirers. Of these members, thirteen have been baptized during the year—four in the Autumn and nine in the Spring.

Under old Mr. Liu's management, but unknown to the old man, several things went on among the Christians which were not creditable to their Christianity. Most of these irregularities were committed by one man who had become greedy of gain and ambitious of power. About one-half of the members approved of his course and were under his influence. One clear case of extortion and unjust dealing came up in which the Session insisted that restitution be made. When he refused, the case was put into the hands of the local official. He immediately came to terms and agreed to do whatever the Session required.

Lih-shui.—After two and a half years, these half-dozen inquirers have increased to more than 200. Most of the 160 persons present each Sabbath are only inquirers and cannot be depended upon for much help. Many of them come from long distances, as much as twenty miles.

Du-han.—About half way between Sing-dien and Shwen-hwa-djeng and about fifteen miles from either place is a group of Christians, half of whom attended services at the one place and half at the other. To travel fifteen miles to church and fifteen home again every Sabbath, hot or cold, rain or shine, was too much for even the strongest (and several are old gray-headed and gray-bearded men). So while attending the meeting of the Session at Shwen-hwa-djeng, they requested permission to secure a place of worship in their own neighborhood. This was granted and before the month of April was out, they had secured a thatched house for $15 leased for four years—at a village named Du-han.

Of some of the country woman's work Miss Dresser writes:

This was our first visit to Tien-wang-si, and if a large crowd meant a warm welcome, we had nothing to complain of in that direction. All our time was spent in the chapel telling over and over again the old story. From early in the morning to late in the afternoon we were almost never without an audience. From seventy to one hundred men would stand for two or three hours giving almost perfect attention while we addressed the women.

After our first Sabbath service at Tien-wang-si, one of the Shang-kan inquirers came up and urged us so to visit them that we felt we must not refuse. Fearing to break up the meetings at Tien-wang-si which were so well attended, we left Miss Hyde and the Bible women in charge, and with a man to carry our bedding, Miss Lucas and I started for Shang-kan, a walk of about thirty li. We arrived about noon at the village and it was soon spread abroad that we were there. The inquirer who had gotten up long before daylight and walked the thirty li to Tien-wang-si to show us the way, and had been with us ever since, conducted us to the chapel, a house which had been recently rented by the people themselves and set aside for worship. Never any usher in our large churches in the home land, or verger in the oldest and most beautiful cathedral, opened the door with more pleasure and pride than did our friend in the little country village. Maybe for the moment the thought came, "What an old barn!" but it was only for a little moment—we were reminded of Bethlehem and the manger, and His presence filled the place with glory. We rejoiced with them; it was beautiful; it was all their own—and we believe, for His sake, opened that they might know Him.

Our service commenced about one o'clock—at three I tried to dismiss the men, but they were not of the same mind and refused to be dismissed. The next service continued until half-past four when I convinced a few that my mission was to the women. By about six my throat and voice had given out, and for a time Miss Lucas sang to them and taught them. Finally, with the setting sun our audience withdrew.

Among the many interesting people whose lives we have touched, one of the most interesting is an old man who attended most of our services at Tien-wang-si. He had never before heard any one tell the Gospel story—I think he had never been in our chapel. A few months previous to our visit he had borrowed a New Testament and had read through the four Gospels, John's Epistles, and Revelation. My attention was first drawn to him by hearing him ask the Bible woman if foreign countries were like John's description of Heaven, and if foreign cities were like the New Jerusalem. I felt a little bit nervous until I heard Wong Da Ma's answer.

One day I heard him telling Wong Da Ma what he had read of the wonders of the Beautiful City, and she was helping him to recall the description John had given. I listened for some time, and while I was listening and praying a great longing came to me to be able to make the message so plain to him that he could not fail to understand. I asked him if he wouldn't like to see this New Jerusalem, if he wouldn't like to go there. I think I shall never forget the look he gave me. I have never before seen such a clean, pure face outside the church, and I am afraid must say very few in it. He was an old man of seventy-eight, with snow white hair and such a trustful disposition. I repeated, "Wouldn't you like to go there?" He said, "Why! I couldn't go there; it is not for me." I need not tell you that we tried to make very plain to him that it most certainly was for him and for all who would repent and believe. Daily he came to us, and daily we told him of the One who said, "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life, no man cometh to the Father but by Me."

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Girls' Boarding School.—

More than seventy girls have been in the school during the year. A new building has been provided and a kindergarten opened, of which Miss Lucy Leaman, who had spent her furlough of a year in studying and teaching kindergarten work at home, took charge.

Miss Leaman writes:

Though only opened last November, the new department has attracted a good deal of attention, and promises to be much appreciated by the Chinese. A wealthy Chinaman came two or three times near the close of school to see about his two children entering the kindergarten. He had been educated in Japan, and having lately moved to Nanking was troubled lest his girls should not have the educational advantages he wished to give them. In order to be sure that a place would be kept for them, he wanted to pay in advance their Fall tuition, but was in doubt as to whether they would come as day-pupils or boarders. He wanted them to come as boarders, for he knew they would learn more, but he feared they would become Christians—not so much for their sakes, as because he felt he would have to marry them to Christians, and he did not wish to be limited in his choice.

Union Christian College.—

The union of the Boys' Boarding School with the Christian College, which was consummated at our last Mission meeting, went into practical operation with the opening of the Fall term in September. The school has been open for nine months with an enrollment of 109 at both places, Gu-lou and Hu-buh-giai. The average attendance has been eighty-nine, sixty-four at Gu-lou and twenty-five at Hu-buh-giai.

More than half the students are professing Christians, and quite a number give a portion of their time to direct preaching. The spirit of fraternal unity is marked; no feeling of rivalry or jealousy because of their differing church relations being indicated.

Fourteen women have been under instruction during the year in the Woman's School.

Theological Seminary.—The Union Theological Seminary, jointly supported by the Missions of the Northern and Southern Presbyterian Churches, opened the doors of its new dormitory on October 5, 1906. The school has now in the higher Seminary Department ten students, and in the Bible Training School twenty-four.

These students, on matriculation, were found to present such varying degrees of preparation that classification was difficult. Two classes were arranged in the seminary proper, and two in the training school department. The Board of Directors, at its meeting in May, approved of the arranging of two district courses; one as advanced as possible, for graduates of schools, giving a thorough course preparatory to the ordained ministry, while the other should take men of less preparatory training, and give such Bible training as will equip them to be useful lay evangelists. Each course to consist of three years.

Special gifts have been made for the equipment of the Seminary, but additional money for a second dormitory and other buildings is urgently needed.

Dr. Garritt writes:

In addition to our Kiangsu and Chekiang constituency, the Hunan Mission is looking to us to educate ministers for them; and other Missions near by us are asking us to train some of their young men. There is no call more urgent throughout China to-day than that for thoroughly trained, consecrated preachers. We appeal to the Church at home to equip us suitably for this tremendous work. It is impossible to do this work without the plant; and we ask therefore for the needed funds, accompanied by incessant intercession and prayer for these students, that they may receive the true inward call of God, like that which sent the prophets of old to their work.

Dr. Garritt, accompanied by the Chinese pastor and Mr. Chen, the Chinese instructor in the Seminary, made a tour among the schools and colleges of the Presbyterian Missions in Central China, during which forty students in six schools decided for the ministry.

FAMINE RELIEF.—Miss Hyde writes:

During December refugees came pouring down in great numbers from the famine districts in the north, and formed large encampments outside the west, south, and east gates of the city. Those who could get employment mostly came inside. In the outside camps there were about 15,000 huts which were estimated to contain 45,000 persons. Subscriptions were taken up among the foreigners and also the churches, amounting to over $1,000. Meeting after meeting was held to decide what form our help should take. Every scheme proposed had its difficulties, but at last it was decided to spend about $600 in wadded garments to be distributed among the most needy, as the Government was giving out rice. Some of the garments were bought from the old clothes shops, some from the pawn shops, and some were made by the women and girls from the Mission schools.

The next problem was how to distribute them. It was generally felt that it was impossible to do this without the co-operation of the officials, which was very difficult to obtain, as they were much afraid of disturbances breaking out. Finally, in co-operation with the Viceroy, who himself gave out 12,000 garments, the distribution was made, but not until the end of January. Then the next thing was to secure employment for as many men as possible. Here the Government refused to co-operate with us, but the recent purchase by the various Missions of several ponds, which required to be filled in, gave the needed opportunity.

I have heard people say—but I think maybe they had never tried it—that one cannot preach to starving bodies. We found that not only could we go among them and tell of the Father's love, but that they received us gladly. In the beginning, it was the Gospel message only that we gave them—later on, we could help relieve the bodily sufferings too, by medicines, money, and clothing, caring especially for the sick women and children. Starving mothers had starved babies, and never have we enjoyed anything more than the feeding of those babies. In this way, we found use for several cases of condensed milk. But the best of all was telling of the One who loved us so well that all we could do was because of that constraining love.

HWAI-YUEN STATION.

The Station, through the generous contributions of friends at home, especially in the Central Presbyterian Church, has been able to enlarge its property and provide some of the buildings needed for the work. Residences, hospitals, church building, girls' school building, have either been erected or are promised, and money has been given, also, for a steam launch and a native house-boat, which can be fitted up comfortably, and which will make it much easier for members of the Station to take trips between the Stations and Chinkiang on the Yangtse River, and which will enable the missionaries, also, to itinerate on the inland streams.

The Chinese workers from the Shantung Province whose term of service had expired came back from Shantung from a home visit, making real sacrifices and foregoing Government positions, in which they could have earned three or four times the salaries which they receive from the Mission.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Of the local church service, the report states:

Mr. Morris has acted as stated supply this year.

The outsiders always listen with amazement and interest to the singing and to the congregation repeating psalms, the commandments, creed, etc. Twenty-one were added to the church this year on confession of faith. Great care is used before receiving inquirers into full membership, but even so there are some of the Christians who disappoint us. This year we have realized as never before the need of a larger church. Our school children alone occupy one-half our present chapel. For weeks this year it was necessary to close our doors when the service began in order to insure quiet and reverence. The windows were full of people several rows deep and the courts thronged with men and women very persevering in their efforts to gain admittance. Closing the doors put quite a premium on the services. It is therefore with great joy and thankfulness that we accept God's timely provision for this great need, by a gift of $5,000 (gold) from Mr. Barber, a member of the Central Presbyterian Church in New York, with which to build a suitable house of worship in Hwai-yuen.

Work has been carried on at the two out-stations of Teng-yang-fu and Keng-kia-ts'un.

Keng-kia-ts'un.—The end of November Messrs. Morris and Cochran went out to this village for over Sunday, in order to dedicate the little mud chapel that has been completed there. It was built by the villagers, who contributed generously both in money and work, aided by their friends in the Nanking and Hwai-yuen churches.

Unfortunately Mr. Sun, who had had this work so much at heart, was absent on his vacation in Shantung, but Mr. Cochran took ten of the older school-boys with him and a few of the native Christians from Hwai-yuen also went along. The village Christians entertained them all and the presence of so many strangers and the report of the dedication of the new church attracted a large crowd. Sunday morning the Christians all gathered at the house of one of the leading church members and marched in a body to the church, singing, "Jesus loves me," one of the few hymns that most of the country people can sing. The services were orderly, and impressive and interested all the outsiders who came to look on. Many of those accepted into the church have been from this one place. Through the direct work of the Christians there four men have broken off opium this year. The story of one of them is interesting. Mr. James Cochran says of him: "He was one of several fellows who stole a coffin which one of the church members had prepared for his old father. The old gentleman was disconsolate; seventy years old and no coffin, a disgraceful state of affairs for a respected, well-to-do man. The coffin was recovered and the thieves treated so decently that it made a deep impression on one of the culprits. He was persuaded to break off his evil ways, including opium. Only three are left now in the village who use opium."

Of the itinerating trips, Mr. Morris writes:

We went to Hsu-cheo-fu, where relief work was being carried on by the Southern Presbyterians, in order that we might study their methods and difficulties in the work. We also visited Li-cheo, Ling-pi-hsien, and Nan-hsu-cheo. We saw much to sadden us. The poverty was appalling, increasing as we went to the north. In all of these cities we called on the officials, but their attitude to any relief measures was most discouraging. One of these men frankly told us China was overpopulated and it would be a good thing if half the people died. We reported fully what we saw to the Shanghai Famine Relief Committee.

February 27, Mr. Morris made a three days' trip to Wang Chuang, the poorest part of our Hsien. Conditions were bad. The "city elder," a man over seventy, came several times to the inn and besought him with tears to help them.

In one village Mr. Morris and the helper were forcibly detained by the refugees. They had much difficulty in getting away.

Miss Lobenstine writes of the evangelistic work in the Woman's Class:

The hard times this year did not effect the attendance on the services, except to increase the numbers who flocked to them. Many, we know, came hoping to get famine relief tickets, others hoped we would either buy or adopt their children, and some wanted to beg, pure and simply. We had to shut them out of the Sunday morning service, but all were welcome at the women's meetings held on Sunday and Wednesday afternoons. Frequently we had with us at these meetings some of the best families in town. Ten or more women of a household besides children, amahs and slaves, would come and make a day of it, visiting the school before and after the service.

This Spring Mrs. J. Cochran rescued three infant girls that had been left on the mountain behind our compounds to die. All that medical skill and devoted nursing and love could do was done, but one after the other they died. This experience helped us to realize more fully things that are constantly going on all about us, so sad and terrible as to be almost untellable.

Missions everywhere are beginning to realize that heathen orphanages, old women's homes, etc., are not enough. Christians here in China must have a large part in organizing and conducting on purely Christian principles, slave homes, rescue homes, blind asylums, lepers' homes, and orphanages. These, we are glad to see, are springing up all over the empire.

EDUCATIONAL.—Boys' School.—

Mr. Bentel, China Inland Missionary of Cheng Tang Kuan, brought eight boys to the school in the Autumn and kindly took charge of the school while Mr. James Cochran was absent in Nanking.

Since the Governor's assassination, it has been said, all Government schools will be closed in An-hui Province. If this is carried out, it will make our Mission schools more popular, for the people realize now that their sons and daughters must be educated in western methods of study.

Throughout the year Mr. Morris had charge of the vocal instruction and of the athletics. Their favorite sport is basket ball. Part of the year they had military drill under a native instructor. At Christmas time Mr. Morris got up an entertainment with the schoolboys that was greatly appreciated by the whole community. They repeated it on another night for the benefit of the other schools in town.

New property has been purchased near the other compounds, and we hope our boys' school will soon have commodious and convenient accommodation, with large athletic grounds.

We are grateful for the two splendid Shantung teachers and for the young Hwai-yuen teacher, who make up the teaching staff. They all have the best interests of the school at heart, and are all men of ability.

Girls' School.—The Station report states:

We had no school building, no matron, and no equipment, but finally Miss Lobenstine decided to receive these few girls into her home. If she had known a great deal less about the risks of such an undertaking it would have made it considerably easier.

Beds were hurriedly improvised out of boards and boxes, dishes and a simple native cooking outfit purchased, and we began a new order of housekeeping.

The girls did all their own work, including cooking. They embroidered shoes and made coats, to help earn their support.

The daily scrambles on the mountain are doing more to make the girls with tiny feet want to unbind, than all our entreaties. They love these tramps.

For the coming year we have fitted up some native houses belonging to the Mission and connected with our compound. While they are far from what we could wish they will answer for the present.

We feel sure that this, the only school for girls in all the northern portion of the province, is going to grow into something worthy of our Church and Mission.

Including day-pupils, there were eighteen in the day-school.

Forty men attended the semi-annual inquirers' class. Fifteen were received into the church on confession of faith.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Cochran reports:

The extensive floods of last Summer, followed by the severe famine, reduced the number of patients who came to the hospital this year. The people were too poor to find the money necessary for the journey. In the late Autumn, however, patients came in large numbers, so that the wards were full and some patients were kept waiting for operations.

The foundations of the new hospital are about completed.

FAMINE RELIEF WORK.—

Work was begun in a small way with 100 men, but the number employed gradually grew to be 2,000. Messrs. Cochran and Morris carried on this work for many weeks.

In overseeing the work and in paying out the money every night at a temple near by, they had the help of some of the Christians and of the older school-boys.

In the majority of cases only one member of a family was allowed a ticket, so that the 2,000 workers represented a great many more who were being helped.

When the dyke was finished we expected to do other public works, and in fact had many petitions from places either in or near the city to do such works, but the Governor sent word that he wished the relief works stopped immediately, and that he would repay all funds that had been expended. Later on we heard his reason for this desire to repay the money. He said that as the United States, at the time of the San Francisco disaster had declined the money sent over from China, it would ill become China to accept our relief now. The $5,000 returned was sent to the committee at Shanghai.

The Hsien who was in office during the relief work was not only degraded, but lost his button as the direct result of allowing us to proceed, and we are now informed that the Governor has come down upon him to pay back to the Government $3,000 out of the $5,000.

Forty-five new members were added to the communicant list of the Nanking Station, and twenty-one to Hwai Yuen during the year.

PEKING STATION.

During the year there were sixteen members in the Station. The absence of some of the members was keenly felt. Dr. Griggs, who by his sympathy and skill was winning a commanding position, had to close his opium retreat, his hospital, and dispensary, owing to the health of Mrs. Griggs. Their resignation caused general regret.

Our bereavement was great in the loss of one of our wise and beloved fathers, Dr. Whiting, who nobly bore the heat of a long day, and whose memory will long remain fragrant. Our hearts were saddened afresh by the death of Mrs. Hicks in America, whither she had been compelled to go on account of failing health. We had hoped that she and Mr. Hicks might soon return to us, but her life's measure was full, and we are glad that she gave much of her strength to China.

The marriage of Mr. Gleysteen and Miss Carter, December 27, at Montclair, N. J., was a happy event and the Mission was glad to welcome them back to continue their work together.

Reinforcements gladdened the Mission. Dr. Hall arrived in the Fall to succeed Dr. Griggs, Miss Ward in the early Winter, and Mr. Hicks in the early Summer. Dr. and Mrs. Dilley came soon afterward to become the second physician required by our large men's hospital and our relation to the medical College in Peking. Miss Hoffman was cordially welcomed as the bride of Dr. Hall.

O'NEILL MEMORIAL CHAPEL AT SHUNTE-FU, NORTH CHINA.

NORTH CHINA AND SHAN-TUNG MISSIONS.

Our work suffers for want of Chinese helpers. We do not reproach ourselves for this, and are using every means to remedy this great weakness. North Peking and a country region having 700,000 inhabitants is our territory. We are to reach them all, if possible, in this generation, and point out the suffering, saving Christ. Who would dare claim that we are reaching directly and indirectly 75,000 of these million and more? Sixteen missionaries should mean easily 100 trained helpers, men and women who can give a reason for the faith that is in them. It is safe to say that we are within the limit of thirty, competent and incompetent included. The Station is to be congratulated on having several helpers, whose godly lives and gifts give great promise for the future. We were greatly distressed by the death of T'sui Y'e, one of our theological students, the choicest of the seminary, an ardent Christian leader. He inspired his fellows and the missionaries alike; and it may well be said of him, "In a short time he fulfilled a long life."

EVANGELISTIC.—The Station writes:

Our churches must be the final criterion of the success of our work. We do not believe that the church work is evangelistic, and hospital, educational and other branches of work unevangelistic. Whatever points out Jesus Christ is evangel, and whoever does it is an evangelist. Nor have we a right to regard one aspect of our work as more important than another if each is an integral part of the evangel of Christ. But in the last analysis, the fruitage of our hospitals, schools and other departments must be gathered into the church.

The church at Ertiao Hutung, of which Mr. Cunningham is the devoted pastor, has financially and spiritually mothered an infant Mission at Ching He, a large market town near Peking. The annual financial obligation is $110 (Mex.), but the important and encouraging fact is that the church is thereby thrusting itself into the hoped-for era of self-propagation. Mr. Cunningham has wisely discouraged all help from foreigners.

In the Autumn the church had a rally day. There was a large attendance and good enthusiasm. Considerable time has been contributed by various members of the church, a few going out for a month to sell books, others going out for a few days a week or a few hours. For this there was no compensation except tea money. The church raised $30 for the famine sufferers, and beside the $110 for Ching He about $50 more for other purposes.

The membership is nearly 300. After the Chinese New Year a series of special meetings was held. While these services were not what was hoped for, certain ones received new spiritual blessings and the church was drawn nearer to God. Fourteen were received into the church at the following communion. The total accessions during the year were twenty-nine; seven babes were baptized; three members were cut off from the church privileges, and four taken from among us through death.

A study class for colporteurs and local evangelists was held during the Spring, eighteen being in attendance. Dr. Fenn and Mr. Cunningham, assisted by Elder Gwoa and Mr. Johnson, conducted this class. Profitable instruction was received, and the class was very encouraging.

Mr. Johnson has also conducted the Sunday-school for non-Christian Chinese during the year. This school is composed largely of children who would only disturb the regular church service; while in this school they receive instruction which cannot but prove valuable.

While there is no church building as yet at Ya'r Hutung, the ideal set before the theological students of reaching out to win others has been made more potent over their lives by the evangelistic spirit of the seminary faculty, and by their efforts to make this place not only a centre of learning, but of soul-winning. Dr. Fenn and Dr. Goodrich have alternated preaching throughout the year, Dr. Fenn also conducting Sunday-school. The bounteous gifts of Mr. Severance, who gave $4,000 gold for new land and a church building, and of Mr. Jesup, who gave, over and above previous gifts, an additional $10,000 gold to be applied on the seminary and church, have been a great boon to the seminary. Such an equipment, however, demands that some one give his entire time to the cultivation of this field.

The men's dispensary chapel has been opened afternoons. Dr. Martin, though eighty years old, has gone to this chapel three or four times a week to preach, Dr. Wherry preaching there Sundays. During a week in the Spring Mr. Johnson took Elder Gwoa's place as preacher. Naturally here as elsewhere in chapels most of the preaching is done by Chinese helpers. A series of evening meetings was also held in this chapel and great interest was shown.

The country work has been in charge of Mr. Cunningham, assisted by Mr. Gleysteen. Owing to the demand upon Mr. Cunningham in the city, he was able to give less time to this work than he wished. He had general oversight, also making a few trips, instructing and inspiring the helpers. Mr. Gleysteen spent three and a half months helping in Bible study with the helpers and colporteurs and in preaching. Mr. Hicks spent much time since his return from America in visiting the out-stations, and in encouraging a number of school-boys who are spending their vacation in selling books and tracts in the country.

There has been a marked increase in the sale of books. At all the centres are inquirers. Last year the country field furnished the Ma Fang chapel and this year raised $30 toward the support of the country school. We are not discouraged over our country work; but we should not be too encouraged either. What it needs most is undivided attention. Including Ching He, there are eight out-stations where we have chapels. Our colporteurs also regularly go to seven or eight Stations where we have no chapels.

Our two country schools, the boys' school at Ma Fang and the girls' school at Huai Jou Hsien, have continued to do good work, and form the best base of operations in the country. The teacher of the boys' school, who also has charge of the preaching at Ma Fang, is at present in the theological seminary. He is an able, educated, consecrated man. The church in China will have to look to such men increasingly.

Miss McCoy has carried on the country work for women. Several trips were made. Once she was accompanied by Dr. Elizabeth Lewis. Two hundred and fifty patients were treated and no little interest shown. Five classes to teach women the way of life were held. The classes were not large, but some showed a deep interest. There has been much prejudice which has kept the women at a distance, but this year has been more hopeful. The prayers of the faithful and their unremitting labors will not be disappointed. This country field of 700,000 souls promises large results.

Those who conduct our schools are laboring with this in view, namely, that competent and inspired leaders will soon go out, not merely to mention the cross of Christ, as if that could save any man, but wisely and patiently to reveal to men and women that the cross of Christ is, as Rutherford said, "God's love allowance" to the frail, broken, baffled spirit.

Much excellent work has been done by the women for the women. Miss McCoy held three study classes in the city during the year. At the close of the year, eleven women who had passed satisfactory examinations were presented with certificates for work done. This pleased them very much, and they are eager to go on in their course of study.

One innovation for this year was the series of meetings held for the women concurrently with Presbytery. One session was of an educational character and one evangelistic. Some outside missionaries were invited to speak at these meetings, and it was felt that such a series should be repeated. The women's prayer meetings, in which foreign and Chinese ladies alike took part, are reported by one present as the best meetings of the year.

Miss Carter lived at Chi Shou Wei for about six weeks, hoping thereby to get closer to that constituency. She visited several homes and felt that this did really afford an opportunity. She also had the supervision of a small girls' school at Ertiao Hutung. Beside this, she took up such of the women's general work as her time from study would permit.

Good work has also been done among the women at Ya'r Hutung. There is a vigorous determination to go ahead in spite of the restrictions of equipment.

Mrs. Goodrich, of the American Board, has generously helped in this work. A large class of Christian women has been studying the International Lessons with her. Mrs. Fenn, much of whose time is occupied by her own children, has taught a class of outside women and children, being assisted part of the time by Mrs. Bi, a Bible woman. Many families have been called on, mostly by Mrs. Bi, and many persons interested. The boys' school at Ya'r Hutung, numbering fifteen, is the fruit largely of the women's work. Miserable quarters have deterred a more desirable class of boys from coming. The children's Sunday-school, often numbering 100, has kept up its interest. It speaks well for the Bible woman, Mrs. Bi, that when this school and the services were placed in her charge there was no falling off. This again is one of those prophetic signs, so welcome and gladdening to us. There are leaders among the women as truly as among the men, and they must be brought forward. It is with great pleasure that we report the gift of $1,000 gold by Mr. Severance for a kindergarten at Ertiao Hutung.

MEDICAL WORK.—The men's hospital and dispensary have been closed all year. However unsatisfactory this has been, there was no avoiding it, for Dr. Hall, being a new arrival, had to begin with language study. He has attended to such men of the Mission as were unfortunate enough to be sick. He has also looked after students of the boys' school and the servants. During the Spring, he and two medical students went regularly on Sunday to Ching He. An average number of twenty-four patients were treated, one-third of them being women and girls. The rest of his time Dr. Hall has been devoting to study of the language.

The women's hospital was, as usual, open during eleven months of the year. Dr. Leonard reports 6,704 dispensary treatments, 62 in-patients, 124 visits in homes, a total of 6,890. $360.09 was received for services rendered. The past year has witnessed one change which has had immediate bearing on the hospitals in Peking. Many Chinese dispensaries and hospitals have been opened. These all receive Government patronage and the treatment is free. The buildings are more pretentious than the Mission hospital and dispensary. As a result fewer have come to the missionary physician; while the number of hopeless cases has increased. The doctors in these new hospitals are incompetent and there is still much room for our own hospitals and dispensaries.

Two Chinese nurses have assisted in the hospital, but neither of these belong to our Mission; and next year it will be necessary to begin with raw material. Many avenues are opening to China's educated young women, and it is not easy to retain them after they are educated, though it has been proved that some will stay.

The Union Medical College for Women is now open. The study of medicine presents many attractions to the Chinese mind, and were not the requirements beyond them many would apply for such a course of study and training. Regular lectures have been given in the nurses' training school, five nurses being in attendance. Dr. Leonard has conducted a clinic twice a week at Ya'r Hutung.

Miss McKillican has given much of her time to the evangelistic work of the hospital. She notes a marked improvement in interest over former years.

During the dispensary hours and after preaching, the waiting-room becomes a school-room and little groups form here and there to study the Gospel, memorizing Bible verses and hymns. One of the patients professed faith in Christ while in the hospital. She gave satisfactory evidence of a changed heart, but was unexpectedly called into the presence of the redeemed. Miss McKillican has also assisted in the dispensary and operating room. The Bible women, Mrs. Ma and Mrs. Lien, have been very faithful and earnest.

INDUSTRIAL WORK.—This feature of our Mission is conducted on a modest scale, but it is certainly very respectable. Mrs. Whiting has given most of her time to this work. Poor girls, who themselves have never worn embroidery, have embroidered hundreds of yards. They earn from seven to fifteen cents, Mexican, a day, which is more than they can earn in any of the Chinese industrial schools.

The work has been better organized this year, and Miss Li, a devoted Chinese Christian, has charge of several girls who do this work in her home. She buys her own material, draws patterns, and brings the finished work for sale. During the past nine months over $900 worth of work was delivered. Half of the embroidery was sold in America and the rest in Peking, at a price barely covering the cost. The demand for such work is in excess of the supply. Three of the girls who were last year's workers are at present in a Chinese industrial school receiving high wages. The girls who live near by do their work in the school, but those who have learned how and live farther away take the work home with them. Aside from a considerable number who do outside work, there are twenty girls in the school. These are taught to read, as well as to sew, and Miss Li takes a personal interest in them. Last Spring three of the girls came before the Session of the church. This form of work is self-supporting, and to those who come to the Mission in distress, work can be given instead of alms. We are glad that this work is so organized that while Mrs. Whiting is absent in America it can go on uninterruptedly.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Mr. Gleysteen writes:

The primary end of educational work is the building up of the church, the training of men and women who are to be the leaders of their own people. Since we can lead the leaders much better than the masses, to whom approach is not always possible, educational institutions are the missionary's open door. There he deals with the young, the relatively unprejudiced, and the plastic material of the land.

Our Station has many children and young men and women in her day-schools, boarding schools, academy, college, medical school and theological seminary. A generation of students soon passes through the schools. What an opportunity! Having the promise of a kindergarten, there is every reason why we should aim to have a child under the influence of the Gospel of Christ from babyhood till the day of graduation from the highest school.

Mrs. Cunningham, the principal of our boys' academy, has had oversight not only of that institution, but also of an intermediate and primary department. Our two country schools, one for boys and one for girls, have well qualified teachers. The school at Chi Shou Wei has been changed from a boys' school into a girls' school. The boys' school at Ya'r Hutung recruits from still another neglected territory.

During the year, there were fifty-five students in Truth Hall (the boys' boarding school), one-half being in the academy proper. A class of six, the largest number ever graduating, acquitted themselves well at commencement. The Academy Alumni Association is being strengthened, and exerts no small influence in binding the graduates together and to the school.

Mr. Johnson took a class and had oversight of the dormitory until Spring. Mr. Cunningham conducted chapel and kept the school accounts.

In visible results, the academy's work stands well to the front. Our best and most prominent men helpers are graduates. The upper and middle grades have had fifty-six enrolled, the primary grade thirty-five, making in all ninety-one. Ten of the oldest boys banded themselves together to prevent reviling and evil talk among the smaller boys, the result being most wholesome. There has been a steady going forward in the paths of right by most of the boys.

The building of the new recitation hall has transformed the entire place from shabbiness and inconvenience to dignity and beauty. This building was dedicated in the Fall.

The College.—The educational union with the American and English Congregationalists is proving successful.

It binds us together; much more the young men. Only one of our students graduated from Tung Chou College this year. Three others are in attendance. Dr. Wherry has been our representative in Tung Chou College, going back and forth from week to week. He has taught three classes two hours each a week; Astronomy and the Evidences of Christianity to the Seniors, and Trigonometry to the Sophomores.

Of the fifty students in the Union Medical College, three were from our Station. Dr. Lewis, of Paoting-fu, gave what time he could spare from his work, teaching bandaging and diagnosis. As Drs. Hall and Dilley acquire the language, they will be able to help at the college. The opening of a non-missionary medical school outside the Chien Men, and the many dispensaries that are being opened, however unqualified to compete with our faculty of scholarly men, will nevertheless probably make a strong bid for new students, as there is no tuition fee and no prejudice against foreigners.

The Union Theological Seminary has, this year, matriculated its first regular class. Sixteen of last year's men returned and the new class numbers ten. Two of the Junior class are our men. Dr. Fenn has taught Theology, a class in the Harmony of the Gospels, and English. While Dr. Goodrich has been dean of the faculty, Dr. Fenn has had the practical management of the institution. In the Fall term, Dr. Martin gave a course of lectures on Comparison of Religions. These lectures are being prepared for the press, and it is hoped they will form a valuable addition to Christian Apologetics. Dr. Wherry had two classes in New Testament Exegesis once a week.

The handsome new seminary building was dedicated in February. Dr. Martin, Dr. Goodrich, and Mr. Bryson, of Tientsin, gave addresses. The death of Mr. Morris K. Jesup, of New York, the generous friend of the seminary, is greatly lamented.

When the call from the famine district came for men to distribute relief, Mr. Johnson, being the most available man, responded, and spent six weeks in Kiang Su in the visitation of homes, supervision of canal digging, and the distribution of relief. Mr. Gleysteen later relieved him, spending about five weeks in the same work.

LITERARY WORK.—Dr. Martin spends a good portion of his time in literary work. After finishing his valuable book, "The Awakening of China," he revised some of his Chinese books. He has also written various articles for the papers. The Wen Li Bible Translation Committee, of which Dr. Wherry is a member, have finished their translation of the New Testament. He has also been one of the committee who prepared the Sunday-school lessons for North China. Besides professional and literary duties, the work of Mission Treasurer has devolved upon him, Dr. Fenn being Station Treasurer until relieved by the kindness of Miss Ward. Dr. Fenn is still Secretary of the North China Tract Society. His concordance of the New Testament is nearing completion. He has also revised his Diatessaron during the year. Mrs. Whiting has translated some stories and written occasionally for the Peking women's daily paper.

Miss Ward has assumed the burden of Station Treasurer, taught a Bible class in English, and during the Winter often arranged literary and social programmes for such of the missionaries as were able to attend.

The Centenary Conference held in Shanghai was attended by Dr. Martin, Dr. Wherry, Dr. Fenn, Mr. Cunningham, Mr. Hicks, and Mr. Gleysteen. They were impressed with the spirit of unity and love, and with the scope and momentum of the Church in this land. The power of prayer to unite seemingly divergent elements was most manifest. The unparalleled opportunity of the printed page was set forth, and also the failure of the missionaries in China to produce anything commensurate with the needs. A new apologetic is needed for China. It is interesting to remember that Dr. Martin's "Evidences of Christianity," a book written over fifty years ago, is the most popular and valuable even to-day. Some of the satraps of China paid a tribute to missions by sending representatives. They are beginning to recognize their obligation to the Christian Church. The committee of the Layman's Missionary Movement is significant of the good faith of the home Church to arouse herself by investigation and to respond to the needs of all heathen lands. At this conference there were many wise counsels, statesmanlike deliberations, and an honest critique of missions. But what impressed us all most was not the record of successes, nor the forecasting of hopes, but the quiet, sublime faith of the conference in Jesus Christ as the rightful Sovereign of this land.

There is one kind of work which, while it adds nothing to the statistics of missions, adds to the power. There has been much hard study of the language. Miss Carter, Mr. Gleysteen, Mr. Johnson, Mrs. Johnson and Dr. Hall have successfully passed their respective examinations.

Our Station is strong and harmonious, not because of such things as are tabulated in this report, but because of what cannot be written down: "That best part of a good man's life, his little nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love."

Our hope for the future is that the love of God and Christ may this coming year be supreme in our lives. That and that alone will bring China her much-needed revival. We also return humble and hearty thanks that while two of our intimate circle cannot return to China, and two have gone to be forever with our Lord Christ, so many of us are standing here in China to-day, looking unto Him, that His radiance upon us may lighten China's darkness.

PAOTING-FU STATION.

The sorrowful event of the year was the death of Mrs. Amelia P. Lowrie, September 17.

Mrs. Lowrie was born in New York City, in 1833. March 31, 1854, she was united in marriage to the Rev. Reuben Lowrie, and together they were appointed missionaries to China. They represented a rich heritage of missionary interest, for Mr. Lowrie was a son of the Hon. Walter Lowrie and a brother of the Rev. John C. Lowrie, D.D., LL.D., both of whom were distinguished Secretaries of this Board. After the lamented death of her husband in 1860 she returned to America with her three fatherless children; but in 1883 she had the joy of seeing her son, the Rev. J. Walter Lowrie, become a missionary to China, while her daughter, Josephine, also became a missionary as the wife of Dr. B. C. Atterbury. The other child having died, Mrs. Lowrie went to China with her son in 1883 as a missionary at her own charges; and she continued her association with the North China Mission, and with her son Walter, until her death.

In 1900 she was obliged to return to this country on account of impaired health. Her son took her to Shanghai and placed her upon the steamer and then started back to his Mission. They little realized, when Mrs. Lowrie left, that appalling disaster to the Mission was about to come. Before Dr. Lowrie could reach his Station, the storm of the Boxer uprising broke, and all those who were in Paoting-fu went down to the martyr's death. Undoubtedly Mrs. Lowrie and her son Walter would have died with the others but for the circumstances which led to her return to America.

Mrs. Lowrie was a woman of unusual beauty and strength of Christian character. She entered into loving sympathy with the Chinese women and children, who loved her and revered her to a remarkable degree. Even after her health became so feeble that she was not able to do active Mission work, her presence and influence were a benediction to missionaries and Chinese alike. Her death at the age of seventy-four was peaceful and beautiful; a quiet falling to sleep of one who had long lived in close fellowship with God. Her beloved form now sleeps in the little Mission cemetery at the former compound, made forever sacred as the place where the martyrs of 1900 gave up their lives for Christ.

The changes in the Station force were the removal of Mr. and Mrs. Miller to Shunte-fu, creating a great vacancy at Paoting-fu with which they have so long been associated. The arrival of Mr. Chapin as a new missionary was gratifying to all. Born in China, the son of a missionary, his return as a missionary himself is in answer to many prayers. The departure on furlough of Dr. and Mrs. Lewis and the return after furlough of Mr. and Mrs. Killie were the transitions incident to missionary life on the foreign field, the tired missionaries going home for much needed rest and the rested ones coming back for another term of hard work.

During the twelve months, new locations for work have been opened. Man Ch'eng has, every tenth day, which is a market day, a service conducted by the Christians of that locality. This is wholly a spontaneous undertaking, started and carried on by themselves. They of course welcome any help, some of which was freely given them at the outset by Dr. Lewis's assistant, who accompanied Mr. Mather, dispensing medicines while Mr. Mather preached. At Tsang T'sun regular Sunday services are held in a house which has been leased for five years. On several market days, Dr. Lowrie with a helper spent some time at Tsang T'sun, meeting kindly greeting. At Wan Hsien, a very desirable property has been secured by Mr. Killie, at the purchase of which the official read the command of the Viceroy Yuan Shih K'ai to sell property for Christian purposes because the Christian religion teaches men to love one another as themselves. The fresh interest of the P'an family has made work at Ting Hsing take on new life. Mr. P'an is an educated man, in comfortable circumstances, and a weekly service is now held at Ku Ch'eng in the village where he lives. Pai Kou He has responded somewhat to the influence of a few women helpers, who have not been repulsed, but rather encouraged in their effort to attract the women of that large market town.

In Paoting-fu, an encouraging incident has been the attendance at the girls' school of a young married Manchu lady of eighteen. She has in every respect conformed to the demands of the school, never once, because of superior social position, putting on any airs, but studying with great faithfulness, although reciting in a class where there were some members of nine years.

The year has not been without its fruit, though there has been no remarkable ingathering of souls.

We have had but one sad experience of backsliding—a young tailor. Last year he publicly confessed having fallen into gambling sin, but appeared most honestly penitent. Later, however, he has fled from his creditors.

The Hodge Memorial Woman's Hospital has been well filled since the beginning of the new year, and the clinics, both within and without the city, have been all that could be expected.

Dr. Elizabeth Lewis has done a good work with Dr. Mackey in a variety of operations, removing almost any part of the body except the head, thus relieving long existing suffering, and in many cases saving life, which must have been given up but for this timely relief. Children have been given back to their parents, mothers restored to their families.

Dr. Lewis reports her interest in two itinerating trips, one with Miss Hicks and Miss Gowans, and the other with Miss McCoy. Both were occasions full of interest and work; nearly 300 sick people were helped and relieved, the ladies with her acting as interpreters.

The women's hospital not only has brought physical relief to many, but much valuable instruction has been given daily to the patients by Mrs. Lewis and the Chinese Christian woman, Mrs. T'sui. Later, when Mrs. Lewis left for America, Mrs. Mather took up the work and met the in-patients every morning, teaching them hymns and passages of Scripture and so influencing them that no woman leaves the hospital as she came to it, wholly ignorant of her heavenly Father and the home prepared for those who love Him. Many of the women are so happy in the hospital and become so much attached to their kind doctor that they hate to leave.

The great territory which stretches out on the map of that part of Chihli Province which is dependent upon Presbyterians for its knowledge of the way of salvation is a tremendous appeal to the workers to be instant in season and out of season. No one man nor two men can cover the ground. Mr. Mather has done a good work in Mr. Killie's absence, and fruit has been the result. In the early Spring Mr. and Mrs. Mather went up into the mountains and spent a week. The journey is conspicuous for its difficulties and fatigue. They found some earnest seekers, who came to the class and worked early and late. Five men returned from the district to the rally held in the compound. They are a responsive gathering of people, some suffering persecution from their families, but still holding steadfastly to their convictions.

There has been decided onward movement in the country work. The churches at Wan Hsien and Kuang Ch'ang have decided of their own free will to go out among adjacent villages and do personal work.

An interesting inquirer in the church at Man Ch'eng came in to break off opium, a habit of twenty years' standing. He fought the temptation nobly, trusting in the strength made perfect in weakness. He is wholly relieved and made a happy man. The once-in-ten-days meeting at Man Ch'eng is a spontaneous effort to be used in the Lord's service. It was not suggested to them, but taken up by themselves, they bearing all the incidental expenses.

Mr. Killie, returning from his furlough, divides the country work, taking up his western villages and meeting with much responsiveness. He has had some cheering experiences.

In a village about eighteen li west of Paoting-fu, as he was passing, his attention was arrested by the fact that a large temple had been torn down and on its site several school-buildings were being erected. Mr. Killie went in to examine more minutely, and was cordially received by the leading citizens who were superintending the work. They ordered the boys out for inspection, who, as they came out, gave the military salute at the command of the teacher, who gave it in English. From the temple had been removed fifteen life-sized idols, which were consigned to a straw mat shed out in the field, being no longer revered. They were literally given over to the moles and the bats. There are four dependable, earnest men among the helpers; they are not eye-servants, but responsible to God more than to men for faithful work. These four must be multiplied a full twentyfold even to approach the needs of the field. For this we do earnestly lift up our hearts to God who alone can raise up men who will feel the burden of souls.

Mrs. Killie has accompanied her husband on Sundays to Wen Chai T'un, encouraging the women to come out. Sometimes as many as twenty women were present at the service. Mrs. Killie spent some days there in order to visit the homes in their old parish.

The men are not the only workers in the broad land. Some women, under the leadership of Miss Gowans, have done a good work among some of the villages. Such as come to Miss Gowans' class, which occupies a third of each month, must carry to their homes a new vision of the future and a new interest in this life. Four women have been received at one communion, three of whom released their bound feet; these were young married women, very promising and anxious to improve. Miss Gowans has kept up a meeting for officials' wives once every ten days, the life of which seems to depend upon her calling upon them. She had met with not a little encouragement, a number of well-educated women having come to the meetings. They particularly enjoy the hymn music and one family have bought a small organ. No one can apprehend the far-reaching benefit of these meetings with a class of people who, by ordinary rules of Chinese society, are never likely to come under Christian influences, unless brought by extra effort and new methods.

Through this influence Miss Gowans has been invited to visit the orphan asylum, where also, in a room fitted up for them, is a class of officials' daughters which Miss Newton was earnestly invited to superintend. But the present arrangement is struggling into existence, and on a very uncertain foundation. One of their efficient teachers is a graduate of one of the Shantung Christian schools. She is receiving twenty Mexican dollars a month, although not in any respect the equal of our Miss Li, who receives half that amount. It is downright devotion to a good cause which retains many a helper in our missionary circles when twice their wages is urged on them by the Government.

Another living branch of the work is the girls' school. Only time to come will reveal the great good accomplished here among this happy, industrious group of young people. Eight of the number, graduated in June, will go up to the Bridgman School in Peking. For the most part from humble homes, these girls are being fitted for future homes, taught neatness and industry as well as letters and familiarity with good books. Miss Newton's work is an arduous one, but she has the advantage of some competent native helpers. A very healthy spirit characterizes the school; jealousy and evil speaking are frowned upon, while a right emulation is cultivated and much study of the Bible. Miss Newton's personal report gives a number of interesting instances of practical Christianity which show the spirit pervading the school. Several of the girls have united with the church during the year.

The boys' school has had much careful and prayerful supervision given by Mr. and Mrs. Mather and that care is not without its fruits.

A genuine revival seemed suddenly to transform the whole school, making the boys more careful in keeping the rules. Their rooms were swept cleaner, their lessons showed greater care, and entirely of their own accord they started a daily prayer meeting. Mr. Mather, however, found it impossible to do both country work and superintend the school. Mrs. Mather continues to give her time and excellent influence in the school, carrying the boys on in some lines, notably in geography and map drawing. At the new year the control of the school passed into the hands of Elder Li, who has maintained discipline. The examinations were very creditable. Five of the older boys were promoted to Truth Hall at the opening of the year, where they have conducted themselves with propriety, appreciating their great privilege in the faithfulness of their instructors.

Preaching the Gospel in the city is a wide subject. The daily afternoon chapel meets with favor. A crowd gathers, sometimes including men of letters and young students. There are now upwards of 4,000 students in Paoting-fu.

Some are reaching out after a clearer understanding of western ideas, and they doubtless come to be enlightened on this line. They have no care for their souls; many do not even believe that they have souls. Occasionally there is a moving in the valley of dry bones, but the time is coming when a great army of believers shall be led by the Spirit. Dr. Lowrie has been carrying his audience through the Gospel by Mark, having a portion each day hung on the wall where all could see it. God has raised up a true helper in Mr. Chou, who has some ability in keeping the attention of his audience. He draws his arguments from an educated man's standpoint which appeals to educated men. Mr. Li takes his turn daily in chapel when not in school work.

The daily chapel preaching was temporarily interfered with by necessary preparation for the Shanghai Conference, and it has caused many a groan over the fact that one man could not do two men's work. Scores of most interesting letters were received, some demanding answers which used up both time and strength.

The church and Sunday-school are in a normal condition. The Sunday-school is now superintended by Mr. I, a teacher in the Military College. He is a fine man of the third generation of Christians and takes interest in Christian work. The school has committed to memory the golden texts, and recited them in concert, an experience particularly useful at the close of the quarter. It has quickened some rather dull minds in understanding and remembering the lesson.

Mr. Chapin has rendered good service in the music of the church since Mr. Hersey and Mr. Cole of the Y. M. C. A. left, who led the singing with cornet and violin. Mr. Chapin rehearses with the boys the hymns to be sung, and thus is educating a future choir. He is also precentor on Sunday. He has interested himself in the school athletics, which tell on the health as well as the happiness of the boys. Mr. Chapin has also helped Dr. Elizabeth Lewis in her Bible class in English, which is attended by some students from the Provincial College.

SHUNTE-FU STATION.

The Station force received a valuable accession in the transfer of Mr. and Mrs. Miller from Paoting-fu. Mr. Miller, an experienced missionary, immediately gave an impetus to the work in all departments. But a grievous loss was suffered in the departure of Dr. Keator. After a heroic struggle against ill-health, the other physicians of the Mission were obliged to advise her that a return to America was unavoidable.

The Chinese are showing a spirit of good-will. When the missionaries returned from their Summer outings, they were greeted most cordially, and as the news spread of the foreigners' return people began coming. The missionaries soon got into touch with those who had been coming before, as well as many strangers.

The new buildings, though nearing completion, still required a great deal of time and attention.

We were rejoiced when in November the house for our single women was ready for occupancy. Later we thanked God and took courage when we were able to meet for service in the new Hugh O'Neill Memorial Church, and when in March the Hugh O'Neill Memorial Hospital was finished and opened for daily clinics and for in-patients, we began to feel we were a fairly well equipped Mission Station, and Dr. Hamilton and Mr. Hawley, being relieved from building responsibilities, had more time to devote to other things.

Regular Sunday and midweek services were established, the Sunday services being at first held in the basement of the unfinished hospital. One of the best meetings of the year was held in that basement.

In that humble place of worship we were led to exclaim with Jacob, "Surely the Lord is in this place and I knew it not." The Holy Spirit was certainly present in power. The theme considered was confession of sin. There were some frank confessions made, together with promises of restitution where it was possible to repay. One man, who had been a cook, confessed to having overcharged his master regularly on all purchases which he made for him. Another confessed having wholly neglected the spiritual interests of his family; he even admitted the presence of idols in his home, though he himself has been a believer of many years, and he promised to see to it that while he was caring for others his own garden should not be neglected. A man who had been a dealer in edible oils acknowledged having regularly adulterated his goods while continuing to charge the price of good oil for the inferior article. He expressed a willingness to make restitution. One of our helpers, Mr. Li, after manifest soul conflict with spiritual forces, arose and made confession. When in Peking he had lied to Mr. Cunningham. His sin seemed to himself the more heinous because he felt his telling an untruth had caused a brother to fall. Mr. Li confessed, with tears in his eyes, "That man's interest in Christianity seemed to wane from the day he heard me lie to my pastor."

The midweek prayer meeting was held first in Mr. Hawley's study, then in the unfinished parlor of the new house, and later in the study. The rooms for each of the above-mentioned services being small, there was no opportunity for growth in attendance. Later, in December, having the church building in which to meet, and giving out invitations more generally to the public, the attendance at both services increased. Since the occupation of the church, the regular attendance upon the Sunday services has been from 100 to 200.

At the first meetings held in the church, the chairs not having arrived we were puzzled to know how to provide seating accommodation for all. We gathered chairs, stools, and benches from various places, and yet there were days when some of the women were obliged to sit on the floor during service to rest their little feet. But now the church is provided with a complete pulpit set, chairs, and an excellent Mason & Hamlin organ, and the Sunday service has become more of a pleasure and a benefit to all.

The Sunday-school hour is a busy time with the hum of eight classes. We found the church building none too large; in fact Mr. Hawley preferred the quiet of the pastor's study for his class. Mrs. Hamilton, always in her place, surrounded by her infant class of ten or a dozen, occupied one corner of the women's room. Miss Hicks taught a class of interesting women who are learning to read. In one or two of the men's classes especially, there was marked growth in the knowledge of the portion of Scripture studied. The remaining classes were largely composed of transients, many coming for one Sunday only and not appearing again.

ITINERATION.—Six tours into our east field were made at different times by Mr. Hawley, Miss Hicks, and Mr. and Mrs. Miller. These trips were not very extended, but served to keep the missionaries in touch with the people. This country field, perhaps more than any other part of the work at Shunte-fu, requires tact, patience and judgment.

A delegation from a portion of the east field waited upon Mr. Miller, bringing a list of 150 names. These men were all ready, yea, anxious, to join the church. Mr. Miller inquired what led them to seek admittance into the church. The reply was, "It is a good doctrine." He further asked in what respect it was good. They could not reply. Mr. Miller then took his Bible in hand and read the Beatitudes, carefully explaining each one as he read. Then he asked, "Which of these blessings do you desire? Here's the promise, if you fulfill the conditions." It was evidently a new doctrine to them and such teaching as they had little desire for. We have heard nothing further from the above 150 men, but they will, of course, be followed up.

Three classes of inquirers from this field were taught at different times in the compound at Shunte-fu, the average attendance being twenty-seven. Good work was done, and the missionaries are encouraged to believe that good results will come in due time.

Mr. Hawley, in spite of the heat, made a very satisfactory trip in July. He was kindly received everywhere and listened to with respect and interest.

WOMEN'S WORK.—There is as yet no regular organized work among the women, such as inquirers' classes, etc. But much earnest and prayerful effort has been put forth to reach the women of all classes and conditions.

Spending time with those who have called and returning these calls has been our strong point, and the Lord has blessed our efforts. The little handful of women gathering for Sunday service has grown to a roomful numbering eighty or more. Visitation in the homes is work that consumes time and energy but surely brings forth results. Miss Hicks reports eight women who have regular work, following the outlined course of study for women, four of whom are making good progress. One dear old woman, perhaps sixty years of age, had the courage to celebrate the New Year without burning incense. She said it was the happiest New Year she had ever known.

Some of the women have learned to thank the Lord for their daily food, while a few have taken a step further, in learning to carry everything to Him in prayer. Market days bring crowds of women and children past our compound. On such days the gate into the women's court stands open and many avail themselves of the opportunity to see the foreigner. Some market days we have had as many as 200 or more women and children visit us. They listen for a time, buy books, a tract, or a song and go on their way. One day we sold twenty-two catechisms and a dozen or more tracts.

Mrs. Hawley spent Saturday afternoons teaching a class of little girls sewing. Like many other things, this industrial class is small in its beginning; but it has its place in the Mission work, and one of no little importance. One little girl, through fear, refused to come to the foreign doctor for treatment. Mrs. Hawley coaxed her to come to the sewing class by allowing her mother to accompany her and sit at her side during the hour. In time, Mrs. Hawley, through her kind treatment, won the heart of the little girl and she is now a regular attendant at Sunday-school.

MEDICAL WORK.—In the Hugh O'Neill Memorial Hospital and its furnishings Dr. Hamilton has a fine equipment for his medical work. The building is imposing and substantial in outward appearance, and the interior is convenient, cheerful, and roomy. The formal opening, March 1, 1907, was a busy day, as the people came early and remained late. The hospital, with its bright colored awning erected at the entrance, seemed to smile a welcome to all. Sixty invitations were issued to special guests, while the general public was notified by posters in prominent parts of the city. The general public responded as well as the especially invited guests, and it was a representative crowd which gathered on the day of the opening. The Prefect was an interested observer of all that was shown him. Before leaving, the official party visited the Hugh O'Neill Memorial Chapel, and there an opportunity was afforded of impressing the fact of the essential unity of purpose of these two institutions. Before being borne away in his chair, his Excellency expressed in most generous terms his approbation of the humanitarian enterprises in which foreign missionaries were engaged in China. The entire number in attendance at the opening was estimated at 1,500. From the first, the daily clinics were large, and in-patients soon filled the Chinese wards. Early in the Spring, the surgical patients overflowed into the large ward of the main building. In this ward they were provided with foreign beds. Dr. Hamilton says they did not take to them kindly at first, but before the period of convalescence terminated they came to prefer them to their own brick couches. Other features of the hospital were just as pleasing to the inmates. In-patients were often seen sunning themselves on the broad veranda, meanwhile enjoying the outlook.

The women's hospital, not yet having been built and Dr. Keator suffering from ill-health, medical work for women was greatly handicapped and many applicants had to be turned away. Nevertheless, Dr. Keator held daily clinics and made a number of professional visits outside, earnestly doing the best she could amid many difficulties.

LANGUAGE STUDY.—Mr. Hawley has done good work in language study. His progress was very marked from time to time as he led prayer meeting or took charge of Sunday services. Miss Hicks also found much time for language study. She has been examined on the second year's work. She makes good use of that which she has acquired.

EAST SHANTUNG MISSION.

TENG-CHOU: on the most northern point of the Shantung promontory, 60 miles south of Port Arthur, and 35 miles northwest of Chefoo; occupied 1861. Missionaries—Dr. W. F. Seymour and Mrs. Seymour, Rev. J. P. Irwin and Mrs. Irwin, Miss M. A. Snodgrass, and Mrs. Calvin Wight.

CHEFOO: an important port of call for North China steamers, on northern coast of Shantung Peninsula; occupied 1862. Missionaries—Rev. Hunter Corbett, D.D., and Mrs. Corbett, Rev. W. O. Elterich and Mrs. Elterich, Rev. George Cornwell and Mrs. Cornwell, Mrs. J. L. Nevius, Mrs. A. T. Mills, Mr. W. C. Booth and Mrs. Booth, Miss E. B. Cooper, M.D., Mr. M. Wells and Mrs. Wells, and Dr. Oscar F. Hills and Mrs. Hills.

TSING-TAU: the important German port and terminus of the new railroad to the Provincial Capital, on Kiaochau Bay, about 100 miles southwest of Chefoo; occupied 1898. Missionaries—Rev. L. J. Davies, D.D., and Mrs. Davies, Miss L. Vaughan, Rev. C. E. Scott and Mrs. Scott.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Miss L. Vaughan.

TENG-CHOU STATION.

The Station has had a great loss in the illness and enforced furlough of Miss Snodgrass. She superintended an industrial school for women and a day-school for girls and boys; directed two Bible women, one in the city and one in the Water City; arranged for two weekly prayer meetings for women; visited in city homes, received many return visits and encouraged and strengthened an Anglo-Chinese day-school for boys. The church people love her and the non-Christian Chinese almost daily inquire for her.

CHURCH AND EVANGELISTIC WORK.—There are two churches under native pastors, the city church and Lai Chow Fu District.

The city church, with a membership of 288, is still under the care of Pastor Lau, who has done faithful work. There have also been special services.

The Woman's Board of Foreign Missions issues a book of prayer for all foreign missionaries. The date this year annexed to Teng Chow Fu was the last of the Chinese year. Hearing of this world-wide circle of prayer for Teng Chow Fu, the pastor appointed these two days for special prayer meetings. These gatherings, held at the time the whole city was given over to feasting and idolatry, were marked with unusual fervor. Later on in the Spring, after a series of special services held in both the Baptist and Presbyterian churches, a revival of deep religious intensity broke out. Confession of sin and earnest prayer burst forth from the lips of both men and women in the general congregation. The results were not as great as we had expected from such a manifestation of the Spirit's power. All the church members were not revived and the heathen in great numbers were not influenced. Yet the general tone of the church was strengthened and more and better work is being done. Temperance and Christian Endeavor Societies became active and plans were made for a division of the city and systematic visitation of members and adherents absent from church services.

The revival spread to the country and representatives from the city were sent there. Later, there came from the Christians in the South District a call for volunteers to spread the knowledge of the Gospel in that section. Evangelists, school-boys, Bible women, school-girls (it was holiday time) and country Christians all joined in the work. This movement was begun and carried on without suggestions from the missionaries and all expenses of traveling and entertaining were borne by the Chinese.

As a result of the work done in the Water City, five persons have joined the church. At the request of these Christians, men were admitted to the weekly prayer meeting held there formerly for women only. The men said that they wanted to go to prayer meeting with their families.

During the summer the evangelist, Mrs. Li Hoorao Bao, after a morning's preaching in the City Museum, spent each afternoon and evening among the boatmen and their employers—often on the seashore. Evening meetings were held, some fifty more attending quite regularly, and the interest at times kept up until after midnight. There is much friendliness shown in the Water City.

Another helper received the visitors at the Teng Chow Fu City Museum and reading room, which, although still in its beginnings, attracted about 1,300 people. Cottage meetings for women were held in a new section of the city near the South Gate. A Bible woman volunteered to help. Cordial invitations were given to visit different homes. In one case, a meeting was held in a home of official rank. As a result, one woman has joined the church, another is studying, two little girls have unbound their feet, and there is an opening of a girls' day-school.

Two women's classes were taught to prepare inquirers for examination and Christians for further study. In the country, there are eight evangelists and two colporteurs. One of the latter gives his time without salary and one of the former receives half his salary from the Chinese. There are three chapels in different market towns, which are filled on market days. Rev. Swen Hi Shing, a pastor in the Tsing Dao District, has a plan for building a church in his native home in Lai Chow Fu.

Besides the special evangelistic report of the Christians in the South District, mentioned above, these Christians hold monthly meetings, each month at a different centre. All Christians are urged to attend, and men and women go ten to twenty miles to attend. Each carries sufficient food for the day, so that the local Christians are at no inconvenience, except to provide millet gruel—the staple drink of the locality—and, in rare exceptions, places to sleep. These meetings have done much to bring the Christians to unity of purpose, both as to purifying the Church and as to advancement in Christian work. They have requested Presbytery to organize a church.

At Zo Gia, one of these Christians held an inquirer's class for some three weeks in his own home at his own expense. Another, an unpaid evangelist, has built a chapel in which he has placed in plain characters, "Gospel Hall." His wife and mother gladly helped in the building by driving the mules with their loads of earth and stones. A daughter, in this home, voluntarily taught six weeks in her holiday time to allow the teacher to do evangelistic work, and during her stay at home brought a sister married into a heathen family to Christ.

The Lai Chow Fu churches, that have been without a pastor since the Boxer uprising, called as pastor Rev. Tong Wen Djong. Two native pastors assisted Mr. Irwin at his ordination and installation. The church was greatly encouraged. Through Mr. Djong's failure in health, he has been forced to send in his resignation. The church hopes soon to call another pastor.

Sunday-schools.—A new feature of the Sunday-school work has been a day set apart for examination in progress in Bible study. The questions were prepared and sent out by a committee appointed by Presbytery. Examinations, written and oral, were held in Teng Chow Fu and at thirteen places in the country. The average attendance of the city Sunday-school has been 303 pupils, with forty-two teachers.

Dr. Seymour finished the revision of the Primary Sunday-school lessons in Acts in time for the Centenary Conference. The Scripture text is the Revised Mandarin.

EDUCATIONAL.—There are nineteen day-schools under the care of the Station, fourteen for boys, three for girls and two with both boys and girls. The total attendance is 272. Of these 212 are boys and sixty are girls. These schools are under one inspector and working towards uniform text-books and course of study. One country and one city school are quite self-supporting.

A new school for girls has been started at Tom Gia Geu, through the prayer and energy of the evangelist mentioned above as building a chapel. He opened his home to boarders, and by his own earnest endeavors gathered in six girls from outside villages. He was again assisted by the women of his home, who cheerfully undertook the grinding of the grain and other extra work. Together with the children of the village there are twelve pupils. There are other applications for boarders, and since the hospitality of the home had reached its limit, they are again beginning to build a teachers' room and a single dormitory.

Boarding Schools.—There are two boarding schools in the city, one for boys and one for girls. The boys are prepared for college. They are nearly all Christians. Three entered the church during the year. An Anglo-Chinese day-school for boys has been allowed the use of a room on the same premises, and these two schools unite for chapel exercises. Besides the regular weekly meetings, their Y. M. C. A. has held monthly Sunday evening meetings in the church, where different members have given addresses. The boys help in Sunday-school and evangelistic work.

Anglo-Chinese Day-school.—The Anglo-Chinese day-school is under the charge of the native Church, and prepares the children of some Christian families for further study in English. In addition, it has brought some boys from non-Christian families under Christian influence. There are twenty-four pupils.

The teacher gave up a lucrative Government position in Tien Tsin because he was asked to work on Sunday. He is very active in church work, and because of his connection with good families in the city has opened a number of well-to-do homes for visiting.

The Girls' High School had four graduates this year. All are now teaching, one without salary.

Of the former pupils, twenty-five are in active service, twenty-three as teachers and two as Bible women. The school has made some progress in methods and management, this year's class having shouldered especially well their responsibility for the department, teachers, regularity and conduct. The Christian Endeavor Society has furnished ready volunteers for Sunday-school teachers, holding women's meetings and for evangelistic work in the holidays. The prayer circle has had many wonderful answers to prayer.

A Teachers' Normal Class was held in the Autumn. The regular programme of lectures on Theory and Practice of Teaching, School Organization and Management, Hygiene, Music and Calisthenics, followed by general discussions, was carried out. A brief report was prepared and sent to teachers unavoidably absent.

MEDICAL WORK.—Two dispensaries have been kept open daily, except Sunday, one on the main street of the city and one at Iwan Yin Tang, convenient for the school-boys and that section of the city where the doctor resides. The latter is growing in attendance as it becomes better known.

The hospital work is done in eight of the school dormitories, in which are thirteen beds in native style. Because of the necessity for a clean surgical ward, a room on the second floor of the school-building is being furnished with iron beds. Some of the women of the church were formed into a Sewing Society and are preparing bedding and clothing for the ward.

The arrangement both for dispensary and hospital are not satisfactory because of the proximity to the school. One school-girl requiring immediate treatment for mastoid inflammation was successfully operated upon. The instrument for perforation used was a carpenter's gimlet.

The following instances taken from many show the friendliness of the gentry. A wealthy lady, whose son was frightfully burned in an accident by fire which occurred while the doctor was absent in Chefoo, telegraphed for his speedy return. A call from the doctor upon the Prefect at the time of plague resulted in a proclamation requiring precautionary sanitary measures to be taken. The Prefect gave a generous subscription of $100 to buy plague serum. The lady mentioned above sent $20 for the same purpose.

Dr. Seymour has been much occupied because of illness among the foreigners—not only those of our own Station, but also Summer visitors. Three of the cases were very serious and gave much anxiety, but all recovered. Because of the few workers in the Station, the duties of Station Treasurer, Superintendent of Sunday-school, elder in the church, and care of a small part of the country work have also fallen to the doctor's share, while his own illness required his taking a short vacation.

In spite of the difficulties, there has been an increase in the number of in-patients. There were over 8,000 dispensary treatments and 240 visits in the homes.

There has been earnest evangelistic work done in connection with both dispensary and in-patients. Two have joined the church.

One of these came to the hospital with a fractured arm. He claimed to have been shot while soldiers were recapturing a boat from pirates. He listened eagerly for the first time to the Gospel story. He stayed about three months in the hospital and during the revival services gave glad, bright testimony to the grace of God. He was received into the church and soon after went home to his home on an island near the Manchurian coast to tell his friends of Jesus his Saviour. One woman in about two months learned all of Mrs. Nevius' catechism and about half the Gospel of Matthew. Only combined opposition from her family prevented her applying for church membership.

There has been some increase in the annual offerings of the Christians.

The churches give the salaries of two pastors and half that of an evangelist. Two schools are quite self-supporting. An evangelist, one colporteur and one Bible woman give their services free. A chapel has been built and offered to the work. An inquirers' class was entertained, an evangelistic effort carried on, the services of an Anglo-Chinese teacher are altogether paid for. A school-girl gave half her holiday time to teaching. There are many other places, such as the Women's Sewing Society, in which the Christians give of their time for the work. While the self-support has not reached at all the end, yet all these instances show that while the progress is slow, there is a very real tendency towards the goal.

The visit of Mr. Severance and Dr. Ludlow brought much encouragement, while they greatly helped in the plans for maintenance and expansion.

CHEFOO STATION.

The Station gladly welcomed Dr. and Mrs. Hunter Corbett, and Mr. and Mrs. Mason Wells, who returned from furlough in America.

In August we had to part with Miss Grace Corbett, in order that she might, as the wife of Mr. Ralph Wells, join the force of the Wei-hsien Station. Dr. Effie Cooper, just returned from furlough, is about to be transferred to our sister Station at Tsingtau. We thus lose two valued workers and are left without any single women for our evangelistic work.

Missionaries and Chinese alike honored the veteran Dr. Corbett whom the home Church had elected Moderator of the General Assembly.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Owing to heavy business depression in Chefoo, the cessation of the coolie traffic with South Africa and the curtailing of the emigration to Manchuria, there was a large decrease of strangers coming from the interior to Chefoo. This affected the attendance at our city street chapel and museum. However, over 70,000 people attended during the year.

The Chefoo Church maintains a small street chapel outside the west gate of the city. One church member contributed one-half of the rent ($35 Mex.), and another gave half a day's preaching daily. The attendance during the year was over 2,000.

A little street chapel was built on the east side of the city, largely by the contributions of the native force of the Industrial Mission, who are members of the East Side Church. This chapel reaches the business people who come to the Industrial Mission, as well as the passers-by.

At the Chinese New Year's season, our Mission joined the other Protestant Missions in a week's evangelistic campaign. Large markets were attended, tens of thousands of tracts distributed, shops and houses visited, and an attempt made to reach every person in the city. These efforts were well received, and one result of the work was that a band of young Christian men of the East Church were led to continue this work by spending regular time in street preaching both on Sundays and week days.

In the country three chapels were in operation; one at Lai-yang City, and the other two at important market towns. These chapels were well attended during market days and some conversions resulted.

At the Lai-yang street chapel we have had, since Summer, two blind preachers, who were trained at the Institute for the Blind at Peking. They have been doing good work, and it is hoped by them to reach many of the blind, of whom there are said to be over 1,000 in the district of Lai-yang alone. Two blind men have already been converted; one preaching now in the Lai-yang Chapel and the other still being under training at Peking. In the Chimoa district, we also have two blind evangelists, who have been doing good work during the year in preaching, conducting services for the native Christians, and teaching Bible classes for women.

Mr. Wells, since his return, has spent most of his time in the Lai-yang district, where, assisted by a group of native helpers, he has been making a systematic tour of all the villages in the district, which number at least 2,000.

In Mr. Cornwell's field, three influential men were received into the church.

One of these had already devoted his property, amounting to about 100 Chinese acres, to the welfare of his countrymen, using the funds realized therefrom to the founding of a school on modern lines at Chefoo. He has also been the prime mover in certain philanthropic movements in the city. He and his wife established a girls' school which has thirty pupils. Now that her husband has joined the church, she is desirous of doing the same, and wishes to bring some of her pupils with her. The husband and wife date their decision to follow Christ from the time they attended a picnic of Christian women and girls last June, and saw their joy, peace and Christian fellowship.

The second man is a son-in-law of the above, and is landlord over 1,000 acres. His father, who was an ex-official, died some years ago, urging with his last breath his children to become Christians.

The increasing friendliness of the gentry and official class toward both missionaries and their message is becoming noticeable. As a mark of friendship, the Chi Hia official, quite unsolicited, presented our normal school with forty taels of silver (i. e., about $50 Mex.).

One of the leading bankers of Chefoo seems to be at heart a believer, but finds his business affairs a hindrance to his joining the church.

There has been a decided advance made on the part of the native church members in preaching and leading their relatives and others to Christ, and the forward movement is being taken hold of by the native Church.

PASTORAL WORK.—Our two Chefoo churches have prospered during the year. Thirty-five members were received on profession at the Temple Hill Church and eleven at the East Church. The Temple Hill Church took the lead of all the churches reported at Presbytery, both as to increase in church membership and amount of church contributions. Many of these converts were women. In June, eleven women were received at one time, and thirteen in July.

The work for women has been under the charge of Miss Grace Corbett, who was assisted by Mrs. Corbett and Mrs. Wells, on their return from the United States in May.

The homes of the kindergarten pupils were visited, as well as those of church members. Cottage prayer meetings were conducted and classes for the study of doctrine held at the homes. Mrs. Chang, the Bible woman, rendered efficient help. Some of the women thus reached were at first hostile or indifferent; some had been labored for years.

The woman's weekly prayer meeting, now under the charge of Mrs. Wells, has been well attended; the attendance being thirty, but at times over fifty.

The development of our woman's work in the city has been one of the most encouraging features of our work during the year. In Mr. Cornwell's field, a young woman who did not know any characters before her baptism in March, made such remarkable progress in learning the characters that she has read through the whole New Testament.

SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.—The Sunday-school for men and boys, under the charge of Mr. Booth, was largely attended by the students of our schools, averaging 234. An encouraging feature has been an inquirers' class, numbering fifteen members.

The Sunday-school for women was under the care of Mrs. Yü, and was well attended.

The Infant Department was under the charge of Mrs. Cornwell.

Every Sunday afternoon a little Sunday-school is being conducted by Sarah Cornwell and Louisa Corbett for the kindergartners. Formerly these little ones interfered with their parents attending the church services or disturbed the same.

During the Summer, a Bible study class was held at Chefoo by Dr. Corbett and Dr. Elterich. Over twenty preachers and teachers attended this class.

Mrs. Nevius has also been teaching several young men who come to her on Sundays for Bible study. Our leading evangelist at the street chapel and museum, Mr. Li Si-hwoa, was ordained a minister at the recent meeting of Presbytery, and Mr. Hiai, another leading evangelist, is preparing himself for ordination.

In seven of our neighboring out-stations, there were revivals last Spring and the churches there were greatly blessed.

During the year, 160 new members were added to the list of communicants in our field, which is an increase over last year.

Y. M. C. A. WORK.—Chinese young men have been taking more prominent part in the native Y. M. C. A., and thus relieved the foreign members. Progress has been made in training young men for the work and in attracting progressive young men.

Mr. H. P. Morse, General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. work, visited this port last Summer in order to see the status of the Naval Y. M. C. A. here. He was impressed with the importance of this work and promised to do all he could to secure the permanent quarters so much needed on account of the annual presence of the fleet. During the year the Association has practically taken over the responsibility of this work.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The Anglo-Chinese School has had a year of progress and gives cause for much encouragement. The enrollment has been 139, the largest on record. The standard of work done by teachers and students has been raised.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Booth, Miss Copp, the daughter of the colporteur of the British and Foreign Bible Society, resident here, also Mr. Stiles, who has been teaching in various cities in the Orient, have constituted the foreign staff of the school. In addition there are seven native teachers. The Christian work in the school, though not without some discouragements, has surpassed previous years as to results in getting students to enter the church, so that thus far this year eleven have become members. There are now thirty-five who are church members, and thirty inquirers. Of the thirty-eight students in the four highest classes, all but six are either baptized or have a praying faith in Christ. The curriculum has been revised so that students passing satisfactorily the work in Chinese are prepared for entrance into the Shangtung Union Arts College at Wei-hsien, and those completing the English course for entrance into St. John's College at Shanghai.

A new set of dormitories were built to meet the growing needs of the school. Mr. Louis Severance, of New York, generously contributed $850 Mex., which is one-half of the cost; the other half having been subscribed by the patrons and friends of the school. The school needs much yet in the line of equipment and furnishings.

The Boys' High School had sixty boys in attendance, of whom eight were in the normal department. This school was reorganized in the Spring and put on a more efficient basis than before. More ground and buildings are needed for contemplated expansion.

There have been twenty-eight day-schools in the Chefoo field with an attendance of 401 pupils.

The Chefoo Kindergarten School has three women teachers and an average attendance of fifty. Many of the older boys were drafted into the primary department of the High School, while some of the older girls have gone to Peking to enter the primary department of the Woman's College. Two or three hope to enter the Girls' High School at Tengchou.

The attendance at Mrs. Mills' School for the Deaf has increased this year. During the year, Mrs. Mills has had the practical assistance of Miss A. Carter, her niece, who came out last year to join her in this work. Plans have been made to open a branch for girls, and one pupil is already under instruction, while ten others are expecting to come. Mrs. Mills represented this work at the Centenary Conference in Shanghai, and with her teacher and pupils gave a practical demonstration of her work to many interested spectators. This Autumn one of the teachers took a few of the pupils to Tsinan-fu, provincial capital, where the Federal Council of Protestant Missions in Shantung was holding its meetings. Demonstration was given before the members of Conference and before the Governor and his staff, who were greatly interested in the exhibition.

The Industrial Mission added a kindergarten department to its school for girls on the east side, and opened a lace school for girls in a village near our Mission compound. Over twenty girls have been attending this school, and the accommodations are inadequate to meet the requirements.

A Romanization class was opened by Mrs. Nevius last Winter for women and another is now in session. Besides Romanization, geography, arithmetic, history, and a little English were taught. The women returned to their homes much brightened and refreshed.

MEDICAL WORK.—After the departure of Dr. Effie Cooper on furlough, our native physician, Dr. Chang, had charge of the dispensary. The attendance was 4,101 patients, viz., 2,904 men and 1,197 women. Dr. and Mrs. O. F. Hills are under appointment to Chefoo, and as soon as they acquire the language this department of work will receive a much needed development.

LITERARY WORK.—Mrs. Nevius has given much of her time and strength to this important department of work. She has now, in the Romanized system, completed a book for beginners, the Mandarin catechism, a small hymn book, and has the Gospel of Matthew almost ready to be sent to the press.

She hopes to have other parts of the New Testament, and some of the Psalms and selections from the Old Testament, ready in the near future. Mrs. Nevius has also been revising Dr. Nevius' "Yü Tao Ts'u Hue," or Manual for Believers and is translating Dr. Beecher's book on the Prophets of Israel.

TSING-TAU STATION.

The Force.—The missionaries connected with the Station have been Mr. and Mrs. Davies, Miss Vaughan and Mr. and Mrs. Scott. Miss Vaughan's furlough in America was greatly blessed of God in making friends for the work.

The Chinese working force has included three Chinese ordained pastors, Messrs. Chao, Han and Swin; eight unordained evangelists, one of whom has acted as pastor of the Ta Hsin Tan Church; five Bible women; one superintendent of schools; twenty-nine teachers in the village and boarding schools; one bookseller; two language teachers and one man employed in the native Y. M. C. A.

Relations with the German Missions have not changed from the very pleasant condition reported last year. The co-operation is most fraternal.

Pastoral Oversight of Chinese Christians.—We have now reached the point where the pastoral oversight of the churches is wholly in the hands of the very efficient Chinese pastors. The Tsing-tau Church has its pastor, Mr. Han, who exercises all the pastoral functions without direction from the foreign missionary. Three of the country churches in the Ping-tu district are under Pastor Swin, who is a man of great force and zeal.

This is Mr. Swin's second year, and during these two years Mr. Swin has passed through a period, when he had set himself to work quite independently of the foreigner. This state of mind seems to have passed, and it now appears probable that we can work together toward the goal we all desire to reach.

The three newly organized churches of Lanti, Mei⁵ Ch'iu and Wang Chia Kwan Chwang have continued under the care of Mr. Chao, who has now become their regularly installed pastor.

Mr. Chao is a scholarly, tactful, humble man. The only complaint his people make about him is that he is overworking himself. They proposed to entertain him, i. e., provide his food while he was away from his own home doing the pastoral work of his large parish. But according to proper Chinese custom he always brought his bread with him. So the people said: "Well, if he will not eat our food we will give him more money." And they have increased his salary. Though he entered the ministry late in life, he is setting an example in diligence which the younger men might follow with great profit to their charges.

The church at Ta Hsin Tan, having failed again to secure an ordained pastor, has employed an evangelist, Mr. Li Chint'ang, who has done good and faithful work. In general it may be said that the pastoral work in the district is being well done.

Revival Services, Bible Study Classes, Quarterly Meetings.—Special meetings having the character of revival services have been held in various centres. These have been of a more quiet kind than those of the previous year, but have been no less helpful on that account.

There has been no general backset or relapses following the more emotional meetings of the previous year, but on the other hand, we do not see the advance in Christian living for which we had hoped.

Classes for Bible study for both men and women have met several times during the year. Some of these have been conducted by the foreign missionaries and some by the Chinese pastors and helpers alone and some in combination. In most cases the planning and organization of the classes has been done by the Chinese independently, and we are glad to report that the question of providing food for those who attend these classes has now become a thing of the past.

The fact that no food money is now expected, makes it possible for the Chinese pastors and evangelists to undertake this kind of work quite independently of foreign missionary direction or assistance, and it follows that much more of this kind of work can be done. Probably the last eruption of the desire-for-food-along-with-the-doctrine spirit occurred at Lanti, where, on the occasion of the visit of Mrs. Hayes and Miss Vaughan to hold a class, the women did not come to the meetings, because, as it was said, they did not know the "plan" on which the class was to be conducted. This meant that they did not know whether or not their food would be found by the Mission. The question was settled once for all when they were told that those who wanted to study the Bible might come and that anyone who did not was not obliged to do so. This probably finishes a question which has occupied six years in settling.

Besides the revival services and Bible study classes, the three churches under Mr. Chao hold regular quarterly meetings, at which prayer for the work and discussion of local problems hold the most prominent place. In one instance seven of the churches united in such a meeting, to the great benefit of all concerned. To these quarterly meetings all are free to come, and the local church is not burdened, because each visitor pays his own expenses, and so the church is called upon to provide nothing beyond sleeping places and the millet gruel which is the staple drink. The foreign missionaries are always invited to come to these conferences, and do so as often as is possible. The unifying effect of this kind of work is most marked and encouraging.

In addition to the meetings already mentioned, the men evangelists have come together four times since last Mission meeting for prayer, Bible study and conference, under the leadership of the foreign missionary. At these conferences some of the great doctrines have been studied, such as the union of the believer with Christ, the final judgment, the second coming of Christ, and the Bible doctrine of prayer. It is intended that a similar method shall be adopted for work with the Bible women.

Lawsuits.—The lawsuit serpent raised his head but once during the year, that is to say but one appeal has been made to the foreign mis sionary. This was an ordinary "household affair," to use the Chinese expression, in which a church member felt, whether rightly or wrongly we do not pretend to know, that she was being persecuted. The aggrieved member refused to listen to the exhortations of the Chinese pastor to settle the matter out of court, and so it came before the official. The Christian gave a true and unexaggerated account of the business, and the case was settled in what is regarded as a very fair manner.

Last year we reported a case in which the Christians of Kwoa Chia T'ai-tz had been severely beaten after two or three of the Christian boys had thrown two idols into the village pond. Mr. Davies writes:

We believe that the policy of non-interference, to which we then adhered, has been justified. During the early part of this year, on the occasion of one of the special meetings already referred to, it was brought about that the Christian and heathen neighbors, who had been fighting, made peace with each other in a manner which promises a permanent cessation of hostilities. Our refusal to interfere in this case shook the whole church. More than one out-station openly talked of leaving us and going to another Mission. We made a straight appeal to them to trust God rather than man. This is now spoken of because the sentiment of the church has now entirely changed, and so far as we know the members now agree that it was right not to interfere. We feel therefore that a victory of no small importance was gained in this case.

A Case of Church Discipline.—A matter of discipline which proved very difficult to manage was an aggravated case of adultery which came before the Session of one of the Ping-tu churches. This affair tried the strength of the Chinese pastor and elder to the utmost, and they finally insisted on having the help of the foreign missionary. We believe that the matter was handled in a way which made the occasion an opportunity for spiritual growth to the church members.

A superstitious practice, which masks itself under an assumption of a superior faith, is causing the missionaries some annoyance.

This is the custom of deciding troublesome questions by opening the Bible and placing the finger on the page and deciding upon the course of action to be pursued by a whimsical interpretation of the sense of the verse. In one case, when a suitable interpretation could not be put upon the verse first hit upon, the process was repeated four times until support was found for the plan of the person using the method. More intelligent faith will correct this.

Additions to the Church.—One hundred and thirteen persons have been received into the churches on profession of faith, and nine by letter.

Theological Students.—Three of the village school teachers have expressed their desire to enter the regular theological school at Ch'ingchou-fu. They were examined by the Presbytery at its recent meeting, and were accepted as candidates for the ministry. This makes four men from this district who are looking forward to the work of the pastor. Another very promising young man, who is in the preparatory department at Ch'ingchou-fu this year, will stay at home next year and do evangelistic work.

On the whole, it may be said of the Christian body that there are evidences of higher spiritual life than ever before. There is greater harmony, more dependence on God and less on man, better Sabbath observance, more and better Bible study, a more intelligent prayer life and greater desire to serve the Master.

Evangelistic efforts for the unconverted have been steadily and thoroughly made. Many of the Christians have taken voluntary part in this work. A map has been prepared, showing all the villages in the southern part of the Mission, which is to be used in the forward evangelistic campaign.

The Schools.—The girls' boarding school at Ta Hsin Tan has had a good year. The total enrollment was fifty-nine. A new tentative course of study has been prepared by Mr. Ting, the principal.

Of village schools there have been twenty-five: six for girls and nineteen for boys. One hundred and eighteen girls and 243 boys are reported in these schools. The school superintendent has visited the schools repeatedly during the year. Just before the opening of the school year, the teachers were brought together for institute work and Bible study, and they met again in the early Fall. The character of the work done is steadily improving.

Mr. Swin's school for young married women deserves especial mention. This school is in session for six months in the year. It is hoped that through this means a better grade of Bible women may be secured. For this school, with thirteen in attendance, no Mission money was used.

Self-support.—The three ordained Chinese pastors and the evangelist Li at Ta Hsin Tan are supported wholly from Chinese sources. In the girls' boarding school, about one-third of the cost of food and incidentals is met by the girls. For the village schools, all buildings are found by the Chinese and all books and school supplies paid for by them. In addition, they furnish considerably more than half the money paid out for teachers' salaries. These teachers are now engaged by the local managers and not, as formerly, by the foreign missionary. The Mission money is paid to them as a grant in aid. This change in theory and emphasis has had many good results. The principal of the girls' boarding school continues to give his services free. The money value of his time, if measured by what he could secure in Government employ, is more than the salary of a foreign missionary.

We report with exceeding gratification that after years of prayerful waiting, Mission property is being secured. Hitherto, this Station has been dependent upon rented buildings, often inconvenient and always high in price. Now, that generous friend of the cause, Mrs. Hugh O'Neill, of the Fifth Avenue Church of New York, has given money for the purchase of land; Mr. A. A. Hyde, of the famous First Church of Wichita, Kansas, has made a gift for the girls' boarding school, and part of the sum needed for a residence has been secured.

WEI-HSIEN STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The field includes all of six counties, or "hsiens," and parts of six others, an area of perhaps 4,000 square miles, or about the area of the State of Connecticut. The field extends from Wei-hsien City northward thirty miles to the sea; east and northeast forty miles; southeast and south fifty miles; westward sixty miles; and northwest eighty miles. The direct route from the extreme southeast out-station to the one farthest northwest shows a distance of 130 miles (400 li). The population of the field is more than 3,000,000.

The Presbyterian membership of the field is about 4,500, to which may be added some 1,500 Baptist members, making a total Christian constituency of 6,000. An amicable division of territory prevents overlapping.

Of the 160 out-stations, sixty are under the ministerial care of six ordained Chinese, and 100 are divided between Dr. Mateer and Mr. Chalfant, pending Mr. Fitch's return from furlough.

Two new churches were organized during the year, making in all twenty-three.

In addition to the regular visitation of out-stations, nine classes for Bible study and eight gatherings for Gospel meetings have been held in the country. These have been under the direct charge of the missionaries. Other similar meetings have been held by the Chinese pastors in their several churches.

A large revival meeting of a week's duration, with delegates from all parts of the field, was held at Wei-hsien in November. By special invitation, eighteen Chinese pastors, Presbyterian and Baptist, met at Wei-hsien in the Summer for Bible study and for lectures upon various subjects.

SELF-SUPPORT.—The past year has been characterized by a strong movement toward independence of the Chinese Church. This has shown itself in the desire on the part of our Chinese ministry to assume control of a larger amount of the country work, and in the willingness of the churches to support their own preaching.

Five churches have entirely supported their own pastors, at an aggregate outlay of 470,000 large cash ($590 Mexican). Seven churches, not yet supplied with pastors, have paid the entire salary of their several evangelists and stated supplies, raising for this purpose 400,000 large cash ($500 Mex.). Six churches have supported their evangelists for nearly half time, on an average, at a cost of 130,000 large cash ($160 Mex.). One weak church rents a central chapel in Changlo City at an annual outlay of $25, which sum would otherwise go to the support of their preacher. Three small churches still depend wholly upon the Mission for their preaching. The unorganized districts partially support their preaching to the extent of 93,000 large cash ($115 Mex.). This shows a grand total of $1,470 Mexican raised by the Chinese Christians for their evangelistic work. This money is not paid through the missionaries, but direct to the helpers employed.

It must be remembered that the Christians who have children being educated in the Mission schools pay in the aggregate a still larger sum in school fees.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Point Breeze Academy for Boys.—This school has been under the care of Mr. Wells during the year. The enrollment was seventy. These boys are selected from the ranks of those who have finished the course in our Primary Schools. Eighteen boys were graduated at the New Year. To promote better health among the students, special attention has been given to physical training. Although new dormitories were added, this school is still cramped for room, and the applications are more than can be received.

Girls' High School.—Sixty pupils are now enrolled in this school, with Mrs. Chalfant as principal. A class of thirteen were graduated, the largest number since the school opened in 1895.

Two pupils died and two were sent home for inefficiency during the year. Many applications have to be refused. The annual fees paid by the students now range from 6,000 large cash ($7 Mex.) to 17,500 large cash ($22 Mex.).

A new clause in the contract with each pupil requires that she give two years to teaching after graduation and before marriage.

Primary Schools for Boys.—These now number forty-seven, with about 600 pupils. This is an advance of fifty per cent. over last year's record. Mr. Mateer has had charge of these schools, and has advanced the standard of teacher's qualifications, so that in all the schools the new system of teaching is in vogue. The proportion of teacher's salary paid by the patrons has been raised to two-thirds.

Country Boarding Schools for Girls.—Thirteen such schools have been in operation during the year, under the care of Mrs. Mateer and Miss Franz. The enrollment is 261. As heretofore, the pupils must pay all expenses, except a fixed amount allowed by the Mission, which is far less than the cost of running the school.

Women's Institute.—This has been used for a part of the year as a training school for Bible women, and has proved a very valuable adjunct to the work. Thirty women, mostly wives of pastors and evangelists, have been in attendance.

Special instruction in Church government and doctrine was given our Wei-hsien theological class who are attending the Union Theological College at Ching-chou-fu.

MEDICAL WORK.—The Men's Hospital and the City Dispensary have been open for most of the year. The latter was formally opened December 3, 1906, since when 3,696 cases have been treated. The hospital on the Mission compound has had 249 in-patients, besides about 1,000 cases at the daily clinic for students of the college and other schools. Twenty suicide cases have been treated, and 495 patients during Dr. Roys' itineraries.

Women's Hospital: Dr. Bynon reports a total of 3,843 dispensary cases and eighty-nine in-patients in the hospital; also forty-nine out-calls. Suicides among women seem very prevalent, judging from the fact that 114 cases have been treated.

The whole number of cases treated in both hospitals and dispensaries was 7,676.

LITERARY WORK.—The work of translating the New Testament has been completed, the proof-reading and the superintending of the publication being placed in Dr. Calvin Mateer's hands by the other members of the Committee.

Mrs. Crossette and Mrs. R. M. Mateer have translated some Christian stories. A translation of Dr. Johnston's "Studies for Personal Workers" and an Abridged Arithmetic have been prepared by Mrs. C. W. Mateer. The preparation of an organ instruction book is under way, also the translation of new hymns looking towards the revision of the hymn-book in present use.

FAMINE WORK.—Though at a considerable distance from the famine area, the Station, in response to a call for help, sent Mr. Field and two Chinese helpers, who spent nearly three months in the relief distribution at Suchien.

GENERAL REMARKS.—

The past year has upon the whole been an encouraging one. The threatened disaster to crops, owing to drought, was happily averted by sufficient rains, but prices of all commodities have been steadily rising, owing to shortage of harvests in the South and West. While the accessions to the church have not been as large, numerically, as we had hoped, yet it is expected that the reports to Presbytery will show about 350 additions.

TSINAN-FU STATION.

If the pioneer missionaries in Tsinan-fu, thirty-four years ago, could have had a vision of to-day, it would surely have sweetened all their persecution and apparent failure.

It is not that we swarm with converts, though, as missionary statistics go in China, our figures are at least respectable; it is rather that we have in these later years attained, if not yet the esteem, at any rate the recognition of our Chinese neighbors, both high and low.

In days gone by, the missionary was reviled, stoned, mobbed, and finally, in Boxer times, driven out altogether. Property was acquired only in round-about ways, and improved only in the teeth of angry crowds. At best, the foreign resident was ignored with the toleration of condescension.

What do we see in this year of grace? For several years in this, the capital and largest city of the province, both officials and gentry have been growing more friendly, in some cases apparently even cordial, until the good feeling has culminated in a way not expected even by the optimistic. About thirty missionary delegates, meeting in an interdenominational conference, were invited by the provincial Governor to call at his Yamen. The next day he returned the call, and then the same evening made a feast for the delegates. The invitations came to them, not as foreigners merely, but as missionaries meeting in convention. To feel an undue gratification over this would be easy; it is mentioned here only as a sign of the times.

Tsinan-fu has 300,000 inhabitants, and is growing both in population and business. It is now a treaty port and the terminus of the railroad, but it will be an important junction in a short time, as another railroad is under construction. The city is already the centre of the wide-reaching governmental educational enterprises of the province, and it also boasts of a Government hospital, and one of the great military camps of the reorganized army.

Our English Baptist co-workers have started institutional church work on a substantial scale, promising much for the promotion of good feeling between the church and the official class. Our own opportunity is wide open as never before; it only remains to pour in men and women and money and faith to enter and occupy.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—City.—The great event of the year was the organization, on March 3, 1907, of the Union Church of Christ in Tsinan-fu.

Mr. Harmon and Dr. Hamilton were chosen pastors, with the idea that after the union has demonstrated its efficiency and vitality, a Chinese pastor will be chosen. During the year seven have been baptized, two by Mr. Harmon and five by Mr. Hamilton. The spirit of Christian fellowship is very delightful, and the relations of the new church to the east suburb church are most cordial, the two churches uniting in the support of the girls' school in the south suburb, the small boys' school in the east suburb, two evangelists and one Bible woman.

The street chapel at the South Gate has been greatly improved. Preaching is carried on every evening, the Chinese Christians affording valuable aid. The audiences are encouragingly large and attentive.

There is a marked change in the attitude of the mass of the people towards the preaching of the Gospel.

They are not flocking towards us with open arms. Indeed, in some places a secret society is publicly opposing us; but still there are so many willing listeners that one wishes he could be multiplied fourfold. Alas, that we are so few among so many! Yet the Lord is manifestly with us. We are urging the Christians to rise up and help; some do so willingly, but too many make excuses.

One hopeful sign is the desire on the part of the Christians for better preaching than the partially educated helpers can give them. Two of the churches have repeatedly expressed themselves willing to contribute towards the support of the right kind of man. It is part of the result of the Bible-class training that the Christians want more and better preaching.

Mr. Murray has given considerable time to pastoral visitation, the good effects of which are already seen.

In several places the Christians have arranged for special meetings and Bible-study classes in the country. The women especially have taken advantage of this way of becoming better acquainted with each other and with the truth. In some places, the attendance of the women is equal to or better than that of the men.

The usual Bible-study classes have been held in the city during the Winter and Summer months. In these classes, country preachers and other leading Christians are combined, and thus become a mutual help and a blessing to the Church.

The work of these classes has been greatly facilitated by the use of the new building recently erected by the personal generosity of Mr. Murray. The buildings are of stone, nice looking within and without, and are certainly a credit to our Station.

In the country, the novel feature of the year was the five-days conference of women at Chei-chai-chwang, where a church has recently been organized. Mrs. Neal and two Christian Chinese women from the city assisted Mrs. Hamilton in this conference, and did much to render it a success.

The women in attendance were very much interested, as such meetings were entirely new to them. Some of them traveled farther from their homes than they had ever before been in their lives, and we hope that permanent results will follow to all who were there. Miss Boehne conducted successful class work in the northern field, and also made one trip in order to visit in the Christians' homes.

In the city, more visiting in the homes of the east suburb women has been done than heretofore. Once a month they are invited to spend a social afternoon in the home of the missionary women.

A prayer meeting has been started on Friday afternoons at the homes of different women. At these meetings many of the non-Christian neighbors have gathered and listened with interest. The Christian women have taken an active interest in the prayer meetings, and have accompanied the missionaries in visiting the homes. They also have a committee to welcome strangers who come to church on Sundays. One of them has voluntarily given her time to preaching to the patients in the women's dispensary.

The mothers of some of the small children in the neighborhood have received a good deal of instruction by accompanying their little ones to the Children's Sunday-school conducted by Mrs. Dodd. The average attendance at this school is about twenty, and we have had nearly thirty once or twice. The majority belong to the Christian families, but we hope gradually to gain the confidence of the outside element.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Country Schools.—The country primary schools are better than they were, though still far from ideal. The old methods are unsatisfactory and are dropped as far as possible for the new methods. There is a great lack of trained teachers.

Two new schools for girls have just been opened. The teachers have been trained at Wei-hsien, and all the new methods are employed. We believe this will give a new stimulus to all our schools. For this purpose good-sized buildings have been erected by the Christians themselves, thus proving what can be done when a church is really awake.

The Clara Linton Hamilton Memorial Academy for Boys.—Mr. Dodd has had the management of the school, as well as some of the teaching. Mrs. Neal taught three English classes and a Bible class, and Mrs. Dodd taught the advanced class in English. Since the Chinese New Year, the English work has devolved entirely on Mrs. Dodd.

Notwithstanding the great and increasing demand for Western learning, the Boys' Academy has suffered a decrease in attendance during the year from forty-nine to twenty-eight.

There were several reasons for this. The standard of the school was raised, and several of the younger pupils were placed in the new elementary school started by the church in the east suburb. Limited funds at our disposal made imperative the rejection of some of the least promising of the pupils who could not pay for their food. The impracticability of starting a new class in English lost a few students. Most disastrous of all was the introduction into the school of the "T'ing Hsin Hwei," the "United Heart Society." The object of this society was obviously to run the school, and incidentally to drive off one of the teachers, for whom the boys had formed a dislike. This culminated in December in an open rebellion, which resulted in the expulsion of six boys, the suspension of several others, the resignation of the teacher involved, and the nervous break-down of our best Chinese teacher. On account of his unfaithfulness and half-hearted service, the remaining member of our native faculty was asked to resign at the end of the Chinese year. Owing to our inability to pay sufficient salaries, our efforts to replace these three by satisfactory men were doomed to failure, and two more changes in the faculty were found necessary during the Spring term. Recently, however, we have obtained a good Christian teacher of the classics who we hope can be trusted with the full responsibility of the school during Mr. Dodd's absence in the country.

In spite of these drawbacks the work of the Spring term was encouraging, and the boys as a rule proved themselves earnest, faithful students.

Considerable zeal has been shown in the Y. M. C. A. of the school. With some help from the foreigners, the students sent a delegate to the convention at Shanghai, and later made a substantial offering to the Famine Relief Fund. The usual evangelistic work has been carried on by the students under the supervision of the faculty. One student was brought into the church, and has been used during the past Summer in leading his entire family to Christ.

Three more of our students have entered the college at Wei-hsien, and one of these has resolved to study for the ministry. It is gratifying to note in the school a growing tendency to look forward to a continuation of their studies in our higher institutions after finishing the course here.

With our rapidly increasing Christian constituency, the growing efficiency of our country schools, and changed attitude toward foreign education in and around our great city, this school has certainly a most important future before it, but it imperatively needs a generous addition to its equipment and funds if it is to measure up to its opportunity, or even hold its own in competition with Government schools around about it.

New Girls' School.—The Chinese Christians have put up a girls' school accommodating about thirty pupils, on land adjoining the English Baptist Mission. The entire plant will cost nearly $1,000. This is a notable event. They have also assumed responsibility for the support of the teacher.

MEDICAL WORK.—Women.—Until May the medical work was carried on by the faithful and capable Chinese woman, Miss Tai, who was trained by Dr. Burnham, Dr. Neal treating the serious cases. After his departure for home, Dr. Merwin, with the assistance of Miss Boehne, took up the work, and in spite of ill-health and constant suffering, she continued it until August, when it became clear to all that her strength was not equal to the strain, and she was obliged to return home for medical treatment. The retirement of this consecrated young missionary is deeply regretted. It leaves the Louisa Boyd Hospital for Women and Children closed until Dr. Merwin's successor can be secured.

Men.—In the absence of Dr. Neal on furlough, the report of this work is very incomplete. The medical helper, Mr. Yao, was dismissed a short time before Dr. Neal's departure, for secretly dealing in opium brought from his native place to Tsinan-fu. The traffic is both illicit and un-Christian. His place has been but partially supplied by Mr. Ma, for many years one of our most trusted medical men, but who is so largely occupied with his duties in the Governmental Normal School that he can give only an hour or so a day to the hospital.

ICHOU-FU STATION.

Ichou-fu makes a brief report this year. This is due entirely to urgent calls for service elsewhere. This has been unavoidable, but the field has suffered much in consequence. All the men of the Station took turns in distributing famine relief funds at various places, an exhausting and heart-breaking labor requiring altogether many months.

Dr. Johnson delayed his home furlough till May. After his return he is to be stationed at Tsinan-fu. It is needless to say that in his departure, after fifteen years of most efficient service in this field, the Station feels a keen loss.

Dr. Emma Fleming was warmly welcomed from America the first of the new year, and immediately resumed her duties in the hospital.

The death of Mr. W. S. Faris at Yi-hsien was deeply felt at Ichou-fu, for to the work of the Ichou-fu field Mr. W. S. Faris had devoted all his missionary life, with the exception of the few months in Yi-hsien.

The news of his sudden death came as a great shock to both natives and foreigners—to all the many lives whom he had reached and helped as a friend and as a minister in every sense of that word. God, in His unsearchable wisdom, was pleased to take him to his eternal rest, and in that wisdom we must acquiesce even where we sorrow most. We remember our beloved friend and brother as one of those

"Immortal dead who still live on
In minds made better by their presence."

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The evangelistic work has held its own this year, though owing to the absence of the missionaries comparatively few new adherents have been gathered. There are seven organized churches under the care of Mr. Chalfant and Mr. Armstrong. The largest, at Ichou-fu, has a membership of 120. A few cases of discipline have been necessary, but on the whole the members have been loyal and faithful in fulfilling their duties to the church and exemplary in conduct.

Since the last meeting of Presbytery, the northeast Lan Shan Church has been organized with seventy members, embracing all the out-stations northeast of Ichou-fu, a distance of twenty-one miles. The church at Men Chuang still continues the partial support of a native helper.

In addition to the organized churches, there are seventeen villages where preaching services are regularly held; and in another, Bien-chuang, property has been secured for a chapel.

Street chapels have been kept open in Ichou-fu, Ku-chow, Lichia-chuang and Ishuei, each manned by a helper and gatekeeper. Boys' schools were regularly maintained in connection with the three last named. In Ku-chow there is also a branch dispensary with a medical graduate in charge; and a small Sunday-school, conducted by the school-teacher.

Throughout the Station field there has been an average gain of ten per cent. in the number of communicants, and it is worthy of note that for the first time the Station has crossed the 500 mark, the present membership being 542. Everywhere the Chinese are disposed to welcome the missionary as never before and to be kindly attentive to his message.

One class of forty men was held in Ichou-fu during the Winter. They were instructed by native and foreign teachers in the Mandarin catechism, Old Testament narratives and the Acts. A class of about fifty women from adjacent villages assembled for two weeks' instruction during the New Year's season, under charge of Dr. Fleming, assisted by the Bible women and some of the devoted Christian women of the Ichou-fu Church.

We have a staff of seventeen native helpers and two Bible women. Of the latter, one preaches daily in the Woman's Hospital and takes charge of the catechumens, often visiting the homes of inquirers. The other preaches and teaches in the country during seasons favorable to itineration. In addition to the regular Bible woman, several of the Christians take turns in preaching in the dispensary.

Dr. Fleming, since her return, has had entire charge of the women's Sunday afternoon prayer meeting and has instructed a class in Romans once a week. Christians and inquirers have been meeting weekly to study the catechism and Gospels.

MEDICAL WORK.—Both in the Men's Dispensary and in the City Book-room services are held every Sunday afternoon with a missionary present whenever possible.

The city book-room and chapel under Mr. Armstrong's supervision are doing good work. Daily by sermon and by song the Gospel attracts listeners from the many passersby.

The Sunday-school, which flourished under Dr. Johnson's superintendency with an average attendance of 104, has dropped off some since his departure and the closing of the schools, but we hope for better things when we have a foreigner available for this work.

The medical department for women completes the year with the following statistics: In-patients, 60; out-calls, 37; country visits, 60; dispensary patients, first visits, 3,116, returns, 2,254; total patients, 5,467. More than four-fifths of these cases were treated since Dr. Fleming's return from America. Gate receipts for the year amount to 280,000 cash; receipts from foreign sources 48,000 cash, making a total of 328,000 cash.

We rejoice with Dr. Fleming in the completion of her commodious two-story hospital. The erection of this building was made possible by the efforts and generosity of the Woman's Board of the Southwest, and it will long stand as a fitting monument to the noble work done to relieve the suffering of the women of China.

The records of the Men's Dispensary show a good attendance and on the whole the year has been a very gratifying one. Dr. Johnson was in charge during the first half of the year, and upon his departure for his furlough in the Spring the care of the work was transferred to Dr. Fouts. The time of the latter was necessarily divided between medical work and language study, but, owing to the competent staff of native assistants, the task of foreign oversight was greatly lightened. A summary of the records shows the following attendance for the year: Ichou-fu Dispensary patients, first visits, 10,080; return visits, 9,717; total visits, 19,797. Ku-chow Dispensary, first visits, 1,720; return, 1,730; total visits, 3,450; making a total of dispensary visits, 23,247. Patients seen on itineration, 271; in-patients, 78; making a grand total of 23,596.

These figures show an increase over last year's dispensary attendance, but a marked falling off in the number of in-patients.

This latter condition is attributed by the Chinese to the fact that the cost of food has been so high as to make it impracticable for a large proportion of the patients to remain in the city for treatment. However, if the foreign physician could have given his undivided attention to the work, the number of in-patients could have been materially increased. The press of other duties also made it impracticable to go upon the Summer itinerating trip which, on each of the past two Summers, have added so largely to the work. The usual evangelistic work has been carried on in both hospital and dispensary.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Educationally, Ichou-fu took a new step this year by establishing a boys' academy. The Station deemed this necessary on account of the overcrowded conditions at Wei-hsien, which left no place where the graduates of our day-school could continue their education.

This work was undertaken with some hesitancy, as no financial provision had been made for such an institution. Some rooms adjoining the chapel were repaired to afford a dormitory for eleven boys. Mr. Paul Faris generously gave his large Chinese guest room to be used as a school-room. Mr. Feng was taken from the evangelistic force to serve as a teacher, and Miss Faris contributed the services of her personal teacher, Mr. Chu. So piece by piece the foundation of the long-contemplated academy was laid, under the supervision of Mr. W. P. Chalfant and Mr. Faris. The boys have done good work in the school, justifying the outlay made for them. Three will graduate at the Chinese New Year.

The boys' day-school has continued much as usual, with two native teachers under the supervision of Mr. W. P. Chalfant.

The average attendance has been forty, and the Spring examinations indicated that the work was well done.

The girls' school, under the care of Mrs. Fouts, has been handicapped by the loss of the Chinese teacher and the difficulty in finding another.

We employed as teacher one of our own girls who had had only two years of higher training. Considering her youth and inexperience, she did very well. The average attendance was twenty-one, and, in spite of the disadvantages, we feel that good work was done. With a graduate as teacher for next year, we are hoping for still better things.

The marriage of Mr. Chalfant, as the year closed, added to the Station force a fine missionary who had spent several years in China as a missionary of the Church Missionary Society of England, Miss Ada Gilbert. Health and harmony have been the happy lot of all the members of the little group at Ichou-fu, and, although circumstances did not permit much advance work during the year, the missionaries rejoice that they could be of assistance to other fields.

TSINING-CHOU STATION.

This Station has had a hard year, for the continued ill-health of his wife forced Mr. Thompson to return to America in June, so that the Station force was reduced to two families, Mr. and Mrs. Romig and Dr. and Mrs. Lyon. Mrs. Lyon, too, was quite ill in July, but is now quite well again.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The year has been one of encouragement in spite of the small Station force, for many new adherents became interested in the Word, and the number of baptisms surpassed that of any preceding year.

Mr. Thompson, until his departure for America, was in charge of the largest unorganized work, which lies to the south and west of the city of Tsining. He was also in charge of the street chapel outside the South gate of the city. We have seen some results from the street chapel work, and there have been two baptisms in the Tsining Church, which were due more or less to these endeavors. The chapel was closed, however, at the Chinese New Year, and has not been opened since. We had rented a building, but have not yet found a suitable place for a chapel which could be purchased with the amount of money in hand for that purpose.

The unorganized work under Mr. Thompson's care has been very encouraging during the past few years, and this year there have been many things to rejoice our hearts. There have been 105 baptisms, and large numbers of catechumens were enrolled.

Mr. Thompson spent his whole Fall and Winter, up to the Chinese

New Year, working in these regions. After that, so strong a call came from the famine region that he went to Hsüchou-fu to help in distributing relief. In this work he spent nearly three months and, on returning to the Station, visited the southern field.

The Spring trip into the southwest field was made by Mr. Romig, who found much to encourage him. This field is having a slow but healthy growth.

Several men in the various centres have buildings which are used as regular meeting places, but have not been donated to the church. The contributions in these fields have been smaller than formerly, due to the trying times the Chinese have had during the past year. The Feng-hsien and P'ei-hsien Christians are asking Presbytery to organize them into a church, and we hope a pastor may be settled there before another year passes.

Three country schools have been in progress, one of which is entirely self-supporting and the others three-fourths self-supporting. In one of these a school-boy from the Tsining school, home on vacation, spent some time teaching.

The Tsining Church under Mr. Romig's care has made steady advance. Seventeen have been added on confession of faith. The regular services have been held during the year, the elders and boys' school-teachers rendering valuable assistance. The contributions amounted to $146 Mex. The Sunday-school, under Dr. Lyon's superintendence, has been well attended and has accomplished much good in Biblical instruction.

The work in the northwest field has made fair progress. Twenty-six have been baptized and there are many catechumens. The field has been visited three times and one of the nearer Stations six times.

The missionary in charge greatly regrets that he was unable to give more time to this part of the work. The urgent call for more help in the famine region led Mr. Romig also to cut short his Spring itinerating and go to Hsiidou-fu. An attempted trip in June was stopped by illness on the road. In this field the contributions have been small, there being about $15 Mex., raised for putting the finishing touches on a chapel.

While the Spring work in the evangelistic department had to be neglected somewhat, we hope that the distribution of famine relief may have been more powerful preaching than we could have done in our respective fields.

No inquirers' classes have been held this year, but a small Bible class for leaders in the out-stations was conducted by Mr. Thompson for three weeks, mainly at his own expense.

In July a class of helpers was convened for study. One week was spent at Tsining, Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Romig teaching the class. It was then removed to Taian-fu to unite with our Methodist brethren in a similar work. There Mr. Dodd, of Tsinan-fu, and Mr. Romig each gave two weeks' time carrying the Presbyterian side of the instruction. The Methodist part was carried by Dr. Hobart and Mr. Hanson, assisted by two native pastors. It has been a step in bringing us into closer fellowship and it was profitable to helpers and to missionaries. We are grateful to our Tsinan-fu friends for the help they have given.

Two of our most trusted helpers are very ill at the time of the writing of this report—Elder Sung of partial paralysis and Mr. Hsü of serious lung trouble. They have been faithful in their work and we will greatly feel their loss if they are taken from us.

WOMAN'S WORK.—The women also meet during the sessions of the Sunday-school, but in a separate room and are taught by Mrs. Lyon.

It is a great pleasure to teach the women these lessons, and they are much interested in them. The Children's Sunday-school, conducted by Mrs. Romig, meets in the girls' school-room. This school has made some advance in that a class in the catechism was organized last Spring. The advanced school-girls have memorized five to fifteen Scripture verses each Sunday, accomplishing during the year John's Gospel, chapters fourteen to twenty-one, inclusive, and several Psalms. The International Lessons are used for those who read well, lesson leaflets for those who read poorly, and Bible texts on the wall for those who cannot read.

For seven months, Mrs. Lyon held a weekly class on Tuesdays for women who are trying to learn to read the Bible and Catechism. The class was dismissed during the Summer months, but the women are anxious to begin study again. It was fairly well attended and the women did good work. The Woman's Thursday afternoon prayer meeting has been conducted by Mrs. Romig, Mrs. Lyon and Mrs. Han and some other members of the church, taking turns every month.

During the Fall and Winter, prayer meetings were held in three homes in the city by Mrs. Romig and the hospital Bible woman. An interesting and happy work is open to the woman evangelist who has zeal and tact for entering homes in the city. Three Bible women received six weeks' instruction during the Winter months.

MEDICAL WORK.—The past year has been a prosperous and happy one in the Rose Bachman and Hunter Memorial Hospitals and Dispensary, and joy in the new buildings grows with each succeeding month. Both men's and women's branches of the work have been carried on as usual by Dr. Lyon, assisted by Mrs. Lyon in the woman's work.

The number of patients at daily clinics is increasing. The statistics for the Rose Bachman Hospital for the year are as follows: First treatments, 5,334; return treatments, 9,816; out-calls, 15; total number of treatments, 15,165. In-patients, 243; operations, general anæsthetic, 13; operations, local anæsthetic, 70; total operations, 83.

In the Hunter Memorial Hospital for Women, the statistics are as follows: First treatments, 1,975; return treatments, 1,839; out-calls, 5, making a total of 3,819. In-patients, 86; operations, general anæsthetic, 3; operations, local anæsthetic, 36; making a total of 39 operations.

Thus the total number of patients in both departments was 18,984, and the total number of in-patients 329.

In the way of self-support we have raised $802.48 Mex. during the year in contributions, sales of drugs, and gate-fees.

Morning prayers are held for helpers and patients in the Bachman Hospital waiting room, and are led by doctors and dispensers in turn.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Boys' Boarding School.—Mr. Romig has continued his earnest efforts to build up a self-supporting school by the policy of having the boys help themselves by manual labor. The boys have worked as faithfully as last year, but the results have not nearly paid the expenses of the boys' board. This has been because of the excessively high prices of food, due largely to the shipping of grain to the famine region. The school had an attendance ranging from forty to forty-five pupils, and many applicants for admission had to be turned away. Mr. Romig writes:

The total cost of the school from September 1 to September 1 was $1,118 Mex. There were raised in fees a sum of $387.34; thus there was unfortunately a large deficit. With better equipment for the industrial department, larger fees could have been raised. The school was in session eight months of the year.

Of the requests of last year for the industrial department $10 were received from Mr. Thompson for a printing press. A hand press and a small font of type were purchased with private funds at an expense of $320 gold, to be used by the boys in their work.

We are grateful to the Board for their kind consideration of the financial condition of the school which led to the appropriation of $500 gold to the Mission, a portion of which we hope the Mission will grant for meeting the heavy deficit of the year.

The girls' day-school, under Mrs. Romig's supervision, has kept up regular and satisfactory work during the year. There has been an average attendance of twelve girls. All but one are from Christian families. Mrs. Li, in spite of family cares, has proved an efficient teacher.

YI-HSIEN STATION.

The Rev. William P. Chalfant writes that Yi-hsien City is one of the most desirable points for a Mission centre in all the southwest country. With a picturesque situation, well drained, having easy access to great tracts of country hitherto untouched by Protestant missionaries, certain of railroad connection with the canal, and having the by no means remote possibility of becoming a Station upon the main line of the Tientsin-Chinkiang Railway, Yi-hsien possesses capital advantages as a centre for missionary operations. It is to be hoped that the immediate problem of sufficiently manning it may be solved by the Mission and the Board.

After several preliminary trips from Ichou-fu to overlook the repairs that were being made on the native houses to fit them for foreign residence, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Faris, Mr. and Mrs. Yerkes, and Dr. Cunningham took up their permanent abode in Yi-hsien during the first week of December. Owing to lack of accommodation for all the members of the Station, it was deemed wise for Mr. and Mrs. Isett and Miss Faris to continue their language study in Ichou-fu whose hospitable doors were still open.

Those of our little party who had never seen Yi-hsien were charmed with the natural beauties of the place, and felt that the glowing reports we had heard of it were amply justified. In interior Shantung, it would be difficult to find a more beautiful spot for the location of a Mission Station than this little city with its winding river and its setting of eternal hills.

The reception afforded us by the people exceeded even our fondest hopes. Their attitude was cordial in the extreme, both high and low manifesting the most kindly feeling and showing little evidence of the fear and superstition with which foreigners are usually regarded in a new Station. From the very first we have walked out freely among them and have attracted scarcely more attention than we would at Ichou-fu at the present time. We have established the most friendly relations with our neighbors and with the members of the gentry and the influential business men of the city.

These happy conditions helped materially in the purchase of land for Mission buildings. The tract purchased last year was not large enough for the future needs of the Station and an additional piece of about five acres was added. This will give a fine, healthful location for all the buildings of the Station, including residences, chapel, dispensaries, hospitals, schools and the like.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Four day-schools have been opened, three in the T'eng-hsien field and one at the Station. Beyond this, no educational work has yet been attempted, although requests for other schools have come to us.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—This has been carried on with all the vigor possible, considering the small number of workers and the caution with which it is necessary to proceed in a new field.

Itinerating has been largely confined to the T'eng-hsien district, the only organized work of the Station. Various trips have been made to this field, and in January a series of special services was held at two different centres in the section. The spiritual life of the Christians was deepened by these meetings * * * Other short trips have been made to places near the city, but because of the prevailing hard times and the general unrest caused thereby, and also because of the time devoted to famine relief, extensive itinerating had to be given up.

A successful class for inquirers was held in January, and at its close twenty-five were examined for admission to the church, of whom five received baptism. The plan to hold a class for helpers and evangelists during the Summer had to be abandoned.

The usual preaching services have been held without interruption, including two meetings each Sunday, one in the south suburb and one in the city, the weekly prayer meeting Wednesdays and daily chapel exercises each morning except Sunday. Preaching services are held daily in the dispensary, which has proved an excellent place for the selling of books and tracts.

The work among women has many encouraging features. A great many have called and shown themselves friendly. An interesting class of ten catechumens have been studying since last January. Five of these women have finished the catechism and are now studying Matthew's Gospel. Two of them have unbound their little girls' feet and are sending them to school. There is also a more advanced class studying Acts. Each Sunday after morning service some time is spent in teaching the women to sing hymns. A meeting for women and children is held at the compound every Sunday afternoon, and a similar one in the city every Tuesday is well attended.

At T'aier Chwang, a large market town on the Grand Canal twenty miles from Yi-hsien, we have opened a substation with a native helper in charge. Judging from the number of inquirers in this locality, the promise is bright for a strong centre of Christian work here in the not distant future. We are the more encouraged by this condition as the place has hitherto been extremely hostile to foreigners and the religion they propagate.

MEDICAL WORK.—In spite of cramped quarters and imperfect equipment, the medical work has been steadily developing. Indeed, from the very first there has been a desire for foreign medicines. Before the dispensary was opened, people came begging to be treated and the doctor was forced to turn his own sitting-room into a dispensary for the time. Since the opening in February, 8,000 patients have been treated.

FAMINE RELIEF.—A new department, not usually included in our reports, has been added to the work of this year. The terrible effects of the famine of 1907 will long be felt in the vast area over which it spread.

In response to a request from our friends of the Southern Presbyterian Mission, that one of our number go to their assistance, Mr. Yerkes spent four weeks in Suchien and vicinity, helping to feed the hungry.

When word came from the Board that $1,500 gold was available for relief in West Shantung, it was decided to use practically all of it in the region of this Station where the need was the greatest.

Mr. Yerkes and Mr. Faris on April 16 started to the district south and southwest of Yi-hsien to begin this work. During the five weeks that followed, they canvassed homes in five townships and gave out over 5,000 tickets calling for weekly distributions of money till wheat harvest. As there were only the two foreigners and three or four Chinese to do all this, it necessitated long hours and little rest. The usual method of procedure was to start out about 8 o'clock in the morning, each of the two missionaries taking a certain number of villages as his work for the day. The return in the evening might be any time from 7 to 9 o'clock, after spending the entire day looking into homes or walking from village to village, perhaps having had nothing to eat since morning. Whenever possible Chinese food was secured for the midday meal, but it frequently happened that there was none to be had. At night accounts had to be made out, the work planned for the next day, and conferences held with the Chinese. Consequently it was usually midnight or near it before the needed rest was obtained.

There were distributed in all about $5,000 gold, it being necessary to ask the Shanghai Committee three times for funds to supplement the amount sent by the Board.

OTHER WORK.—

Of the calls received and returned, of the many conferences held with the Chinese concerning the purchase of property and other matters, of the affairs settled for the Chinese without allowing them to get into the courts, no report can be made; but the trials and irritations of such labor and the time consumed thereby only those who have engaged in the work of opening a new Station can fully know.

SICKNESS AND DEATH.—On the 13th of May, God called to His eternal home the Rev. Wallace S. Faris, the senior member of the Station, after an illness of forty-eight hours. We cannot but feel that his arduous labors in connection with the famine work and the hardships endured there were the direct cause of this calamity. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." Mr. Faris, born May 15, 1869, and educated at Lake Forest College, Leland Stanford University and Princeton Seminary, was appointed a missionary to China February 3, 1896. He was a man of remarkable beauty of Christian character. His selection by the Mission to lead the new Station eloquently testifies to the opinion that his fellow-missionaries had of his strength and wisdom. His death is a sore loss to China and to the Church.

On the 25th of May, the little company of missionaries sorrowed again with Mr. and Mrs. Yerkes, for their little son, Leighton, was taken by death and the form of the youngest at the Station was laid beside that of the oldest. July brought renewed anxiety when Dr. Cunningham suffered a very severe illness. We are grateful to God for his recovery.

On July 26, the Station again stood face to face with the mystery of death when the faithful Bible woman, who had come from Ichou-fu to help us, was called to her reward.

To add to the woes of the bereaved little group, Mrs. Faris was summoned to America by the dying condition of her mother, who needed her care, and at the end of the year, Mrs. Isett's health failed so alarmingly that she and her husband were forced to bring their stay in China to an abrupt end and sail for home. We had cherished great hopes for these bright young missionaries, and we earnestly pray that life in the homeland may restore health.

It was hard for the Board to accept the resignations of such valued and beloved workers as Mrs. Faris and Mr. and Mrs. Isett, but the circumstances left no alternative. Our hearts go out very tenderly to the stricken ones and to the handful of missionaries who remain at the Station, patiently and heroically determined that the work shall go on.

Notwithstanding the trials and sorrows the year has brought, we feel that God has mightily blessed the work at Yi-hsien, and we press on with yet greater confidence and trust in Him who is able to do for us far more abundantly than we can ask or think.

SHANTUNG PROTESTANT UNIVERSITY.

(In union with the Baptist Missionary Society of England.)

- I. Arts College, at Wei-hsien. Presbyterian property.
 Foreign Faculty: The Rev. Paul D. Bergen, D.D. (Presbyterian), Acting President.
 Professors: The Rev. H. W. Luce (Presbyterian) and the Rev. E. W. Burt and Rev. Mr. Whitcher (Baptist).
- II. Theological College, at Ching-chou-fu. Baptist property.
 Foreign Faculty: The Rev. J. P. Bruce, M.A. (Baptist), President. Prof. Watson M. Hayes, D.D. (Presbyterian).
- III. Medical College, at Tsinan-fu. Baptist property.
 Foreign Faculty: James B. Neal, M.D. (Presbyterian); Baptist professor not yet designated.

This great institution has had another successful year. Its influence is steadily enlarging.

SHANTUNG UNION COLLEGE at Wei-hsien.—The College has never been so prosperous at any other stage of its history. Its reputation is steadily increasing in China, as an institution where the instruction is of an advanced and thorough character, so that our young men are in demand where-ever known in the Empire. Three graduates have lately been called to the province of Yunnan, at salaries of $100 a month and with generous traveling allowances, that they may in that remote province establish an institution for higher education under the Chinese Government.

Letters have reached us this year from the provinces of Shen-hsi, Shan-hsi, Chihli, Anhhuei, Kiang-su, Honan, not to mention many from different districts of Shantung, asking on what terms they may be permitted to send young men to the College.

The faculty and friends of the College are greatly encouraged by the formation of an Advisory Committee in the United States, with the object of co-operating with the Board in arousing greater interest in the College and in securing the sums so greatly needed for further equipment and for endowment. This Advisory Committee consists of the following gentlemen:

President John H. Finley, LL.D., Chairman,
 The Rev. Joseph H. Odell, D.D., Vice-Chairman,
 Mr. Warner M. Van Norden, Secretary,
 The Rev. Arthur J. Brown, D.D., Recording Secretary.
 Mr. Dwight H. Day, Treasurer,
 Mr. J. B. Finley,
 Mr. Calvin N. Payne,
 Mr. Alexander M. Stewart,
 T. H. P. Sailer, Ph.D.,
 The Rev. Wm. R. Richards, D.D.,
 Mr. L. H. Severance.

Faculty.—The Rev. Dr. C. W. Mateer, who had consented to serve temporarily as President when Dr. Bergen pressed his resignation, felt obliged to lay down the burden in October, and Dr. Bergen was induced to return to the headship of the College as Chairman of the faculty for the ensuing year. One of the Chinese professors retired and two highly gifted Chinese were added to the faculty, one of them an honor man of the last graduating class, a brilliant scholar, and an earnest Christian.

Mr. Luce returned after a furlough in the United States, most of which was spent in hard work in behalf of the College, and with a measure of success which gives good hope of still larger things for the future.

Students.—The students have done good work, and there is again a further advance in scholarship to be reported. In the regular College classes there have been very few students conditioned.

The graduating class this year numbered ten, four of whom were exceptionally fine students. All of them are Christians and all are devoting themselves to direct Christian work, either as teachers or evangelists. Is there any other College of like rank in the world which can say as much of its graduating class?

Fees.—The College Treasurer reports that he has received from Presbyterian students $1,140.34, and from Baptist students $723.84, making a total of $1,864.18.

Religion.—The religious life of the students continues to give reason for thanksgiving. The voluntary Y. M. C. A. services managed by the students themselves have been well attended, and groups of students have gone each Sunday into the villages for preaching.

There are very few non-Christian students in the College. One of these united with the church at Wei-hsien during the year. It is gratifying that our students after leaving College almost invariably engage in some form of Christian work.

Candidates for Admission.—The regular examinations for entrance were held on December 28 and following days, at the different centres. Tabulating the results according to Missions, we find that the Baptist Mission from its secondary schools sent a total of forty-seven candidates, of whom forty passed, while the Presbyterian Mission sent thirty-nine, of whom twenty-nine were successful. We expect therefore an opening class next year from all sources of over seventy.

It is to be noted with great regret, that aside from Wei-hsien and Chefoo (this school furnishing three candidates who passed), our other Station schools of Tsinan-fu, Tsining, Ichow-fu and Teng-chou failed to send any boys to the College. This arises through lack of funds with which to support these auxiliary schools. It is earnestly hoped that the Presbyterian Board may be able soon to develop these schools, otherwise the Presbyterian candidates for the College will be comparatively few in number. At present the school at Wei-hsien is the only one to be depended on on the Presbyterian side to furnish students for the regular classes.

It is a hopeful sign that the Chinese Church is endeavoring to start preparatory schools in several centres, with College men for teachers.

Attendance.—One hundred and eighty-one students matriculated at the beginning of the year, of whom fifty-six were new. One hundred and thirty of these are in the regular College classes. We believe that the College leads the van in China for the number of students in the College proper. After this year there will be no preparatory department, and still there is every prospect of a considerable increase in the total attendance.

Building.—During the year, two rows of dormitories have been built, one for College teachers, writers and employees, and the other for students. Six new bath-rooms and a wash-room were also built, and fitted with piping for hot and cold water. A considerable amount of new College furniture was also made. The foundations for the fourth College dwelling have been completed.

English.—Hitherto the work of the College has been exclusively in the Chinese language. The Directors have at last decided, however, that the time has arrived to introduce instruction in English as a part of the College course. This is in accord with the judgment of the Board, which believes that, while the basis of instruction should always be in the language of the country in which an institution is located, English should be taught where circumstances justify it, as they now do in China, in some such way as French and German are taught in our colleges in America. Students are required to maintain a creditable standing in their Chinese studies, and to pay extra fees for instruction in English, no free teaching in English being given. This change brings this great College into line with the demands of modern conditions in China, and will add to its attractiveness in the estimation of ambitious young Chinese, many of whom now feel the need of some knowledge of the world's best language and literature.

Visitors and Lecturers.—During the year, the students were favored with richly profitable visits and addresses from a number of famous men.

The list included such eminent missionaries as the Rev. Drs. W. A. P. Martin, of Peking; Arthur H. Smith, of Tientsin; Hunter Corbett, of Chefoo, and Watson M. Hayes, of Ching-chou-fu. Of prominent visitors from other lands were Dr. Karl Fries, Chairman of the World's Student Federation; the Hon. James McKinney, member of the United States Congress, who made a visit to his sister, Mrs. Bergen; a deputation from the English Baptist Society, consisting of Secretary Wilson and Mr. Fullerton; the Rev. Dr. J. L. Dearing, of the American Baptist Theological Seminary of Yokohama, Japan, and last, but not least, Mr. Lewis H. Severance, of New York. All of these visitors made addresses which were exceedingly interesting and stimulating, while Mr. Severance, in addition, made a careful study of the College in all its departments, examining its methods, finances and equipment, and manifesting an intelligence and sympathy which made his visit a notable event.

Needs.—We have to report with gratitude that certain needs mentioned in the last annual report have been met. Mr. John H. Converse, of Philadelphia, has generously donated $1,000 gold for the equipment of the Converse Science Hall. The fourth College dwelling is going up, the gift of a friend in Scranton, Pa., and Dr. W. A. P. Martin, of Peking, has promised to provide the needed dynamo.

Dr. Bergen closes his report as follows:

We wait and work in faith, believing that consecrated and wise givers will be found who will be glad to supply our needs, and thus have a part in the establishment of the Kingdom of Heaven in China.

We close this report with devout thanks to God for permitting us another year of service, and for the increasing stability and prosperity of the College.

THE THEOLOGICAL COLLEGE at Ching-chou-fu.—The College in all its departments has continued its work as usual, striving to do solid efficient work in all its classes, as the final test of success must be the character and efficiency of the men sent out.

In the absence on furlough of President J. P. Bruce, the Rev. Dr. W. M. Hayes served as acting President. Dr. Bruce returned five weeks before the close of the year.

Rev. Samuel Couling, who took his place as professor for the past two years, now leaves us for educational work in T'ai Yuen-fu, Shansi. We wish here to record our appreciation of his able and faithful services. He is an educator with whom it has been a pleasure to work.

Theological Department.—The number of students in this department remains the same, seventeen, as in the previous year. Seven are Baptists and ten Presbyterians. Two are seniors, ten middlers, and five juniors. Of the two graduates, one is already called as pastor of a large Presbyterian church; the other goes to labor in the Baptist churches north of the Yellow River, where his services are urgently needed.

Though the students have worked faithfully, many of them came without college training, and the professors are therefore not satisfied with the grade of men that are being turned out. Pending a suitable supply of thoroughly educated candidates for the ministry, it is necessary to take other men who give promise of faithful average work, for the churches must be supplied. But the Faculty and the Missions are very seriously considering how best to secure a sufficient number of college trained men to seek the ministry.

Preparatory Department.—Including the elective students, the enrollment in this department is 100, of whom forty-three are Baptists and fifty-seven Presbyterians. Of the senior class, eleven received diplomas; one owing to sickness was unable to complete the course, while the thirteenth failed in examinations.

The health of the students has been unusually good. No flagrant breach of discipline occurred. Only a few students were dropped as failures. By increased care in the selection of candidates, it is hoped that still further improvement may be made in this respect.

GENERAL.—Attendance.—The total number enrolled for the year at Ching-chou-fu was 117. The average attendance was 110, of whom sixty-six were Presbyterians and forty-four Baptists.

Dr. Hayes wisely writes on this subject:

Not believing that it is "a part of our duty to educate these young men to a higher scale of living" than the native Church can afford to sustain, a consistent effort has been made to conduct the school on an economic basis fairly comparable with the average Chinese Christian's home life. Owing to the drought, which increases the cost of living, the further one goes west in the province, the average expense for boarding has advanced from 112 cash per diem in 1906 to 130.35 in 1907. On the other hand, student fees, which are applied to reducing the board bill, increased in the same period from 817 tiao to 965 tiao, thus making the cost of this item only about $40 more to the two Mission boards. An inspection of the balance sheet will show a gratifying decrease in other items.

Lecture Course.—The contemplated lecture course was carried out, the main topic for the year being the various duties of the pastorate.

Lectures were given by Revs. W. B. Hamilton, S. B. Drake, F. Harmon, Li'Yung K'ing, and Drs. C. W. Mateer and Hunter Corbett. Rev. F. W. Burt gave the closing address at the end of the Spring term; Rev. Liu Fu Tien one on the difficulties of the young pastor; Prof. Liu Kwang Chao, of Wei-hsien, one on his impressions as a delegate to the International Y. M. C. A. convention at Tokyo, while Dr. W. A. P. Martin gave two instructive lectures on the Condition and Needs of China, which were attended by the officials and students from the Government schools and which evidently impressed them. Revs. Wilson and Fullerton, of the English Baptist Board, also gave two inspiring addresses.

The lecture course has fully demonstrated its utility, and, by bringing the students in contact with other minds and other problems, widens their outlook and inspires them with new ideals. The entire cost to the College was only $14.24 Mex.

All in all, the work of the past year has been satisfactory. The relations between the different members of the faculty, both Chinese and foreign; between the faculty and the students, and between the different classes of students themselves, have been most harmonious.

Medical College (at Tsinan-fu).—This department of the University is just being founded. The plant is being provided out of a generous gift of $20,000 gold from "The Arthington Fund," by the English Baptist Society of London. The institution has not yet been opened for students, but a fine site has been secured and excellent buildings are being erected. Our Presbyterian representative on the faculty will be our well-known and highly qualified medical missionary at Tsinan-fu, Dr. James B. Neal. As it will be impossible for him to carry this extra work in addition to the work of his large hospital and dispensary, Dr. Charles F. Johnson, now on furlough, has been transferred to Tsinan-fu, and the two physicians will divide the combined work of hospital, dispensary and College.

THE SOUTH CHINA MISSION.

CANTON: capital of Province of Quangtung, on left branch of Chookiang River, about 70 miles from China Sea—a port city; occupied as a Station, 1845. Rev. H. V. Noyes, D.D., and Mrs. Noyes, Rev. A. A. Fulton, D.D., and Mrs. Fulton, Rev. Andrew Beattie, Ph.D., and Mrs. Beattie, Rev. J. J. Boggs and Mrs. Boggs, M.D.; Rev. A. J. Fisher and Mrs. Fisher, Rev. W. D. Noyes and Mrs. Noyes, P. J. Todd, M.D., E. C. Machle, M.D., Harry N. Boyd, M.D., and Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. J. G. Kerr, Miss M. H. Noyes, Miss E. M. Butler, Miss M. W. Niles, M.D., Miss M. H. Fulton, M.D., Miss H. Lewis, Miss E. A. Churchill, Miss L. Durham, Miss I. Mack, M.D., Miss M. Strathie.

LIEN-CHOU: 125 miles northwest of Canton; occupied as a Station, 1890. Rev. Rees G. Edwards and Mrs. Edwards, Rev. J. S. Kunkle, Robert Ross, M.D., and Mrs. Ross, Miss Elda G. Patterson, Dr. Elizabeth Carper.

YEUNG KONG: about 112 miles southwest of Canton; occupied as a Station, 1886. Rev. G. W. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall, Rev. C. E. Patton, M.A., William H. Dobson, M.D., and Mrs. Dobson, Miss V. M. Wilcox, Rev. J. W. Creighton.

ON FURLOUGH: Miss H. Lewis, Dr. and Mrs. H. V. Noyes, Rev. C. E. Patton, Dr. Machle, Dr. and Mrs. Dobson.

CANTON STATION.

Canton, the largest city in all China, is more influential than ever. It dominates all the southern part of the immense empire of China. Our Mission work in this strategic centre and in the populous districts adjacent has had another prosperous year.

EVANGELISTIC.—Field of Rev. A. A. Fulton, D.D.:

First Church.—This is the strongest church under Dr. Fulton's care and continues to have good attendance. Many students attend. The C. E. Society meetings are held every two weeks. The attendance at Sunday-school is very large. Rev. Wong Yuk Shing is energetic, giving much time to personal work as well as to other Christian causes in the city. The church is self-supporting and helps other needy causes.

San Ui and Tong Ha Churches in the San Ui District in the spirit of comity will soon be given over to the Canadian Mission. To our Mission belongs the credit of opening this district. This year's work in it and thousands of dollars have been spent, but we are one Church now with the Canadian Mission.

Sanning District has eleven chapels and two organized churches. San Cheung is overcrowded. Chung Wan, five miles south, is self-supporting. Chung Lau had seventy-six baptisms during the year. More room is needed. The Chinese raised $2,000 for a building. At San Ning City there is not enough room, $800 were spent in enlargements to accommodate students. The school is excellent and the expenses are all met by the tuition. Sz Kau is a new chapel, put up at a cost of $1,300. The woman's chapel is next door. Ng Shap, five miles distant, has a men's and woman's chapel. Saam Pat, a market town, about six miles from San Cheung, has a chapel built by the Chinese.

Hoi Ping District has five chapels and two churches. Chik Hom is self-supporting. It has a $3,000 chapel, but not adequate to meet the needs of the work. Kam U is an organized church, but the seating capacity is not sufficient. Yeung Lau Pak is a Christian village. The Ancestral Hall was given for church use. $150 were raised for a school. At Paak Sha, a new building has been purchased. $200 were given by the Chinese.

Yan Ping District has sixteen chapels and six churches. None are fully self-supporting, but all are partly so. Noh Fu has raised $200 for enlarging, for school purposes and other work. Wong Pei has 100 members. The people are very poor. Yeung Kiu, Shing Tong, Yan Ping, Tung Shue have good chapels, valued at $7,000 Mex. Hundreds of villages are being reached. No Kat and Ngua Kong have chapels for women.

Summary.—Added on confession, 425; children baptized, 68; contributions, $4,548 Mex., including $500 for Christian schools.

Mrs. Fulton writes of her work:

The year has brought some trials and also some encouragements. One Bible woman proved unworthy and was dismissed, but the work has not suffered. There have been 1,639 attendances at the Wednesday meetings at the woman's chapel. An evening Bible class is attended by women of the neighborhood. The girls' day-school in the upper story of the chapel has fifteen enrolled. Each one pays a dollar tuition, besides books, etc. The pupils are taught to sing and commit portions of the Bible to memory. The Missionary Society of the Fourth Presbyterian Church of Chicago has given a baby organ for the chapel. The Thursday prayer meeting for women has been fruitful. Many visits have been made to homes. The women are urged to do personal work. A Mrs. Chan is giving two days a week for this work free. The Sunday-school of the First Church is doing good work. Seventeen have united with the church.

Field of Rev. Andrew Beattie, Ph.D.:

Shun Tak District.—This is a very important field. The people are comparatively wealthy. Many centres are untouched. Four centres have work. Tai Leung has a large chapel well adapted to institutional work. At Hau Cheung Faat, the preacher left owing to a failure of the people to pay his salary on account of the poor mulberry crop. Tse Kei Un has since been engaged. He is one of the best men in the Mission. Kwai Chau is encouraging; it is a large centre and has a new chapel.

Dr. Beattie was absent on furlough most of the year, so that his report is brief. Further reference to his regular work is made in connection with the report of Mr. Noyes who assisted in caring for it during Dr. Beattie's absence.

Rev. W. D. Noyes: During Dr. Beattie's absence, a part of the work connected with the Third Church was under Mr. Noyes' care. Mr. Boggs and Dr. Noyes of our Mission and the Revs. George McNeur and William Mawson of the New Zealand Presbyterian Mission very kindly lent aid in the work during Mr. Noyes' absence part of the year.

The services at Szpai Lau have been maintained during the year. Attendance 300 to 600. The English School under Miss Burlingame is always well represented at the services. She conducts a Bible class in the main auditorium just before the services. The men's Bible class has an attendance of thirty to fifty. Evening meetings are held for those living near the church and for inquirers.

Wang Chi Kong has had a quiet growth. The chapel is entirely too small; every communion service finds the room packed.

Cheung Pau has been at a standstill owing to the illness of the preacher and because of the difference in speech of people and preacher. He has been transferred and a young man put in his place.

Yung Shue Tau.—The work is just beginning here. A building has been fitted up for a chapel and a preacher secured.

Tsan Tsuen is a large business centre, about two hours from Canton. The chapel is comparatively new. In the last few years over 100 names have been added to the roll, but the growth has been less this year. But we hope for better things in the future because at the present time we have an earnest preacher and an excellent Bible woman.

At Chong Tau, a few miles from Tsan Tsuen, a recent graduate of the seminary is in charge. Every communion season is marked by enthusiasm. The chapel is decorated with flags and flowers. The membership, while largely drawn from the lower walks of life, many can neither read nor write, are yet earnest. This is a most promising work.

EDUCATIONAL.—Theological Seminary and High School.—Staff—Rev. H. V. Noyes, D.D., Rev. J. J. Boggs, Rev. W. D. Noyes, Messrs. Chan, Mok, Ho, Yeung and Cheung.

The year has been one of healthy growth.

We are grateful that the health of the student body has been, in the main, good; that the corps of Chinese teachers has been so efficient; that the student body has shown improvement in discipline and diligence. We regret that it was necessary to dismiss several boys for misconduct, and to suspend some for the same reason, and that death took from us one of our theological students who had been with us several years, having completed the work in the High School.

In March the new Richard Varnum Noyes Memorial building was dedicated and formally opened for the occupation of our theological students. As yet but two of the classrooms are furnished and used for recitations. It is a great improvement to have the two departments separated.

All students are compelled to take physical exercise. The Y. M. C. A. and C. E. Society are kept up by the student body. A large proportion of the High School students are Christians or sons of Christian parents. Thanks are due to Mr. McNuer and Mr. Mawson, of the New Zealand Presbyterian Mission, for help rendered in the class-room. Number enrolled, 126; average attendance, 90; Theological Seminary, 37; High School, 67; Preparatory, 32; total, 136; graduated from seminary last year, 3.

Fati Church is under the care of Mr. Boggs. The preaching is done by the seminary staff. The services for women and children precede and follow the regular morning services. The work among the women of the neighborhood is encouraging.

The work of Mrs. H. V. Noyes has been carried on by Mrs. W. D. Noyes since the former left on furlough. Daily morning prayers are held with women and children of the compound, and on Thursday afternoons a prayer meeting. Sunday after morning service a meeting for women is held. Three Bible women are engaged to work among the women of the surrounding villages. A small school for children was opened on the compound by Mrs. H. V. Noyes shortly before she left for home.

The John G. Kerr Refuge for the Insane.—This noble institution has continued its beneficent work under the fostering care of Mrs. Kerr. At the time of last year's report there were 104 patients. 178 have been admitted during the year. 56 have been discharged cured, 39 improved and 21 died. There are now 142 inmates. Some after recovery learn to read and a number have been converted. Dr. C. C. Selden and family returned last November from a visit in America. His generous and self-denying assistance at the Refuge have been of inestimable value. Dr. H. W. Boyd carried on the work in his absence. He writes:

Evangelist Liu and Pastor Wong conducted services each morning, attended by all the patients who are able to come. On dispensary days their message has been heard by thousands of men and women. Pastor Wong conducts a weekly prayer meeting and Bible class for patients. The native staff meet for prayer meeting every morning.

The Canton Hospital School continues under Mrs. Kerr's charge. There are some regular attendants, but it is mostly made up of patients who are able and willing to learn while in the hospital.

MEDICAL WORK.—The great Canton Hospital has, as usual, treated a large number of patients, both in its wards and dispensary.

Dr. Swan was absent on furlough most of the year and the hospital was in charge of Dr. Todd, Dr. Boyd assisting after Dr. Selden's return liberated him from the John G. Kerr Refuge for the Insane. During Dr. Swan's presence, Dr. Todd had charge of the Men's Department and made visits to the homes of patients.

The Women's Department of the Canton Hospital was especially assigned to Dr. Swan. He has taken charge of the Sunday morning chapel service for patients, and two days each week taken charge of the preaching to the large number of out-patients who attend on prescribing days. Two Bible women under Mrs. Swan's care have done good work among the patients in the wards.

Medical Work for Women.—This work, it will be remembered, includes the David Gregg Hospital for Women and Children, the Pierson Dispensary, the Mary H. Perkins Memorial Maternity Wards, the E. A. K. Hackett Medical College and the Training School for Nurses. This extensive plant continues under the superintendency of Dr. Mary Fulton, assisted by Dr. Isabella Mack and Miss Margaret Strathie, the latter being superintendent of nurses.

Since Chinese New Year, twenty new students have been admitted to the Hackett Medical College; thirty-five are pursuing the regular course. All are Christians save one. Two thousand seven hundred and ten patients have been seen at the Dispensary, and at a branch dispensary 1,800 were treated. Two hundred out-calls have been made. A student always attends with the physician to get practical experience. Nineteen have been sent out from the institution. The aim is to train teachers as well as physicians.

All physicians, students, nurses, patients and helpers attend chapel in the morning. The students lead the evening meetings and on Sundays they assist in Sunday-school.

The Christian Endeavor Society is well sustained. Two Bible women talk with all patients in the hospital and daily clinics. One Bible woman is at the branch dispensary.

The Fati Dispensary, in care of Mrs. J. J. Boggs, was closed at the end of Chinese New Year, but is now open again. Patients have been treated at the house and visits made to homes. Meetings for women have been held in Fong Tsuen Thursdays and Sundays. A girls' day-school has been opened with private funds.

The E. A. K. Hackett Medical College for Women has two Chinese assistants. One of these assists in the work of translating. "Penrose Gynecology," Vol. I, has been completed and published. In the David Gregg Hospital for Women there are also two assistant native physicians. One does dispensary work.

Dr. Mary W. Niles has in press a work on Obstetrics and her revision of Dr. Kerr's "Practice" is progressing. She lectures twice weekly at Women's Medical College and twice at the Medical College for Men. She also makes professional visits in homes and has office practice. Mrs. Mo. Man Kin is assistant physician. Statistics are: Obstetrical cases, 42; professional calls, 97; office calls, over 300, mostly pupils.

Dr. Niles also superintends a number of native evangelists and teachers.

Three day-schools in Shun Tak District are taught by Bible women. The teaching is mainly the Gospel. The pupils attend chapel services and Sunday-school. As opportunity affords, these women visit the homes and hold meetings there.

Tai Leung.—Since Chinese New Year, the school has been moved to the chapel. Twenty-seven are enrolled. At Kow Kong there are nine pupils, each paying $2 tuition. The Kwai Chow School is taught by a graduate of the school for blind girls, who is given a home free of rent with a Christian widow. Seventeen are enrolled and doing creditable work. Mrs. Cheung also does the work of a Bible woman. A native of the district works at Kong Mei and Tung Ma Ling, as well as the surrounding villages. She also sells Gospels and Testaments for the American Bible Society as opportunity affords. Mrs. Lau has worked at Tsang Shing and Liu Po, but has now been transferred with her husband, who is a colporteur, to Ching Kwoh. Mrs. Lam Ut Ming has itinerated with Dr. Niles.

Leper Village.—One of the Bible women proved unfaithful and was dismissed. Sz Koo conducts the Sunday-school and gives instruction to eighteen girls and women in the evening. Two students from True Light Seminary spent their vacation in work in the country, one at Tong Lau and one at Liu Po. In March, assistance was given Mrs. Fisher at Shek Lung in the meetings for women. The plan is to visit the Bible women as often as possible, attend and hold meetings in the chapels and homes, hear pupils recite and converse with those interested, thus supervising and directing the work.

School for the Blind.—The past year has been an eventful one. The school had long outgrown the house it occupied, and for two years Dr. Niles had been looking for a suitable place for enlarging. A fine tract of land has been purchased from Dr. Selden, adjoining his home, at a figure below what it cost him to buy it, and about one-fourth of its present value.

In November, a mat shed was put upon the land and several of the pupils were sent there for their health, and later another shed was added for the two blind boys, who had been coming to the house for lessons. In March the entire school was moved over and a large, airy mat house put up. The fresh air improves the pupils very much. One permanent building has been finished for music and kitchens, extending along the western boundary for eighty feet and answering at the same time for a wall thus far. Friends seeing the need have helped, one gentleman having promised $1,000 gold to incite the Chinese to give. Through the deep interest of Consul-General Bergholz, H.E., the Viceroy Chau Fuk, with a large retinue, visited the school and expressed his amazement and gratification at what the girls had learned. Later, when calling on the Consul, he requested that a subscription book be given to him, which he returned the next day with $600 silver as a contribution from himself and the six officials next in rank. The contributions from the Christian Chinese, $3,400 silver, was used in part payment for the land. The ladies of Staten Island Presbytery gave $500 gold on the Silver Anniversary of Dr. Niles' leaving home for China. Mr. E. Bibby, of New Zealand, has given £249 sterling for the boys' department, which was established at his request. Temporary trustees have been appointed until the business of building can be satisfactorily arranged.

There have been thirty-seven pupils enrolled during the year. Three more have been sent to the Kow Loon School for the Blind. In all forty blind have come under our care. The present school shed is rented for one year. The rent is very high. The ground is ready and a building to accommodate sixty pupils with a corps of teachers is needed.

Miss Lucy Durham continues her faithful labors as an assistant of the missionaries. She writes:

Six long trips have been made during the year, reaching our most distant chapels. There are many groups of women who have confessed the Lord but are babes in Christ. The members of Station classes are urged to give out what they learn to their friends, often walking long distances on bound feet. This is the most gratifying indication of progress among our women. San Ui has advanced. I spent a profitable week at Sha Lui where a teachable spirit was shown. A Bible woman has worked at difficult Ho Lo with very good results. There is a girls' school here supported by Chinese in New York and is doing good work. Two Bible women sent to San Ui report good results. The Bible woman at Wong Chi Kong has been transferred to Chan Tsuen. She had lived for three years in great discomfort in a tiny little chapel and deserved a better place. The teacher at Ngoi Tsuen was needed for the True Light Seminary, but a new teacher has been found to take her place at Ngoi Tsuen. How to obtain sufficient teachers and Bible women is a great problem. So many attractive and more lucrative avenues are open to women that it is difficult to keep our workers. The responsibility of spreading the Gospel will have to be largely thrown upon the unpaid members that may be raised up in our churches, who can give a part of their time in definite work for the Lord.

The True Light Seminary for Girls.—This famous school has continued under the care of Miss H. Noyes and Miss E. M. Butler, who have devoted so many years to its development. Every department has been filled to overflowing. The women's department has 79 pupils, the intermediate 62, the advanced 36, and the primary 44; total, 221. Most of the students have Christian parents or relatives. Thirty-nine have united with the church during the year, fifteen women and twenty-four girls. The course remains the same in the main, but new books prepared in China are being introduced into the curriculum.

It is imperative that measures be taken to meet in some measure the insistent demand for opportunities for more advanced study, and plans are made to open a Normal Class at the beginning of next term. Two of our students have gone to the Government Normal School.

One of these stood first at the examination for admission. We aim to keep the girls for at least six years, which will enable them to enter the Normal Class or Medical College. The demand for Bible women is so great that we find it impossible to keep the women as long as we desire, but a three years' course has been arranged, and we hope that some will remain long enough to finish it.

Within the year, ten have commenced work as teachers, six as Bible women, five have entered the Medical College and three are being trained as nurses. The contributions for charitable objects have amounted to $229.65. From year to year there has been a gradual advance in the line of self-support. One of our best teachers, who could command a high salary anywhere, has given her services to the seminary during the year. $2,450 Mex. are received from the Board. After paying salaries of teachers and wages of servants employed, only $620 remain for current expenses for the year, about $25 gold a month for 150 students. Received from pupils for board, $1,610.10; for light, $96.40; total, $1,796.50, a little more than two-fifths of the current expenses. Miss Patterson, of Lien-chou Station, gave valuable assistance while she was in Canton. Dr. Bliss Boggs is giving a course of lectures to the students.

DAY-SCHOOLS.—Sai Lung Lei has an enrollment of forty-eight. Many other children want to come, but there is no room. The Chinese teacher, wishing to express her gratitude for restored health by greater activity in Christian work, commenced a weekly evangelistic meeting for the women of the neighborhood. A noon-day prayer meeting has been held during the year. The class of larger girls, about twelve in number, have all resolved to live Christian lives, although not permitted by their non-Christian parents to join the church.

Iu Wa Fong has fifty-one enrolled, Chan To has forty, and so regular have the pupils been in attendance that the average falls little below the enrollment. Pooi Sau has not been so well attended; it has fifteen enrolled. Wing Fuk has forty-seven. In all these schools, the pupils, with but very few exceptions, pay $1 entrance fee, which is used to supplement salaries and house rent.

Aside from the work in True Light Seminary, Miss Butler has charge of a day-school for girls in the western part of the city and a Bible woman working in the same locality. There has been an average attendance of seventy-five pupils in the Pui Kei Boys' School, and four boys have united with the church.

Miss E. A. Churchill's Work.—Seven day-schools have been carried on, with an enrollment of 194. This is a little less than last year, but the attendance has been far steadier, partly because, with the disappearance of prejudice against our schools, the pupils are settling down to work.

Our Manchu school has been the means of interesting a great many people in the Gospel, and several Manchu women have received baptism; $68 fees were received, $20 more than last year. Two weekly meetings for women are held in the chapel; the attendance ranging from eight to twenty-five. Visits to homes have been continued, and many are found willing listeners. The Sunday-school of the Sz Pai Lau Chapel keeps well up in attendance, 300. Four Bible women have done faithful work in visiting homes and in looking up many who are trying to serve God under great difficulties and require encouragement. Thirteen women have been baptized as the result of this work. The meetings held by Miss Churchill during the year were as follows: meetings in day-schools, 133; in chapels, seventy-four; in homes, ninety; Sunday-schools, forty-five; total, 342.

SHEK LUNG.

This important field has continued to be under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Fisher. The year's work for women has had its usual encouragements, and also its discouragements. The regular Tuesday meetings for women have been held with good results.

Many come to learn to read, and many non-Christians come in on that day. Since the Chinese New Year, our girls' day-school has had fifteen pupils, with a good teacher. Three of the oldest girls have learned to play the organ and can help in meetings. In March, meetings for women of the East River field were held for ten days, assisted by Dr. Mary Niles. The meetings were well attended. Many began to learn to read and to commit portions of Scripture to memory. As a result, another prayer meeting was begun in Shek Lung, attended by about twenty women. Our women's Sunday-school has four classes taught by Chinese. The average attendance is thirty-five.

The men's work has been marked by quiet, steady work on the part of the helpers. The proximity of an insurrection in the adjoining Prefecture of Wai Chau produced considerable talk, but only in one place did it come to anything more than that; that is at Tsang Shing City, where the disturbances were the occasion of an attack in broad daylight on the chapel by a mob of about twenty men, who were enemies of the school-teacher. The magistrate quieted them and full reparation was at once made.

Two new out-stations have been opened. One is at Shek Taan, a large and important market town. The man who sold the shop to us was a Geomancer and has since become a Christian. Five have asked for baptism and there are ten inquirers. The other new place is a large village of several thousand inhabitants six miles from Shek Lung. The Christians are putting up their own chapel at a cost of $1,500, which will be one of our neatest chapels. There are five organized churches.

Tsang Shing Church has two chapels. Tsang Shing City Chapel has had a prosperous year, but some worldly affairs have crept into the church and hindered spiritual growth. Special meetings were held for ten days. There were sixteen baptisms. Ching Kwoh also had a good year with twelve baptisms.

The Liu Po Church is the oldest in this field, but the least active. Sixteen have been suspended and two baptized. Yeung Mooi Church has four chapels, one of which, Tai Tong, has had a good year with five additions. Yau Koo Ling, Yeung Mooi, Wang Kong and San Wai chapels are doing very little. The people are poor and very few can read, hence progress is slow. Tai Fan Church has a fine new chapel, which proved a great help, but on account of the preacher not being the right kind of a man, little was done. Sin Sha is doing better than in the past.

Shek Lung Church has five chapels connected with it: Sam Kong, Cha Uen, Shek Taan, Uk Ha, Look Laan. Good work has been done in each of these places. Forty-eight have been received. Shek Lung has weekly prayer meeting and a C. E. Society. The Sunday-school averages about 100 in attendance.

EDUCATIONAL.—Five day-schools for boys are being carried on in the Shek Lung field, with 100 pupils. The Bible is used as a text-book in all. New books are gradually introduced in place of the old ones, and the teachers are being led up to modern ways of teaching.

The work at Shek Lung warrants another missionary family. The opportunities are unbounded, and work is opening up on every hand.

LIEN-CHOU STATION.

This Station, forever hallowed by the blood of martyrs, is being watched by multitudes of God's people. The year opened with no resident missionaries. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards were still detained in America by the ill-health of Mrs. Edwards. Dr. Machle was in the Philippines, where he had been sent to take charge of the hospital at Iloilo during the furlough of Dr. Hall. His furlough was then due and it was deemed best that, on his return to China, he should be transferred to some other Station where the reminders of his awful bereavement in the massacre of his beloved wife and child would not be so constantly before him. Miss Patterson remained in Canton, helping in the work there.

The Chinese pastor, Rev. Li Yong Shang, attended to the business affairs of the Station and gave some oversight to the work. He proved himself worthy of the confidence imposed in him. Other helpers and many of the Christians also showed their faithfulness.

In October, Rev. J. S. Kunkle reached Canton and began the study of the language preparatory to his future work at Lien-chou. In December, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards returned and Dr. and Mrs. Ross were assigned to the Station.

At different times, plans were made to return to the Station, but permission could not be obtained from the American Consul-General until all the demands made by the American Government had been carried out by the Chinese authorities.

In this way, none were allowed to return until after the Chinese New Year. Before the departure of the party, the members of the Mission met for a farewell service of prayer, and three days later, February 26, 1907, the two boats started for the inland Station so well known to the church since the massacre of our beloved colaborers. Rev. A. J. Fisher and Dr. Machle accompanied the party, the former as a representative of the Mission to help the little Station force for a few weeks, and the latter to pay a brief visit to the grave of his loved ones before he proceeded to America on furlough.

When nearing the Station, a boat-load of Christians met the missionaries to welcome them on their return, and three days later a reception was held at Sam Kong, attended by a large number of Christians and others. After a few days at the Station, Dr. Machle returned to Canton preparatory to starting in April for his furlough at home, and Mr. Fisher soon followed.

The work of reorganization has been attended with difficulties. Some discipline has been necessary; but what now appears as a going backward in the number of Christians and number of helpers in some lines we feel sure will yet prove to be for the upbuilding of the work. Until a place could be provided, the entire Station occupied the old Mission house at Sam Kong. Two of the smaller buildings on the Lien-chou compound were first erected in order to secure temporary quarters as soon as possible. Then one of the residences was rebuilt, being ready for occupancy about the middle of July. These buildings have provided a place for all the missionaries since that time. It was decided to erect the school for boys next, as the building would provide a place for the school and also for the church services until the church is rebuilt. The school-building is now completed and work on the church is well advanced.

The Board and the missionaries appreciate most heartily the kind friends whose gifts supplemented the appropriations which the Board was able to make for rebuilding at Lien-chou; especially Mr. Warner Van Norden, of New York, who donates the Men's Hospital; the executors of the estate of Mr. James H. Brooks, of Philadelphia, who donates the Woman's Hospital, and Mr. Nathaniel Tooker, of East Orange, who contributed toward the erection of the Boys' School.

CHURCHES.—Lien-chou.—The services for the first part of the year were held in the street chapel, which furnished very poor accommodations. Since the preacher's house adjoining the church was completed, the meetings have been held there, but the place is far too small.

The membership is much scattered, and a great amount of personal work is needed to keep the people interested. The evangelistic force has been employed in visiting the Christians in their homes, urging them to faithfulness. Miss Patterson, in her vacation from schoolwork, has visited some of the women. The Sunday-school since its reorganization has had an attendance of about eighty. With a larger place and some earnest work, this ought to be increased. The mid-week prayer meeting has been regularly held each Wednesday afternoon.

Sam Kong.—The members of this church do not manifest that zeal for the work that is so much desired. Of the members near at hand very few are men. The church needs some strong leaders. While the schools were in session, the attendance at Sunday-school and church services ranged from 120 to 160. The midweek prayer meeting was continued during the absence of the missionaries. After their return, the prayer meetings for women in Sam Kong City were resumed.

Kang Hau.—For about a year, one of the day-school teachers was located at Ham Kwong, looking after the church work. He was not well fitted for the position and at the close of the Chinese year was recalled to his former work of teaching. A strong preacher that will not yield to discouragements is needed for this field.

EVANGELISTIC.—On account of the work of rebuilding, no itinerating trips by the missionaries have been possible. The Chinese preachers have been sent to the various centres to conduct services, to encourage the Christians and to teach and preach. Of these places, Ham Kwong, Tung Pi and Shek Kok have chapels. At the other points, the homes of the Christians must be depended upon for places of meeting. An evening prayer meeting has been held weekly at such a home in Lung Hau, and also a Saturday afternoon meeting for women until the busy season came on. Six preachers and colporteurs and four Bible readers now comprise the Chinese evangelistic force.

SCHOOLS.—Boys' Boarding School.—In July of last year, the school was closed because the teacher resigned to take a course at Canton. Some of the smaller boys having no homes were taught by one of the older pupils. At the beginning of the present Chinese year, the school was reopened with an attendance of day and boarding pupils of about thirty, the work being divided among the missionaries, one of the preachers, one Chinese teacher and some of the older pupils.

Miss Patterson taught the class in the Harmony of the Gospels and Mr. Kunkle gave instruction in English and calisthenics. The regular course of study was pursued with slight variations. As in the evangelistic work, the oversight of building operations has interfered with the care of the school. Personal contact is of vital importance in the development of character. The boys were taught to care for the Mission premises and to cultivate their own gardens.

For the Summer the pupils that have no homes are given employment clearing the rubbish from the Mission ruins.

Girls' Boarding School.—During the first part of the year, in the absence of the missionaries, it was thought best to close the boarding department of the girls' school. A number of day-scholars, however, continued their studies under the direction of the Chinese teacher. Soon after the return of the missionaries in March, the school was reopened with an attendance of forty-five. This was all that could be accommodated in the present cramped quarters. Twenty-five of these were boarders, coming from villages some distance away; the others were day-pupils from Sam Kong. Most of the pupils are children of Christians, but a few come from heathen families.

Besides their regular studies, the girls keep the school-rooms in order, and take turns in helping with the cooking and other work. They also have a little garden where each girl is responsible for her own little plot of ground. One afternoon each week they have instruction in sewing, and thus learn to cut and make their own garments. Mrs. Ross has given instruction in this line during the past term.

For the most part the girls have been industrious, anxious to learn and have made good progress in their studies. We hope, however, that next year, with the aid of better trained Chinese teachers, still better work can be done.

It is no longer necessary to go out after our pupils and urge their parents to send them to school, as they are coming themselves to realize the desirability of educating their girls as well as their boys. In this region the Chinese themselves have not as yet established any schools for girls, so the Mission school offers the only opportunity for study to the girls of all this region. When one realizes how little of brightness or hope there must of necessity be in the lives of the ordinary Chinese girl or woman, without the Gospel or any means of study, one longs to be able to give the advantages of a Christian education to still larger numbers.

Day-schools.—The day-schools will not be reopened until good teachers can be secured and the missionaries have time to give proper oversight to them.

MEDICAL WORK.—It was not possible to reopen the medical work during the year. Dr. Elizabeth Carper, successor to the lamented Dr. Chesnut, did not arrive until after the close of the year. Dr. Robert Ross came with the others, but being a new missionary has had to devote himself to language study. Moreover the Van Norden Hospital for Men and the James H. A. Brooks Hospital for Women were not yet completed. Dr. Ross therefore merely served the medical needs of the missionaries, Station helpers and pupils in the schools.

The new year will see Dr. Ross opening the Van Norden Hospital for Men, and the James H. A. Brooks Hospital for Women is expected to be ready by the time that Dr. Carper has finished her first year of language study.

Mr. Edwards concludes the Station report as follows:

For the many blessings and protection granted by the Lord the Station has great cause for thanksgiving. No enemy has raised his hand against us; no severe sickness has befallen any of us. Some of the people of this region show by their looks their hatred of the foreigner, yet we think that some of these are changing their attitude and that the power of the Gospel in consecrated lives can yet win even some of these to be followers of Jesus Christ our Lord.

Nine graves, five missionaries and four children, bear witness to the people of the love of the Lord. The lives of His loved ones have been given for the reclaiming of this region for Christ. During the past two years, continual prayer has been ascending for Lien-chou, its workers and people. These petitions will prevail with Him who heareth and answereth prayer, and we in faith believe that the seed that has been sown by word of mouth, by deeds of love and lives laid upon the altar of sacrifice will in the coming years bring forth an abundant harvest to the glory of God.

YEUNG KONG STATION.

The year has been a quiet one in Yeung Kong, and the work has been carried on without interruption. Only three missionaries have resided at the Station most of the year. Dr. and Mrs. Dobson have been absent on furlough and Mr. Patton left in April for his furlough. Up to that date, he had given most of his time to the lower end of the field, which is his special territory.

Certain existing conditions have served to hinder progress and make work difficult. 1. The general spirit of reaction. 2. The prevailing lawlessness, especially in the region of Yeung Kong. 3. Rumors of Lim Chau riots, causing slander and threats against Christians. 4. High price of necessities of life. 5. Misapprehension of our refusal to assist in any official business. 6. Existence in Yeung Kong City of so-called "independent chapels," which have caused much misunderstanding and brought discredit upon the cause.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—In spite of drawbacks, evangelistic work has prospered, statistics showing 122 baptisms, nine more than last year. Five preachers, sent out a year ago, have done good work. Two chapels are vacant, while one preacher supplies two adjacent points.

Interest has been good in Yeung Kong City. The congregations are large. Average attendance at Sunday-schools is above ninety. A fine site has been secured for a new church building, and it is hoped that the work can be completed before the end of the year.

A special class for evangelistic helpers from the upper end of field was held in Yeung Kong in July. An earnest spirit was manifested. A Prayer League was formed as an outcome of the meetings.

Quarterly visits have been made to out-stations. In Mr. Patton's territory, disturbing elements have been less active, and the outlook is encouraging. Mr. Patton made three visits to his field before departure for home, and the fourth round has been made by Mr. Ng, a Canton pastor. Sixty-seven baptisms, or more than half for the entire field, have been from the four lower out-stations, the Ko-Chau section.

The work for women under Mrs. Marshall has had a good year. Christian women and others show a desire to learn. Two to four women have studied in a local training class, while seven women and girls from Yeung Kong and Ko Chau have been sent to the True Light Seminary in Canton.

A special class for women was held the first month of the Chinese year. The average attendance was fifteen and the interest good. The women also showed deep interest in the class for helpers.

Teaching and visiting in Christian homes have left Mrs. Marshall little time for itineration or visiting among outsiders. Many outside women have attended meetings or visited Mrs. Marshall. Visits have been paid to two out-stations and a few days given to work in remote villages.

Two Bible women have been at work, one in the city and one itinerating in the country. Opportunities are good in both forms of work. The women of the training class have been helpful in evangelistic work.

Meetings have been well attended, including prayer meeting Thursdays. Twenty-two women have been baptized, and there has been growth in knowledge and spirituality.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The school for girls has been in charge of Miss Wilcox. Girls and women are beginning to realize the value of education, and attendance increased from ten to twenty-seven, all that could be accommodated. Others desired to come, but had to be declined for want of room. The school was practically broken up in July by sickness and a death in the school-building.

Miss Wilcox has spent four hours a day in Chinese study, three afternoons a week in the school, and two in visiting in homes. Her Sunday-school primary class has had an average attendance of seventeen; inquirers' class of about seven.

The English school was discontinued at the end of the Chinese year. Since February, seven day-schools for boys have been open, enrolling about 160 boys. Twelve students have been sent to the Fati High School and Theological Seminary.

MEDICAL WORK.—There has been no physician at the Station during the year and therefore no medical work; but Dr. Dobson has now returned and the work is being reopened.

The total contributions of the Station have amounted to $1,665.87, an increase of $116.04 over the previous year, and an average of $2.58 a member. The outlook is hopeful, and owing to the liberal gifts of the Second Church of Germantown, we have money to complete the new church building and also to carry out a campaign of advance work in training helpers and opening new chapels.

MISSION IN GUATEMALA.

Guatemala has an area of 63,400 square miles, has a population variously estimated at 1,200,000 to 1,500,000, composed unequally of whites, Mestizos, and Indians—the latter vastly predominating. The climate of this republic is for the most part salubrious. Our work is at Guatemala City and at Quezaltenango, situated and occupied as follows:

GUATEMALA CITY: 60 miles from the seaport of San Jose; occupied 1882. Missionaries—Rev. and Mrs. William B. Allison, Dr. Mary E. Gregg. Out-station: San Augustin.

QUEZALTENANGO: 125 miles northwest from Guatemala City; occupied 1898. Missionaries—Rev. Walker E. McBath and Mrs. McBath.

The work of the Mission has gone steadily on, all the members of the Mission being in comparatively good health and at their posts of duty throughout the year. Though small in numbers, there is a record of quiet faithfulness to duty, and steady, persistent battling against the inertia of a deeply intrenched, unmolested and corrupt religious formalism that, were it widely known, would awaken sincere admiration. Though isolated and often times "with strength so far gone as to be compelled seriously to face the question of giving up the work," our representatives have not faltered.

"Do not," says one of them, "think that we have any idea of giving up the ship. We are not that kind. We are going to use for the glory of God what we have and intend to keep praying hard for God to open the hearts and pocketbooks of His people, that this work may be properly supported."

Of the work of the year, one of the missionaries writes:

We have many reasons for thanksgiving for the opportunities and blessings during the past year. No great number of believers have been added, but we note a steady growth among our members, and that is a very essential feature of our work. There are many interested ones who attend our services and who will later enter as members. Catholicism is gradually losing its hold on the people here, but this does not mean that the people are rushing to our chapels. Having lost faith in the organized church, as they have known it, they are more difficult than the pagans to reach, in many ways. The fact of it is that the Catholic Church in this country is largely baptized paganism.

A little idea of the multitude of labors that fall to the lot of a missionary in a Station where so few workers are living can be gained by the following extracts from the letter of Dr. Mary Gregg, who was sent out formerly to do medical work.

I think I have made fairly good progress with the language, considering the time I have had for study. There is much sickness here among the poor and there are many calls on my time.

During the absence of Dr. and Mrs. Allison visiting the other Missions, I am carrying on the work with the assistance of our native workers. This short experience has shown how hard it will be for me to do this for six months when Dr. and Mrs. Allison take their furlough. I am strong and have excellent health, but there is much work to be done and great responsibility in directing all without assistance except from our members. My own work among the sick is enough for one person without other cares. When to that is added the work of assisting in the church services and women's meetings, visiting among the people, the care of the house and the directing of the servants, you can see there is enough for two or more persons.

It is because of the above situation, which requires one person to bear the whole responsibility of the Station, that the Mission is led to make urgent plea for at least another single woman missionary.

From Quezaltenango Station Mr. McBath writes as follows:

Our church has not grown in numbers during the past year as much as we should have desired, but there has been a small increase and also a more faithful attendance upon the meetings, and a wider field of influence. During the year we were permitted to move our chapel here to our own home, by turning into a meeting room what we had been intending to make a parlor and guest room. It means a sacrifice of room for us, for we are crowded in our little house to such an extent as to really hinder our greatest efficiency by calling for a great deal of our physical and nervous strength to be spent in overcoming inconveniences. But with this has come a saving in not having to go a long distance to the meetings, and also has placed us in the centre of our work and given us a closer touch with the members of the church and as well the many who come but occasionally or for the first time to the meetings.

The location is not as good as that of the former chapel, but the advantages mentioned have so far, that is in the past three months, brought a much larger attendance, so that two or three additional rooms would not induce us to change back to the former plan.

The possession of a horse and buggy is also one of the blessings of the past year, and with splendid roads in the neighborhood we are now in easy touch with a number of smaller towns and country districts, and some of these opportunities are already being improved. We might especially mention an opening we have for a work among the Indians in a small village at the foot of the Santa Maria volcano. We were driving out that way one morning last September and had just turned toward home when we were hailed by two men who were approaching us from across the fields. Their request was not by any means an uncommon one—the price of a drink. What a blessing if every time we have been asked that small favor we could have followed it up as it was our privilege to this time. They had already had some and were on their way to town to satisfy the thirst. We began to talk with them as we traveled along together and found that they were not by any means unintelligent, though ignorant and in bondage to both the priest and the saloonkeeper. We wanted to get them to stop at our house, which is near that end of the city, and so we walked our horse and kept along with them till at the edge of town they met with friends and turned into another street, promising to come on to our house and stop a while. We are used to promises; nothing is cheaper than vibrations in the air, and that is the sum and substance of most of the promises that are made us. God was better to us than our hopes or fears, for in less than half an hour they were at the gate, and five others with them. How we had longed to get a start among the Indians, and here it was, the answer to months of prayer. Since then we have often visited their little village, and they are here frequently, and we have already had one meeting with them in one of their houses. We took our little folding organ with us and sang to them the story of the Ninety and Nine, and talked of the love of the Good Shepherd, for they have, in addition to their corn patches, their little flocks of sheep. Now when we speak of them as Indians we do not want to confuse them with the war-like Indians of North America. We call them Indians because they are the original inhabitants that the Spaniards found here and called Indians, but they are the most peaceful kind of people, the only working class the country has.

Of more extended itineration we can say little. Our position does not admit much of it. We are alone in our Station, and so if we go away to be gone over night we must secure some one of the people of the country to stay in our house, as houses here cannot be shut up and left undefended as in the home land, and this has invariably resulted in giving us new and varied examples of the lack of confidence that can be placed in those upon whom we are dependent.

We are compelled, however, from time to time to seek a lower altitude with its warmer climate, but this needed change we never take till on the verge of a collapse, and then do not dare to stay long enough to reap a great benefit. In addition to the towns in the near neighborhood I made a visit lately to a section of the coast country belonging to this same department, and found much encouragement in hoping that the Gospel may have an entrance in that region. However much Romanism may have a hold in this part of the country, it is certain that it is not for love nor respect for the priest. Everyone had the same opinion of the priest—that he was in the business for what he could make out of it. Why is it, then, that the people do not turn to the Gospel as the true religion? For much the same reason that there are a considerable number of people in the States who are not Catholics and yet are not Christians. If our work was only negative it would find easy soil: if the people were seeking after God they would accept Him gladly; but we find little desire among them for salvation from sin. "Save us from the priest, but not from our sins; do not take them from us; we could not live without them." It is not spoken to us thus in words, but there is something that speaks louder than words.

A very short stay in the country would suffice to prove that the predominant religion is not Romanism but RUManism. I have read that in some of the Eastern Mission fields the houses are built with the doors hidden from view so that the devils may not find the way in, but I can imagine that if one should pass along the street here, hoofs, tail, horns and all, the doors would be thrown open wide with hearty invitations to "Come in and make yourself at home."

Our needs this year are about the same as last year.

We need other workers. Within the last month an additional native worker has been secured, but too late to include this new expense in the estimates that were made up for 1908-1909. The greater need is for another missionary and wife to live here and share the responsibility for the Station work, as well as to allow opportunity for more extended itineration.

Material needs continue as before. Each attempt to plan a way by which this property can be made to serve the purposes of the Mission shows more plainly the fact that a new location must be secured. Even if we had the lot now and had begun to build we would still be called upon to suffer the inconveniences of this position for several months, as building is not quick work with native labor. The chief difficulty is the lack of water. We are dependent upon rain water, and our cistern has been dry since the middle of January and the dry season is at its height and no rains due till May.

We are hoping that the funds at the Board's disposal during the coming year will enable them to grant us this need.

MISSIONS IN INDIA.

The past year has been a somewhat more tranquil year, politically, in India, than the year preceding. The national spirit has not died down. Happily it has continued to develop, but without such crude manifestations as were witnessed the previous year in the Rawal Pindi riot. Naturally and fortunately, conservative tendencies have asserted themselves, and henceforth the movement will be shaped by the counterplay of radical and conservative forces. The Indian Witness for January 30, 1908, refers to the breach which came between the two tendencies at the National Indian Congress at its meeting at Surat:

The great outstanding fact for the student of affairs is the awakening and development of the national spirit and its present status. In what has been called the unchanging East events have been moving so rapidly of late that a statement made a few weeks ago as to the situation would now be ancient history; the disruption of the National Congress at Surat during the Christmas holidays and the organization of the two parties resulting in an event of first magnitude to the missionary as well as to other publicists. Up until then there was a national movement, not well defined, generally not seditious, but having here and there points that indicated possible danger, showing by riot and seditious writing and speech the presence of a disposition that might make mischief. Now the situation is resolved. Out of the storm in the Congress Pandal at Surat emerge two parties. One call themselves the Constitutionalists and announce as their goal autonomous self-government of the colonial type, and their method, agitation and other action within the limits of the British Constitution. They propose to reorganize the Congress in harmony with this end and method. The other party call themselves Nationalists, and leave us to infer from their violence at Surat, when they tried by brute force to get possession of the platform, what methods they would use not only with their fellow-Indians, but with any others who might oppose their desires.

The opportunities for missionary work have been greater than ever. The editorial in the Indian Witness just quoted describes the general situation:

It is worthy of note here that there is no sign anywhere indicative of an anti-missionary spirit. Two or three untoward incidents have occurred which need not now be recalled by specific mention. But even in the localities where they occurred no spirit in opposition to the missionary persists. Indeed, there never was such an opportunity for the missionary. The state of flux, of injury, of quickening of thought, presents opportunity for helping the people in their thinking and living such as has never before been presented.

The missionary on the field and those whom he represents at home have, therefore, in the most marked degree ever witnessed in the history of missionary effort in this oldest of Mission fields, both the best opportunity of approach to the people and the greatest stress of necessity to help and guide and save the people in this their hour of national peril and opportunity.

On the Mission field itself, two points of interest present themselves. One is the status of the revival movement. It has been hindered and jeopardized by certain extravagant ideas in some quarters, such as have shown themselves in various parts of the world, including the supposed gift of tongues and being overpowered by the outpouring of the Holy Spirit. Some who have known its power have tried by strenuous effort to maintain the symptoms of surprise which appeared at first. Some who have desired and sought revival experience have become discouraged and have relapsed into a humdrum existence of dogged devotion to duty, without the joy and uplift of bright spiritual consciousness of God and His salvation. Yet in other parts of the land the revival persists and grows and spreads and deepens. It is safe to say that it has added much to the spiritual life of the Christians of India, and that its force and influence will remain, even if some cut themselves off from its best by erroneous thinking, either in excess or defect.

The other great point of interest is the large one of Mission policy as related to the lower castes. Some confusion and misunderstanding have arisen in the discussion. Some have seemed to think that their own special kind of work has been assailed, and have flown to the defence of themselves and their plans. But in the main it may be said that the question raised in the discussion is whether there shall be less of an attempt to guide in the selection of candidates for Christian fellowship and more of a readiness to receive and train those who turn to Christianity, no matter from what social grade. This question does not extend to all the Missions. Some settled the question years ago, and have been acting on the broader policy long enough to demonstrate its wisdom both from the standpoint of the number and character of converts. These cannot but rejoice that others are coming to see the matter as it has demonstrated itself to them so abundantly.

The first great practical need of the work in India is a marked increase of trained Indian workers. To man the whole field profitably for the early evangelization of the whole land, the force of indigenous workers needs to be increased twice as fast as the missionaries. That means that schools must be multiplied, and made more directly to contribute to the development of trained workers and that increased support must be found for these recruits to the evangelistic agencies.

We may sum up the whole situation then as being more hopeful and yet more critical than ever, and calling for action on three distinct yet concentric lines.

I. Develop indigenous evangelistic agencies.

II. Teach the Indian Christian to be a patriot in the broadest and best sense.

III. Do all that lies in our power to promote the teaching of social ethics and the development of an adequate social conscience in the people as a whole, remembering that we are almost the sole custodians of the sources of such ethics and the models for such a conscience.

The question of the low-caste movement continues to be a vital question, some missionaries feeling that the time has come to throw special strength into the effort to draw over into the Church these multitudes of low-caste people now accessible;

other missionaries preferring still to work with the higher, more influential—if less responsive—classes. The Saharanpur Station report, which follows, throws interesting light on the question. The Kaukab-i-Hind, published in Lucknow, speaks of the problem as it presents itself especially to the Methodist missionaries:

Work among the distinctively higher classes in India is not easy, and Missions that have limited themselves to that kind of work usually have little to show for it after years of toil. The lack of success on the part of such Missions in winning the converts they seek and larger numbers of high-caste people that have come to other Missions that made no distinction in the objects of their labors between high and low, makes one doubt that this kind of specializing in Mission work is the best way of reaching men. No one can accuse the missionaries of the Methodist Episcopal Church in India of working simply for the higher castes. Indeed, the charge has been made against the Mission as a whole of having no work save among the depressed classes. The real fact is that while most of its work has been among low castes, it probably has as many high-caste converts as most of the special Missions combined that work distinctively for the high-caste men. As an indication of the proportion of workers we are training up from our converts, it may be pointed out that at the closing exercises of the Bareilly Theological Seminary last week, of the class of twenty-one who passed out, only four men were from the Sweeper caste. There were five men from the Chumars, one Kori, three Mazhabi Sikhs, one Agri, four Chhatriyas, one Mohammedan and two Brahmans. And in this proportion the class of this year was not materially different from those of the past few years. The promising outlook for the work among the Chumars has made most of the missionaries, and especially those connected with the seminary, anxious to prepare and send out as many workers of that caste as possible, but the list shows that workers are also being prepared and sent out continually from among the caste people. That these higher caste workers are not afraid of coming in contact with low caste is shown by the fact that often they are most successful workers among the great Sweeper community. It is stated by those who have closely observed that, on the other hand, some of the most successful workers we have among the higher caste peoples are men who themselves came from the lower caste castes, there being continually cases brought forward where Braham converts have been won by workers who came from the Sweepers and Chumars. That work among the higher castes is encouraging, is witnessed by the fact that all over Upper India, especially, missionaries and other workers state that the past year the number of inquirers from such classes has very largely increased, and also that the number of baptisms among such is larger than heretofore.

The North India Mission, especially in four Stations, has moved out earnestly in this low-caste work, and refers to it in its Mission report:

The Mass Movement, as it is often called, consists of large movements towards Christianity, which follow family lines, and have as yet occurred only in the lower castes. As among the Koreans, so among these people, the bringing in of converts is due almost wholly to the efforts of those who have themselves become Christians, who teach and persuade their relatives and friends concerning their new faith. The large force of Mission workers engaged in this work is occupied for the most part with instructing the Christian community, which is so rapidly growing. . . .

In connection with the work among the outcastes, there were about 2,000 persons baptised during the past year in the three districts of Fatehgarh, Etah and Etawah, over half of these being in Fatehgarh. Our Christian community now numbers, in the Fatehgarh District, 4,700 persons; in Etah, 3,500; in Mainpurie, 1,700; in Etawah, 750, and in Jhansi, 350. These are the five Stations of one Mission in which this movement along family lines has been progressing or has made a beginning, or shall we not say simply has made a beginning concerning all?—for none can realize more clearly than those who have seen the largest measure of success, that we are but at the beginning of this great movement, a movement in which the caste ties, which have been a chief hindrance to the spread of the Kingdom of Christ in India, are being transformed into a principal means for the spread of that Kingdom. On what this may mean for the future one cannot think without a vision of wonderful possibilities. But the vision will require much earnest and faithful work in order to its accomplishment. Widespread and degrading sin is to be eradicated, the ignorant and superstitious are to be enlightened, those who “are not a people” are to be transformed into “a people of the living God.” We know something of what this has cost among our own people. It cannot cost less in India. The whole question as to the success or failure of this movement, as to whether we are preparing for the Church a crushing incubus of baptized heathen, or a great body of emancipated and living Christians, turns on the pastoral care and the instruction these new communities receive.

The General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in India was held in Calcutta, and Sir Andrew Fraser, Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, was Moderator. The South India Presbyterian Synod withdrew from the Presbyterian Assembly during the year in order to unite with the Congregational bodies in South India, in order that this union might prepare the way for a larger union throughout the whole of India.

In the Punjab, the Mission has faced some difficult problems of administration, due to the increased requirements in the case of educational institutions, and at the close of the year the social and industrial outlook was broken both in the Punjab and in Northern India by the shadow of famine.

PUNJAB MISSION.

LAHORE: the political centre of the Punjab, 1,225 miles northwest of Calcutta; Station begun 1849. Missionaries—Rev. J. C. Rhea Ewing, D.D., and Mrs. Ewing, Rev. J. Harris Orbison, M.D., and Mrs. Orbison, Rev. H. D. Griswold, Ph.D., and Mrs. Griswold, Rev. Walter J. Clark and Mrs. Clark, Rev. D. J. Fleming and Mrs. Fleming, Miss Emily Marston, M.D., Miss M. J. MacDonald, Rev. Ray H. Carter, and Rev. Herbert A. Whitlock and Mrs. Whitlock; out-station at Wagah, Miss Clara Thiede.

SAHARANPUR: 215 miles southeast of Lahore; Station begun 1836. Missionaries—Rev. C. W. Forman, M.D., and Mrs. Forman, Rev. H. C. Velte and Mrs. Velte, Rev. Christian Borup and Mrs. Borup, Miss Amanda M. Kerr and Miss Christine Herron.

SABATHU: in the lower Himalaya Mountains, about 170 miles southeast of Lahore and 70 miles east of Ludhiana; Station begun 1836. Missionaries—M. B. Carleton, M.D., and Mrs. Carleton.

LUDHIANA: near the river Sutlej, about 100 miles southeast of Lahore; Station begun 1846. Missionaries—Rev. E. P. Newton and Mrs. Newton, Rev. E. M. Wherry, D.D., and Mrs. Wherry, Rev. E. E. Fife and Mrs. Fife, Rev. J. N. Hyde, Rev. R. D. Tracy, Miss Sarah M. Wherry, Miss Emma Morris, Miss E. J. Jenks, Miss Mary C. Helm and Miss Mary Riggs Noble, M.D.

JULLUNDUR: 110 miles east of Lahore, 25 miles north of Ludhiana; capital of Division of Punjab by same name; Station begun 1846. Missionaries—Rev. C. B. Newton, D.D., Rev. Fred. J. Newton, Miss Caroline C. Downs, and Miss Margaret C. Given.

WOODSTOCK: in Landour, 15 miles east of Dehra and 325 miles southeast of Lahore; school begun 1847. Missionaries—Rev. H. M. Andrews and Mrs. Andrews, Miss Alice Mitchell, M.D., Miss Jean E. James.

AMBALA: 170 miles southeast of Lahore; Station begun 1848. Missionaries—Rev. Reese Thackwell, D.D., and Mrs. Thackwell, Rev. F. B. McCuskey and Mrs. McCuskey, Mrs. William Calderwood, Miss J. R. Carleton, M.D., and Miss Mary E. Pratt.

DEHRA: 320 miles southeast of Lahore; Station begun 1853. Missionaries—Rev. U. S. G. Jones and Mrs. Jones, Rev. A. P. Kelso and Mrs. Kelso, Miss Elma Donaldson, Miss Grace Woodside and Miss Alice B. Jones.

HOSHYPUR: about 95 miles east of Lahore; Station begun 1867. Laborers—Rev. K. C. Chatterjee and Mrs. Chatterjee, Miss Dora Chatterjee, M.D.

FEROZEPUR: 50 miles a little to south of east of Lahore; Station begun 1882. Missionaries—Rev. F. J. Newton, M.D., Miss M. M. Allen, M.D., Rev. A. B. Gould and Mrs. Gould, and Miss Carrie R. Clark.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Dr. Emily Marston, Rev. U. S. G. Jones and Mrs. Jones, Rev. C. W. Forman and Mrs. Forman, Rev. J. C. R. Ewing, D. D., and Mrs. Ewing, J. H. Orbison, M.D., and Mrs. Orbison, and Miss Alice Mitchell, M.D.

The only addition to the Punjab Mission during the year was Miss Margaret Leitch, who went out from Scotland to be married to Mr. Whitlock. The Mission lost, by resignation, Dr. Sarah Vrooman, who has taken up self-supporting missionary work in Tehri, a native State with no other missionary work in its bounds, and Mrs. G. S. Forman, who plans to remain in America. The Mission met, also, an irreparable loss in the death of Mrs. F. J. Newton, of Ferozepore. Mrs. Newton went out to India in 1870, and has been a tower of strength in the work both of the Station and of the Mission.

LAHORE STATION.

Lahore is the capital of the Punjab, with 186,000 inhabitants, of whom 3,400 are Europeans.

Besides Presbyterians, who were the first to come to Lahore, there are the Church of England and Roman Catholics, each with a Bishop and Cathedral; the Church Missionary Society, the American Methodists, the Zenana Bible and Medical Mission and the Faith Mission.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Forman Christian College.—

The staff consists of five Americans and eight Indians.

There were 401 students on the rolls October 20. Of these 201 are Hindus, 141 Mohammedans, 29 Christians, 27 Sikhs, and three others. It is a most significant fact that over one-fifth of the college students of the Punjab Province receive their education in this American institution. It means that this college has an opportunity of influencing to a great degree the higher education of this part of India.

The total income of the college for the year ending September 30, 1907, amounted to $12,500, of which $8,300 was from tuitions, and $4,200 from the Government grant. The total annual cost of the college to the Mission is the salaries of four missionaries. The whole student body is divided into seven Bible classes, which meet daily and are taught by Christian professors. Attendance on these Bible classes is compulsory. Our students come almost entirely from the upper classes, in which there is no marked movement toward Christianity. We have the opportunity, however, during a time, ranging from two to five years, to exhibit and press home Christian ideals and truths, through the regular Bible lessons, through personal contact and intercourse, and through the teaching of secular subjects in a Christian way and with the highest ends in view.

Rang Mahal High School for Boys.—

Mr. Clark has been in charge of the school, which is situated in the heart of the native walled city, and having a history of exceptional influence in Lahore since 1850, when it was founded by Dr. C. W. Forman, affords a most effective means of contact with large classes in this capital city. Over 1,000 boys, coming from about 800 homes, carry away not only for themselves, but often for others, a fuller knowledge of the truth. The annual cost to the Mission of this school is $800.

During the year the school has held its own in spite of plague and financial strain. There are forty-two teachers, six of whom are Christians. The classes are crowded.

Girls' Schools.—

These schools reach about 200 Hindu and eighty Mohammedan girls between the ages of five and fifteen. Very few continue during the five years' instruction offered, as they are removed by marriage. Throughout their attendance they receive regular daily Bible teaching, learn Bible verses, and sing Christian songs. Through these little girls the Gospel reaches many a home otherwise inaccessible.

MEDICAL WORK.—In Dr. Marston's absence on furlough, Mrs. Clark superintended the dispensary with its staff of native assistants.

The average number of patients per diem throughout the year has been thirty-nine, making a total for the year of 8,375. About seventy-five patients a day are now coming to the dispensary, not only from all parts of the city, but from many villages. It is noticeable that they come from all classes, rich and poor, high and low, old women and little children, Christians, Mohammedans and Hindus. There are many fine intelligent women from the upper classes, but here again it is especially true that the poor have the Gospel preached to them.

There are Government hospitals in Lahore, but they charge four cents for each new patient, while we charge only one-half cent. Furthermore, out-castes are not treated except at a Christian hospital. The women say that they prefer to come to us because we pray for them as well as give them medicine.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Outside of the schools, evangelistic work has been carried on in the zenanas and the two Union Churches in Lahore and in the district of the Second Church.

This church aims to draw together the scattered Christian community of the poorer and laboring classes of Lahore. Constant watchfulness against idolatrous customs is needed amongst this class. A Christian public opinion is gradually forming, however, amongst them, so that the past year they of their own accord indignantly stopped intercourse with one family who had contributed to an idol feast.

Three schools have been maintained for the boys of this community, the average attendance in which has been fifty-six. In these, religious instruction is given by means of hymns and Bible stories.

The number of baptisms during the year has been fifty-eight, making the total Christian community 358.

We, and we alone, are responsible for the district lying northwest of Lahore, containing about 340 villages, only eight of which are now occupied.

Out-station—Wagah.—

A most interesting personage connected with Lahore Station is Miss

Thiede, located at Wagah, about sixteen miles east of Lahore. For years she has been working alone in this little village. It is an inspiration to see this seventy-year-old saint, still active, giving herself in absolute self-forgetfulness to the humble people who throng her doors.

Although not a doctor trained in the schools, she has a dispensary where, during the past year, 6,165 patients were treated. This, however, is only a detail of her busy life.

People know of her for miles about. For instance, this past year a young Brahman, a priest in a celebrated place of idol worship, learned that there was a great guru at Amritsar. He went, little knowing that the great Nanak had been dead for years. Having no more money, he began to beg from village to village and was directed to Miss Thiede. With difficulty she persuaded him that he was a sinner; and after six or seven months in the little Christian community of Wagah, he was baptized with his two children.

SAHARANPUR STATION.

The district of Saharanpur covers an area of 2,228 square miles, and, according to the last census, had a population of 1,045,230, of whom two-thirds are Hindus and one-third Mohammedans. It is situated to the east of the Ambala district, the river Jumna at this point forming the boundary line between the United Provinces and the Punjab. The district contains 1,646 towns and villages, the city of Saharanpur, which is the head of the district, being the largest, and having a population of 66,000. Besides our own, there are three other Missions carrying on work in the district of Saharanpur: viz., the American Methodist Episcopal, the Reformed Presbyterian, and the S. P. G. Missions. Their work is mostly in the northeastern portion of the district, our Mission having withdrawn from the area which they have occupied, thus concentrating its efforts upon the central and western parts. This is a very fertile and thickly populated region, the greater part of it being irrigated by the Eastern Jumna canal. It is about fifty miles long and twenty miles broad, and contains a population of about 600,000, distributed in some 900 towns and villages. Seven missionaries were connected with the Station during the year.

As regards our staff of Indian workers, the force employed is equally inadequate. We have, indeed, eight Indian preachers or catechists, of whom four are licentiates, in charge of as many out-stations; but, in order to properly utilize the services of these eight men, we ought to have no less than forty subordinate village workers; while, as a matter of fact, we have only four of the latter class.

Two hundred and eighty-two souls have been added to our flock during the year, of whom 184 are adults. There have, of course, been losses, too. Some of these have been due to the plague, which swept over the district, decimating the population in many villages, and falling hardest upon the very classes from which our converts have been gained.

But, great as are the losses due to plague and to the wandering habits of the low-caste people, the losses, which take place as the wheat is separated from the chaff, are greater still. We must not estimate our results by the number of baptisms, but rather by the growth of the people in Christian life and character.

May we not believe that, in the willingness of the low-caste people of India, the missionary should hear a Macedonian cry at the present time? As the Bishop of Madras has well said, "Whenever a movement toward Christianity takes place, there should be a prompt concentration of forces upon the vulnerable spot." Moreover, as in our Lord's time, so in our day, "to the poor the Gospel is preached." As the Bishop of Madras again observes, "I feel convinced that by far the best way to influence and convert the educated classes in India is to convert and elevate the pariahs and out-castes. For the time being, it doubtless makes it tenfold harder for them to enter the Christian Church, but in future years the fact that Christianity is emphatically a Gospel to the poor and oppressed, will do far more than all the lectures and addresses in the world to bring home to the best conscience of India the truth of the Gospel and the power of the living Christ." Thus a Hindu gentleman of Allahabad recently said, "I am a Brahman of the Brahmins and belong to the most orthodox school, but I am an Indian and love my country, and I must confess that the way in which Christianity has raised the pariahs of Madras, puts me to shame when I think of it, and is worthy of the highest praise." And an ardent Indian nationalist exclaims: "After all, when it comes to practice, Christianity alone is effecting what we nationalists are striving for, viz., the elevation of the masses."

There are in the Saharanpur district about 200,000 chamars and 30,000 sweepers. Most of our converts in the villages are from the latter class, but among the former also there are signs of a movement toward Christianity. In our own portion of the district there must be 100,000 of these people. It is a great opportunity. May God send the laborers to gather in the harvest, and to seize the opportunity without delay!

Among the higher castes there have been practically no visible results.

Contact with Christian thought has awakened aspirations, but for the present the people think these can be satisfied in other ways than by accepting the Gospel. This accounts for the existence of the Brahmo Samaj, the Arya Samaj, the Sanatan Dharm, Theosophy, and many other modern forms of faith, to which may be added the new Nationalism of the past year, which bids fair to become the religion of young India.

During the past year we have endeavored to carry the Gospel message to these classes also, through public preaching and personal intercourse, and through the printed page. Formerly we had a boys' school in Saharanpur, but our only educational work for non-Christians at present is the girls' school in the city.

Out of the 484,367 women and girls in Saharanpur district, only 1,075 can read and write, or about two out of every 1,000; and that out of the 30,000 in the city of Saharanpur only 342 are literate; but such indeed is the case. Probably most of these have been taught through our missionaries. We are glad to report that the Mohammedan opposition of last year has ceased and the school again has an enrollment of eighty-five scholars.

The condition of the low-caste village Christians is pitiable. The Rev. B. B. Roy, who since Dr. Forman's departure to America in August last has been in charge of the district work, referring to the condition of the low-caste people, thinks that they are worse off than the Helots of ancient Greece. It is not enough that they should be hated and oppressed while living, but even after death they must be subjected to disgrace; for while a Mohammedan is buried with his face upwards, a sweeper must be buried with his face downwards. The attempt to bury a Christian sweeper woman after the Christian, or shall we say human mode of burial, nearly led to a disturbance in a certain village, and made it necessary to carry the body to a distant place and bury it on the bank of a river. Thus they have been regarded for ages, and it is no wonder that morally and socially they have sunk to a very low condition.

Our work among the village people in Saharanpur district is comparatively recent, but we could give many illustrations to show how the Gospel is the power to lift them up. Last year at a conference they entered into a covenant to abstain from eating carrion, to keep the Sabbath, not to divorce or sell their wives, and to allow their children to be educated. They are taught hymns, which they sing, and Scripture verses, and many have learned to pray.

God's Spirit is laying hold of these people. What is needed is systematic, faithful instruction. How so many of them are to be taught, when we have neither the teachers, nor the money to employ them, is still an unsolved problem.

Theological Seminary.—

There are two departments: the regular theological department and the training school for village workers. The enrollment at the beginning of the year was thirty-four, but as a result of the sifting process, necessary even in a seminary, nine of these dropped out or were sent away, leaving twenty-five at the end of the year, fourteen in the Seminary and eleven in the training school. A mere handful this, as one thinks of the 9,000,000 people found within the field we have undertaken to evangelize!

Our aim is to make the seminary a place where men will be trained in the art of soul winning, and in the work of teaching and strengthening converts.

Sixteen out of our twenty-five students are married. Their wives are gathered into a school and given such a training as will fit them for their work as the wives of our pastors and evangelists. They attend school for three and a half hours daily, bringing their babies with them.

Industrial School and Orphanage.—

One of the events of the past year was a visit to the school by Major Atkinson, principal of the Thomason Engineering College, Rurki. He had been sent by the Government to inspect and report on the work of the school. He was greatly pleased with what he saw and strongly recommended the school for a Government grant of Rs. 828. He held up the school as a model, which other institutions in the province might do well to imitate.

There are 120 boys in the school and orphanage, of whom sixty-nine are taught trades, thirty-seven learning carpentry, five blacksmithing, nineteen shoemaking, and eight tailoring. Through the kindness of Major Atkinson two of the older boys have been admitted to the Rurkee College; one boy is reading for the Entrance Examination in the local Government school. The boys in the workshop have during the year turned out fourteen church seats, twenty sets of doors, twelve school desks, chairs, tables, iron beds, axles, etc., six hundred pairs of shoes have been turned out of the shoe shop, and about 1,200 new garments out of the tailorshop.

Six of the boys died during the year, five of them within a little more than a month. Four of these deaths were from consumption.

As regards the spiritual condition of the school, there is much reason for thankfulness.

Other Activities.—

The English service on Sunday evenings has been carried on as usual; also the English Sunday-school. Both have been well attended. There are thirty inmates in the Leper Asylum under our care.

SABATHU STATION.

Dr. Carleton reports:

All members of our church congregation are expected to be in attendance at Sunday-school. We have Sunday services at five places in the district.

Instead of a Summer school, we hold a Winter school, for during January and part of February it is so cold that little outside work can be done, and it was thought best that all the workers should be called in to the central station and a course of Bible studies pursued, lasting for a month or six weeks. Bazar preaching, itineration and weekly magic lantern lectures make this a busy time for all. The average attendance in the four day-schools was: Women, 18; men, 20; boys, 35, and small children, 8; in all, 81.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Carleton reports.—

This work has been interesting and encouraging throughout the year. The number of separate cases attending the dispensary was nearly 4,000, and of visits over 10,000, indoor patients 355, and operations 219.

When we remember that with most patients there is one or more relatives or friends, we see how many people come under the influence of the Gospel preaching for one or more days.

We try to keep the patients as long as possible; and many stay from one day to several months, attending prayers, which are held daily. In addition to this, personal work is done during other hours of the day. Though we urge patients to remain, yet it is often impossible to keep them as long as they should for their own physical well being. "The cattle are shut up and I must return": or "a baby or little ones are left at home": or again, "The buffalo will not give its milk to any one else, so I must get home to-day;" and, "I have brought no food, we must go!" These are some of the answers and the most frequent I receive when urging patients to remain even over night.

Again, often strange and amusing answers are given for the causes of disease, as for example, "I got — from eating the meat of a black sheep," "I got — from eating fish roasted on a tava" (an iron plate). Certain kinds of pulse have been named as causing some ailments. The evil eye, or secret human agency, always evil, is a very common cause of many ailments. Still more strange are the remedies used in the attempt to effect a cure. Numerous charms, e. g., a thin cord of black wool (always black), numbers of shells, tiger's claws, mustard seeds folded within a piece of birch-bark or dirty piece of cloth, a sentence or a few words from some sacred book, all these are tied around the neck, wrist or ankle, to ward off disease, or more often to prevent the spread of disease. Our medical work meets a real want, as this district is not well provided with Government hospitals and dispensaries. Simla, to the east twenty-four miles away; Nahan, to the southeast forty-five miles, and Kalka, to the southwest twenty miles distant, are the nearest points where medical aid can be had. Still patients come past these places to receive help at a Mission dispensary, and as there is no "parda" among the hill people, women come nearly as freely as the men, and surgery is a very large part of the work. Bibles, tracts and leaflets are sold or given free to patients who can read. The Word of God and Christian literature is spread far and wide over this district.

The Leper Asylum.—

The number of inmates of the Asylum is 114, six of whom are Europeans or Eurasians. The usual morning prayers were conducted during the year, at which the Christians, as well as non-Christians, attended. This meeting does something to take the leper out of the dull routine of his life. Plenty of singing, accompanied by a small drum or other musical instrument played by the lepers or others, makes an enjoyable half hour or more each day. Following this service comes the medical care, with one or more daily visits to their rooms to see those who cannot come to the dispensary. From ten to fifteen lepers need daily medical attention.

In addition to the zenana visiting, there is a school for women with an attendance of eighteen.

LUDHIANA STATION.

Three members of the Ludhiana Church have been taken under the care of the Presbytery as candidates for the ministry.

Christian Boys' Boarding School.—

Among the pupils there is the same variety of origin in race, caste, religion and locality, and the same differences in talent, temperament, ambition, industry, character and possibility.

One could readily find reasons for complaint, but it is still easier to be thankful. On the whole, boys could scarcely be boys and be more amenable to discipline than Indian lads are, especially those of the higher classes. This may be illustrated by the fact that a tree laden with over 180 Maltese oranges stood within fifteen feet of a class-room window and remained untouched, though guarded only by the rules of the school and a barrier of thorny branches.

The workshops of the school are kept busy making rickshaws, crokonole boards, various kinds of furniture and sundry repairs. Three skilled Christian workmen are employed, and some non-Christians also. A number of lads are learning carpentering, fitter's work, and bicycle repairing. Men able to do the latter find ready employment, as the bicycle is popular.

We have begun to make some new furniture for the school, as the desks and chairs and tables have in many cases an ancient and decrepit look.

Zenanas and Girls' School.—

We have the same zenana workers as last year. They have an average of about fifteen zenanas each, most of which they visit twice a week.

Each year Miss Greenfield's ladies and ourselves unite in giving a "purdah party" for our zenana pupils, and the older girls in our schools. This is well attended and much enjoyed. A gramophone and magic lantern help to furnish entertainment. Last year we thought that, instead of giving only Bible pictures, a few pictures of other lands might be appreciated. But, during a lull, after a number of pictures had been shown, a woman was heard to say: "It is half past eight, and not one picture of the Lord Jesus yet."

Kotwali Chapel.—

Preaching to non-Christians has been carried on as usual during the year. The chapel is well located on a busy street, yet few people are ready to enter the building unless there is some special attraction. In consequence benches are usually placed in front, and preaching is done to all who will stop to listen. But when five or six of the boarding school boys go with the preachers, and sing bhajans, an audience is usually gathered, people of the city, students and villagers who may be passing by.

North India School for Medicine.—

This school (with the Memorial Hospital) does not belong to this Mission, being interdenominational; yet it is an institution in which the Mission takes a deep interest. Its members are well represented on the Managing Committee, while the principal of the school, Dr. Mary R. Noble, is one of our missionaries.

One of the most encouraging features of the situation is the interest taken in the school by the Government as evidenced by their kind words and liberal assistance.

The students are classified as follows:

Medical class, 20; compounders, 7; nurses, 16; midwifery class, 17; in all, 60. All of these are Christians except eleven in the midwifery class.

JAGRAON STATION.

The women's work outside of Jagraon, where Miss Wherry, Miss Morris, Miss Jenks and Miss Helm are located, has been very much interrupted by illness, and the calling away of some of the workers to other work.

In the Rupar district nine of the leading Christian communities were visited. Meetings were held every evening, and villages and homes visited in the daytime. The opportunity among the Christians of that district now seems to be for more systematic teaching of the Bible and the organizing of these Christians into working bands for self-development. Attention needs to be given, not so much to working among non-Christians and securing more baptisms, as to building up in Christian character those already baptized.

The low-caste people everywhere are open to receive the Gospel, and the great need in our district is for more evangelists and teachers.

We have, however, great reason to be thankful for the increase over last year, both of baptisms and workers. There are now seven good men working. Two are doing voluntary work, one at Minian and the other at Dudheki. Two men are studying at Ferozepore. One has been accepted for the seminary, making twelve in all either working or studying.

The Village Girls' Boarding School has had twenty-five pupils on the roll.

The girls are learning something about housekeeping, and so they do all their own work. They can wash their own clothing quite nicely. The "Unrest" gave us a little anxiety during the Summer, but we believe it is only a sign of the general discontent manifest on all sides in regard to their customs and beliefs on religious as well as material things.

Mission High School.—

The Ludhiana Mission High School consists of a main school with three departments, primary, middle and high, and three "lower primary" branch schools. In October, 1906, the total enrollment was 373. One year later it had increased to 467, and at the close of 1907 it had gone considerably above 500.

JULLUNDUR STATION.

The work has been chiefly outdoor preaching and teaching in schools and zenanas, distributing Christian literature.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The bazar preaching has been carried on daily near the law courts. Here we have had good audiences, not only of the city people, but of the village population also, who flock by hundreds to the courts. We thus reach the remotest corners of the district which it would require the years of an ordinary lifetime to get at in the usual course of itineration.

In our bazar preaching, in these days of "unrest," we find abundant opportunity for political lecturing which is not seditious. The Bible is a good text-book for this purpose and I Pet. 2:17, a suitable text—"Fear God and honor the King." The people have heard of Japan, and some of them would like India to be another Japan. Now and then we have intimations of this desire. The following, in substance, is the reply given with emphasis: "Yes, we, too, want India to become like Japan. All the best English want you to be another such grand nation as the Japanese are. But you will never become a great nation by shouting 'bande mâtaram,' and smashing window panes. There are some things which you must learn before you are fit for independence. One thing is that India can never become a great nation until she has the unifying influence of a common religion, and no such universal religion is possible for India except Christianity."

These and similar sentiments seldom fail to secure the cordial assent of an audience. The conviction certainly is becoming more and more prevalent that ultimately India must and will become a Christian country.

The sales for the year are as follows: Bibles, 7; New Testaments, 37; Scripture portions, 470; tracts, 1,158.

A good deal of work has been done in the villages of the district, especially in those villages where converts from the Chura class are living. One of the missionaries spent most of his time during the cold weather in this work.

EDUCATIONAL.—The enrollment in the main boys' school was 289 and in the Basti branch 130.

We have felt the competition of the well-equipped Government school and the three "national" schools, and with our limited resources the pressure of Government requirement of better equipment and more thoroughly trained teachers has been hard to meet.

The general feeling of unrest has made some of our students more restive and rendered discipline a little more difficult. We have sometimes thought, too, that this feeling has made our students somewhat less attentive to the religious instruction which seems to them "Western." Nevertheless, the Bible instruction has been regularly and earnestly conducted.

There is also a primary boys' school with fifteen pupils in Kartarpur and a girls' school with thirty-five pupils at Kapurthala.

In Jullundur we have 202 pupils in the girls' schools and forty-four in the zenanas, regularly visited by the ladies and one of the Bible women. These, with those above enumerated, make a total of 715 boys and girls who are daily instructed in Bible truth.

Sometime since work was begun in a new zenana, at the invitation of some young women living there, but soon after their brother wrote the following note to one of the ladies: "Madam: Please do not come here again. I do not believe in the education of the female." So the work has its ups and downs. There are many men, however, who are glad to have their wives and daughters taught by the missionary ladies, notwithstanding the inevitable Scripture lesson.

The converts baptized during the year have all been from the Chura class: twelve men, eight women, and fifteen children: in all, thirty-five.

The church is no longer in the hands of the missionaries. An Indian pastor, Rev. Ralla Ram, was placed in charge two years ago, and is doing admirable work.

LANDOUR STATION.

In the Woodstock College there has been an average number of eighteen boys and 112 girls in attendance during the term. The total enrollment has been 21 boys and 125 girls, or 146 in all. Of this number, 78 has been the average number of boarding students.

The equipment of the college has been greatly improved during the year by the addition of two buildings, one the gift of Mr. John S. Kennedy, of New York City, and the other the gift of Mrs. C. P. Turner, of Philadelphia.

The first provides an Assembly Hall, sixty-seven feet long and thirty feet wide, on the ground floor, which is used for all public occasions, as well as for calisthenic drill, and as a recreation hall during the rains. The second floor provides twenty-four new cubicles and two rooms for teachers. The top floor is occupied by the hospital, consisting of four wards, with bathrooms, a room for the nurse, and a dispensary. There are also two rooms for teachers on this floor.

The second, which was erected last year, provides two large classrooms on the ground floor, a beautiful studio and a class-room on the floor above, and two rooms for teachers on the top floor. These two new buildings, with their spacious verandas, constitute a very important addition to the equipment of Woodstock.

We believe that Woodstock now offers accommodations and advantages to its students, equal to and possibly better than those of any other hill school in India.

AMBALA STATION.

City Boys' High School.—

The attendance during the year has been 536, which is a decrease of eight from last year. The results in the University Entrance Examination were praiseworthy. Three pupils obtained scholarships, and of these three one, a very poor Christian boy, attained the third place in the province. He is now among the best students of his class in Forman Christian College, Lahore.

Evangelistic Work.—Twenty-three have been baptized as the result of work in the Mubarakpur circle. It has not been possible to press the missionary work adequately because of the insufficient force. The Christian families at a distance of over twenty miles from Ambala, with the exception of those in or near Jagadhri, have not been visited at all during the year.

Preaching in the Bazar at Cantonment, distributing books and conversation with inquirers were carried on continuously through the year, except for a few days at the height of the plague, when the Bazar was almost depopulated.

Thousands of people around about our missionary centres have not only heard the Gospel, but they understand it. They have clear ideas of what the preacher says and of what the Scriptures teach; yet they show no disposition to become Christians. Probably the explanation is an unwillingness to give up their sinful habits and to live to God, and, in the second place, a skepticism as to the efficacy of the way of salvation advocated; for, as a rule, they do not see its power in the lives of those who profess it, and are led to the conclusion that it is a mere conventionality, a conformity to the custom of the people of the West. "Angrezon kà din" (the religion of the English) is the common idea, and they are not enamored of it.

At the Ambala cantonment there is a boys' day-school and not a little demand for a Mission high school, which, however, it has not been possible to establish. Mrs. Thackwell reports, of a visit to the great Thanewar "Mela:"

In January I visited with Miss Pratt and Miss Dr. Carleton the great eclipse "Mela" at Thanewar. The thronging multitudes, the hideous idols, and debasing idolatry, so dishonoring and displeasing to God, the many outstretched hands eagerly accepting Christian books and tracts, the attentive crowd that gathered round us to hear the true story of the Creation, the Fall, and the Redemption of sinful and lost humanity by an Incarnate Saviour, the fall of twilight all too soon, and the drive back to the railway station, through rows of brightly illuminated native shops, make a picture in memory not easily effaced.

Mrs. Calderwood writes of the zenana and girls' schools:

There are thousands of girls and women, from ten years and upwards, who can only be reached by zenana visiting. I refer to such as are not allowed to attend school or visit much outside, except their nearest relations.

Teaching in the zenanas is a great boon to the women of India, and gives us opportunities of instilling our ideas of the duties of wives and mothers into minds that otherwise could not be reached by us, or by any one else.

The girls' school also had to be closed for a while on account of plague. Several of our old pupils had fallen victims.

KHANNA STATION.

While Mr. Newton was away on furlough, the work of the Station was supervised by Mr. McCuskey.

The pupils in the school at the end of the year number eighteen, of whom ten belong to our own district, seven come from Jullundur, and one from Ambala. Four are being taught to weave cotton cloth, and they, with the help of the industrial teacher, have in the twelve months produced 1,025 yards. When the younger boys in the school grow older and our friends respond to the appeal made by us a year ago, and again two years ago, for the means of expanding this work, we shall no doubt be able to report substantial progress. Without waiting for the younger boys to grow older, however, we even now need five looms, so that each of the four pupils now in training may have one to himself, and the teacher one to work on during his spare time, and so help to increase the income of the school.

A Hindu gentleman, one of the prominent men of the town, has offered us a building site as a free gift if we will make use of it. Says he, the orthodox Hindus (of whom he is one) have their mandir, or place of assembly, where from time to time addresses are delivered and religious discussions held; so have the Arya sect. Why then have not the Christians? I will give the site, and you erect on it a dwelling house for your representative and a place of worship according to your rites. That is the offer. It has been before us for more than a year, but we have failed to secure the funds needed to do our part. There is no better site in the town.

DEHRA STATION.

In regard to the church, the pastor reports sixty-three communicant members on the roll, and baptized adherents 130. During the year eleven members were dismissed and eight received. Among those received by baptism, one case of interest was Mr. Ashatore Das, a Brahmo, and head clerk in the Survey Office. Two young Mohammedans were also baptized, and afterwards went to Mussoorie, where one of them apostatized, but the other remained firm. Another was sent from Tehri by Dr. Vrooman, and instructed and baptized by the pastor. He returned to his work at Tehri, where he is doing well.

The attendance at all these Sunday-schools averages 208.

The pastor reports that the Women's Missionary Society is in a flourishing state spiritually and financially. The society during the year contributed Rs. 300 to the Lord's work.

A Science department has been opened for the teaching of physics and chemistry in the boys' high school. The Mohammedan girls' school had to be abandoned, owing to the coming of an influential Maulvi from Delhi. The two Hindu girls' schools have done well.

Miss Woodside has had charge of the Dehra Christian girls' school during the absence of Miss Donaldson. The school has had the usual extraordinary success in the Government examinations. Of the Christian life of the school, Miss Woodside writes:

When the girls went home in December, they had much of the earnest spirit created by the revival. I do not know why, but few of them seemed to find their home atmosphere stimulating: for their indifference was marked on their return. The usual Bible classes and devotional services were continued, but we were grieved that no greater personal interest was shown. In August, a few meetings were held when this indifference seemed changed to opposition, which, though not expressed in words, could not but be recognized. These meetings were held mostly at the usual time for the Bible classes and morning and evening prayers. The spirit of opposition became so strong that one whole day was set apart for quietly seeking the Lord. Before long there was a different spirit manifest, and girl after girl, sometimes ten or more at one time, signified their intention to live for Christ. The reality of the work has been shown in changed lives, but they are children and need much care and nurture. There are others, too, whose lives show no change, for whom much prayer is needed.

HOSHYARPUR STATION.

Girls' Orphanage.—Mrs. Chatterjee reports:

This school is intended to afford a home and Christian education for orphan girls, and the children of poorer classes of Christians suited to their state and condition of life.

This object of the school has been kept steadily in view, and all the arrangements of the school have been made with a view to attain this end. During the last nineteen years there have been 206 admissions. One hundred of these have been orphans and the remaining 106 children of poor Christians. These have been fed and clothed, and taught to read and write, and trained for Christian life and service. Some have died, especially famine orphans, while under our care, rejoicing in the faith of Christ and love to Him. Fifty girls have gone out of the institution after completing the full course of five years' instruction and training. Some of these have been married to preachers of the Gospel, evangelists, catechists and Bible readers, and are co-operating with their husbands in the work of Christ. Three have become teachers. Two or three are assistants in Mission hospitals, and the remainder useful members of the Church in various ways. Thus the object of the school, we venture to hope, is being realized to a considerable degree, and we thank God for this success.

During the year under review there were fifty girls in the school, divided as follows: Orphans, 28; half-orphans, 6; daughters of poor Christians, 16.

The school will feel the loss of Miss Lena Chatterjee, who was married this year to the son of Sir Harnam Singh.

The health of the children in the school has been generally good, but it has been hard to save from tuberculosis all the famine orphans, many of whom had been weakened by starvation before their rescue.

The Denny Hospital for Women.—Dr. Dora Chatterjee writes:

There have been ninety-one in-patients during the last year. The ten beds of which the hospital boasts have been constantly occupied, except when I was away on sick leave.

In the dispensary, from January 1 to October 1, 10,473 new patients have been treated. The total number for the year was 26,370, and the average daily attendance has been 112.

The Village Work.—Dr. Chatterjee reports:

There are now (September 30) 1,542 communicants and 1,294 baptized adults and children not yet admitted into communion in connection with these churches, making a Christian community of 2,836 souls. The number of baptisms during the last year amounted to 152, of whom eighty-one were adults and seventy-one children.

Besides the above branches of work, we have had a small school in the city attended by Hindu girls of the upper classes—public proclamation of the Gospel for five days of the week—a reading-room for the benefit of inquirers and visitors, and a Bible class in the Mission House.

FEROZEPUR STATION.

Dr. Newton begins his report of the Ferozepur Station with a description of the time wasted in calls from people who have axes to grind in matters which are not the legitimate concern of the missionary. He adds:

Yet all our friends are not alike. "Five fingers are not of equal length," as we are frequently reminded. There are those who in all sincerity are friends.

Recently I had a call from one of these, one I have known many years. Five and twenty years ago a man used to sit in one of the cross-streets of the city making wooden combs. Beside him stood a basket into which he threw each comb as it was finished. From morning till evening he toiled away at his combs, which he sold for a pice or two pice apiece. He would make about a dozen a day. Twice a week I used to sit down beside him and read to him. I read the Gospel, while he worked on and listened, and now and then he asked questions. At last one day I found his place vacant. He had gone to his own native place.

The other day he came again to Ferozepur on a visit to some friends. He is very bearded now; and so am I. We met, and he threw his arms round me in token of affectionate greeting. There were some people standing by at the time. Then he called me aside and spoke to me gently, and said, "I have heard you have had a great sorrow; be not sad, God is the Father; He knows best, and Christ is sorry." These and other words he spoke to the same effect, and my heart was touched.

Yet I was surprised, too, gladly surprised. Fancy this old Sikh (he is seventy years old now) pointing me to the Lord Jesus Christ as a Saviour and Comforter in sorrow. Yes, I have had a double bereavement this past year, and no words of sympathy have brought more comfort than these of the old comb-maker. Again he came to see me and asked me if I would give him a new copy of the New Testament as the one he had was worn out and the worms had eaten it. I gave him one readily enough.

Of the medical work, Dr. Newton reports :

Outdoor patients, 6,649; visits, 10,876; surgical operations, 371; indoor patients, 50; surgical operations, 16.

The patients are of both sexes, young and old. I spend three or four hours here daily. The work is always begun with reading the Scriptures and prayer. Often I am called to see a patient in his or her home, but very frequently they send for the doctor as a last resort.

First of all, they try the old wives' remedies, then the hakeem, the pansári (apothecary), the barber. These all agree in at least one thing, that is, to starve the patient. Milk especially is emphatically forbidden. It creates phlegm, which would be fatal! The hakeem begins by feeling the pulse with his four fingers, one after the other, as if he were playing on a flute. He is diagnosing the case. The four humors, their proportions and discords are thus discerned; namely, phlegm, wind, heat and dryness. Then he writes a prescription. The more ingredients it contains, the more effective it is sure to be, and the greater the hakeem's own reputation for skill. Eight or a dozen would be moderate. Croton oil is a favorite remedy and much thought of. Next the barber: he bleeds the patient. Speaking figuratively, they both bleed him before they are done with him. Then comes the pansári. He excels in concocting sherbets, sweet and pleasant to the palate.

If the patient has survived all of these, the missionary doctor is called in.

Itineration.—Dr. Newton reports :

In the cold season we itinerate, which means that we visit the villages. Some carry tents with them, which they pitch near the villages; others go without tents, sojourning in the villages. This latter is my plan. It has certain advantages as well as disadvantages. The former are that it involves less trouble and expense and preoccupation.

However, there are discomforts. Here we are, four of us, putting up at this moment of writing in a private house in the village of —. The village hakeem, a Christian, has given us a room in his house. In the rear of his dwelling is the women's apartments. This is a courtyard, on two sides of which are two houses, of one room each. The third side is enclosed by a wall. In the yard a cow, a buffalo and a calf are tied. The entrance occupies the fourth side. This is the door opening from the street into a veranda and at each end of this is a small room. In one of these straw for the cattle is stored; the other is the sitting-room. Here and there are shelves containing books and bottles of medicines, a table, also two chairs and a box. In this room we are housed. But there are four of us, and the room is only about twelve feet square. In the veranda we spend much of our time, however, when at home, and here receive our visitors, for all the day long many are coming and going. But at night came the pinch. Two can sleep in the baithak, while two have their beds in the veranda. When bedtime came we found that this latter was to be shared with us by the cow, the buffalo and the calf! We do manage, though, to sleep peaceably side by side with them, only we are glad when the dawn comes. These are some of the disadvantages, added to the fact that all privacy and conveniences are lacking: and yet it is a great matter in my eyes to secure this close and intimate communion with the people, not to speak of the advantage of traveling lightly armed.

We have spent a week here. The house has become, for the time being, a rendezvous for the men. There is not an hour when we may not be conversing with them. Yet it is surprising how little many of them understand of the simplest truths. One of us read that verse in Matt. vii: "All things therefore whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you even so do ye also unto them." One would say a child could interpret that. On being asked what they understood by these words, one said that it meant that we should ask Allah to admit us into Paradise, his idea being, that this is what we would do if we were in Allah's place, i. e., we should admit Him. Another said it meant that if a man gave us a blow with his fist, it was our duty to give him two in return. A third explained the words as meaning that we ought to love all the people that Allah loves. It is so with the plainest truths. I am reminded so often of those words in Eph. iv about the Gentiles "walking in the vanity of their mind, having the understanding darkened, alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness (or hardness) of their heart." "The Son of God is come and hath given us an understanding." There is nameless sin in these regions (read Eph. iv: 19), and yet these men are very religious. Many of them are regular in their Namaz or prayers, and all repeat the Kalima with unction in the guttural Arabic, and this they count a very meritorious act. One repetition secures the forgiveness of four thousand sins. So they sin on. What reck's it when they may so easily be pardoned? Yet some of them were horrified yesterday on learning incidentally that my clothes brush was made of pig bristles.

The zenana work and medical work for women have been conducted as usual.

RUPAR AND PHILLOUR STATIONS.

Of the Rupar Station, with its thirteen out-stations, Mr. Uppal reports:

Each of these centres is surrounded by villages, in which there are Christians living, numbering from twenty to eighty for each centre.

Two of our workers devote their entire time to teaching the little boys of Christians and other low-class people. They have day-schools at Jhallian and Takhtgarh. But these schools are fluctuating in number and therefore not satisfactory. Education is not appreciated by the parents. They prefer their children should bring home two pice worth of fuel to their going to school and there learn to do nothing at home and ask their parents to give them better food and clothes because they go to school. How often have I heard them complain and say, "This way of teaching is bringing a calamity upon our house. We lose two pice a day and in the bargain our boys want us to give them ready-made food and better clothing. If you want them to be educated, take them entirely, feed and clothe them, and make them anything you please."

The number of baptisms during the year has been fifty-eight; adults twenty-six and infants thirty-two.

The total Christian community is more than 1,100 souls. They are scattered over a district forty-five miles long and twenty-five miles broad, comprising 125 villages.

Mr. Golaknath reports that the missionary work of the Phillour Station was practically paralyzed by the plague, which raged disastrously during the year.

PRESBYTERIAL HOME MISSION.

The Ludhiana Presbytery carries on Home Mission work in eight Stations.

During the early part of the year, the work suffered much in four Stations, owing to the plague.

For a time the death rate went on increasing so much that the people became alarmed and as many as could left the infected places to seek temporary residence elsewhere. Our preachers, however, remained at their posts. They told those who stayed behind how by faith in Jesus one could be best prepared to meet death.

An industrial school, limited to ten students, has been maintained.

Hanif Ullah has visited thirty-two villages from Shahabad. He reports:

Once when I went to Kesari, I saw a member of the Arya Samaj, who took the handbills from the men to whom I had given them and tore them to pieces before me. I then gave him one bearing the title, What is your heart like? requesting him to read it before he destroyed it. He read it and with tears in his eyes besought me to forgive him. I gladly did so, and at his request lent him a New Testament. After this we met each other occasionally. Some months later, when I went to Kesari, his neighbors told me he had died of the plague and that at the time of his death he had the Testament on his breast. One of his relatives returned me the book saying, "I cannot read, please, therefore, take it back."

The catechist at Pehewa, Dharm Singh, suffered not only from the malaria of the town, but persecution from the people. When no one would draw water for him from the public well, he undertook to draw for himself. For a few days all went well, when "three Moham-medans, who had been put up to it by a Hindu, broke his vessels and threatened to break his head if he came there again." The only course left was to appeal to the Deputy Commissioner. It is expected the case will be speedily and satisfactorily settled.

Preaching at Melas.—

Last year there were two large melas, besides a number of smaller ones, in the Home Mission field: one at Thanesar and the other at Pehewa. The mela at Thanesar was held in January on the occasion of the solar eclipse. More than 500,000 pilgrims assembled at the place in order to bathe in the sacred tank of Kurukshetra and thus wash away their sins. Four missionaries and twenty-five catechists and helpers from the S. P. G. and Presbyterian Missions preached in the mela for ten days, the preaching holding on to 9 or 10 o'clock at night.

All worked together most harmoniously. A large number of books and tracts were sold and a still larger number were given away.

The mela at Pehewa came off in March. The rain materially affected it; still from 18,000 to 20,000 pilgrims came to bathe in the sacred Saraswati. The Gospel was proclaimed with great earnestness for five days.

The Lahore Presbytery maintains Home Mission work at eight points. The following is a summary of its work:

NORTH INDIA MISSION.

ALLAHABAD: capital of Northwest Provinces; at the junction of the Ganges and the Jumna, 506 miles northwest of Calcutta; Station begun 1836. Missionaries—Rev. J. J. Lucas, D.D., and Mrs. Lucas, Rev. Arthur H. Ewing, Ph.D., and Mrs. Ewing, Mr. Sam Higginbottom and Mrs. Higginbottom, Miss J. W. Tracy, Miss Mary P. Forman, Miss Mary Emma Robinson and Miss Nellie Binford, M.D., Rev. John F. Caleb. Teachers in Allahabad College—Mr. Preston H. Edwards, Mr. H. T. Avey and Mr. Carl Thompson, Jr.

ETAWAH: on the Jumna, 150 miles northwest of Allahabad; Station begun 1863. Missionaries—Rev. A. B. Allison and Mrs. Allison, Miss Emily N. Forman and Miss R. M. Culbertson, Rev. E. A. Enders and Mrs. Enders, Rev. Parm Sukh.

FATEHGARH-FURRUKHABAD: the former the civil station and the latter the native city. 160 miles northwest of Allahabad; Station begun 1844. Missionaries—Rev. C. H. Bandy and Mrs. Bandy, Rev. Ray C. Smith and Mrs. Smith, Miss Mary Fullerton, Miss M. J. Morrow, Miss Annie Young, M.D., Rev. Mohan Lal.

FATEHPUR: 70 miles northwest of Allahabad; Station begun 1853. Rev. Chas. H. Mattison and Mrs. Mattison.

JHANSI: 200 miles west of Allahabad; population, 52,000; Station begun 1886. Missionaries—Rev. James F. Holcomb and Mrs. Holcomb, Rev. Henry Forman and Mrs. Forman, and two lady assistants, Rev. Nahibakhsh, Rev. Dharm Singh.

MAINPURIE: on Jumna River, northwest of Allahabad; Station begun 1843. Missionaries—Rev. W. T. Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell, Rev. John N. Forman and Mrs. Forman, and Rev. Edwin H. Kellogg and Mrs. Kellogg, Rev. Gulam Masih.

MORAR: capital of the native State of Gwalior, about 215 miles northwest of Allahabad; Station begun 1874. Rev. Sukh Pal.

ETAH: capital of Etah Province, about 240 miles northwest of Allahabad; Station begun 1900. Missionaries—Rev. A. G. McGaw and Mrs. McGaw, Rev. J. H. Lawrence and Mrs. Lawrence.

LANDOUR: in district of Dehra Dun, some 400 miles northwest of Allahabad. Rev. J. S. Woodside and Mrs. Woodside.

CAWNPORE: about 120 miles northwest of Allahabad. Rev. S. M. Gillam and Mrs. Gillam.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. C. A. R. Janvier and Mrs. Janvier, Rev. J. F. Holcomb and Mrs. Holcomb, Rev. A. B. Allison and Mrs. Allison, Rev. J. J. Lucas, D.D., and Mrs. Lucas, Miss J. W. Tracy, Preston H. Edwards, Miss Margaret J. Morrow.

The Mission was reinforced during the year by the appointment of the Rev. Edwin H. Kellogg and Mrs. Kellogg and Miss Mary Emma Robinson. Mr. Kellogg is the son of the late Rev. S. H. Kellogg, D.D., one of the most honored missionaries of the Church.

There are thirty-four organized churches in connection with the work of the Mission, and, aside from these, thirty-two places of regular meeting. Of the churches, five are entirely self-supporting, and all give, with more or less liberality, to the upkeep of the Church, and to other Christian work. The roll of full members, communicants, numbers 1,360, and the total number of baptized adherents is 11,540.

The Presbyteries of Allahabad and Furrukhabad, which include all the churches connected with the Mission, carry on each a strong Presbyterian Mission work, and also help support all pastors whose churches are not strong enough to provide wholly for their pastors. The Presbyteries receive a grant from the Mission for all this work, that is in proportion to the amount the churches contribute.

Sunday-school work and Christian Endeavor societies are carried on vigorously in most of the churches. The total membership in the Sunday-schools, Christian and non-Christian, is 4,063.

There are twenty-four organized churches, and many more groups that gather regularly for worship, among these village Christians. But there are as yet very few church buildings. The people meet usually under some tree, or on the side of the road in front of the house of one of the company, or in a courtyard. The need of small churches is much felt.

There are about sixty village schools, three-fourths of them in the Fatehgarh District, with a total attendance of over 1,000 children, about a fourth of whom are girls. These schools are, of course, very elementary, the plan being to gather the more promising children from these schools to the boarding schools in the central station of the district. The teachers of the village schools have little education beyond reading and writing and a little arithmetic, with a fair knowledge of the Gospels. These men and their wives, though not well equipped, can be highly useful. They, while rising above, remain in close touch with their people. Their influence in the Christian development of the people, in weaning them from idolatry, teaching them to pray, bringing new standards of life, of truth, of temperance, of family life amongst them, is very great. The training of these teachers, who are men from amongst the people themselves, is a part of the work that is essential to the success of the whole. There are training schools in the central stations of those districts in which this work is being carried on. In these schools young men and women are taught for one or two years. After this they go to the Central Training School in Mainpurie.

ALLAHABAD STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The work of the Station is carried on by the help of and under the supervision of eleven foreign missionaries and forty-seven Indian workers, the latter including a pastor, an ordained evangelist, several preachers, many teachers, two hospital assistants, an assistant editor, a house-master and several Bible women.

Many institutions are controlled and numerous forms of work carried on by this staff of India and foreign workers. There are two churches, one at Katra and one at the Jumna.

Regular preaching has been carried on throughout the year in our splendidly situated church in the heart of the city, and in the chapel on one of the main thoroughfares; also in the out-stations of Sirsa, Daranagar and Shivrangapur. The work in Daranagar and the thickly populated region lying about it, is under the Allahabad Presbytery, and is directed by Mr. Fitch, the Presbyterian missionary. The year has been a very trying one in this region, as the small band of Christians have been much harassed and persecuted.

EDUCATIONAL WORK—Allahabad Christian College.—The College, which is situated in the Jumna Mission Compound, was opened five years ago, with four students, and a rented bungalow for class-room purposes. The enrollment of students this year was 120, of whom fourteen are Christians, eighty Hindus and twenty-six Mohammedans. Rev. A. H. Ewing, D.D., Principal of the College, reports as follows:

In the recent B.A. and B.Sc. examinations our results have been most satisfactory, the percentage of passes being 62½, some of the oldest Colleges passing only 30 per cent. in the same examinations.

During the five years of the life of the College there has been cheering growth in every respect. Two valuable pieces of ground have been added to the campus, on which there were three useful buildings; two large hostels (dormitories) have been erected, one, the Princeton building, for Christian students, the other for Hindus and Mohammedans. A physical science building has been erected, and, through the efforts of Mr. Edwards, a satisfactory laboratory has been arranged. An electrical engineering plant has been installed, with Mr. H. T. Avey in charge, at a cost of $5,000, given by Mr. Wanamaker. A good start has been made with a biological laboratory, of which department Mr. C. D. Thompson, who joined the staff a year ago, is in charge. Mr. Higginbottom, who has charge of the Christian Boys' Boarding House, is the senior professor in the College. There are also several capable Indian members of the faculty. Our present dormitories are full to overflowing, making it necessary to lodge some of the students in an outside bungalow.

Mary Wanamaker School for Girls.—Miss Forman reports :

The school has been most favorably reported on by the Government Inspector, and, indeed, has had one of the most successful years in its history. The enrollment of pupils is now 118. All candidates sent up to the Matriculation Examination passed, some with honor; and all who competed for Government Scholarships awarded to girls of the VI Standard were successful.

I have mentioned more than once the interest taken in the Indian National Missionary Society by both teachers and girls. Miss Misra (one of our Indian teachers) has been most untiring in her efforts, and we are very thankful for the result. Naturally, the effect of this interest is shown in many things. The girls meet in three bands every Sunday morning to pray for the conversion of India. They have given during the year, including the contributions of the Hindustan teachers, Rs. 43 for the society. Rs. 26 have been sent by former pupils. In some cases this money has been earned; in others it has been presents given by their relatives when they passed examinations. The girls have begged to be allowed to sew and do fancy work for the benefit of the Society, and when Miss Misra told them they really could not spare the time, they volunteered the information that they wasted time on Saturday and said they would talk less and spend the time sewing. Also, after much thought, two members of the Entrance Class asked to be allowed to teach the women servants on Sundays, as they had no other opportunity while in school of reaching non-Christians.

The Jumna High School.—Dr. A. H. Ewing, the Principal, writes concerning this school :

The year has been a prosperous one. All the pupils we sent up passed the University Entrance Examination in May, four of them in the First Division. At the beginning of the new school year in July it was evident the enrollment would be very large. Students kept coming in until the number reached 430 in August. The school has not been so large at any time since the Mutiny.

The Christian Boys' Boarding School in connection with the Jumna Boys' High School.—Mr. Higginbottom is Superintendent. The number of Christian boys enrolled during the year has been forty-four, the average attendance thirty-six. The boys attend the Jumna High School, which is situated in the same compound.

The Katra Middle High School.—Mr. P. H. Edwards was Manager of this school up to the time of his leaving India for America on furlough.

The present school building has been repeatedly condemned by the Inspector, but the way has not opened for the construction of a suitable building, as money is wanting.

MEDICAL WORK.—Sara Seward Hospital.—The Sara Seward Hospital, of Allahabad, stands in the heart of the city, and has added another year to its record of useful work. This work was begun in 1872 by Dr. Sara Seward. After her sudden death from cholera in 1891, the hospital was much enlarged, and given her name. Dr. Sara Seward was sister to William H. Seward, Secretary of State in Lincoln's first administration.

Dr. Binford reports:

There has been an increase of patients both in and out of hospital. A closer acquaintance with the people has given an increased influence for good along many lines.

It is often (not always the case, however) very gratifying to see the efforts made to carry out the directions under great difficulties. Mothers, none too well themselves, will come on foot bringing in their arms a sick child from long distances day after day, for dressing or treatment, when their caste customs will not allow them to remain over night in the hospital. Some have asked to be permitted to stay all day long, getting the medicine from the hand of the nurse, and then go home at night, returning next day. I always let them do so, for it is a step in the right direction, and by seeing something of the hospital they become less superstitious.

The number of out-patients during the year has been 37,796; the number of in-patients, 239; of minor operations, 242; of major operations, 38.

I have for some time been contemplating starting a sort of school in the waiting room to teach the mothers a little about the care of their children to prevent sickness; so much of the sickness among all classes could be avoided if they knew a little of hygiene and physiology. Many times I have had the reply from some mother whose child was quite beyond help, when it was brought to hospital, when I have told her how the child should have been cared for and what should not have been done, the answer in such a hopeless, heartsick tone, "I didn't know."

The difference between the uneducated women and girls and those in the schools, such as the Mary Wanamaker Girls' High School and the Lady Muir Memorial Training School, is most striking, and shows the possibilities ahead for India, when it will have trained, educated Christian women.

The Leper Asylum.—This large Asylum is aided by Government, and is controlled by "The Mission to Lepers in India and the East." Our Mission agreed a few years ago to supply an Honorary Superintendent for the Asylum. This duty has been effectively performed during recent years by Mr. Higginbottom, and great advances in the work of the Asylum have been made. There are now 165 inmates. Large new quarters have been put up, and both the old and the new quarters are fully occupied. To each inmate is given a small plot of ground for a garden. And this has added much to their interest in life.

And character, and with it life, are being surely transformed. Frances Hoffman, of the Lalitpur Orphanage, an Indian Christian girl just on the threshold of womanhood, was smitten with leprosy about a year ago. Her sad, hopeless face as she was taken away to the Asylum near Allahabad, is not easily forgotten. Scarcely could anything better typify the triumph of evil over the works of God, than this smiting of a young life with this loathsome disease. Yet we read in the report of Mr. Higginbottom, who is Superintendent of the Asylum:

Of Frances Hoffman, the leper girl from Lalitpur, it is impossible to speak too highly. The women and children in the Asylum are cleaner and neater because of her example. She told some lady missionaries that when she first learned that she was a leper, she was rebellious, and her heart was very bitter against God; but after a while, when she saw the need of the other leper women, she felt that God had some work for her to do, and she could be of some use in the world, to make the lives of those other women better. She is now very happy in her work.

The Makhzan-i-Masihi, or Christian Treasury, is published semi-monthly by the Mission, in Allahabad. It is in Roman-Urdu, with the first two pages in English. The paper aims to provide wholesome reading matter, including discussions of questions of the day, religious articles, and news items.

ETAWAH STATION.

Mr. Enders reports of the low-caste district work:

The work soon naturally spread along the line of family relationships into other parts of the district; so that during the year workers have been practically to all parts of the district, and know where to find the most accessible villages and mohallas. In this way the work has spread north and south about eighty miles, and east and west for about fifty miles. It has taken us across the ravines and jungles of the three rivers, the Jumna, the Chambal and Kuara, into Gwalior State and Agra district.

It is probable that in this territory there are 15,000 Sweepers. They are of varying intelligence and prosperity, the jungle Sweeper being somewhat inferior to his more fortunate brother of the "maidan" (plain), but they intermarry and are all alike in giving the Message an attentive hearing. It is not too much to say that practically all these thousands may be baptized as fast as they can be instructed. This does not mean that they at once understand or accept the truth, or that they do not frequently reject it for a time, but it is grandly true that both on the "maidan" and in the jungle a new longing has seized these people and they are looking toward the light.

In forty-one villages and mohallas there were baptized in the district this year 624 men, women and children. Add to this the baptized community already enrolled and we have a total in the district of 747 baptized adherents.

Miss Emily Forman and Miss Cuthbertson looked after the women's work and the zenana work, and a school in the city for higher caste girls contained from twenty-five to forty pupils daily.

FATEHGARH STATION.

The spiritual care of this community is effected through fifteen churches, including the two central churches of Rakha and Furrukhabad. There are 626 communicants, or about one in eight of the entire community. Twelve hundred and eighteen people have been baptized during the year. Mr. Smith writes:

As individuals the people have done a great deal to spread the Gospel. Relatives and neighbors are given no rest until they become Christians. After the wedding season we had a real epidemic of baptisms, people who were reached by Christian fellow-guests. Public and family prayers have become quite popular among our people. They sometimes pray over their food until it is cold. They rise before day, and while they sit about an open fire waiting for the morning, they entertain themselves, so to speak, by singing songs and in prayer. The women, however, are very backward about participating in these devotions.

Revival services have been held in nine of the village churches and in the two central churches. In five churches two or more such special services have been conducted. There have been no unusual demonstrations, but solid work has been done. This is manifest in better Sabbath observance, in larger gifts, in zeal for the conversion of friends and relatives, in greater prayerfulness and belief in the effectiveness of prayer and in the forsaking of particular sins.

The Sunday-school work of the Station shows 81 schools as opposed to 41 last year; 1,585 scholars, as opposed to 1,176 last year. This increase of 40 schools and 409 scholars is largely in the villages. This number is average attendance. The total membership of all the Sunday-schools would aggregate about 2,500.

The C. E. Societies number 33 with a membership of 768, counting associate membership.

Mr. Bandy, speaking of the wide-spread work in the Fatehgarh District, writes:

Our work was brought appreciably nearer to us by the introduction of a new tonga and two horses. The tonga box is large, and hangs low between the two wheels, which are unusually high, and so the draught is light though the tonga and its load are heavy. We carry with us two tents, all needful furniture, cooking utensils, provisions and horse-feed, a magic lantern, and two saddles. Over the load, and still below the tops of the wheels, is a large bed, which, on good roads, is fairly comfortable. And over all is a huge top, which is a necessity, but sometimes inconvenient, because of the spreading branches of trees. Three men besides Mrs. Bandy and myself, five persons in all, ride in the cart. This made up our regular load. We thus spent the Winter in the open. We camped near the centres of our work, and for outlying points took to the saddle. One day we moved forty-four miles, more than half of this on bad roads.

It was a happy and healthful way of spending the Winter. But there were trials. One of the horses developed a propensity for kicking, which was most wearing on nerves. I did everything I had ever heard of to cure her, but in vain. One day in sheer desperation I took her out of the harness, and kept her kicking steadily for about four hours. She has never kicked since, even though she has had some severe provocation.

Each day's work took all the time we could give to it. Encamped near one of our larger Christian communities, one can begin the day's work before it is light. Villagers waken long before it is day, and sit around their cheerless little fires waiting for the day. There is no better time for a prayer meeting. And if one gets them interested, he can hold them till 8 o'clock. The men must then go to their work. But one can now find women and children in small groups to talk with and instruct. This may continue till noon, when the men and boys begin to gather home. It is now possible to hold a midday meeting, with the whole community. If one can make this meeting interesting enough to hold the people, he need not close it before 2.30 or 3 o'clock.

In the afternoons it was our custom to visit the outlying Christian communities, to whom we would send word, in advance, of our coming. We usually found the people gathered for the service we wished to hold. After the meeting we returned to our camp. And in the early evening, while the women were cooking, there was opportunity to talk with the men. After the people had finished their evening meal, and each had washed his one or two dishes, the people would be gathered for the evening service, which often continued late into the night.

This presents rather the possibilities for work than actual daily work, as of course no one could keep up with such a program. But there was the opportunity from 4 in the morning till 11 at night. Added to this is the doctoring of the sick, examining schools, looking after Christian Endeavor Societies, and, on Sundays, church services and Sunday-schools.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Schools for Hindu and Mohammedan Girls.—There are such schools in almost all our Stations. The largest of them is Miss Fullerton's City Girls' School in Furrukhabad. This school had an attendance of over 100 girls up to the middle of January. Then the appearance of plague reduced the attendance as low as thirty a day. By the middle of February, as plague increased, it was necessary to close the school for about two months. On reassembling it was found that fifteen of the pupils had died of plague. Since the reopening, the school has never quite regained its former numbers. The average attendance for the year has been seventy-four; the average number on the roll, 140. Miss Fullerton further writes:

—The Bible studies have been on the parables. Many passages of Scripture have been memorized by the pupils; and the Catechism has been taught. A weekly prayer meeting of the teachers connected with the school has been held on Saturdays, and has been helpful to all.

Rakha Girls' Boarding School.—This school meets the needs of girls whose parents are unable to pay the higher fees of the Wanamaker Girls' School; and in it also there is a large proportion of orphan girls, brought together, for the most part, during the famines of 1897 and 1899. The number of girls in the school at the close of the year was 130, this being twenty-six less than at the close of the preceding year. The school staff is more complete than last year, and the work has been better.

Miss Morrow writes:

A few days ago five young brides stood in a line before the church altar, to take the marriage vow. On two other occasions there had been groups of four. It was a beautiful contrast that rose before me. In the case of many of them I could look back to the day I received them, poor, starved, almost skeletons, and now they stood, strong, healthy women, on the threshold of life's work, ready to go out and be, I trust, a blessing to many.

The Furrukhabad High School.—The enrollment at the beginning of the present school year was 261 pupils, of whom eighty-three were Christians. The results in the University Entrance Examination were not good. The other schools in Fatehgarh and Furrukhabad did no better. Plague had a most demoralizing effect on the educational work of the whole city. The Government School was forced to leave its building and go into the Town Hall; while we conducted school in a grove for two months.

The Christian Boys' Boarding School, in connection with the Furrukhabad High School.—The average enrollment during the year has been 115. Some of these boys are orphans, some come from the village Christian communities of the Fatehgarh District, some from Christian families in our other districts who are unable to pay the fees in more expensive schools. Mr. Smith says that the number of the Christian boys in the higher classes of the High School is growing rapidly, as the years pass, and that they are a fine, worthy set of boys. Eight of the ten more advanced boys are looking forward to the ministry.

Anxiety and embarrassment are caused in providing for both the boys and the girls, about 250 in all, in our two schools in Fatehgarh, by the continued high prices of food. A recent report on Indian trade states that during the last five years the average price of food stuffs has been thirty-one per cent. higher than during the preceding five years, in spite of the fact that the famine in 1900 came in the previous five years. And now prices have gone up still higher, because of famine, the prices being higher now than even during the famine of 1897.

The Barhpur Industrial School for Boys is really a part of the Boys' Boarding School just spoken of.

Mr. Smith reports:

The Shoemaking Department has done a gradually growing business. The boys have so far learned their trade as to be of very material assistance in the work that has to be turned out. Five of the boys do really first-class work as shoemakers, and seventeen are learning the trade. Eight boys are learning in the Carpenters' Shop. But in this department we have to employ several Hindus, that we may meet the orders received for furniture and other work. Especially has the Bicycle Repair work been plentiful and remunerative. Two boys are learning this trade. The Tailoring Department has made all the clothes for the boys, and has done a good deal of outside work.

MEDICAL WORK.—The Memorial Dispensary, Fatehgarh, Dr. Anna M. Fullerton in charge.—Dr. Fullerton is not a member of the Mission, but gives her work in this dispensary, which she and her sister have erected, in and for the city with which her family's name has been so long associated. The Dispensary was built during the past year.

FATEHPUR STATION.

Mr. Mattison writes:

Here is a field of about 700,000 souls, left unreservedly to this Mission for half a century, and we certainly have here as definite responsibility as any Mission ever had. The district is especially open to our efforts now, for it has as yet been affected but little by several undesirable movements which have affected many other districts.

Of his itinerating during the Winter, through the district north of Fatehpur, Mr. Mattison writes:

We worked most carefully through a strip about twenty-five miles long and seven miles wide. In one region plague was bad, but still we experienced little trouble with the people, whose eagerness to see the pictures overcame their fear of us as reputed "plague-spreaders!" We were able to preach the Gospel several times in each of more than 200 villages. We showed the pictures during this thirteen weeks of work in about seventy villages, with an average attendance of about 150 each night. In some places we estimated over 500 people were present. It is probable that more than 10,000 people saw the pictures and heard the story of the Saviour.

An invitation had been received to come to the home-town of a certain Thakurain, a very wealthy landowner, and a woman of high social position. Our first march was right out into the wilderness, and we were amazed to be greeted in the evening by 600 people, who had come to see the pictures and hear the story. The next day an elephant and dog-cart, sent for us by the Thakurain Sahiba, met us. We thus set out on a fifteen-mile march, during a large part of which we had to stop at each village and feed on milk and honey, until it seemed that we could never eat anything again. We were received most cordially in the village of the Thakurain Sahiba, and many presents brought to us. Upon a single one of the immense trays she frequently sent us, we counted sixty-six kinds of fruit and sweet-meats. The ladies visited the Thakurain Sahiba and taught her daily for hours. The rest of us preached the Word in that and adjoining villages; we also showed the stereopticon pictures to a large crowd in front of the house of our hostess, who looked and listened from behind a screen erected on the roof of her house.

As for the Thakurain Sahiba, we believe that the seed sown found lodgment, for one evening she whispered to one of the ladies, "I believe in your Jesus, and am ready to be baptized." But the next morning she did not dare to take the stand, and we came away without seeing her a confessed disciple of Christ.

JHANSI STATION.

Mr. Forman has had charge of the various lines of Mission activity at Jhansi. He sends a translation of a report of Gulzari, a member of the Training Class in Jhansi, which illustrates the character and difficulties of the work:

He is speaking of the Brahman headman of the village: "Murli Dhar's interest," says Gulzari, "began through our sitting and talking with him when we used to go to see Bihari. He became much interested and said he wished to be baptized. But people turned him against us, and he became hardened against us, speaking in an ugly way of (our) caste, until we were forced to leave the village entirely. But I was very restless and ill at ease over having deserted the town, and after a time I asked permission to spend my Saturdays and Sundays there. Since then I have done this, and God's grace has been shown: first, that Nannu, the village watchman, has been baptized; second, one day Murli Dhar was away when I went to his house, but his old mother brought his little son to me, saying, 'The child is ill; can you do anything for him?' I answered, 'Come, let us two pray to Christ the Lord for him.' We prayed together, and I came away. The next week when I went back, God had healed the child. Later on, after special prayer one evening in our C. E. Society for Murli Dhar, I went the following day to see him, but found he had had a slight attack of what seemed paralysis, affecting the mouth, and had gone to another village for treatment. The next week I found him at home, and he said, 'Brother, my life is utterly ruined. I have tried many medicines, and have worshipped many gods, and have made vows to give cows, but I got no better. I vowed to give money, but there was no improvement; to feed people, but am no better. Brother, pray for me, that the Lord will call me to Himself. For to die is better than to live in this condition.' But I said to him, 'Brother, you know the miracles of the Lord Christ and His gifts. What do you think now of idol worship, and of those works on which you had set your hopes?' He answered, 'They are wholly a lie. And I know that the Lord has sent this illness to me to show me that the gods and goddesses and idol worship are all nothings. But for this illness I would not have known this, nor given up these things. Now I leave all these things, and will become a chela of the Lord Jesus Christ. All my life I will serve the Lord. And if I am false, call me not a Brahman, but the son of a Chamar (leather-worker). But let the Lord make me well now.' Then we both fell on our faces, and began to pray. And Murli Dhar cried as he prayed, and threw earth on his neck and face. I told the Church in Jhansi that the zamindar, Murli Dhar, is ill, and he has said that if the Lord will make him well he will be baptized, and will serve the Lord all his life. So prayer was offered for him in the church, and by some in their houses. God heard the prayer, and Murli Dhar got well. He came to Jhansi to see the pastor of our church, and when he met him he said, 'Maharaj, the Lord Jesus Christ has healed me.' And he confessed, and praised Christ with great boldness. Murli Dhar has not yet been baptized. He has talked of being, and declared he would be. But thus far he has lacked the courage, and continued to postpone his baptism."

In the Jhansi District a movement has begun among people of the weaver caste. About 200 persons in the towns of Mau and Ranipur have been baptized.

MAINPURIE STATION.

The Central Training School in Mainpurie has been built up during the past year, the buildings and scholarships having been provided through Mr. Mitchell's efforts, by friends in America. Twenty-four new houses for students and two houses for teachers have been erected during the year. To the north of this settlement Mr. Mitchell has erected two substantial school-houses, one for men and the other for women, the whole being constructed in the form of a triangle.

Mr. J. N. Forman, who has charge of the Central Training School, writes:

For some years past there has been a small training school in Mainpurie, but on July 1, 1907, the new era dawned, and in a few days the place was alive with men and women, boys and girls. There were fifty-four men in attendance, of whom twenty-nine are married, the wives and some of the children of these also attending school. The men are divided into four classes. The teacher of the first (the lowest) class is a convert from the Ayra Samaj (a man of much higher caste than those among and for whom he works). He is enthusiastic, and is getting good results from his pupils. The second and third classes are also doing well. The fourth and highest class is the strongest in the school, and has made rapid progress, mainly under the teaching of Rev. Sukh Pal, the pastor of the Mainpurie Church. The subjects taught include reading, writing and arithmetic, geography, history and physiology. But a large part of the time is given to Bible study, and there is also an elementary course in Christian Doctrine.

There is a separate school for the wives of these students, as it is not less important to train the women than it is to train their husbands, in view of the influence they will exert on the women and girls in the villages to which they will go.

Mr. Mitchell has had charge of the Mainpurie High School, where there are at present 200 boys, nearly double the number of ten years ago. Sixty-seven adults and fifty-two children have been baptized during the year. There are twenty Sunday-schools, with twenty-three teachers and 602 pupils.

ETAH STATION.

During the year a new form of work has been developed, namely, the holding of conferences of a number of representative men from the Christian communities in the villages. Mr. Lawrence tells particularly of the conference held in September. In June sixteen persons had been present. In September nearly seventy came, though the leaving their fields at that time of the year meant loss to them. They were entertained as the guests of the missionaries and of the Christians living in the central station. The gathering of representatives from different parts of the district was a revelation to them of their strength, and an encouragement to them. Mr. Lawrence writes:

These meetings, following upon the primary teaching they get in the villages, move them in a way they could not be moved in their home villages, surrounded by many distractions. The strong help the weak. The testimony on the observance of the Sabbath and on temperance was especially gratifying.

Thus new standards of right and wrong are being adopted, and a new conscience awakened. There is also an increase in giving for the upkeep of schools and of the Church.

Etah Boys' Boarding School.—There were forty-two boys in the school during most of the year, only fourteen of these from the village Christian families of the district.

The boys make their own clothes. And it is planned to have them begin farming, as sufficient land has now been secured for this.

They are very happy in their new home, and it, we hope, will prove an inspiration to them. Their building has cost about $400 and the boys have helped considerably in its erection. The spiritual condition of the boys is good at present.

Mr. McGaw writes of his section of the country district:

In this section are the churches of Basundra, Oresar, Hasamgahr, Paphotu and Isauli, with a total membership of 101 communicants, of whom twenty were added during the year. During the year 102 have been baptized, which makes a total of 1,973 baptized adherents in these various communities, a large proportion of whom live too far from the church organization to actually form a part of it. In some parts the so-called adherents live twelve or more miles distant.

The educational work in this part of the district is not in a satisfactory state. At this time there are reported to be 170 boys and 78 girls under daily instruction.

Thirty-nine men and women have been in attendance in the Training School. Thirty-three members have been added to the membership of the Etah Church. There are 14 boarders in the Girls' School.

GWALIOR STATION.

Since Dr. Symington's resignation the Station has been unoccupied.

Our Mission's only representative in the capital of the great State of Gwalior is Rev. Sukh Pal. He is old and feeble. He has worked according to his strength. Five days in the week he teaches a small school for children gathered in from the bazar, and spends the late afternoons and evenings in religious conversation with groups of men, or with individuals in their homes.

This is all, the work of this one feeble old man, that our Mission is doing in the capital of the second largest native state of India, a capital into which ours is the only Protestant Mission that can get entrance.

There can be no question but that if Christian men in America, who hold what they possess as stewards of God, knew what this call means, and could see even for one hour that great city, and would realize that the door is open to us because a life was given, that of Mrs. Warren, in thirty-three years of faithful and lonely service, this proposal would be covered more times over than any proposed Government loan.

CAWNPORE STATION.

Through the special contributions of friends in America, Mr. Gillam has been able to build a Mission House, and is now planning with reference to hostels and a church. In view of the fact that Cawnpore is the principal manufacturing centre of North India, and that it is constantly growing, and that it is the most central station with respect to the Stations of our Mission, the development of our work there is of much importance to our whole work.

The membership of the Church consists for the most part of Christians who have been connected with our Mission in other Stations, who have work in the mills of Cawnpore. They are a self-supporting and independent people, but usually receive little salary, and cannot meet the needs of the situation themselves. It has been the definite effort to organize and lead out the members of the Church to service for others. They carry on Sunday-school work among non-Christians at present. The whole purpose is to build up a self-supporting and self-propagating church. If the church building and the home for the pastor can be secured, the way will be open for effective work.

WESTERN INDIA MISSION.

KOLHAPUR: 200 miles southeast of Bombay; 45,000 inhabitants; Station begun 1853; taken under care of the Board 1870. Missionaries—Rev. A. W. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall, Rev. E. W. Simpson and Mrs. Simpson, Miss Esther Patton, Rev. J. M. Irwin, Ph.D., and Mrs. Irwin, Miss A. A. Brown, Miss W. E. Z. Heston, M.D., Rev. D. B. Updegraff.

RATNAGIRI: 82 miles northwest of Kolhapur, and 125 south of Bombay; Station begun 1873. Missionaries—Rev. A. L. Wiley and Mrs. Wiley, Miss Emily T. Minor, Miss Amanda M. Jefferson, Rev. H. A. Kernen and Mrs. Kernen.

KODOLI: 12 miles north of Kolhapur; Station begun 1877. Missionaries—The Rev. J. P. Graham and Mrs. Graham, Miss Isabelle Graham, Miss V. E. McArthur, M.D., Miss Sybil G. Brown, Dr. A. S. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, Miss Elizabeth O. Foster.

SANGLI: 30 miles east of Kolhapur; Station begun 1884. Missionaries—Rev. Edgar M. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, Miss Grace Enright, Rev. Henry G. Howard, Miss B. G. Johnson.

MIRAJ: About 25 miles a little north of east of Kolhapur and 6 miles south of Sangli; Station begun 1892. Missionaries—William J. Wanless, M.D., and Mrs. Wanless, Rev. R. C. Richardson and Mrs. Richardson, Miss D. E. Patterson.

VENGURLE: About 70 miles southwest of Kolhapur; Station begun 1900. Missionaries—Rev. W. H. Hannum and Mrs. Hannum, Dr. R. N. Goheen and Mrs. Goheen.

ISLAMPUR: Village Settlement. Missionaries—Mrs. R. G. Wilder, Miss Grace Wilder, Miss M. C. Rebentisch, Miss Marie L. Gauthey, Miss Mabel I. Skilton.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. Goheen, Rev. A. W. Marshall and Mrs. Marshall, Rev. A. L. Wiley and Mrs. Wiley.

During the year there have been added to the Mission Rev. David B. Updegraff and to the Village Settlement force Miss Gauthey and Miss Skilton. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall have not been able to return to the field on account of Mrs. Marshall's health, and Mrs. Joseph M. Goheen has been compelled to resign owing to the death of her husband. In Mr. Goheen's death the Mission has suffered a severe loss, as the following words, written by the Mission Secretary, will show:

KOLHAPUR STATION.

In February, this Station sustained a loss such as comes seldom in a Station's history. A cable from the Board announced the death at Wooster, Ohio, of the Rev. Joseph M. Goheen.

For more than thirty years Mr. Goheen had given himself with all the intensity of a nature true, noble and unselfish, to the bringing of the kingdom of righteousness into this kingdom of Kolhapur. His life from first to last stood for righteousness, and his habitual living put its Amen to the message he gave. A promise given implied a promise kept. "If Goheen Sahib said he would be at a village at 9 o'clock, he meant 9 and not 10," was what the Indians said of him.

Mr. Goheen was richly gifted with sound judgment, and his quiet, deep voice in the councils of pastors, people and missionaries is sorely missed. He dispensed hospitality royally. His home was a haven of peace—peace within, whatever might be the atmosphere without. Living in a touring district, many were the evangelistic parties that started from his door. He would see himself that all the carts were packed and nothing forgotten; then gather us for a word of prayer before we started, and commend us to the traveler's God and our work to the Lord of the harvest. His prayers are a precious legacy to many of us who called ourselves his children.

A father in Israel has fallen, and we ask the men of the Church, "Who will take up the work that he laid down?"

EVANGELISTIC.—Rev. Shivaramji Masoji reports for the Kolhapur Church:

While reviewing the year under report we cannot but be grateful to our Heavenly Father for His sustaining grace and manifold blessings. There was a good deal of serious sickness and sorrow in several families. Three young men and one woman died from plague; the former ones on account of not leaving at once the infected localities in which they lived. We sincerely thank Dr. Heston for the most valuable help she gave us during the time of illness.

I am thankful to say that there were no cases of discipline; the Christians are living in peace and harmony. The church services were well attended, and there are marked signs of growth in grace and benevolence.

We were very glad to have Dr. and Mrs. Irwin come back to us and open again a Mission High School in the town. We also expect great results from the medical work which Dr. Heston has started for the benefit of women and children. May these works be the means of opening the doors of many homes and hearts and winning souls for the Lord Jesus.

Out of the 281 communicants on roll, twenty are absent in distant places. I very much regret to report that six of the Christians living at Tirpan have gone back into their former caste, on account of persecution and hardships they had to suffer from the hands of their village people and relatives.

With but one exception, none of our Christians in Kolhapur own any houses. They live in hired houses or temporary huts erected on other people's land. In order to be relieved of this most unsatisfactory condition, some of them have applied to the State authorities for a grant of land for building purposes. The Christians are not allowed to build houses and live among caste people in the new section just laid out, therefore the authorities are planning to give a separate plot of ground to them. Though this arrangement is not wholly satisfactory, yet something is better than nothing. By owning their own houses, our Christian community will become permanent residents of this place; and I believe it will help to increase their standing and influence among the people.

Wadgav Church.—The church having lost its pastor by action of Presbytery in September, 1906, Mr. Simpson and Danielrao, elder of the Kolhapur Church, were appointed to act with the local elder and so constitute a Session. The local elder, however, soon lapsed into Hinduism, and Presbytery has added Shivaramji, pastor of the Kolhapur Church, to the Session. Mr. Simpson and Danielrao held communion service quarterly, besides which both visited the field at other times. By action of Kolhapur Station, Vithoba Bhopale was sent to take charge of the Wadgav reading school, and do evangelistic work in the villages, thus securing for the church what they have long demanded—some one to hold services regularly free of any expense to the members of the church.

WOMAN'S WORK.—Work for woman has been carried on through the weekly prayer meeting; the Dorcas Society, which held sales and received donations amounting to six rupees, and the Missionary Society, which met once a month for prayer and conference. They have forty-eight rupees in the treasury.

Sunday-schools.—The work of the five Sunday-schools has gone regularly on through the year. In addition, since 1907, the High School has maintained a Sunday-school of its own. It has three classes, the International lessons are taught, and forty-four sat for the July Sunday-school examination. One boy, the pastor's son, took a medal; another of his sons gained a certificate in the "Life of Christ" in the International Sunday-school Union Correspondence College for Teachers. The largest of the schools is at Kolhapur and has a weekly attendance of 275 pupils, and is divided into twenty classes.

EVANGELISTIC ITINERATION.—Splendid indeed has been the evangelistic work carried on by the members of the Stations and their native helpers. With their tent they have gone from town to town, preaching the Word, healing the sick and binding up the broken-hearted.

During the touring season nine camps have been made, 123 towns visited, twenty-six lantern exhibitions given to 4,935 people, and 7,865 addressed by day, making a total of 12,800 people reached. Some of the incidents of these trips are so interesting as portraying the method of work of the missionary that they are given in the workers' own words.

Dr. McArthur and Mrs. Havens started one morning at sunrise, taking the Bible women and also two men to act as a ferry-boat across the river. Indian file they walked the six miles by narrow paths through the fields, passing through villages where the people came out to gaze at the unusual sight. After a couple of stops to rest, Tirpan was reached, where the day was spent in the house of a Christian. The little woman spread a black blanket in one end of a partly enclosed veranda. It was all she could do. The other end of the veranda was occupied by two or three buffaloes. The one room of the house was cluttered up by various things, and the chickens and dogs walked in and out at will. Two blankets hung up, partly shielded the ladies from the curious gaze of the children of the neighborhood. Toward evening the carts arrived, and the tents were pitched in a beautiful mango grove. At this place, as usual, all the villages within walking distance were reached.

One day, coming back from a village, crossing a high hill, Dr. McArthur discovered a small village as yet unvisited. One morning was left before moving camp, so Mrs. Havens took the women and went there. She found a small cluster of houses, about twenty women and some children assembled, who gave a hearty welcome. The men had gone to the fields. These women made the most attentive and interested audience of any yet reached. Two or three hours were spent talking with them. They were taught how to pray and they were so quiet one could almost have heard a pin drop. Mrs. Havens asked them if they had not heard before. Yes, one woman had heard; she had been to Miraj Hospital; she had been blind, now she could see. They insisted on gifts of peanuts and brown sugar and begged the ladies to come again and teach them some more.

At one camping place, the people, seeing us coming, came to meet us, and the first thing begged us to start a school. They were most friendly and came in a body to the tent that first afternoon. We told them to come at 4 o'clock, but they were there at 2. Every day they came, and they were proud to show off a young married woman who could sing a hymn or two with us that she had learned in the school at Kodoli. The others could not read, and they begged us every day to send a teacher. They said their children were growing up in ignorance. I said, "Well, if a teacher came would you want him to teach you about God, too?" "Oh, yes!" they said, "and here is an empty house all ready for him to live in." We thought it a splendid opening there, but it was decided that this new work could not be undertaken.

I think I never enjoyed life in India so much before as in those days of tramping over hill and plain to tell a wonderful message to those who had never heard it. It surprised me to find such individuals, for I had supposed that these near-by districts had been so thoroughly toured that every soul must have had salvation preached to him at least once. Such did not prove to be the case, however, and on several occasions I met people, or visited villages, where the inhabitants thereof fled at my approach as if I had been an angel or a demon—they did not stop to explain which—thereby demonstrating that they had not so much as seen a white face before.

HOUSE - TO - HOUSE VISITATION.—Mrs. Havens writes:

With my Bible woman, I did house-to-house visitation in the city of Kolhapur. Among the poorer classes, I found an easy entrance, but not so among the higher classes. I found many in whose hearts the Word had lodged, having been sown by others. One woman who sincerely desires to be a Christian does not yet see her way clear to leave her home, which would be necessary. She attends our church services and refuses to worship idols. I have known her on a heathen holiday to come to the Mission compound that she might not have to join with her Hindu neighbors. She cannot read, but her mother, having learned in a school held years ago by Mrs. Wilder, reads the Bible to her. When her mother's sight failed she bought her spectacles that she might continue. One day after having an attentive audience in a home, I rose to go, and was surprised to have all the people hurry out before me; on going out, I found they had all assembled in the next house and were sitting ready to hear again and invited me in there. Of course, I could not refuse when they were anxious to hear more.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Christian Girls' Boarding School.

—At the beginning of the year there were 248 names on the roll. During the year, on account of removals, deaths, marriages, and graduation, thirty have gone out from the school, so the year closes with 218 on the roll. Of these 195 are in the primary and twenty-three in the middle school.

Three girls graduated from the school in March. One is teaching in Kodoli; another is employed privately as a Bible reader in Kini, and the third is married to a teacher in Sangli.

The boarders live in three homes and, with the exception of washing and a little grinding, do all the work.

An epidemic of measles, followed by influenza, caused much sickness from November till March. During the hot season the girls were kept wonderfully well, and in the rains we had very much less sickness than usual; for which we thank God.

The girls have continued their missionary and prayer meetings throughout the year and have collected among themselves Rs. 27.9.3, which they wish to use in giving the glad tidings to others.

The day-school has been maintained at Somvar, where there are a large number on the roll and about forty in daily attendance. One bright girl, who rose into the third standard, seemed very interested in committing the hymns and Bible lessons, and came a long distance to Sunday-school, but suddenly she was taken out. The teacher was not allowed even to go to her house. We hear now that she has been given to a theatre company for four dollars a month. Her good voice would be especially useful to them.

The Aiditvar School has averaged about a dozen regular pupils.

Boys' schools have been maintained at five different points, with a total average attendance of about seventy-five, and reading schools at six points, with a total average attendance of fifty.

High School.—Dr. Irwin reports:

Shortly after last Mission meeting, November 7, in accordance with Mission action, I went to Kolhapur to seek accommodations for the High School in Kolhapur Camp, off the old compound. After extended negotiations we succeeded in getting a suitable place. It was the Executor Engineer's office, bungalow and stores enclosure for the Belgaum Public Works Department.

A place for a schoolhouse was obtained in the private house of the Chief Revenue Officer, and after holding our annual examinations in Sangli and forming our new Standards, from December 15 to December 20, we moved the High School and ourselves to Kolhapur, to our new and more ample quarters, which had meanwhile been put in a state of repair.

In all these negotiations we prayed much for guidance and success, and God's hand and blessing seemed most evident. Our pastor here speaks of it as a wonderful answer to prayer and the accommodations are almost as suitable as if made for the purpose.

When we came to Kolhapur, we brought forty-five boys, all students in the hostel; since then seven new ones have come and seven have gone, making forty-five in the hostel at the end of the year. During the year twenty-three outsiders or day pupils entered, seventeen of them non-Christians. Of these fourteen have remained, making fifty-nine in school at the end of the year, and an enrollment of seventy-five. Last January we applied for university recognition and registration of the school, which was granted.

An interesting development in the school work has appeared in the opportunity to teach His Highness the Maharaja's children. Of Mrs. Irwin's work in the Palace she writes:

Although I realized that His Highness was paying a compliment to our Mission when he asked us to teach his niece (and afterwards his own children), I waited some time before giving any definite reply. I wanted divine guidance. It seemed so evident that God was leading us out and opening the way for financial aid for the High School that I finally answered that I would do it as a personal favor. His Highness seemed very pleased with my reply and offered a fee of Rs. 125 per month.

The understanding is that I give at least an hour daily to teaching, making my own rules for teaching or driving and for going to the palace or having the Princess come to the bungalow. I have had to promise nothing as to what I shall or shall not teach. I was asked to visit the Maharaja and afterward the Royal School. The Maharaja met me in the school and expressed great pleasure that I had consented to teach his niece. After three weeks or so, he sent another request that I teach all the royal children. This, however, I declined, saying that it would be too much for me. To my surprise, they all appeared when it was time to teach the little Princess. I sent word to His Highness after some days, and when he was advised that it really would be too much for me, he sent a request to Mr. Irwin asking him to teach the three boys.

Some one remarked the other day, "What a fine thing this is for your Mission, and such an opportunity for good! You have the future of Kolhapur in your hands." This, of course, was too strong, but we do realize that it might mean a good deal to our Mission. I am also pleased to help the Maharaja and my own Government.

Let us pray for tact and wisdom. If we have these added to our daily communion with Christ, our Master, letting Him guide our lips and actions, the Christian influence must tell for good in the end.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Heston has maintained the medical work in spite of ill health, having treated in the dispensary 1,282 patients. The number would have been much larger had not the wise policy been adopted of charging a fee, which is not as yet acceptable to the Indian mind. Of this Dr. Heston writes:

Some of the episodes in connection with frenzied finance were amusing, to say the least. Often a handsomely dressed Brahmin would appear on the scene with his family. I would promise myself a big fee, put up the medicines, announce the price, when an expression of dismay would cross his bland countenance. He would hurriedly murmur that he must run home to get the money, and would disappear from my horizon forever. I must add, however, that there have been many who have paid cheerfully, and sometimes even more than they were asked.

I have always had a good deal of sympathy with swadeshism and have felt like encouraging a spirit of independence in the Indian breast. I could think of no better way to inculcate such a spirit than by requiring them to give something for something, instead of taking everything possible for nothing; but I have only had blame for my pains—even among the Indian Christians. Such is the unhappy lot of the reformer.

Professional visits in the town have been limited only by my own health, to shield which I have exacted a fee double that of any other practitioner, notwithstanding which, however, there have been ninety-seven visits made. These have been to Christians, Mohammedans, Brahmins, Marathas and members of the royal family. In connection with the last, it might be of interest to note that His Highness' motor was put at my disposal, which was a great comfort, to say the least.

With health and funds at her disposal, I believe there is a great work to be done in Kolhapur by a woman physician.

The Alice Home, which was established by Mrs. Goheen, for widows, has sheltered this past year twenty-one. The sounds of grinding, washing, singing, laughter, studying (out loud), and teaching are heard daily. Quarreling and friction are—I wish I might say, unknown. As yet we are working up to that ideal of harmony. Twenty-one women, scarcely any two of them related in the very least, of different castes, some with tempers, all with fluent command of Marathi—given these conditions—result, occasional storms. I try to restrain loud talking, but when I go into the grinding room and strive to make myself heard, I do not wonder that the women of the Orient learn to scream at each other. About enough is earned by the women to board them, but their income does not cover the cost of clothing. Much time is given to the study of the Bible, and with the younger ones to learning to read and write. Seven, including two blind women, passed successfully an examination in the Pentateuch in September. Some of these are beginning to visit in the city with older Bible women. One has learned to do Ayah's work. Others have earned money for the home by carrying water for outside people, or by helping in illness.

RATNAGIRI STATION.

The missionaries stationed at Ratnagiri are Misses Minor and Jefferson and Miss Unsworth, of the Z. B. N. M. Mr. and Mrs. Kernan, who were transferred from Sangli at the last annual meeting, joined the force in January. In April Mr. and Mrs. Wiley went on furlough.

The Church.—Concerning this branch Mr. Kernen writes:

Mr. Wiley remained in charge of the church until his departure for America, and preached nearly every Sunday.

Since then the elders and myself have conducted the regular Sabbath afternoon service. There are always some visitors. Most prefer to stand at the door or the windows.

Fourteen members have been added on confession of faith. Four adults and sixteen children have been baptized. The total number of communicants is less than last year because some names have been dropped from the roll.

The contributions have been good. Good collections have been sent to the Home Mission Fund and also a collection was taken for Foreign Missions. Those who have the least seem to give more liberally than those who are more fortunate.

The church is able to support its own pastor, but the proper man who can lead the people has not been found.

The Sunday-schools.—

The Sunday-school has been conducted with marked success and is a source of encouragement. It has been maintained throughout the year with Bhiwaji as assistant superintendent. The average attendance is ninety. There are eleven classes, two of which have been taught by missionaries and the rest by Indian Christians.

The Y. M. C. A. has maintained a reading room in the rear of the church, which is open to the public for several hours each day, under the superintendence of Joshua, son of Ramchandra Master.

Bible Study.—

Miss Jefferson has conducted a class for Bible study throughout the rains. The second part of Dr. Torrey's book, "What the Bible Teaches," has been the basis of study. Six women were in the class. Two appeared for the examination and passed well.

EVANGELISTIC.—

Various parts of Ratnagiri town and near villages have been visited with the gospel message during the year. The gospel has been faithfully given by Konoba and Kondibai. Kondibai's influence has been specially felt in the settlement at Patavane. She has held sewing classes for the women and as they sewed has taught them hymns and Bible verses.

The women at the leper hospital are glad to welcome us and gather to listen to our message.

Street Preaching.—Mr. Kernen writes:

Shortly after I arrived in Ratnagiri a "brass band" was organized. The band usually numbers about twenty, consisting of masters, preachers, larger school-boys and sahibs. The object of the band is street preaching and to let the people know that there is a Christian community in the town, though its numbers are small. Every Saturday afternoon until the hot season, all gathered at the mission bungalow and marched into the bazar singing Christian hymns. There is not a street or quarter where we have not been. Each place has its distinct audience. Near our town school we are usually sure of a good Brahman crowd. One Saturday we had an unusually large audience, and after one of the masters had spoken of our purpose we began to sing a hymn. Across the street a Brahman master in the Government schools went up in one of the booths and began to address the crowd. We could not make out what he said, but judging from the applause of the crowd it was pleasing to all. We were entirely deserted, but we did not give up the fort. We only sang the heartier, and after the Brahman was through and went down a side street the crowd came back to us and another master spoke to them of the Christian religion. We sang another hymn and retired gracefully. We have been received quite respectfully and given good attention. It is quite frequently the experience of missionaries and helpers that Mussulmen will not listen to any preaching about Christ. But we went to their quarter one day and were received quite cordially. No one can tell what the result of such efforts are, but we think that even though the people do not understand our message, the general good appearance of the boys and helpers is a lesson to the community at large.

Touring.—Touring has been done by the ladies of the Station. A camp of a month was made among the caste people at Ambesheh; Miss Minor, Miss Jefferson and Miss Unsworth being assisted by Ramchandra Master and Kanoba as helpers, and Kondibai and Melanbai as Bible women. Miss Minor writes:

In crossing a sugar field we found an old man and his sons at work. They stopped to listen to the gospel story. The old man was much interested and declared that if he had paid five rupees he could not have heard such a story. When we left he gave us a stock of sugar cane and said, "I will sweeten your mouth with sugar cane, but you have sweetened my heart with your story."

EDUCATIONAL.—Town School.—Concerning the Bazar School, Miss Unsworth writes:

There has been fairly good work done in the town school this year. Mr. Wiley examined the school in March and nineteen children passed into higher standards. The school is now registered. When we go out into the villages we often meet some of the girls who have been in our school and have gone to live in their husband's homes. One of my girls was married and went to live in a village about thirty miles distant. A fortnight ago she came to visit me. She had been ill and after some questions said, "I believe that Jesus died for me, and they told me that in my delirium while I was ill I called upon Him."

Boarding School.—

The middle of September completed our school year. Just before leaving for America, Mr. Wiley secured Government recognition of our schools. As the year's work drew to a close, I requested the head inspector, Mr. Sawarker, a Christian gentleman, to conduct the examination. Our children were somewhat frightened when three inspectors, each representing distinct Indian communities, the chief a Christian, one deputy a Brahman, and the other a Mussulman, came to the school. In summing up the result, after pointing out our weak places, Mr. Sawarker said that the result was satisfactory.

Out-stations have been maintained at Patavane, where the workers have been rejoiced in the building of a house for the master. At the house-warming many of the people enjoyed the master's hospitality and were greeted by the motto of the house, which was hung so that all who entered might read it: "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." At Ambeshah the corner-stone of the new schoolhouse was laid, and a night-school for boys who work during the day established. At Pali Dagadaba the master received commendation from the Government inspector who examined the school in May. The good work done has begun to bear fruit, and a neighboring village is urging its request for a school.

Orphanage.—Mrs. Kernan writes:

To take over the charge of an orphanage of sixty children in Ratnagiri seemed to me at first a mountainous task; and with no matron to share the responsibility, it was none too easy. But I am sure I would prefer to follow a thorough worker like Mrs. Wiley, rather than to follow a less systematic organizer. In taking charge I just had to push things along in the same way in which they had been conducted. This in itself was not always easy. First, because it meant that I personally must attend to an infinite number of details, such as even ordering the meals for the orphanage; but also because everyone on the compound had to "try it on," as the boys say, to see to what limits they could go. After arranging for the sharing of some of the details with two of the older girls whom I constituted assistant matrons, I found that with careful supervision the work went on fairly well. My assistant matrons did excellently after they began to understand what was expected of them. And I consider that on the whole there has been less friction in the general daily routine than there would have been with a regular matron.

WIDOWS.—Miss Unsworth writes:

When Mrs. Wiley went away in April her four women and the rice industry were put into my charge. One dear old granny came to us last January; she had been on work here during the famine and has two grandchildren in the orphanage. She was baptized last March and keeps very bright and happy. Ashabai died in the hospital last June of consumption. Since then three others have come to us. A woman who has been with us before has returned. Another old woman came with her son. He wished to become a Christian. The mother said that if her boy became a Christian she also must come. A third woman recently admitted is a cousin to one of our older women. There are sixteen widows in all now and their work is various. Some do drawn-thread work, others do the rice industry, one goes to take care of one of the master's children and does some grinding. Some do part of the orphanage grinding and keep the compound clean.

I am trying to teach them the Bible women's first year course. It is difficult, but they are really learning a little. Sometimes we have had to go over one lesson five times, and probably we will have to go over it again and again.

Please pray for us all; first for those who do not yet know Jesus as their Saviour, that they soon may know Him and be willing to confess Him before men; then that through all of us Jesus may get glory and be satisfied.

KODOLI STATION.

THE CHURCH.—

In the church the year has been a period of sifting. The revival of two years ago brought to light much sinful living among church members and showed it in its true colors. Some turned from it with loathing and are still walking in the new life with the companionship and help of the Holy Spirit. Some tried to continue a nominal Christianity as a cloak of respectability. Our constant prayer this year has been, "Lord, make thy Church pure and holy." We thought He would do so by changing the lives of the nominal Christians. But our prayer has been answered differently, and very many of this class have gone back into their former castes; outwardly washed and clean, they have returned to their wallowing in the mire. The spiritual condition of the church is better for the separation, though at first we grieved much over it. In most cases the reason given for returning to Hinduism had been to make suitable marriages for some member of the family—i. e., infant marriages, or such as could not be sanctioned among Christians.

At its September meeting the Presbytery of Kolhapur, believing that former troubles in the church had sufficiently subsided, advised the church to call a pastor. Sixty-one new members have been added to the roll, all but one on confession of their faith.

Rev. Sideramji, who has supplied the church very acceptably during the year, has also done much visiting in nearby villages. When telling the story of the Gospel at a town called Pargao, a man in the crowd rose and said that it was true. When others asked him how he knew, he took a copy of John's Gospel from his pocket, and, after reading part of the first chapter, said that that was enough to satisfy him that this was the true religion. "But," he added, "I have additional evidence. The kindness shown me in the Mission hospital at Kodoli during an attack of severe illness convinced me that these people have the true religion and that God is with them." "Ah," rejoined the others, "we see that you will be a Christian, and then be the means of defiling others. So we do not want you to live in our town any longer." In February a traveling guru (teacher) came to Kodoli, and was putting himself forward as one who by the practice of austerities could remove the plague which was then very bad. He might have persuaded the people to collect the two hundred rupees he proposed to charge for his services, if Sideramji on his way to preach in the town had not come up and heard him. If the preacher did not succeed in convincing the people that God alone could remove the plague, he did at least satisfy them that this boasting guru could do nothing but take their money. He spoke on the futility of austerities and the necessity of faith in Christ. The guru was very angry and asked if he had come to trample under foot his means of livelihood, but realizing that the case was hopeless he broke up his lodgings and moved away.

When panic-stricken by the plague the people tried to appease the wrath of the dreaded Kali, who presides over pestilence. A herald was sent through the town to proclaim with beating of drums that, on penalty of fine and expulsion from caste, the daily grinding must cease and young and old must fast in every house, while each family feasted its own particular gods. Then, on an appointed day, the whole population, except the Christians, took two buffaloes, smeared their faces with paint and red powder, and with great ceremony conducted them through the town and handed them over to the Mahars to be sacrificed to "mother Kali," when her anger was appeased and she would leave the place. The goddess herself was represented in the procession by a rude, wooden image dressed in silk and seated on a small cart. The priest into whose body the spirit of the goddess had come shouted to the people, "Now the plague will stop!" and the crowd brought chickens, goats and hundreds of cocoanuts as an offering. But the plague went on increasing. When for a month at the beginning of the monsoon no rain had fallen, Sideramji says that the people took a boy eight years old, supposed to be yet free from sin at that age, stripped him, washed him and burnt incense before him. Then they prostrated themselves at his feet saying, "What will you give us?" The boy being instructed beforehand replied, "Rain will fall for you." Then a woman poured a vessel over the naked boy, and as he whirled around the drops of water fell on the ground, and the people cried out, "So, O royal child, let the rain fall and sprinkle the thirsty ground."

EDUCATIONAL.—The Schools.—

On September 1st twenty-eight boys and about twenty girls connected with its schools joined the church on confession of faith, three of whom were baptized. Three others were also baptized at the same time. This was a day of joy, for had we not worked, watched, waited and prayed for it? Our village school at Satava was closed on account of plague. About fifty per cent. of the people of the Mahar Wada died in two months.

In the sloyd department of the Station schools there have been seven classes in carpentry, four sewing classes for large girls and five classes for younger children in a few forms of kindergarten work. Thus every boy and girl has had one or two hours a week in this department. A good teacher was secured from Sirur Industrial School early in the year. In August the unusually heavy rains caused the west end of the workshop to collapse. Anticipating this the benches, etc., had been removed. The accident caused considerable inconvenience to the work, but the damage is rapidly being repaired. It is interesting to note that the American Madura Mission is preparing to introduce educational sloyd into its schools. The Mysore State Government is also enjoying for six months the services of Mr. Gustav Larsson, of the sloyd training school of Boston, U. S. A.

THE BROWNIE ORPHANAGE.—

The dormitories completed in 1905, have met a long-felt need. The regularity, the good food, the required obedience and cleanliness, and the Christian atmosphere mean much. The housework is divided up systematically, each child doing in turn the different kinds of work. Morning and evening prayers, the silent time before the day's work, the Sunday classes and the Bible study in each day-school grade, all tend to keep spiritual things in the place due them.

We have now two schools, one for boys and one for girls. They cover five years' work. The standard is much higher than at first and the requirements are more thoroughly met as the work goes on. As for irregular attendance and tardy marks and truants after roll-call, many remedies have been tried. The other day we saw some one watch the way the boys around took to their heels the minute they heard the bell ring. Turning to me he said, "What is it that happens to the boys if they don't get there just on time?" Our Brownies have cost us much care and anxiety and not a few hard days and earnest prayers. But it has been an investment that has paid, and to-day only praise ascends to Him who has so abundantly blessed them and us.

It has been a great joy to see two large bands of these children come out for Christ, about fifty in each band and others in between times. Those are the blessed days when we feel how good it would be if the Brownies' many American friends could see, as we see, the result (humanly speaking) of their gifts and love and prayers. This work has been carried on largely by contributions through the Christian Herald, by gifts coming through our own Board, and from many other friends mostly in the United States and Canada.

All told about 1,400 children have been under our care, but at present the Brownies number 210.

MEDICAL WORK.—Could a complete record of the medical work of this Station be written, it would argue conclusively for the consecration of the missionaries and the worth of such service for Christ. The plague appeared about the middle of February, and was the worst epidemic that has visited that region. This was the missionaries' opportunity, and with no thought of self, they seized it. The report says:

For nearly ten months the plague has raged, and while we write this report is as bad as ever. The work of the hospital and dispensary has been badly crippled. People have been afraid to come or bring their sick to such an infected town. Very few plague cases ever seek admission to any hospital. Most of them die too soon. The epidemic has, however, given unusual opportunities for us to enter the homes of the people. Several hundred persons have been inoculated against the disease, but the remedy is not popular. The total attendance of in-patients and out-patients, as per last report to the Government, was 7,213.

Realizing the necessity of having proper assistance, Miss Foster has been diligently training a nurse and a ward ayah in the hospital throughout the year. Almost all of the hospital employees are Christians and meet together for prayer at the beginning of each day. They are encouraged by precept and example to do personal work among the sick. Scarcely a patient has stayed in the hospital twenty-four hours without having the Way of life explained to him or her, if in a condition to comprehend it.

ITINERATION.—The following account of an itinerating trip is a sufficient answer to those who claim that Hinduism is essentially beautiful in its teaching:

In February we went in a different direction to a town southeast of Miraj called Chincli, where a great annual pilgrimage is held. It is said that often more than 100,000 people are present at this festival at a time, and it is a good place to observe many phases of Hinduism. There were streets on streets of shops where sweetmeats, toys, household goods of many kinds, cloth and all kinds of merchandise, up to the best machinery the country affords, were offered for sale. Much space was occupied by magicians, sleight-of-hand performers, showmen, and owners of merry-go-rounds and Ferris wheels, while a great cattle bazar was a marked feature of the occasion. But the great mass of the people were simply living in tents, and giving themselves up to the enjoyment of a holiday. For three days we had our tent pitched in a grove almost half a mile from the place of the pilgrims' camp. There was a big well in the grove, some 25 or 30 feet in diameter. Hundreds of people daily came to this well, and going down its sloping sides to the water they bathed and washed their clothes, until the stench of the fouled water polluted the air all along the water-courses from the well to irrigate the fields about it; yet the people continued to use the water for cooking and drinking on to the end of the pilgrimage. In this vast and crowded camp nothing was done to secure pure water and no arrangements whatever were made in the way of sanitation. And the foulness of the air was a fit emblem of the moral corruption that in open day forced itself on the public view on every side. Whole fields were given up to the tents of fallen women, who plied their trade without hindrance or rebuke. No wonder that these pilgrimages are the sources of cholera and moral pestilence. It is at the temple of the goddess in whose honor the pilgrimage is held that one sees the popular worship of Hinduism and can judge of its effect on the people. At one time the court of the temple and the road leading to it would be crowded with people, men, women and children, making measuring rods of themselves all the way as they covered the ground in their progress forward, with their clothing so torn as to expose their persons in a way that would not be tolerated in a civilized country, and themselves so tired that they would have to rest before they could drag their wearied bodies forward and place their feet on the mark made by their outstretched hand at the last prostration. At times the place would resound with the sound of tomtoms and other rude instruments, while the people danced for hours with the most violent contortions of their bodies until one expected to see them drop from sheer exhaustion. Then of a sudden the spirit of the goddess would come into the body of some worshiper, whose contortions would become still more violent, and the subject of this inspiration would chirp and mutter as if bereft of all sense and responsibility. At this stage the crowd would gather round him and ask questions (all concerning temporal things, such as the crops, lawsuits, investments, etc.), and upon getting their replies would hand over money in payment for the information they were supposed to have received. It was easy to get large and attentive audiences of pilgrims all day long, the only limitation being the endurance of the preacher in continued speaking. We sold many gospels, sometimes over 300 in a single day.

SANGLI STATION.

Of the work and the workers the report says:

The Station force during the year has been Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Miss Enright and Miss Johnson.

During the last two months of the year all departments of the work have been much interfered with by a severe epidemic of plague in Sangli. None of our Christian people have been attacked.

The Industrial School.—

The Industrial School has followed the usual lines. Thus far the stonework has proved the most successful in fitting boys to earn their own living. Few tools are required, the work can be learned within a reasonable time, and there seems to be a good demand for stonecutters. Besides this work agrees with the genius of the land. A stonecutter does not have to exert his brains to the extent which is required of a carpenter, and while he is dressing stone he can sit in one place and chip, chip by the hour—which is India's ideal of work.

In carpentry we are also having a good degree of success. Some of the boys are already fair carpenters. What is needed here especially is that after they have acquired a fairly good knowledge of their trade, the boys should have experience for a year or two under careful supervision. A furniture factory in connection with the school would be a fine thing to this end and ought to be a paying institution as well.

The same kind of advanced training is needed for the boys who study blacksmithing.

The work in brass, copper and aluminum labors under special difficulties. To learn the business takes some time and to start in business for oneself takes some capital. At the close of the school year in February three boys who had a fairly good training in metal work left the school. Of these one boy forsook the trade and took up compounding. A second has taken care of himself during the year. The third, after a few months work for himself, was called to take charge of the work in Sangli, where he is at present. He bids fair to make a success of his trade. Other boys who were in this work got discouraged and were transferred to other work. Three new boys have taken up this trade.

In February eleven boys left the school to take care of themselves. Three of these were the metal workers already mentioned. Four were masons. One of these died of plague a short time after leaving. The other three have found work. Two of the eleven were carpenters. One of these has since returned for further practice in the shop. At the time of writing he and a companion have left to work on the new buildings in course of erection in Miraj. Another carpenter left in August and has found employment in his own village. Two of the eleven were blacksmiths.

One job of work was offered us which we did not accept. It was to make a pair of wooden manacles, so that the Hindu wife of one of our Christian men might be tied up at home, to prevent her running away while her husband was at work. It seems that she objected to living with a Christian and had run away several times. The husband was advised to study sundry passages in First Corinthians, and report has it that his wife is now content.

At the close of the year the number of boys in the school was as follows:

Standard III	35

Sangli Station School.—In January the Primary, First and Second Standards only were left in the Station School. The Third and Fourth Standards were transferred to the Industrial School.

At the beginning of the year there were thirty-three boys. Six new boys have entered during the year, two boys who had run away have returned, four other boys have run away, one boy has died, two were taken away by relatives, one was transferred to Mr. Wilson's department, and there are now fourteen day-pupils, making an enrollment of forty-seven at the present time.

Home Department of Station School.—At present there are thirty-three boys in the Home Department. For the most part the boys have been well. One of the older boys has been baptized and one admitted to the church.

A Brahman gentleman, not long ago, said to a teacher, "When I pass your place your boys always have such bright, happy faces that I like to watch them."

One day the "Misses Sahib" heard that two boys were planning to run away, so she proceeded to the dormitory and called all the little boys together, and asked Datu and Yemana, the two who intended running away, to take off their clothes and hand them to her. That surprised them much. Next she said that these boys were going away, so we must say good-by to them. She offered prayer for them, then told Datu and Yemana to go to each boy in the room and shake hands with them and say good-by. This was done; then they were sent to the housemaster, his wife, the cooking and grinding women, and last they were to bid the "Misses Sahib" good-by. They got all around, and two crying little boys came to fall at the "Misses Sahib's" feet to say they did not want to go. However, they were told they were free to go if they wanted. They did not want to go then. We are sorry to say that Datu did run away later.

Day-schools.—In regard to the day-school among the Mangs in Sangli, Miss Enright says:

This school has been carried on with a comparatively regular attendance of ten boys and girls. Perhaps because of its small size rendering it possible to give much personal attention to each child, there has been real fruit for the Master among them. One little girl of about eleven, the brightest in the school, has for some time past resolutely refused to put color on her forehead or to conform to idolatrous customs, saying that she belongs to Jesus. She reproves her father for his evil ways, speaking to him of Christ, and has spoken to her teacher of her intention to leave her home and seek protection with the missionaries.

In a section of the town lying across the river are a number of Christians. Their leader is a former student of our school, who led a wild life as a young man but afterward sobered down. He has carried on independently both a day-school and a night-school this year, receiving in aid nothing but the books required for his schools. The day-school has had an attendance of twenty and the night-school for young men of six. A number of these people have united with the church during the year and the work is still going on.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—From the pastor's report and other sources we quote as follows:

During the year there have been fourteen adult and two infant baptisms. Four members have been received by letter and eleven by profession. One former member has been restored. Thirteen members have been dismissed by letter or otherwise and two have died. The church has had a peaceful and harmonious year.

We are rejoiced at the interest which the women are taking in their meetings. We have only nineteen women in the church, and the average attendance at the woman's prayer-meeting is seventeen. The women take part well in prayer, but as yet few will speak. Twice a month one of them leads the meeting and does it well. Before Mrs. Wilson left, the women had collected money for a nice linen table-cloth to be used for the communion table. The table-cloth was received sometime ago, but was not used until the last communion service. The women were so pleased to see it on the table and feel that their money had helped to buy it. We take up a collection the first Tuesday of each month. We have Rs. 2.13 in the treasury now. The women have each pledged to give fifteen minutes each day to work for the Master. A baby crèche for an hour every Tuesday afternoon has been an interesting feature of the work. The married women find it so difficult to really gain anything from a meeting when crying or laughing babies, as the case may be, must be cared for during its progress. So while Miss Johnson is conducting the meeting, Miss Enright entertains with games, sweets, etc., the babies and older children in a large room in the bungalow, so giving the mothers a chance to enjoy the meeting.

A class for Bible study among the Christian women, first weekly, then daily, has been taught through the year. At present there are four women in the class, regular in attendance and progressing well in their work. Another work among the Christian women has been in the form of a circulating library, mentioned in last year's report, and in making and receiving visits, the latter especially taking up much of the missionary's time, yet time that seems well spent, because in no other way can there be real touch and contact so necessary for the moulding of lives for the Master.

Miss Enright writes:

House-to-house visiting has been carried on almost daily in Sangli, and very friendly relations established between the missionary and many of the people, and many seem really convicted of the truth. One little Mohammedan woman is always eager to hear, and one day when talking with her and telling her she must ask God to give her a new heart, she said so simply, "Won't you ask Him now?" So we knelt down and she began at once to pray, asking in such simple language that God would take away her sin and give her a new heart. Her husband also is interested and gladly bought a copy of the Gospel.

MIRAJ STATION.

PERSONNEL.—Dr. Wanless and Miss Patterson have continued throughout the year in charge of the medical work, assisted by Dr. and Mrs. Goheen until January and Dr. Winsor for about seven months. Miss Thompson, of the Zenana Bible and Medical Mission, joined the force in December, 1906, and has been engaged in systematic evangelistic work. Rev. R. C. and Mrs. Richardson have also been engaged in evangelistic work with day-schools and Leper Asylum.

CHURCH.—The past year's work in the church has been an encouraging one. The membership has increased, the attendance at the church services improved and the spirit of giving grown. The desire among the members to be more active in Christian service has manifested itself in the organization of a Missionary Society and also of a Christian Endeavor Society. The church has called a pastor, whose salary will be paid by the church without help from Presbytery. During the year seventeen names have been dropped from the church roll on account of removal or other causes. Fourteen members have been received by letter and five on profession of their faith, so that the roll shows a membership on the 30th of September of fifty-six besides twenty-nine baptized children. The church has given rupees 21 to the Home Mission Fund, which is 10 rupees more than last year, rupees 5 to General Assembly, instead of nothing last year; rupees 7 to Presbytery, instead of 4 last year; for general expenses of the church rupees 70, instead of less than rupees 6 last year. The church's treasury shows more than rupees 75 on hand, besides about 120 rupees in the pastor's fund, all this last having been collected during the past year.

The regular church Sabbath-school has been in session throughout the year with a higher average attendance, and the Sabbath-schools at the Leper Asylum and in the Mang (low caste) Wadi have also been continued. Some of the boys from the Mang Wadi School entered for the Scripture examination and passed very creditably. The boy who took the junior written paper secured eighty-seven marks out of 100.

The new medical class reorganized the Y. M. C. A. work, and the members meet on Saturday evening for prayer and discussion of such subjects as Brotherly Love, Union, Faith, Proper Use of Time and John's testimony concerning Jesus. They have formed an English choir and render vocal and instrumental music for the church services. The devotional services for the nurses, led by Miss Patterson, has been of the greatest help in fitting them for service.

EVANGELISTIC.—During the season short tours were made in the districts where the Gospel was proclaimed in a good many towns. In some places the people wished to pay the preachers. Khanduba, since January, has preached once, and oftentimes twice, a day in the dispensary, and has spent a part of several days a week talking with patients in the hospital, and also in the sale of Scriptures and other books at the railway station and in the bazar. In speaking of his experience he says there are three reasons why the people do not accept the truth as it is in Jesus, and they are pride of Hinduism, pride of caste, and ignorance. He says also that the people who come to the dispensary seem different from the people who are met with outside. He puts these into two classes—they both listen well and one class believes the Gospel is true, but their pride keeps them from accepting Christ. The other class will not believe. He says also that he meets a great many like Felix, they will not accept now, but will think about it later. During the year from October, 1906, to September, 1907, the number of Scriptures and portions and other religious books which have been sold number 2,203, valued at Rs. 67.11.5.

Miss Thompson and a Bible woman have been doing the work so much needed in Miraj—systematic house-to-house and village visiting. In all twenty of the surrounding villages have been reached and 214 visits have been made in Miraj town. As a rule, they have been gladly received and occasionally requests have been made that the visits be more frequent. A number of Gospels and hymn books have been sold, and tracts have been distributed when suitable occasions occurred.

EDUCATIONAL.—Schools.—The same schools that were open during the year 1906 have been open throughout this last year, and another school was opened for the lowest caste near the river. The result or fruit of this school work is seen in the following:

A little more than three years ago not one of the homes, represented by these boys, was without its idol or idols—to-day there are very few with an idol. In one of these the boy being bidden by his parent to worship before the image would say nothing but the Lord's Prayer. These homes are hearing the truth and always welcome the missionary.

HOSPITAL.—The transfer of Dr. Heston to Kolhapur at the beginning of the Mission year, and of Dr. Goheen to Vengurle in January threw an increased amount of work on those remaining. Notwithstanding the depletion of the medical staff, the work during most of the year has continued to increase. Owing to the excessive rains and consequent flooding of the rivers and the presence of plague in the surrounding villages, there has been a falling off in the attendance in both the dispensary and hospital during the past two months.

The year taken as a whole, however, shows the attendance to be about the same as that of last year. The decrease in attendance in the past few weeks has not been an unwelcome relief to the already overworked staff.

The statistics are as follows:

Dispensary new patients.....	8,821
Dispensary returning patients	8,822
Visits to homes	48
Total	17,691
Hospital in-patients	1,398
Operations performed	2,152

A reduction of thirty per cent. in the cases of mortality represents the value of increased, experienced, more efficient nursing and the application of improved methods of modern surgery.

One man who had been in the hospital for a considerable time and who holds an important Government position wrote a long letter to one of the native papers, eulogizing the hospital as a fruit of Christianity and comparing Christianity and Hinduism, exposing the glaring shortcomings of the leaders of the latter religion. Another prominent official of a neighboring State declared himself a true Christian and a follower of Jesus, though to all outward appearances he continues to live as a Hindu. Another prominent Hindu whose child had been in the hospital personally requested Dr. Wanless that, in the event of his death, he undertake the responsibility of seeing that his son be brought up as a Christian at the expense of his estate on the condition only that the boy be not baptized until he should reach an age to be able to decide for himself as to his final acceptance or not of Christianity.

Miss Patterson has continued the work of superintending the training of nurses, and it is hoped that before long the Miraj Training School for Nurses will compare favorably with any in India.

During the year two suitable sites were purchased, one at Vita, forty miles from Miraj, and the other at Palus, thirty miles, both in British territory in the talukas of Khanapur and Tasgon. Building materials are being collected and the building will be begun within a few weeks. Meanwhile dispensaries have been opened in rented buildings in charge of two medical assistants, recent graduates of the Miraj Medical School.

MEDICAL SCHOOL.—In March the third class of six students completed the medical course after four years of study. Four of these are employed in the Miraj field; one is with Dr. Goheen in Vengurle, and one is employed by another Mission. All of these men give promise of becoming valuable Mission helpers.

A new class of sixteen in the medical class and three in the compounders' class was opened in June.

The importance of the medical school grows as each class increases in intelligence and spiritual growth, but until a second medical missionary is permanently provided for Miraj, the tenure of the class will continue to be a matter of uncertainty. The present class was begun with considerable misgiving owing to the small medical staff, but if one may judge from the character of the young men accepted and their present progress, duty points to going forward and looking to God for necessary teaching help.

Through the Medical Association of India it is hoped to secure examiners in the medical school appointed by that association.

The entire cost of the Miraj medical work, excluding missionaries' salaries, was rupees 13,532.9.0, of which the Board paid rupees 3,098 and 10 annas. Grateful acknowledgments are extended to friends for prayer, encouragement and money, to:

His Highness the Maharajah of Kolhapur, the Presbyterian Church, Bryn Mawr, Pa.; the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Rochester, N. Y.; the House of Hope, St. Paul, Minn.; the Presbyterian Church, Avon, N. Y.; the Presbyterian Church, Chili, N. Y.; the Presbyterian Church, Clayton, Ill.

Lepers Asylum.—Work for the lepers has been carried on as usual throughout the year, the asylum being crowded all the time. The inmates, though not beautiful to look upon on account of the fearful ravages of their disease, yet reveal a beautiful contentment not seen on very many faces outside the institution. During the year among the more than forty inmates there have been only five or six cases of discipline, mostly for going to the bazar without permission, and these received their punishment with a good spirit after having confessed their wrong.

Through the kindness of a friend some musical instruments have been secured and much pleasure is produced by the music. Others take pleasure in caring for the garden, while others seem to enjoy working in the fields or helping the masons at work on the new buildings.

Almost two years ago money was received from friends in England for a new building for women and for a chapel. Permission to put up the buildings, however, was not received from the Miraj chief until about six months ago. Since that time the work of building has gone on, and it is hoped soon to have both buildings finished and the church dedicated. The lepers themselves dug all the ditches for the foundations and have done a large amount of other coolie labor, taking great interest in the work. This year they are saving money for the institution by growing their own vegetables. Another work the lepers have been engaged in is that of deepening a well for their own use. They also do all the whitewashing and painting of their buildings and their own cooking, and a good part of their woodchopping.

During the year several have asked for baptism, but they will wait until they have received more teaching before being received into the church.

The work as formerly has been supported by the Mission to Lepers in India and the East. A few contributions have been received from other friends.

VENGURLE STATION.

At the last annual meeting, in Mahableshwar, in October, 1906, Miss Thompson was transferred from Vengurle to Miraj, and Dr. and Mrs. Goheen from Miraj to Vengurle. Dr. and Mrs. Goheen reached Vengurle February 1, and were cordially welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Hannum and Miss Ferguson.

Early in March Mr. and Mrs. Hannum left for America, and they are sorely missed indeed, both by Indians and missionaries. During the first part of the year Tukaramji, the lay preacher, and Keshavrao, Sakharam and Ciminrav, the school-teachers, were the Indian Christian workers in the Station. In February Samuelrav, a new teacher, came from Sirur. In March Sakharamaji had to be dismissed. Vinayakrav, a newly graduated medical assistant, arrived from Miraj about the end of April. A few weeks ago pressure from creditors in town caused Kesavrav to consider it expedient to seek employment elsewhere. Thus has the working force of the Station changed considerably during the past year.

EVANGELISTIC.—Services were held each Sunday in the dispensary during the greater part of the year. But on account of excessive rain and the danger from plague, the services have been lately held at the bungalow. The Christian community now numbers twenty-one. They have given Rs. 32 for Home Missions, Rs. 7 for Foreign Missions, and Rs. 60 for congregational expenses. Sunday-schools are being conducted every Sunday morning in each of the four schools. The average in each Sunday-school has been as follows: Bhatavani, 25; Maharavada, 6; Gabhitavada, 15; Parabhavada, 30.

Tukeramaji continues his faithful work of bazar preaching and house-to-house visiting, and his report each Wednesday is greatly enjoyed by us all. He keeps a strict record and estimates that in the dispensary and bazar he has preached the Gospel to 14,000 people.

Mr. Hannum and Tukeramaji were out on tour during January. Miss Ferguson, with Miss Knight, of Panchgani, spent twenty-four days during January on tour. Ten villages were visited and 200 Gospels were sold.

Miss Ferguson devotes four afternoons a week to house-to-house visiting and, on the whole, she has been well received. On the way to and from school there has been many an opportunity for a quiet talk with a group of women working in the fields or resting on their way to or from outside villages.

EDUCATIONAL.—There are now four schools under our charge in Vengurle. Miss Ferguson has special charge of the Gabhit and Mahar schools, Dr. Goheen of the Bhat, and Mrs. Goheen of the Parabh. But Miss Ferguson has been indefatigable in work in all the schools. Mr. Hannum opened schools only in the parts of the town where there was a real demand and need, and where there would be no conflict with the municipal schools. Our schools are all on the outskirts—one might say at the four corners—of the town, and so during these months of plague, when the municipal schools have been closed on account of their proximity to the bazar, our schools have gone on as usual. The schools were inspected by the Deputy Educational Inspector in January, and were all registered. The average attendance in the schools is as follows: Gabhit, 21, with 36 on the rolls; Parabh, 30, with 46 on the rolls; Mhaar, 4, with 6 on the rolls; Bhat, 43, with 57 on the rolls.

Recently Mr. R. G. Pandit, principal and manager of a private English or Anglo-vernacular school in the city, has urgently requested that our missionaries take over the management of his school. It counts 140 boys on the roll. When it was explained to him that that would mean Biblical instruction in each class, with perhaps a daily service, he made no objection. Although this offer was the result of the school's financial embarrassment, it is significant of the changed attitude of the Indian mind.

MEDICAL.—The dispensary was opened during the first week of February. The building, which was formerly used for that purpose by Mrs. Dr. Marshall, and which had, since her departure, been rented as a chapel and preaching hall, has been again put to its former use. It is unfortunately situated on the less frequented of the two bazar roads. The staff at first consisted of a Maratha boy, who for Rs. 1 per mensem brought water from a "Maratha" well and made himself generally useful; Tukeramji R. Kambale, whose report elsewhere indicates that he is our preacher and who has from the beginning served as clerk and has conducted a large majority of the services; and Dr. Goheen. After a fortnight or so, a compounder, Mrs. Marshall's former student and helper, Gangaramji Arolkar, was engaged, of whom the report states that he has proved very helpful not only as a pill-maker, but also as an interpreter of Konkani. This latter service is not to be lightly spoken of, for Konkani is a problem which seems to baffle Deccan Marathas quite as much as it does young missionaries, and is certainly as unintelligible as the cockney one hears in Mme. Tussaud's Wax Works.

At the end of April Vinayakrav O. Satralkar, having just completed his course in Miraj, came to assist in prescribing, in preaching, and in dressing of cases. In May, while the missionaries were away, he and the others kept the dispensary open.

A proper record of cases was not kept until April 1. During the six months (April 1 to September 30) 7,064 patients were treated. Of this number about sixty per cent. were men, twenty-five per cent. were women, and fifteen per cent. were children.

The prospect for the medical work is encouraging. Our own medical and surgical outfit is not adequate. The result is that many a poor surgical case has to be sent away without hope, or, what amounts to the same thing, he is advised to go to Miraj or Bombay, places as far distant in point of time as St. Louis and Chicago are from New York city, and to the poor quite as difficult of attainment.

A Government grant of eighteen acres and thirty-two gunthas of cantonment land for a compound for residence purposes, at a normal annual rental of As. 4 per acre, has opened the way for long delayed building operations, and greatly cheered the hearts of the workers. To this was added another grant of seven acres and seven and one-half gunthas of cantonment land. It comprises a valuable old cantonment. A new and long-hoped-for Mission bungalow will be built on one of these pieces of property and the old cantonment will be put in shape for use. These improvements will greatly strengthen the work.

VILLAGE SETTLEMENT.

The Village Settlement was transferred early in the year from Kasegaon to Islampur, and to the workers were added first Miss Rebentisch and then Miss Skilton and Miss Gauthey. The building operations are completed and a larger opportunity than ever is now open. During the plague, which lasted for several months, Miss Wilder was enabled to join in the relief work by distributing plague mixtures. She writes:

During bungalow building, workmen came repeatedly to morning prayers, also many villagers, "just to see." Many a personal conversation has been held on our veranda. Two old men came repeatedly and showed openness of heart to receive the message. I had prayed with them; there was some response from both. In a few days word came that both had died. These were among the first victims of plague which has since raged in our town with extreme severity. It has followed people taking refuge in chuppers, has continued four months and is still carrying off numbers.

MISSIONS IN JAPAN.

The Mission work in Japan during the year has not escaped from the unfavorable influence of the senseless talk in the sensational press in the two countries of the possibility of war between America and Japan. So strongly did the missionaries feel on the subject, that 110 of the most prominent male missionaries, representing more than twenty American organizations, issued the following resolutions:

While we, as missionaries, have nothing to do with questions of national economics and international politics, yet in matters affecting the mutual good-will of nations we, as messengers of God's universal Fatherhood and man's universal Brotherhood, are peculiarly interested, and, as Americans now residing in Japan, we feel bound to do all that is in our power to remove misunderstandings and suspicions which are tending to interrupt the long-standing friendship between this nation and our own.

Hence we, the undersigned, wish to bear testimony to the sobriety, sense of international justice, and freedom from aggressive designs exhibited by the great majority of the Japanese people, and to their faith in the traditional justice and equity of the United States. Moreover, we desire to place on record our profound appreciation of the kind treatment which we experience at the hands of both Government and people; our belief that the alleged "belligerent attitude" of the Japanese does not represent the real sentiments of the nation; and our ardent hope that local and spasmodic misunderstandings may not be allowed to affect in the slightest degree the natural and historic friendship of the two neighbors on opposite sides of the Pacific.

With entire confidence in the wisdom and justice of the Japanese and American Governments in dealing with the causes of irritation between citizens of the two countries, we earnestly pray that their efforts to maintain peace and good will may be supported by all patriotic citizens and may be crowned with success.

The other aspect of Japan's foreign relations which has had intimate bearings on Missions has been its occupation of Korea. Many missionaries and friends of Missions had a not unnatural desire, encouraged by the terms of the American treaty with Korea, to see whether, under the influence of Christianity, Korea could not work out an honorable and independent national destiny. The swing of external events, however, coupled with the hopeless corruption of the official classes, have indicated to almost everyone that Korea and independence was doomed. Dr. D. C. Greene, in "The Christian Movement in Japan," fifth issue, states the situation succinctly:

There has been undoubtedly much hardship in connection with the Japanese occupation; but it is maintained by many, some of them men more or less strongly opposed to the Japanese Government, that, speaking broadly, the Koreans are better governed than ever before, and that there has never been a time since the country became open to foreigners when life and property were so secure as they are to-day. That Korea is practically annexed to Japan may be conceded, but here as well as in Manchuria it is too early to expect the wheels of justice to move as regularly as in the purely Japanese portions of the Empire. Here, too, the situation has been complicated by the prominence of the military element in the administration, and under the most favorable circumstances military rule is unacceptable to those in civil life.

Prince Ito and his staff of officials have stated publicly their purpose to correct the abuses complained of as rapidly as possible, and to encourage those who have information regarding such abuses to place that information at the service of the Resident-General. In all this it may be safely asserted that the public sentiment of Japan will give the Resident-General the heartiest support.

Marquis Ito has done his best to establish justice and to promote righteousness in Korea.

Turning to domestic affairs, the ordinary expenditures of the Government have increased from yen 352,570,877 in 1906 to yen 412,154,163 in 1907; and the extraordinary expenditures have increased from yen 491,682,641 in 1906 to yen 611,393,118 in 1907. Taxation has been heavier than ever before. The criminal code was revised during the year. Exports have increased from yen 321,533,610 in 1905 to yen 423,754,892 in 1906; and the imports have decreased from yen 488,538,017 in 1905 to yen 418,784,108 in 1906. In 1905-6 95.62 per cent. of the boys and girls of school age had finished their so-called school duty, or were at that time in school.

The total number of Protestant communicants in the Empire is 54,352, as compared with 48,087 the year before. The total membership, including baptized children and probationers, 64,621. The Roman Catholics number 59,437 and the Russian Orthodox 29,573. The various Methodist bodies in Japan were united during the year under a Japanese Bishop.

The most engrossing subject before the attention of the Presbyterian Missions during the year was the subject of co-operation. Previous reports have given the history of this discussion up to the time of the adoption by the Synod of the Church of Christ, which met in Tokyo, October, 1906, of the definition of a co-operating Mission, as follows:

A co-operating Mission is one which recognizes the right of the Church of Christ in Japan to the general care of the evangelistic work done by the Mission, as a Mission, within the Church or in connection with it, and which carries on such work, under an arrangement based upon the foregoing principle, and concurred in by the Synod, acting through the Dendo Kyoku.

¶ The several Missions hitherto known as the Missions co-operating with the Church of Christ in Japan are cordially invited to formulate plans for co-operation in accord with the foregoing resolution, and approved by their respective home churches or Boards of Foreign Missions, and to confer with the Dendo Kyoku regarding them.

The West Japan Mission at once took up the matter, accepting the definition of the Synod, and submitting a plan to the Board in New York, in accordance therewith. The Board took the following action on January 7, 1907:

The Secretary in charge made a further report on the question of co-operation, and laid before the Board the plan of co-operation adopted by the West Japan Mission, which, in accordance with the action of the Synod of the Church of Christ, must receive the approval of the Board in America before its consideration by the Board of Home Missions of the Church of Christ. It was voted to approve of the action of the West Japan Mission in cordially accepting the definition of co-operation adopted by the Synod, and to approve of the plan of co-operation submitted by the Mission, with the understanding that if any changes are found to be necessary in the plan in order to bring the Mission and the Board of Home Missions of the Church of Christ into mutual and harmonious agreement, the question of making such changes is referred to the West Japan Mission with power.

After further conference between the Mission and the Dendo Kyoku (or Board of Home Missions) of the Synod, the following plan of co-operation was mutually agreed upon, and is now in operation:

1. Presbytery to elect a Board of Counselors for Mission evangelistic work of the same number as the number of missionaries, the number together with a representative appointed by the Dendo Kyoku to be the same as the number of missionaries.
2. The Board of Counselors, together with all the ordained missionaries, members of this Mission working within the bounds of the Presbytery, to constitute a joint committee for the administration of the evangelistic work of the Mission.
3. This joint committee to decide in regard to all the evangelistic work of the Mission within the bounds of the Presbytery, such matters as the opening and closing of evangelistic fields, the appointment and dismissal of evangelists, the fixing of salaries, the amount of aid to be given to Dendo Kyokwai, etc. The Committee may also make suggestions to the Mission concerning the supply and distribution of the evangelistic missionary force.
4. An annual meeting of this joint committee to be held in connection with the meeting of the Presbytery. At this meeting the work of the past year to be reviewed, and estimates for the work of the coming year made out and the work planned for. Thereafter any questions that may arise to be decided by the local missionary or missionaries in consultation with the Board of Counselors or a sub-committee of the same.
5. This plan of co-operation may be modified by the joint action of the Church of Christ in Japan and the Mission, according to the teachings of experience and the growth of the work. Should either party desire to terminate this arrangement, it may be done at any time upon a year's notice.

The question is still under consideration by the East Japan Mission. The Mission of the German Reformed Church has arranged a satisfactory plan with the Dendo Kyoku, and the four Boards in America representing the Dutch Reformed Church, the German Reformed Church, the Southern Presbyterian Church and the Northern Presbyterian Church, after conference, have adopted the following resolutions:

I. We rejoice in the strength and independence of the Church of Christ in Japan, and we are united in the hope that it will soon be able, with the other Churches in Japan, to take up the whole task of the evangelization of the country.

II. But in view of the unreached sections of the country and the great unevangelized multitudes, we cannot feel that the responsibility of the Churches of the West is as yet at an end.

III. We must, therefore, go on for the present with our work, as frequently requested by the Church of Christ in Japan, and we feel that we must go on in a real co-operation with the Church.

IV. We do not believe that it is possible to set forth now any ultimate theory of Mission co-operation, but we see nothing in the action of the Synod which should prevent the effort at co-operation on our part.

V. And we strongly recommend to our Boards the acceptance of the Synod's definition as a working theory, and ask the Boards to advise their Missions to prepare plans of co-operation adapted to the situation of each, and to submit such plans to the Dendo Kyoku after their approval by the Home Boards.

VI. We view with great regret any suggestion of the possibility of a division in the Church of Christ. We not only cannot lend our approval or support in any way to such suggestions, but we advise our Boards and missionaries to discountenance such proposals wherever they may originate.

The growth of the Church of Christ, with which the Missions co-operate, has been very encouraging. The total number of communicants reported is 14,569. There were 1,656 adults baptized during the year.

In his general review of the work of the East Japan Mission for the year, Dr. Thompson writes:

While only one or two in a thousand of the population of Japan are even nominally Christian, and while the remainder are indifferent or hostile, eager to prove that any one of their native religions or moral systems is as good as Christianity, or better, while also a good number of foreigners help them to this conclusion, for this purpose lending their names and the work of their reputations as scientific scholars, he would be an oversanguine missionary who would expect to meet only encouragement in his work. Besides embarrassing incidents and delicate situations may at any time be met with, which the ill-disposed will improve to accomplish their ends. Of late threatening clouds have appeared on our political horizon. The barometer is not yet steadily rising; a glance at the sky of the Orient is not reassuring. Some ten or fifteen years ago, when the first anti-foreign reaction set in, the word "do-bo" began to be commonly used. Some of us then surmised that the word did not mean fellow-man, but fellow-countryman. Such proved to be its meaning. Its use foretold a nationalistic movement—a reaction against the introduction of foreign things which was felt for years, and may be felt to-day. The use of this word was not a good omen. So now again. The daily papers now have apparently little foreign news of importance to record, except news about Oriental exclusion bills discussed in California, Canada, Africa and Australia. Also we hear of mobs and their acts of violence. No wonder it keeps a paternal government busy to keep the newspapers decently quiet. What storms may arise, or what dismal dreary weather may yet be experienced, if only the far-reaching race question is raised in the Orient, is hard to forecast. The "Yellow Peril" may never be a peril to Europe or America, but it may be one to the missionaries and their work here.

The political firmament is not without gleams of light, as if the clouds might break away. For example, the Japanese newspapers are remarking on the wonderful spread of Christianity in the protected country of Korea. On the 14th of this month, the Yomiuri Shimbun published an editorial in which the editor, with his doubtlessly accurate information, gives full credence to the reports coming from that land, and counsels the rulers of Japan, who are also the rulers of Korea, to take note of this fact, and utilize the Christian movement for the benefit of all the Koreans. And I may add, it will be, by reflex influence, for the benefit of Japan as well. Another fact of unusual interest is the appointment of Judge Watanabe, a zealous Christian and elder in our Church of Japan, to be the head of the newly established Supreme Court of Korea. This, taking place at the time when the laws of Korea are to be remodeled and rightly administered, is an event of the highest significance, promising only good to the people of Korea, and through them to China and the world, including Japan.

EASTERN JAPAN MISSION.

YOKOHAMA: on the bay, a few miles below Tokyo; Mission begun 1859.

TOKYO: the capital of Japan, on the Island of Hondo, at head of Bay of Yedo; Station occupied 1869. Missionaries—Rev. David Thompson, D.D., and Mrs. Thompson, Rev. William Imbrie, D.D., and Mrs. Imbrie, Mrs. J. M. McCauley, Rev. H. M. Landis and Mrs. Landis, Rev. Theodore M. MacNair and Mrs. MacNair, Mr. J. C. Ballagh and Mrs. Ballagh, Rev. A. K. Reischauer and Mrs. Reischauer, Miss Kate C. Youngman, Miss Annie B. West, Miss Elizabeth T. Milliken, Miss Lida S. Halsey, Miss Elizabeth R. Campbell, Miss Matilda H. London.

HOKKAIDO: Sapporo—Sapporo is the capital of the Hokkaido (Yezo), 350 miles north of Tokyo; Station occupied 1887. Missionaries—Miss S. C. Smith, Miss I. M. Ward, Miss Alice M. Monk. Otaru: 25 miles northwest of Sapporo—Miss C. H. Rose. Asahigawa: about 100 miles northeast of Sapporo—Rev. George P. Pierson and Mrs. Pierson, Rev. Weston T. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson.

IN THIS COUNTRY: J. C. Hepburn, M.D., Miss I. M. Ward.

On account of Mrs. Vaughn's health, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn returned to the United States in November, resigning their connection with the Mission; and Miss Wyckoff, who had been at home on furlough for some time on account of ill health, was reluctantly compelled to give up the idea of returning.

Of the work of the Mission in general, Dr. Thompson, who writes the Annual Mission Report, says:

Some of us at times have been cast down to notice the want of interest displayed by many professed Christians in our churches, resulting often in thin congregations; but, on the whole, all departments of work throughout all our wide field have been fairly prosperous. All the schools have been full, and instruction to young men and young women and children in boarding and day-schools have been faithfully given. Continual additions are made to churches and preaching places, and a number of churches have become financially independent on the system of co-operation hitherto followed. The very remarkable revival reported by Mr. and Mrs. Pierson, taking place as it did away off near the ends of the earth, in the latitude and beyond the prisons of cold Siberia, in the darkest spot in the extreme north of Japan, among the long-term prisoners and their keepers, is an event to rejoice the heart, worthy of record and likely to be long remembered. Verily, on them who sat in the region and shadow of death a great light then arose, illuminating and hope-inspiring to the prisoners and to us.

LEBANON CHURCH, TSUNOHAZIN, TOKYO, JAPAN.

The Lebanon Church, Tokyo, has become self-supporting. In a letter of thanks sent to the Board, signed by pastor and elders, it is stated : " From the faintest dawn of evangelistic work until now when it becomes an independent and self-sustaining church, this, our Lebanon Church, has been sustained by the earnest prayers and hearty sympathy of the Presbyterian missionaries. The love, so becoming, displayed by people of a different country and race, what is it but a miracle? We are surprised at the wonderful Providence of God and render thanks for this. Forever remembering this, we aim anew to preserve this peace and propagate the Gospel. This is the duty which our youthful island Empire owes to the world ; this, we believe, is our high calling in the Orient."

TOKYO.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Most of the members of the Station are actively engaged in some form of church and Sunday-school work. Dr. Thompson and Mr. McNair are the only ones having charge of any evangelistic work in the country, the former having six points under his care. One of the churches in which Dr. Thompson had worked became independent of direct Mission aid during the year, and addressed to the Mission and the Board a letter of thanks, beautifully engrossed, in Japanese, of which the following is a translation:

Half a centry ago our island empire, then sending up a faint cry in the extreme east, was like an infant that attracted the attention of and awakened the interest of the whole world. All nations lavished affection on this child. Among others, England instructed it in commerce and naval matters. France and Germany, one after the other, taught it laws and army organization. Russia taught it foreign intercourse and policy; and America imparted her educational system and the Gospel. At the first she sent Commodore Perry, who rendered signal service at the time of the empire's birth into the modern world.

This fortunate child thus grew up; and now, with laws and literature adorned, stands in an honorable position. To what is all this due but to the favor of the world? In particular America, that at first opened our closed door and diffused education, especially female education, and widely proclaimed the Gospel, has been our kind friend. Truly so. Our being intimate for many years with this friend has been like entertaining the angel of peace unawares.

Eminently the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. has during many years sent missionaries to our island empire, and expended her strength in works of charity, in education and evangelization. From the faintest dawn of evangelistic work until now, when it becomes an independent and self-sustaining Church, this, our Lebanon Church, has been sustained by the earnest prayers and hearty sympathy of these missionaries. The love, so becoming, thus displayed by people of a different country and race, what is it but a miracle? We are surprised at the wonderful providence of God and render thanks for this. Forever remembering this, we aim anew to preserve this peace and propagate the Gospel. This is the duty which our youthful island empire owes to the world; this we believe is our high calling in the Orient.

Praise the Lord! I will praise the Lord with my whole heart, in the assembly of the upright and in the congregation. The works of the Lord are great, sought out of all them that have pleasure therein. Ps. III : 1-2.

Respectfully, with thanks, for Lebanon Church, Tokyo, Japan:

GEORGE FUKUDA, Pastor,
S. OKAMI, Elder,
M. AWA, Elder,
F. MIZUMURA, Deacon,
T. KITAJINA, Deacon.

TO THE BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
IN THE U. S. A.

September 29, 1907.

One of the churches in which Mr. McNair had worked has also become financially independent; another is planning to be so from the coming Spring.

Mr. McNair has continued his important work on hymnology. Of the Union Hymnal, which he had a large part in preparing, 190,000 copies have already been printed. He was also active in the organization of the Sunday-school Association of Japan and in the preparation of its lesson helps.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The Meiji Gakuin Theological Department.—There are now twenty students in attendance in the Theological Department and nine pursuing the higher course in the Academic Department, in preparation for the Theological Department. There were seven graduates at the Commencement in June, all of whom are located and at work in Japan. Mr. L. H. Severance visited the institution during the year. Dr. Imbrie writes:

During the year the students have continued to carry on the preaching place and Sunday-school at Shi-no-Haski; and Dr. Ibuka has baptized eight persons as a result of the work done there. The teachers and students also took charge of the evangelistic services held last Spring at Ueno, at the time of the Exposition, for the week allotted to Meiji Gakuin; and that week is spoken of as one of the most fruitful in results.

Through the kindness of Mr. L. H. Severance a dormitory has been erected, which has been named after the donor Severance Hall. It is well built and attractive in its surroundings. The students are greatly pleased with it, and are now able to enjoy the benefits of their corporate life as never before. In accordance with the wishes of Mr. Severance, the building is occupied only by the theological students and those in the higher course of the Academic Department who are in preparation for the Theological Department. The dormitory is under the direct supervision of Mr. Hata, who was last year appointed a professor in the Theological Department; and already the great value of the gift to the institution is manifest.

The Southern Presbyterians have withdrawn from co-operation in the school, and have established a school of their own at the southern end of the island, at Kobe.

The Meiji Gakuin Academic Department.—Dr. Landis reports:

The Academic Department of the Meiji Gakuin consists of two departments—the Chugakubu (middle school) and the Kotobu (advanced department) of five and three years respectively. The year 1907 was a fairly prosperous year, the Chugakubu being full, many applicants to the higher classes having to be refused at the beginning of the school year last April—several hundred in fact—owing to the limited class-room accommodations.

The average attendance for the year has been about 400, of whom seventy-one have been church members. Twenty-two were added to the church during the year. Mr. Reischaer reports of his work in the department:

My interest centres around my Greek, Bible and Philosophy classes. Philosophy we introduced this past year, and the interest the students show is extraordinary. In other subjects the students do as well as can be expected under the absurd system under which most Mission schools in Japan are laboring. When a student has from twelve to fifteen subjects in one term it is unreasonable to expect good work. We shall have to do one of two things—either lengthen the term of study or make a number of the subjects optional.

The Joshi Gakuin.—The new building given by the Washington Presbyterial Society has been completed, and also the new Graham Dormitory, to take the place of the old one destroyed by fire. Miss Milliken reports:

Number of pupils	240
Number of Japanese teachers	20
Number of baptisms	7

Six Seniors graduated at the end of March. All went into some kind of educational or evangelistic work.

The members meet for Bible study and prayer on Sunday evenings. They raise money toward the support of a Sunday-school for poor children, and they hope to furnish a room in the "Students' Dormitory" shortly, to be erected by the Tokyo Y. W. C. A.

The Chinese and Korean girls on our roll infuse an amount of patriotism into their studies which wakens a feeling of friendly rivalry among their classmates. They have given to the school as much as they have received by imparting a certain cosmopolitan tone and by rubbing off some sharp corners.

The older girls have, as usual, taught in a number of Tokyo Sunday-schools. The Seniors and Juniors divide their efforts among the different churches. Those who have been helping in the Sunday-school and preaching service held in Deguchi San's house in Shinano-Machi, a very poor part of the city, were very happy when a little church was organized there, not yet self-supporting, but composed of earnest Christians.

Every Wednesday morning the general school prayer meeting is held in the chapel. This is an old custom. Teachers and girls alike take turns in leading, following an alphabetical list. As day-pupils as well as boarders are present, it is in some respects the most important meeting of the week. As a rule there are many ready to take part, so that the forty-five-minute period seems too short. A mother of a new little day-pupil quotes her daughter as saying: "I never want to be late at that meeting. There is always something beautiful there, some sweet music, some lovely story. We all feel quiet and happy in the presence of God. We all want to pray."

Mr. Severance also gave $5,000 for the much-needed new building for the Training School for Bible women, conducted by Mrs. McNair and Miss West, who also have charge of the Shinazawa Kindergarten, with about fifty children on the roll.

Of the two day-schools, known as Keimo No. 1 and No. 2, and of rescue work for young women, Mrs. McCauley, who returned to the field at the end of the year, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Reischauer having looked after the schools in her absence, reports:

The Keimo No. 1, Tsukiji, has a roll of 300 pupils, the higher class having thirty-six pupils, girls and boys fourteen years of age. These are all Christian Endeavorers, and are active in living up to their professions. On my return they came in a body to welcome me, and it made me very happy to hear their little prayers of thanksgiving for my safe return. The old building, that we have been trying so long to have repaired, in a late earthquake dropped off its porch floor, and as the foundation was all rotten, the roof slipped and leaks like a sieve. The Shiba School has an attendance of over a hundred, and the kindergarten is doing splendid work. The children in the kindergarten are from a better class than the children of primary grades, and many of the parents come to the Sunday-school as listeners and get the gist of the lesson. I cannot imagine a better evangelizing agency than a primary school and kindergarten. It is daily taking of the Gospel into the homes through little children.

In the six weeks since my return I have succored seven girls in the Rescue Home—girls tired of the eternal grind in the country were lured by reports of easy work and big wages to come to the city. They were wanderers, without a place to lay their heads. Our Bible woman found them and brought them to me. In many of these cases the girl had run away from home. We wrote to parents and guardians, and five of the seven parents came for them; and they were overwhelmed with joy to find them safely cared for, and said, "If this is Christianity, we want to know about it." The girls took Testaments and hymn books home with them, and being here for from ten days to two weeks received much instruction on foundation truths.

THE HOKKAIDO.

The Hokkaido is the island to the north, and the blessing of God has rested richly upon the work there.

EVANGELISTIC.—Mr. Pierson reports:

This year we have been witnesses of the power of prayer. For two years or so there has been held in our home every Friday night a prayer meeting for the special manifestation of the Holy Spirit. In answer to these prayers and to the prayers of many others in Japan and America, a remarkable exhibition of the power of the cross was witnessed, first in the Eastern Province of Tokachi, then in the Northern Province of Kitami, and finally and very recently in our own city. Through the spirit-filled preaching of our Asahigawa pastor, Rev. Sakamoto Naohiro, and latterly of Rev. Kimura Seimatsu in the Tokachi Penitentiary, the great majority of the 900 and more prisoners—long-term convicts—have been led to repentance, and over 100 prison officials have confessed Christ and been baptized. A church of our communion has been created in a day. In Kitami, a great awakening and a score of baptisms—this in a new community, the Gakudenchi, which is thus early taken for Christ. In Asahigawa recently, through the administration of Mr. Kimura, 100 decisions, of whom in our own church within a fortnight twenty-five received baptism. There remain as many more inquirers. New people are constantly calling at our home to ask about the teaching. We rejoice to report the baptism of eleven middle school boys among the twenty-five above mentioned; and there are more to follow. The solidity and genuineness of the country believers in our three large country stations, the thoughtfulness and maturity of the Christians impresses me. Just as the solidity of Japan is found in the villages, so the stability of our beloved Church lies in the country communions, I believe.

Our Ainu people have been moved to another part of the plain they inhabited, and live now in little Japanese houses arranged in rows, like a soldier colony, each house on its own little farm plot of good land. The Mayor cordially sanctions our building a Sunday-school and industrial building for them on a good plot he assigns us, central, and rented us at an almost nominal figure. We have the good will and affection of the women and children, and the respect of the young men and older people, and for all this we give thanks. Sunday-school regularly conducted and occasional visitation is the limit of our limited time and strength.

Our work for the soldiers in the Soldiers' Club has met with fair success, and our work for the officers about in the same ratio. Recently we have received an interesting request from one of the regiments to teach English and German at the officers' mess once a week. All things considered, we believe this is evangelistically worth while. During the year I have been enabled to complete the revision of the "Annotated New Testament," and to issue a new edition of "Selections" from the same.

The Otaru Church became self-supporting during the year, and forwarded to the Board a letter like that of the Lebanon Church. Mr. Johnson has rejoiced in this and the other helpful developments of the field. He writes:

At Muroran the outlook is very hopeful. The new $10,000,000 steel plant will employ 6,000 men. Already the men are at work leveling the land and filling the bay preparatory to erecting the buildings. In May, 1908, it is hoped that the framework for the buildings will have arrived from England, so that the work of erection may proceed uninterruptedly. A large breakwater and a pier are to be erected, and it is expected that Muroran will become a port of call for steamers plying between America and the Orient. It is asserted by men in position to know that Muroran will become the great city of the Hokkaido, surpassing Otaru as Otaru has surpassed Hakodate. The President of the steel works invited me to call on him last month, and asked me to move to Muroran and to carry on work among the officials and their wives, and among the workmen of this concern. He said the company was willing to erect a house for me, and that steps would be taken immediately to that end.

Of the Girls' School at Sapporo, Miss Smith reports:

When Evangelist Kimura was visiting the Hokkaido we invited him to speak to our girls, which he did with such good effect that more than eighty gave in their names as having determined to become Christians and sometime in the future to receive baptism. Of these about twenty attend the Presbyterian Church, twenty the other churches, and the remainder no church (day-pupils). These last we are using every effort to bring in, though the home opposition in many cases it is impossible to overcome. Of the former seven have already been received into our Church, and in January many more are expected to be.

Our School Flower Mission sent about the same number of bouquets to the hospitals as last year—2,900. Each one had a text attached.

A man released from the "Lockup" said he had been greatly impressed by our singing at morning and evening prayers. Though the words could not be heard, the place being too far, yet they all listened for the music and it caused them to think deeply. Col. Carter paid our girls the compliment of saying he could distinguish them from girls of other schools by their quiet, ladylike demeanor on the streets. We hope this may be true for all of them, for a year ago, when we were asked to make a rule requiring every girl to wear a uniform trimming on her skirt, as in the public schools, which should make her recognizable at once, we decided to let them do as they liked about it, urging them to make themselves known by character and manner, rather than by dress, as belonging to a Christian school.

We celebrated the Emperor's birthday on Monday this year instead of on Sunday, the actual day, and received a letter of censure for having honored God before the Emperor. The writer seemed to think that there could be no atonement for such a sin. There was some such talk in the Government offices also, and it was feared by a few that our school might be closed, but reason prevailed and we were not disturbed. We are glad, however, that it does not occur on Sunday again very soon.

In the Otaru Girls' School there have been fifty-five boarders, filling the school, and 100 in the Kindergarten department. Miss Rose reports:

Twenty girls live in our school and work for their board—we have no servants. This domestic department is very popular and always has applicants waiting at the door. To have daughters taught the useful arts of daily living appeals to parents.

This is the only Christian school in this dark*place.

Seven of our girls have been baptized during the year. Some of our graduates are married, others are teachers, nurses and kindergartners. All are in places of influence, and all are Christians.

Otaru is steeped in business and material things, and is greatly in need of spiritual influences. A Christian school is such an influence many breathe its atmosphere every day besides its pupils, for people are constantly coming in, especially with the kindergarten children, and these parents and friends often remain until the close of the daily session.

TSU: on west coast of Gulf of Ise, about 200 miles a little south of west of Tokyo. Missionaries—Rev. John E. Hail and Mrs. Hail.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. J. G. Dunlop and Mrs. Dunlop, Rev. J. B. Ayres and Mrs. Ayres, Miss Ida R. Luther, Rev. A. D. Hail, D.D. and Mrs. Hail.

The West Japan Mission is made up of the former West Japan Mission of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. and the Japan Mission of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. For some years the two Missions have been united in the work of the Wilmina Girls' School in Osaka, and having long co-operated jointly with the Church of Christ in Japan, and their members being on terms of intimate friendship, it was a simple matter for the two Missions to melt together on the union of the Churches at home. Two strong bodies of workers have thus come together in the new West Japan Mission. Dr. A. D. Hail and Dr. J. B. Hail were the senior missionaries of the Cumberland Church. A preliminary joint meeting of the two Missions was held in the Summer of 1906, and beginning on May 1, 1907, the work was consolidated.

The new missionaries sent out during the year were Miss Moore to the Cumberland Mission, and Miss Bigelow and Miss Maguet to the West Japan Mission. The Rev. J. P. Erdman and Mrs. Erdman and Miss L. E. Mayo resigned on account of the health of Mrs. Erdman and Miss Mayo and the special call which had come to Mr. Erdman to take up work among the Japanese in Hawaii.

In addition to the work at Dairen, work was opened at the close of the year among the Japanese at Port Arthur and in Korea, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan being assigned to Port Arthur and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis to Korea.

KANAZAWA STATION.

Mr. Fulton and four Japanese evangelists have carried on the evangelistic work of the Station. Mr. Fulton writes:

Immediately after the last Mission meeting a worker was located in Komatsu, so that our occupied Stations have been Toyama, Takaoka, Komatsu, Daishoji, and Kanazawa. In addition, the town of Kosugi is worked regularly from Takaoka.

In Daishoji, the old antipathy to Christianity still manifests itself here, and it is next to impossible to visit among the people in their homes. Still there are quite a number who desire to study Christianity, if they can accomplish their purpose unobserved. And recently at a special meeting in the chapel quite a large audience listened to the Gospel for over two hours, and then stayed another hour talking and asking questions. Also, at a special meeting in March, the town authorities lent the Town Hall without charge, and for two nights we had it packed with quiet and appreciative listeners. I visited the grammar school of Daishoji in February in the interests of our Girls' School, and, after a brief conversation with the Principal, he insisted that I should speak to the pupils. The Principal was very appreciative and urged us to come again.

In Komatsu, the work carried on has been largely among the students of the Middle School, though recently some interest begins to show itself among others also.

The Christian farmer near Kosugi maintains his interest in the work of that place, and is always ready to bear his testimony to Christ before the people. He made a trip specially to Osaka to hear and see General Booth, and came back overflowing with enthusiasm.

In Kanazawa, the work is in good condition. The two churches have had their troubles, and have come through them with increased faith and power. The present pastors are harmonious, and apparently the Christians at both churches are upholding their hands and working vigorously to develop their resources and to reach and bring in those on the outside.

By way of numerical results, the following is the record: Toyama, baptisms, four—all young men. Kosugi, three children baptized. Takaoka, three baptisms, one young man, one man of middle age, and one woman. Kanazawa, Tonomachi, thirteen baptisms, of whom one was an old man nearly seventy, two were Middle School students, and the rest from the Girls' School. Ishiuramachi Church has had twenty-two baptisms; of this number nine were young men, one a married woman, and twelve girls.

I have continued the publication of the Yako throughout the year. Its present issue is 1,300 copies. More and more the results of its work are becoming manifest.

Kindergarten and Woman's Work.—Mrs. Fulton reports:

The work in my care the past year has been the Kanazawa Kindergarten, the Kobatsuno Sunday-school, the Kindergarten Mothers' Club, the Toyama Cooking Class, two English classes for girls from the Government schools, and, finally, classes in all the English branches for the children of our own family.

The Kindergarten children now number sixty, an increase of ten over previous years. All the pupils are from good families. One little boy is the son of a Buddhist priest. When asked why he chose to send his boy to us, rather than to a Buddhist kindergarten in another part of the city, he replied, that his sect was entirely different from the sect connected with that other kindergarten, and that he much preferred Christianity to that other sect.

Connected with the kindergarten and growing out of it is the Mothers' Club. This was begun over three years ago as a cooking class. Cooking is still continued as a department, and sewing has been added, which at present seems very much enjoyed. The study of the Life of Christ has been begun this Spring, and many say they desire to continue it. Then talks on various subjects are given each month, so that all may be benefited.

Hokuriku Girls' School.—Miss Johnston writes:

We were very much disappointed this Spring in having a much smaller entering class than we expected. We have 150 names on the roll, but this is twelve less than we had last year at this time. We have been very much pleased by having so many of our graduates come back for post-graduate work. We had seventeen graduates and seven of them are back at school.

Since November twenty-four of our girls have been baptized.

Our Christian Endeavor Society has now forty-six members.

The opposition to Christianity is very great in Kanazawa. Two of the girls told us that their parents had told them, that if they were baptized they could never return home. One little girl, fourteen years old, was baptized. When she returned home, her Bible and hymn-book were torn to pieces, and she was sent to another school.

Our Young Women's Christian Temperance Union has now fifty-six members.

OSAKA STATION.

The fields and preaching places under Dr. Murray's care, including some of Dr. A. D. Hail's when he went on furlough, were twenty-two in all, besides the work of the evangelists' training school, where five new students have entered, the highest number enrolled being twenty-nine.

Ten points in Osaka and the Provinces of Settsu and Izumi have been under Mr. Van Horn's care. Of Itami, in Settsu, Mr. Van Horn reports:

At Itami we have a number of Christians, including recent baptisms, fourteen in all. This place was worked from "way back" by the Kumiai churches from Osaka. After a time they gave it up as an impossible field for more inviting ones. In a few years we undertook it. It was raw heathen ground as far as the Gospel was concerned. Often I returned home from the meetings discouraged and disgusted, feeling I had made my last trip. But somehow, when the time would come around, from force of habit, perhaps, I would go again to repeat the same experience. Often the thought would force itself upon me, "What are you coming here for?" For years the only Christians we saw in the place was a transient one now and then, that moved on to more congenial surroundings as soon as possible. At last the good Lord won the victory for us, and rewarded our efforts with eight converts last year and four this. In passing I must say, while I have had very little faith in teaching English as an adjunct to Gospel work, this place, Itami, was opened to the message through an English class, and our most faithful Christians came out of that class. If one were to go into our chapel here, he would not be very enthusiastically impressed with the meeting of the little flock; but if he had gone through my experience, he would praise the Lord for even these few earnest souls. When a work is once opened, I believe in staying by it. Many a victory has been won by men who did not know they were defeated.

Wilmina School.—Miss Morgan writes:

The new building was started in January, and we began using the four class-rooms upstairs in April, though yet unfinished. Downstairs there is a chapel about forty-four feet square, and a Y. W. C. A. reading-room 27 x 44 opening into it.

There were seventy church members among the pupils. Of the sixteen graduates only two were not baptized, and they because their parents refused consent. Of the forty-one in the class below, thirty-one were in the church and others preparing. There are still some parents who do not wish their daughters to join the church.

The school has supplied teachers for work in fifteen children's Sunday-schools, none of them in Osaka, six in near-by towns, touching about 1,000 children in the course of a year's work, several hundreds regularly. The Sunday-school held in our building is the largest, or was until recently. We have just undertaken to supply teachers for a Sunday-school in an orphanage just outside city limits on our side of the city, and there we have a very regular attendance of about 200 children. The teachers for these Sunday-schools attend a Normal Class each week. We carry on two courses, Miss Alexander teaching one, Miss Morgan the other. There are about forty-five girls in these two Normal Classes, some not yet teaching but preparing for future work.

Woman's Work.—All the women of the Station, whatever their other duties, have participated in the evangelistic work. Miss Garvin reports:

Tamba Province.—Woman's work has been carried on in seven towns and one village. Regular meetings were held throughout the year in four of the towns, i.e., Sasayama, Kaibara, Narimatsu, and Shingo, and occasional meetings in Furiuchi, Kuroi, and Iso.

In the town of Shingo, the wives and daughters of the two leading families are earnest Christians. One of these women, a widow, has at her own expense rented a house opposite her home for preaching services. At Narimatsu, where services have long been held in the home of a devout jinrikisha-man, a better house is to be rented and the Bible woman is to remove there from Kaibara. At Kaibara, a cooking class started by the Bible woman has brought out a number of women that we failed to reach before.

A good deal of the Bible work of the year has been done in the homes. There is a greatly increasing number of women who, though they do not and cannot attend meetings, yet are glad and often eager to receive Christian teaching. It has been a surprise and gratification to notice how many of such families now possess Testaments.

In one of the Tamba towns I induced two book-dealers to let me add to their stock a lot of Testaments. Of course they are allowed a profit on the books, which are supplied to me by the Bible House at cost. There will be no difficulty in making similar arrangements with book-dealers in the other towns of that neighborhood.

Mrs. Van Horn writes:

A large part of my work cannot be reported on paper, since it consists in lying awake at night making plans, many of which are not carried out successfully. I think, also, I may not be presumptuous if I claim an interest in some of the men who have been baptized, since I have helped to teach them, and in other ways have brought them within hearing of the Gospel.

Miss Ransom writes:

My observation of the work during the past year, both in the school and out of it, has convinced me that the Spirit of God has worked mightily upon the hearts of the people, and that among the Christians there has been a deeper sense of responsibility toward those out of Christ. Especially has this, I think, been indicated by the number of prayer circles organized, and other movements for personal work.

HIROSHIMA STATION.

Dr. Langsdorf reports:

Strictly speaking, about one-half of the Hiroshima Ken and one Gun of the Yamaguchi Ken constitute the "Hiroshima field," but the whole area covered is about 1,300 miles, with a population of over 1,000,000 souls. Chapels are located in the cities of Hiroshima and Iwakuni, population over 135,000 and 15,000 respectively, but the Gospel is carried to many other towns and villages.

The work connected with the Hiroshima preaching place has greatly prospered. During the past year there have been twenty-three baptisms and there are nine or ten inquirers.

In the Hiroshima Chapel I am making the experiment of having the Christians govern themselves as much as possible. All of its thirty-one members have been gathered in that time (two years) and we can see that some progress has been made. Of the number baptized, two were from my mother's class, five from one of Mrs. Langsdorf's classes, two were from Miss Cooper's, two from one of our Bible woman's classes, four from one of my classes, two were our own servants, and one the infant mentioned above. There were four baptisms in Iwakuni.

The three Sabbath-schools are in a very flourishing condition. The attendance is about 220.

My German Bible class, composed of physicians, Higher Normal College and Normal School teachers, is an exceedingly interesting one, although none of them have yet confessed Christ. One of last year's German Bible class, a son of the priest in charge of the temple at Miyajima, now a student in the Medical College in Kyoto, has written to me that he hopes soon to be baptized.

We have two young men's societies, one in Iwakuni and the other in Hiroshima. This year the organization in connection with our Hiroshima chapel is in a very flourishing condition. The name which the young men chose for themselves is "The Immanuel Society," and it is clearly stated in the rules which govern them that the purpose for which they have banded themselves together is to win souls for Christ. What is especially pleasing to me is, that the name and the expression of the purpose came entirely from them. No one can become a member who will not promise to do evangelistic work.

The Fukuin Geppo (Gospel Message) seems to be getting a stronger hold than ever upon the readers. If we can judge from the letters and cards of inquiry received, many are being led in this way into a knowledge of the way of salvation. The regular monthly issue is 1,500 copies.

During the past year, I have made a special effort to reach the people of the hinterland and among the mountains. I have often gone on my bicycle, and, as my cyclometer shows, have ridden over 900 miles. At other times I have gone by jinrikshika or boat, and on one occasion was compelled to walk about twenty miles over a narrow, rough mountain path which wore out shoes and straw sandals. On some of these trips of two or three days we talked to 700 or 800 people each time and failed to find one who had ever heard of Christ. In a bicycle ride of only thirteen miles from this city on the way to Miyajima, out of fifty-five persons, I failed to find more than one, and he a policeman, who had ever heard of Christ. The same thing happened on two other days only ten to twelve miles from Hiroshima. Out of thirty-five and thirty-eight respectively, with the exception of one school-boy, not one had ever heard of Christ.

Several weeks ago, our city evangelist and I made another evangelistic trip into the country, and I feel that in the opportunity which we had of presenting the Gospel to more than 1,500 people we were greatly prospered. This was especially so on the last night, when for more than two hours, in a theatre, more than 700 people listened attentively to the preaching of the Word.

Mrs. Langsdorf and Miss Cooper have carried on the Work for Women, and Miss Cooper had a Sabbath-school in her home averaging forty-two pupils. The work was naturally opposed by the Buddhist priests.

KYOTO STATION.

Mr. Gorbold has continued his work for students. Mrs. Gorbold has cared for the kindergartens and Sunday-schools. She writes:

We have had six teachers for the Nishijin Sunday-school, and sometimes it seems we are quite reduced to order and system, when a new lot of children come and we suddenly find ourselves in chaos again. More than 300 children have come in since Christmas, but the average attendance is about one-third that number. The number of grown people who wander in is increasing, and they seem inclined to stay longer as they find out what a Sunday-school is.

YAMAGUCHI STATION.

Mr. Erdman reported on the work before leaving the field:

At present there are: Out-stations, 8; pastors, 1; evangelists, 5; baptisms during eight months, 26. Missionary in charge has made twenty-seven regular visits to these out-stations, and, in addition, five or six extra visits for special sodan with the evangelists.

The most discouraging feature of the period was the unprecedented exodus of Christians from Hagi. Six months ago there was a company of over twenty Christians. Now there are only five; the others have moved elsewhere. Among those who have gone are the elder and his wife, who were the mainstays of the work.

The development of the work at Yanai is another item of interest. In January I had the privilege of baptizing four there. Three were of one family—father, mother, and son; the fourth a Shogakko teacher and a fine young man, who had learned most of his knowledge of Christ while in the Yamaguchi Normal School. At that same time we had a big Ensetsukwai in one of the theatres. The Christians of the place paid all the expenses of renting the theatre and advertising, a praiseworthy feature. It was a bitter cold night, but over 500 people gathered and listened to four straight Gospel talks. We had no side-show attractions, such as stereopticon or phonograph; it was a plain and simple Christian lecture meeting. The Christians were surprised and delighted with the result. Japan is ready to listen these days.

Miss Wells was transferred from Matsuyama to Yamaguchi to help in the evangelistic and woman's work. She writes:

The factory work at Yanai is very promising. One head of the factory is a Christian, and whenever the evangelist from Tokuyama is able to go there, the factory is closed half an hour earlier than usual to give the girls and women the opportunity of hearing a Christian talk. This was also done when we went there.

The Yamaguchi Church's Women's Society is doing nicely. Miss Bigelow's cooking class fell to my share of the work. One newcomer said, after she had heard four of the Bible talks which follow our cooking class lesson, "That is what my heart needs. How can I be a Christian?" She is now under instruction and we hope she will be able to be baptized soon. Some of the women attended special meetings held in Yamaguchi in the Spring. One of the Christian women of the church was ill in the hospital for several weeks, and as a result of her bright, cheery witnessing for Christ two patients and some of the nurses have become interested and say they want a faith like hers, which will keep them from fear when death comes to them.

Kojo Jo Gakuin.—Miss Bigelow reports seventy-four pupils registered in the Girls' School. Two graduated in March. Among the pupils registered this year there were twenty-one Christians. There was a strike during the year on the part of some of the pupils because they did not understand arithmetic and algebra and did not like the management of the boarding department, but the strike was broken and at no time interrupted the work of the school.

FUKUI STATION.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis looked after the work in Fukui after their return from furlough until their transfer to Korea and the return of Mr. and Mrs. Dunlop. Mr. Dunlop has been invited to give a third of his time to the work of the Sunday-school Union which has been organized in Japan, devoting the balance to the work which he had done so much to develop in Fukui. He writes of the great need of a chapel, which, however, instead of locating in the Samurai section of the town, as he had at first contemplated, he wishes to retain among the merchants and working people. He writes:

I spoke of the desirability of keeping in the heart of the city. You will be glad to hear that we are getting past the time when only the impoverished Samurai were open to the claims of the Gospel. If you look for the source of the financial weakness and the unsatisfactory history of the Church in Japan in regard to relations to the missionary body, you will find that one fact explains both. It has been the poor but proud Samurai who have filled the churches and the ministry. They have been to us a strength and a weakness, our pride and our torment. The Heimin, or plebeian population, have been too ignorant and superstitious, too much under the domination of their Buddhist priests and their Shinto schoolmasters, to open the ear to the Word. But we are at last getting at the Heimin, and there are better days ahead. We shall never have substantial, steady churches till they are made up less of Samurai officials, army and navy men, teachers, and students, and more of plain farmers, business men and workmen. And there is a stronger tendency now on the part of these classes to come into the Church. It is for this reason that it would be now a retreat to draw out from the strategic place we have in the centre of the city and build a church, say, on this residence lot on the edge of the Samurai part of the town, as I for some time thought of doing. We must stay where we are, or as near that place as possible.

MATSUYAMA STATION.

The transfer of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan and Miss Wells leaves Matsuyama without a missionary. Mr. Bryan writes in his last report from the Station:

The most hopeful thing to report is the fact that the few Christians living in Kamibun (there are twenty-six on the roll, but only eighteen are resident) raised 350 yen, bought an old building, and turned half of it into a church and the other half into a parsonage.

The work in Matsuyama has not only held its own, but there has been a slow growth along some lines. There have been more of the Christians to help in the Sunday-schools in both Matsuyama and in Dogo. The teacher of English in the Government Higher Girls' School has been a regular attendant on all the services, and has played the organ, thus being a great help. But she leaves to be married in the Fall. So great has been her quiet, Christian influence in the school that the Principal has asked her to secure some Christian teacher, if possible, to take her place. Our Sunday-school in Dogo has been greatly helped by three earnest Christian students of the Normal School, who have gone each Sunday to help in the Sunday-school after the morning service, thus limiting their time for play, as Sunday is the only school holiday. While the Christians in Matsuyama are paying nothing on the pastor's salary, they are laying aside what money they can raise for the new church building, and have now 150 yen on deposit. When last Spring there were special evangelistic services with two speakers from abroad, I wondered how much money they would ask from the Mission, but, without asking a cent, all the expenses were met by voluntary contributions, each one doing his or her share in a willing spirit.

I asked the Christians in both Ozu and Kamibun to pay the expenses of the pastor in Matsuyama to visit their fields to baptize and administer the Holy Communion, and in both places they have cordially consented to this arrangement. While there is nothing great in all this, I hope it will pave the way for larger things in the future and help in final and full self-support.

SHIMONOSEKI STATION.

The severe illness of Mrs. Jones has kept Mr. Jones away from the Shimonoseki region most of the year. He writes:

Of the churches in the region of the Straits, Moji is easily first. Rev. Toketomo Hirayama, the efficient pastor, has baptized twenty or more during the year, and audiences have increased about fifty per cent. as compared with statistics for last year. As a consequence the present building is far too small, and efforts are being made to secure more commodious, permanent quarters. The Sunday-school, prayer meeting and women's meeting, as well as the regular preaching services, are in a prosperous condition, and the church is a power for good in that commercially successful but spiritually destitute city. The bookseller, in whose store Mr. Ayres deposited Scriptures for sale, has found the demand sufficient to make him willing to purchase the stock in hand and carry the book entirely on his own responsibility.

In my two years' connection with the work in this region, there has been no time when opportunity for the missionary to help the organized churches seemed as great as at present. . . . Both the church at Shimonoseki, and especially the church at Moji, though quite able to take care of themselves, have all along been cordial in their attitude toward us.

KURE STATION.

With the new chapel, built by the generous gifts of the First Presbyterian Church of Williamsport, the Station has been much better equipped for its work. Conditions have not been wholly favorable, however. Still, there have been nineteen baptisms. Mr. Brokaw writes:

During the latter half of the year, I have carried on an English class by a method which seems to satisfy the young men, and which gives me the most satisfaction that I have experienced in that line. I teach English thirty to forty minutes, then Gospel hymns for fifteen minutes, and then give the Bible lesson in Japanese for the balance of the hour and a half. I hold this class twice a week. The young men come more regularly, and seem better satisfied. As in the past, I use my loan library of Christian books with these young men.

According to the boundaries of the Station, there are nearly a million souls to be evangelized.

Mrs. Brokaw writes:

The work among the women in the homes is very inviting. As so many of the officers' wives are left here to "rusuban" (act as caretakers) while their husbands are away, it opens up splendid opportunities for direct, personal Bible work.

DAIREN STATION.

The work here has opened wonderfully under the care of Mr. and Mrs. Winn. The Japanese have been most cordial in their attitude and left nothing undone which they could do to make Mr. and Mrs. Winn comfortable, and to help in the work. It will be remembered that Mr. Winn is in Dairen or Dalny at the invitation of the Japanese, acting for the present as pastor of the church, as well as carrying on general missionary work. He writes:

The people with whom we are associated seem to have more initiative and far more financial independence than those found in most churches in the "Main Land." They attempt things which I would not think of attempting. The result of my observations is that, as far as Dairen is concerned, I believe we have the opportunity of keeping from the use of money, except that which may be termed the "personal expenditures" of the missionary. It is with this in view that we have decided to leave all other items out of our estimates. We have decided to make trial of having a missionary station whose operations shall be entirely free from money obligations to the Japanese Church. In other words, we shall give them ourselves and not ours. The position in which we have been, and are, is most delightful.

It has been a time of unusual happiness in preaching the Gospel. I never experienced more blessedness in this blessed work than during the period under review. It has been a growing surprise and reason for gladness as I have looked into the faces of the large audiences which gather Sabbath after Sabbath at the meetings which I statedly address.

The church building has cost about yen 20,000. The "Kwaitung Government" has given a free lease of the land where the church stands. It also turned over for use in the erection of the building the contents of a warehouse on the lot, which consisted of lumber and cement in abundance for the purpose. It also contributed yen 3,000 in cash. Two men, one a Christian, gave all the bricks. Through the efforts of the Christians about yen 3,000 have been subscribed.

The "Mitsui Family" was induced by the man in charge of their business in Dairen to give yen 500 to this church building fund. It is the only gift that family has ever been known to give to direct Christian work.

Mrs. Winn reports:

We have the same truth to tell and the same God to help us tell it, but the Japanese are different from their fellow countrymen in Japan. In the first place, the climate seems to give them new energy; then they all look upon it as a real hardship to leave beautiful Japan for barren Manchuria, and seem to think that it is harder for us than for themselves, which is not true, and so are drawn toward us as fellow-sufferers. Then, too, they are away from former restraints and can listen with utmost freedom, if they care to; if not, they are led by the same freedom into greater depths of sin than even they have known before. Others are lonely and homesick and are glad of anything in the shape of a diversion; and so they come to us.

We certainly have greater opportunities than ever before to reach all classes of society. We are on friendly terms with the highest officers in the city, and yet have frequent calls from the poor and afflicted. One in whom we are much interested at present is a man just out of prison, who looks to Christianity for help in his effort to reform. The people seem to believe, as never before, that we are out here simply for the sake of trying to do them good, and are the more ready to hear what we have to say; yet I would not give you the impression that we work without opposition.

Much of my work is of a sort that cannot well be mentioned in a report, but every day has brought as many demands on my time and strength as I could attend to. I have had flourishing cooking lessons twice per month at Port Arthur, as well as at Dairen, and a class three times a week in our commercial school for young men, in which I have taught the Bible and given some lessons in physiology. I have also had charge of our Sunday-school of about seventy children, for which we now have some good teachers, I am happy to say. Several times a week I have had a class of girls from the telephone office to study the Bible, and two of them have already united with the church, and others hope to profess their faith when we return. Most of the time I have had the privilege of going to the homes of some of the highest officials to teach the Bible twice per week. Then the Christian Charity Hospital has claimed much time and thought, and I have made an effort to introduce a warm undergarment for the women to wear during our cold winter weather, and expect to make more progress in the reform before Winter comes.

The Christians of Dairen are ambitious to get all varieties of Christian work started. Besides the hospital and night-school and rescue work already in operation, they have expressed the wish very emphatically that I should open and take charge of a school for girls and a kindergarten; and since I played at a concert, I was promptly invited to be at the head of a conservatory of music.

Besides these larger requests, there are many smaller ones constantly coming in, which show that missionaries are still expected to be "all things to all men." If there is to be a funeral, I am called upon to direct and assist in covering the coffin with cloth in foreign style. If anyone wants a foreign garment for themselves or their children, they come to me for help. If anyone is going to entertain guests, they come to me for instruction—how to serve in foreign style, or how to make some variety of foreign food.

WAKAYAMA STATION.

The Wakayama field is on the southeastern sea coast of the main island of the Japan group. Dr. J. B. Hail writes:

The work in the Wakayama field extends to places in six out of the seven counties of the Ken. Wayakama Ken has a population of 725,998 persons living in 125,834 houses. In the northwest is Ito County, having a population of 72,512. We have no work in this county. It has eight towns of over 4,000 inhabitants. The Buddhists have 311 temples with 137 priests. Shintoists have 719 shrines and 15 priests. Next on the west of Ito is Naka County with 100,826 inhabitants. Mr. S. Suzuki is at work in this county, and was assisted last Summer by Mr. Kodama. Mr. Suzuki visits eight villages, some of them weekly and some of them once in two weeks. The entire population of these eight villages is 30,950. Mr. Suzuki has gathered forty-two Christians in all, seventeen of whom have been baptized in the last year. There are nine earnest inquirers in the field. In one of these towns, the Mayor and all the teachers in the public schools are Christians and our meetings are held in the schoolhouse. In another village the Honke (this is a word made up of Hon, meaning root, origin, foundation, and Ke, house, and means the stock or root family from which all the branches originate. This is the first instance I have known of a Honke being converted) has become Christian. This family gives the Christians the use of its house for their meetings.

In this county there are 26 Shinto priests, 1,374 shrines. The Buddhists have 310 temples and 99 priests.

Kaiso County is in the northwestern corner of the Ken. It has a population of 135,674. In this county we have four centres of work. In two of these places we have organized churches, viz., in the city of Wakayama and the town of Hikata.

Hikata and the two adjoining towns have a population of about 13,000. Here is the Aivin Church. This church has never had a pastor or evangelist. The work of the church has been carried on by the church Session and the Christians. When I am in Wakayama I visit and preach to the people every Sunday night. This church reports twenty-two adult and one infant baptisms during the year.

The four places in which we have work in this county have a combined population of 87,000 inhabitants. There are still six other towns in the county, having a population of over 4,000 inhabitants each, untouched although within easy reach. In this county there are 389 Buddhist temples, 239 priests. Shinto has 1,028 shrines and 57 priests.

Arida County, south of Kaiso, has a population of 75,807.

The whole number of Christians in the county is nine. There are 90 Buddhist priests, 179 temples, 24 Shinto priests and 719 shrines.

Hidaka County is south of Arida. It has a population of 99,576 inhabitants. In this county we have work in three places. The Buddhists have 172 temples and 123 priests, the Shintoists 841 shrines and 27 priests in this county.

Nishi Muro County lies south of Hidaka and has a population of 97,253. There are 106 names on the church roll. During the year there have been twenty-two adult and two infant baptisms. The congregation has rebuilt its church house during the year. The church raised for all purposes during the year 678 yen.

The Buddhists have 112 temples and 78 priests; the Shintoists have 541 shrines and 32 priests in this county.

The year has been one of faithful and persistent hard work on the part of our fellow-laborers, the native pastors and evangelist and Bible women. Amid strong temptations to better pay and good positions, and in opposition to the advice and wishes of friends and relations, they have held on their way preaching Christ. The results have not been all that we desired, but have been very encouraging. When we reflect, however, that there are only two ordained native ministers and four evangelists of our Church and three evangelists of the Episcopal Church in this whole field; and that there are 910 Buddhist priests and 1,701 temples, together with 5,836 Shinto shrines with 204 priests; and further, that there are about 700 Christians all told in a population of 725,998, not quite one in a thousand, we feel like saying, "The harvest truly is great and the laborers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest to thrust out more laborers into His harvest."

TANABE STATION.

Miss Leavitt and Miss Robertson have been in the Tanabe Station, the former for more than ten years. Tanabe is seventy miles from Wakayama, on the southern coast of Kii Province. The church has just celebrated the twentieth anniversary of its dedication by rebuilding its house of worship and adding to it. Miss Leavitt writes:

It is a quiet but growing country place of something over 10,000 people, most of its connection with the outside world being by steamer, about eighteen hours' ride, from Osaka. As for our people there, whatever their lack may be in other directions, it is not in cordiality to the missionaries who are fortunate enough to be located there.

The Sunday-schools are our chief delight, and they have found great favor with the merchant class, who have been hard to reach. The school in the church crowds it full with a regular attendance of nearly 150 pupils from kindergarten age up to graduates of the Middle School. These are taught in seven classes.

In my own home about fifty girls meet on Monday evenings for lessons in knitting and fancy work, paying three sen a month tuition, which goes to Sunday-school work or charity. They have a hymn, a little talk and prayer each time. This class has been a good feeder for the Sunday-school.

The women of the church, with a few outsiders, have had a W. C. T. U. organization for two or three years, which was never very flourishing except at "shimbohakai" (social meetings), but in the past year this has been merged into a cooking class with a religious talk attachment.

At the request of the Mission and Mr. Hereford, to whose field the work in Shingu has lately been added, I made two visits to that church since last Mission meeting. The first was in November in company with Miss Moore (just arrived and located with me), Miss Robertson, and my helper. It is three days' walk over the mountains, from twelve to twenty miles each day; but it was refreshing, at the end of each day's hard tramp through the rain, to find a number of people willing to hear of our Father and our Saviour. The last day was an easy journey by boat down the rapid river to Shingu, the outlet for the coal and lumber business so much in evidence in that region. I wish I could make plain to you the hungry eagerness of the people there for someone to come and help them, but that belongs to the report of those responsible for the field. I had spent several years there before my first furlough, and the place has a very warm corner in my heart. During our visit we were all busy night and day, encouraging, admonishing, teaching; and when we had to go back, after a week's work, several women followed us so far on our way and let us go so reluctantly that we did not get to our next stopping-place, Teruma, in time to arrange for a meeting that night.

On our trip this Spring, we had to go to Shingu by steamer, as an epidemic of small-pox in this village along the mountain road had prevented our visiting them. Only my helper was with me. The trip down was pleasant, so I had an opportunity for conversation with three people on deck—a woman who had heard the Gospel in Kure, a deck-hand who had been given a Bible by some friend, and a school-teacher from Kushimoto whom I had taught eighteen years ago in Wakayama and who became a Christian last month. And the five days we spent in Shingu were filled literally every moment which we were not sleeping, even at meal time, talking to friends, old and new, who came to go with us to visit people whom they wished to lead to Christ. I had told them I had come to work with them, not for them, this time. They were much encouraged by the prospect of a pastor evangelist's coming. Four of the young men were carrying on a Sunday-school of over a hundred children.

YAMADA STATION.

Mr. Hereford writes:

Our field extends 175 miles around the coast to the south and ten miles to the north. No other Mission, missionary or denomination visits or even touches this field. It is abandoned to the Presbyterians, and if we do not give them the Gospel their chances of hearing it soon are very poor. Some villages of 5,000 we do not visit. We have not the men, and we have not the money to let the men we have travel at all extensively.

The work in Yamada is hopeful but hard. Since January there have been thirteen baptisms here.

Bible agents have visited Yamada several times during the year and have always done well. Recently a man and his wife came here, rented rooms and visited every house in the city, rich and poor. As a result of their canvass they sold more than 8,000 Bibles, Testaments and portions of Scripture in Yamada and vicinity.

To show the decline of Shintoism, I'll give some statistics taken from a report made by the president of the Yamada Middle School. Last year there were 100 pupils in the Middle School who believed in the Shinto religion. There were forty-seven in the first-year class, thirty-one in the second-year class, eleven in the third-year class, eight in the fourth-year class, and only three in the fifth-year class. Half the school had no religious belief, and most of these were among the advanced classes.

The work at Toba and throughout the Shima country is very promising. There have been twelve baptisms at Toba, five at Isobe, and three at Hamajima. The three baptisms at Hamajima are the first and only baptisms that I have ever performed at a place that was not visited as often as once per week by a missionary or an evangelist.

If other people's statistics are like mine, it certainly pays to travel much and often if we are to have results.

The visible gathered results of the year are forty-seven baptisms and a Middle School teacher who was baptized thirteen years ago, but who had not told any one that he was a Christian since that time until January of this year, when he confessed and united with the church.

Miss Riker has helped in the English classes, the Sunday-schools, woman's work, and has been eager to start a kindergarten, for which there was money enough in hand given by the Cumberland Church to begin, but continuance of which could not be assured.

TSU STATION.

Of the work in this field, with headquarters at Tsu, the Rev. John E. Hail reports:

Ueno is a town of 20,000 inhabitants, the county seat of Iga Kuni, a small province containing about 160,000 inhabitants. Here we have a small chapel and a few Christians.

Near Ueno is Nabari, a town of about 10,000 inhabitants, where, in February of this year, a visit was made and three days were spent in holding meetings. We were well received, although this was the first time that the Christian message had ever been proclaimed in this place.

Kameyama is a railroad junction containing about 16,000 inhabitants. Here is located the Prefectural Woman's Normal School. Six years ago we could not rent a place here for love or influence or money—a place, that is, in which to hold Christian services. During this past year I have baptized a dozen of the townspeople. Our total membership here is twenty-three now.

Yokkaichi is a foreign seaport of some 45,000 inhabitants. It is growing with great rapidity, being the seaport of Nagoya, the Nakasendo country, and the country around the Owari Bay. In April, 1907, Mr. Yoshikawa, a graduate of the Meiji Gakuin Theological School, gave up his position as a teacher in a Government school and at a heavy financial sacrifice took up the work of an evangelist at this place. The past twelve months have seen the membership here increase from seven to over twenty and then decrease to seven again! About four years ago, the Christians at this place sold their little chapel building for 170 yen and put the money on interest.

A few minutes' ride by rail from Yokkaichi is the town of Kuwana. This is a place of 20,000 inhabitants. Here we have had to abandon our work owing to the lack of funds.

Matsuzaka is a town half an hour's ride by rail south of Tsu. Twenty thousand people live in this place, which is said to be the wealthiest in Miye Ken, though being rapidly overtaken by Yokkaichi in this respect. Here the Mitsui Family's ancestral home and the homes of other wealthy families are. Here our work is on the upgrade. After Dr. Johnson's visit to Tsu last Fall, the Christians at Matsuzaka commenced an early morning prayer meeting in the park. This meeting has been a daily one and has been kept up without intermission, daily, ever since. After the Spring weather was warm enough to permit the gathering of crowds at the early hour of six in the morning, the Matsuzaka Christians, following the methods used in the evangelistic meetings at the Tsu Exposition, their prayer meetings ending at this hour, have conducted daily early morning open-air meetings for their fellow-townsmen.

Haze is a small mountain village containing a registered population of a little over 3,000. Here there is a little band of farmers, thirty-five in number, who own a neat little chapel building and a beautiful little "half-acre" where they bury their dead.

Tsu City is the capital of the Prefecture and a town known in every part of Japan, though it has a registered population of only 37,500 and an actual population of not over 50,000. The matter of most immediate interest has been the actual beginning of the erection of the Drennan Memorial Church building, which is to be completed in November and which is to house the Tsu congregation. The new church lot fronts on two streets and is 90 x 105 feet in size. The extreme dimensions of the church building itself are 69 x 78 feet.

I have conducted in our house twice each week a two hours' Bible class for Normal School students. Twenty-one students have been enrolled in this class, one of whom became a Christian this year. Twice a week at night English and Bible classes have been conducted for Middle School students and for young men in business, etc. Fourteen of these young men have become Christians within the past twelve months. Each Saturday afternoon I have conducted a very interesting Bible class for the teachers of the First Middle School and of the Men's Normal School.

A matter of interest is the very favorable attitude of the newspapers in Tsu towards Christianity. The Miye Shimibun, for example, has been publishing lately quite a number of little sermonettes by the editor, all intended to set forth the excellencies of Christianity or of Christ's teachings. One of them recently began: "Christ, having ascended to the top of the Mount of Olives, turned towards the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and said to them in a loud voice, 'Ye are the salt of the earth; we are the light of the world.' Seven young men from this field are studying for the ministry, besides three school-teachers who have given up their positions to become evangelists.

Evangelistic Work at the Tsu Exposition.—The most notable event of the past year has been the special evangelistic work carried on at the Tsu Exposition. The Exposition was practically national in scope, having been four years in preparation and covering over fifty acres of ground; but the attendance was small, being only three-quarters of a million people during the two months that the fair was open to the public.

Our work was carried on both in a Mission hall located next to the Gifu Bazar and also out of doors. The Episcopalians had complete charge of and conducted the meetings for the first two weeks in April and again one week in May. The rest of the time the work was carried on by ourselves in association with workers from the Baptist, Free Methodist, Methodist, Methodist Protestant, and Southern Presbyterian Churches, while money and tracts were donated by members of every Evangelical Church represented in Japan. Two hundred and twenty thousand tracts and 25,000 maps of Tsu, showing the location of the Christian workers and chapels in this city, were given the visitors to the fair.

God's hand was most marvelously shown in this work. Before the main entrance there was a large clear space where no fakirs were allowed to come, where none of the prefectures even were allowed to build bazars. The authorities put this place at our disposal to meet on it whenever we might choose. The buildings were illuminated every evening, and we regularly held outdoor meetings near the gate or the "clock tower," at first beginning about 7 P.M. But during the latter part of the fair we brought out all the benches and seats we could get in Tsu and kept them on the grounds, beginning our open-air meetings from three or four o'clock in the afternoon, when the long shadows from the great gate made it comfortable for speakers and hearers to meet out of doors, and running on until half past ten or eleven at night. Our crowds grew steadily in size until at last it was absolutely necessary for the speakers to use megaphones when preaching.

When two of the Indian delegates to the World's Students' Federation came to Tsu, the authorities most kindly gave us permission to hold a great meeting within the fair grounds themselves.

The success of the work aroused the Buddhists to an imitation of our efforts during the last ten days of the fair. The fiery denunciation of Christianity as a disloyal teaching by the Buddhist speakers aroused certain of their believers of the baser sort to throw stones at some of the Christian workers, though the diligence of the police prevented the doing of any special harm.

All that was accomplished can never be told until the last day. I do not know how many names of inquirers were secured during the three weeks that the Episcopalians labored. During the other five weeks over 1,000 names were given in, of whose addresses we know that over 900 are correct. These people came from every part of Japan. Besides these inquirers there were a number of decisions made by those who had been studying Christianity before, or who, becoming interested, stayed over in Tsu day after day for the one purpose of studying Christianity.

As to the results of these special meetings and their effect on our work in Ise, the condition can be summed up in a sentence. On the one hand, with an empty treasury, abandoning work in hand for lack of funds, we have on the other hand nearly 700 inquirers added to our lists within two months. Figuratively speaking, we in Ise are facing the problem Christ put to His disciples—how to feed a hungry host with only a little boy's lunch.

THE KOREA MISSION.

SEOUL: the capital, near the west coast on the Han River, 26 miles from the port Chemulpo, with which it is connected by railroad; population about 300,000; Station opened 1884. Missionaries—Rev. H. G. Underwood, D.D., and Mrs. Underwood, M.D., Rev. J. S. Gale, D.D., O. R. Avison, M.D., and Mrs. Avison, Miss K. C. Wambold, Miss E. L. Shields, Rev. A. G. Welbon and Mrs. Welbon, Rev. E. H. Miller and Mrs. Miller, Miss M. B. Barrett, Rev. C. A. Clark and Mrs. Clark, Rev. A. A. Pieters and Mrs. Pieters, J. W. Hirst, M.D., and Mrs. Hirst, Rev. M. W. Greenfield and Mrs. Greenfield, Miss S. A. Heron.

FUSAN: 210 miles southeast of Seoul; nearest port to Japan, terminus of Seoul-Fusan Railroad; Station opened 1893. Missionaries—C. H. Irvin, M.D., and Mrs. Irvin, Rev. R. H. Sidebotham and Mrs. Sidebotham, Rev. W. E. Smith and Mrs. Smith.

PYENG YANG: ancient capital of the northern kingdom, 50 miles up Taitong River from Yellow Sea; 125 miles northwest of Seoul; largest church centre under the Board; population 60,000; Station opened 1894. Missionaries—Rev. S. A. Moffett, D.D., and Mrs. Moffett, M.D., Rev. W. M. Baird, Ph.D., and Mrs. Baird, Rev. Graham Lee and Mrs. Lee, Rev. W. L. Swallen and Mrs. Swallen, J. H. Wells, M.D., and Mrs. Wells, Miss Margaret Best, Rev. C. F. Bernheisel and Mrs. Bernheisel, Miss V. L. Snook, Rev. W. N. Blair and Mrs. Blair, Rev. G. S. McCune and Mrs. McCune, Miss A. M. Butts, Mr. Robert McMurtrie.

TAIKU: population 60,000; 77 miles inland from Fusan, and 155 miles southeast of Seoul; Station opened in 1899; work doubling every year. Missionaries—Rev. J. E. Adams and Mrs. Adams, W. O. Johnson, M.D., and Mrs. Johnson, Rev. H. M. Bruen and Mrs. Bruen, Rev. E. F. McFarland and Mrs. McFarland, Miss C. H. Cameron, Rev. W. C. Erdman and Mrs. Erdman, Rev. C. C. Sawtell and Mrs. Sawtell.

SYENCHUN: in the northwest of Korea, 50 miles from Yalu River, about 225 miles northwest of Seoul; Station opened 1901; work shows unprecedented growth. Missionaries—Rev. N. C. Whittemore and Mrs. Whittemore, Miss M. L. Chase, Rev. Cyril Ross and Mrs. Ross, A. M. Sharrocks, M.D., and Mrs. Sharrocks, Miss Jennie Samuels, Rev. H. E. Blair and Mrs. Blair, Rev. S. L. Roberts and Mrs. Roberts.

CHAI RYONG: 140 miles northwest of Seoul, 60 miles southwest of Pyeng Yang; Station opened 1906. Missionaries—Rev. W. B. Hunt and Mrs. Hunt, Rev. C. E. Sharp and Mrs. Sharp, Rev. E. W. Koons and Mrs. Koons, Rev. H. C. Whiting, M.D., and Mrs. Whiting.

CHONGJU: Rev. F. S. Miller and Mrs. Miller, Rev. Edwin Kagin, W. C. Purviance, M.D., and Mrs. Purviance.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Underwood, Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Bruen, Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Sharrocks, Rev. and Mrs. R. H. Sidebotham, Miss M. B. Barrett.

The Korea Mission has continued to be greatly blessed of God. In its virility and growth; in its Bible study, its self-support and self-propagation; in its demand for education, its call for literature, its longing for the Gospel; in its hopes for speedy evangelization of the whole land, its expectation of soon being able to care for its own work, its determination to make Korea a Christian nation; in the cordial relations and the almost accomplished division of territory between the various Churches, in the planning for but one native Church in the whole empire; in the unity and harmony of all the widely scattered congregations; in the extensive compassing of every part of the land, the intensive strength and depth of their Christian experiences, the careful conservatism along lines of organization—in all these respects Korea is deserving of special study.

What may be the reasons for this outstanding position of Korea among the Mission fields, we are often asked, and we are always wondering. Perhaps the policies of our missionaries, perhaps the political situation with its sorrows, perhaps the missionary zeal of the believer, perhaps the Korean's love of God's Word, perhaps the simplicity of the people's faith, perhaps the unorganized condition of the native religion; perhaps, and probably, a hundred things unite to make this land the one the most readily conquerable of all the places where God in his providence has led our Church. But, whether the causes be these or others, truly we must bow our heads, realizing that we are in the presence of God, and that He, the great worker, is working here in marvelous ways and we may divine that He has something of mighty moment to say to the universal Church through weak, despised, denationalized Korea.

The large success of the work is substantially shown by the following statistics, which come up to the close of the Mission year in 1907. Our Mission reported then 788 places of regular meeting, 15,153 communicants, 16,625 catechumens, and a total of 59,787 believers; 523 churches and chapels; 359 schools; 7,504 scholars. Most notable of all, when we consider that the Koreans are the most poverty-stricken people in Asia, are the native contributions, which totaled $40,088.48. The growing nature of this Church is evident when, by comparison with former statistics, we find that the church membership has increased nearly threefold in five years, the believers nearly fourfold, the school attendance sevenfold, and the native contributions ninefold.

	Places of meet- ing.	Communicants.	Added during year.	Catechumens.	Adherents.	Schools.	Scholars.	Contributions of native Church.
1907...	788	15,079	3,421	16,625	59,787	357	7,504	40,088.48

When we consider this threefold, fourfold, sevenfold, ninefold growth, and that our missionary force during these same five years has increased but 36 per cent.—from fifty-eight to seventy-nine, though in 1908 we are reporting eight-six missionaries—it is no wonder that our missionaries are calling for reinforcements and larger equipment, and that the Board has felt justified in adopting extraordinary measures to secure them.

Certain outstanding facts in connection with the Korea situation as it has developed this past year must be briefly mentioned here.

The political situation has changed considerably. At the time of our last report Japan already had a protectorate over Korea, and the relations between the Koreans and Japanese were very strained. Our missionaries were occupying an entirely non-committal and neutral policy in reference to the national problems, though some of them had suffered because of their residence in Korea at such critical times.

In July, 1907, last year, the Korean emperor was forced to abdicate, his son was made emperor in his stead, and numerous changes were made. Great disquiet and in some places anarchy began to prevail among the Koreans, and armed—when the people could find arms—rebellion sprang up in many places. Even yet bands of Koreans are keeping up a guerilla warfare against the Japanese in the interior. But for the influence of the Korean Christians in the north, and particularly of one man, then Elder Kil of Pyeng Yang, now Pastor Kil, the whole region around Pyeng Yang, famous for its sturdy fighters, would have arisen in insurrection. But this wise Christian leader pressed home on the people that “the powers that be are ordained of God,” and with the assistance of the Christian Church he turned the fury of the whole north, and delivered Korea from tremendous bloodshed. And yet some misinformed people still insist that the Korean Church is political in its aim!

In these later turmoils our missionaries have still maintained their non-committal attitude. They rightly feel that they are not in Korea for political purposes, and they are resolutely determined to keep the Church true to its spiritual mission. But the difficulty of their position between the Japanese and the Koreans will be readily appreciated.

Significant also are the facts which marked the graduation of the first theological class and the organization of the Presbytery of Korea during the year, and the proper narration of these events demands a rapid survey of church history in Korea.

In September, 1884, the first missionary, H. N. Allen, M.D., reached Korea and began his medical labors. Next year the first clergyman, Rev. H. G. Underwood, D.D., arrived. For five years our Mission was the only Presbyterian body in Korea; but in 1889 the Australian Presbyterian Church sent out a representative, and though his work was soon ended by death, his successor came in 1891. In 1892 the Southern Presbyterian Church entered, and in 1898 the Canadian Presbyterian Church also, so that there are now four Presbyterian bodies in Korea. All of these, with clearly defined territory, are working together for the evangelization of Korea.

In 1903 these four Missions conjointly began theological instruction, and plans were framed for the organization of the Presbyterian Church of Korea. This theological education has been conducted by the four Missions in the city of Pyeng Yang, and this last year seventy-four men studied there in the various grades of the five years' course. Of this number sixty-four were men who belonged to churches under the care of the missionaries of our own Church. Of the seventy-four pupils seven, the first to have this privilege, were graduated last June, all seven of them being men under our care. All were not only approved in their studies, but had for years done valuable service for the Church as helpers, elders and unordained evangelists.

Organization of the Presbyterian Church of Korea.—September 17, 1907, is a red-letter day in the calendar of Korean Presbyterianism, for on that day the Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Korea was ushered into existence.

It was fitting that this historic event should take place in Pyeng Yang, the ancient capital of the country, and in the great Central Presbyterian Church—the mother of three large city churches and some scores of country churches, herself scarce fourteen years old!

There were assembled in this church the members of the Council of the four Presbyterian Missions, the seven Korean graduates from the Theological Seminary, the native elders sent up as delegates from all over the country, and a crushing congregation of interested Christian spectators.

The roll was made up, and there were 33 foreign and 36 native presbyters.

The Moderator, Rev. S. A. Moffett, D.D., delivered a sermon on the origin, basis, and functions of the proposed Presbytery, solemnly invoked the Divine blessing, and then formally announced that the Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Korea was duly constituted.

Thus was constituted that Church which the four Presbyterian Missions working in Korea had been hoping, planning, praying for these many years—a Church to be self-propagating, self-supporting and self-governing.

The new Presbytery adopted as its Confession of Faith practically the same Confession which had been adopted by the Presbyterian Church of India on its organization in 1904.

That evening came the climax of interest, when the seven Koreans who had completed their theological course were ordained to the Gospel ministry, as the first native ministers of the Presbyterian Church in Korea.

One action of this new Presbytery is worthy of special mention because of its far-reaching significance. One of the newly ordained men, Rev. Yi Ki Poong, volunteered to go as a "foreign missionary" of the Presbytery to the Island of Quelpart, some sixty miles off the south coast of Korea, where Protestant Christianity had never entered.

His offer was accepted with enthusiasm, an "Executive Committee of Missions" was elected, and a letter prepared and printed calling upon the native churches throughout the country to contribute a thank offering for the support of this Korean missionary and one or two helpers to go with him.

The Presbyterian Church of Christ in Korea begins its life thus with 7 native ministers, 53 elders, 989 congregations, 19,000 communicants and 70,000 believers. Our missionaries will expend their full energy in assisting and strengthening this new body along evangelistic, educational, literary, organizing lines. This is their work, to help the natives to help themselves, that we may most speedily liquidate our obligation to Korea by making the Korean Church able under God to care for itself in every respect, and to care for the unreached masses also with an adequate power.

Comity with Other Missions.—There have not been many denominations at work in Korea. Our own Mission entered first and has always been the largest and most prosperous of all Missions. In fact, no other two Missions combined equal ours in missionary force, and all the others combined hardly exceed ours in results.

There are three Presbyterian bodies besides ours working in Korea—the Southern Presbyterians, the Canadian and the Australian Presbyterians. With these there is a clearly defined division of territory, and in every respect the four appear before the natives as but one.

There are two Methodist Churches in Korea—the Northern and Southern. These two Missions and the four Presbyterian Missions unite in a General Council of Evangelical Missions, having comity, fraternity, division of territory as its aims, and hoping and planning for but one native Church in Korea.

With the Southern Methodists a division of territory has just been effected. With the Northern Methodists many adjustments have been made with eminent satisfaction in particular places, and the larger problems are being considered by all with a view to the hasty accomplishment of a well-pleasing division. These instances are mentioned more in detail under the various Stations.

This General Council of the six Missions cares for the one Christian newspaper, the only Sunday-school literature, the one hymn book for Christian Korea, and many other matters which look toward unity.

Korea Propaganda.—The Board of Foreign Missions has sanctioned this year a special movement for the strengthening of our work in Korea. We were forced to it by the logic of the situation. When we considered that the work in that land had tripled in the past five years, and that in some of the statistical columns five years had increased the figures four, five, seven and nine times, while the missionary force had been augmented but one-third, it was evident that the missionary body was inadequate for the increased work and that reinforcements were imperative. Then, too, there were the great willingness of the people to hear the Gospel; the demand for Christian education, the need for a Christian literature; the necessity of finishing the translation of the Bible, for the Koreans alone, of all well-established Christian Churches in the world, have not as yet the whole Bible in their own script; the unparalleled demand for theological training for the future ministers of the native Church, where there are as yet but seven ministers for 989 congregations; and, most of all, the amazing growth which had carried the work years and years ahead of our missionaries, and threatened to get farther and farther beyond our control—all these things demanded immediate action.

Then, too, there was the assurance of the Mission that in its opinion if it were reinforced adequately now by twenty men and twenty unmarried women they would be able to handle the expected progress of the Church, and to lead the native organization to its proper place of responsibility for Korea's many religious needs. With this vision of the end in sight, the Board was led the more eagerly to embrace the opportunity for doing something now and doing it on a large scale.

Accordingly the Board has commissioned the four missionaries from Korea now on furlough to seek to secure twenty more men with their wives and six single women for Korea in this the day of God's power; and it has called upon the home Church to raise $229,940 extra for Korea now, in order that we may adequately reinforce and equip with the necessary institutions this remarkable field. It is an extraordinary method, but it is imperatively required to meet an extraordinary situation.

If any further apologetic for this great demand for men and money is needed, we commend our readers to the careful reading of the more detailed statements of this wonderful work that follow under the caption of the various Stations.

SEOUL STATION.

This Station, the oldest in the Mission, where Dr. Allen began his medical labors, in 1884, which proved the entering wedge for the Gospel into Korea, has had another year of good growth. The Station, however, has suffered severely through ill health and consequent resignation of some of its members.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, SEOUL, KOREA.

In May, Rev. E. F. Hall, after nearly four year in Korea, most of which had been passed in great physical suffering, regretfully turned his face to America with Mrs. Hall, and the Board has been obliged to accept his resignation. Dr. and Mrs. Null, also, resident in Chong-ju, but members of Seoul Station, were forced to return to America last May on account of the health of Dr. Null, for he too for a long time had been a great sufferer, and the resignation of this couple has had to be accepted. Miss Barrett has been forced by health conditions to return to this country two years before her furlough was due, and is now seeking to recuperate. Dr. Vinton, also, who has been in Korea since 1891, and has been for many years Mission Treasurer, has felt obliged to return to America, and his resignation has therefore been accepted by the Board. On the field Mrs. Gale,* who had returned to Korea only last Autumn after a long absence in this country, has been in very poor health most of the time. Dr. and Mrs. Underwood, who left Korea in July, 1906, on account of ill health, have been unable as yet to return, though we are confidently expecting them to go back this Summer.

There have been, however, some additions to the force. Miss Eva H. Field, M.D., who had been unable to return to Korea immediately after her furlough, returned last Fall, and was happily married to Rev. A. A. Pieters in March. Miss S. A. Heron, a daughter of the Rev. Dr. Heron, who laid down his life in Korea, has been appointed a missionary. She was born in Korea, and is the first missionary of the second generation to be commissioned to that land. Rev. M. W. Greenfield and wife also have been located at Seoul and have begun the study of the language.

The city of Seoul and its adjacent territory have been occupied by three Mission bodies—the Methodists North and South and our own denomination.

As we reported last year, there has been an effort to assign to each Mission its own exclusive territory, and towards bringing about such union operations as might prove for the good of the whole work. The problems involved have probably been harder to solve in Seoul than in any other place, because of the presence of three Missions there, and because in the course of years the work of each had become strongly established in the surrounding territory. But the missionaries of the three bodies concerned have been working on these problems earnestly during the past year, and considerable progress has been made. A division of territory has been arranged between the Methodist Episcopal Mission South and our own body, which gives them the exclusive right to a big strip north of Seoul, including the city of Song-do, the second in the empire, and the adjacent territory, which embraces about all the work which had been conducted by Rev. A. G. Welbon. We, however, secure most of the territory which had been cared for by one of their men, and our missionaries feel that the exchange is but little to our disadvantage. Certain it is that with territorial limitations both Missions will be able to push their work with more energy, and that our responsibility for this portion of

* As this report goes to press we are shocked and grieved to learn of the death of Mrs. James S. Gale. She passed away March 30, after a long and serious illness. Our deepest sympathies go out to the stricken husband and daughters and to the many friends who knew her and loved her.

Korea's problems is now more clearly defined, as it ought to be. Hereafter we shall not have any common territory with the Southern Methodists in Korea, except within the city of Seoul, and even there our respective spheres of work are well recognized, and a most delightful comity exists.

Although there has been no little discussion during the past year concerning territorial limits and comity with the Northern Methodists within the limits of Seoul Station, there is as yet little definite progress to be reported, though the indications are that there will be good things to be said next year. One seemingly backward step has been taken. After trying union work for two years in the Seoul Academy, known as The John D. Wells Training School for Christian Workers, the Methodists decided that it would be unwise for the present to continue union work in that institution, and so last Autumn they began school work in an institution of their own. It is hoped on all sides that affairs will so shape themselves that the union may be found practicable again in the near future.

CITY EVANGELIZATION.—In the city of Seoul with its 300,000 people the Presbyterian denomination has three main churches which have been growing at a rapid rate. These three churches are joined together in one large church organization, somewhat after the collegiate form. Pending the competent Korean pastors and sessions, they are governed by the missionaries and the two native elders, who oversee the work of all three congregations and their subordinate places of meeting.

Yun Mot Kol Church.—This is on the eastern side of the city, and reports an average attendance of 550. But it grows most rapidly. Concerning this church Dr. Gale writes:

Our church building, holding about 500, has become too small for a congregation of 1,200. A collection of $60 was taken, sheeting bought and stitched together into an awning. The Autumn winds, however, blew it down just as the company of 1,600 had started to sing the first hymn. A new building was imperative, and at last it was erected, and was occupied for the first time on the second Sabbath of December, 1907. The American Consul-General, Hon. Thomas Sammons, made one of the addresses. The building is of wood, but in Korean form, with wooden floor and double walls, and altogether commodious.

This is the largest Presbyterian church organization in Seoul perhaps the wealthiest congregation in Korea, situated in close proximity to the imperial palace, and includes not a few of the nobility, several of them relatives of the emperor. A special feature of its work is the number of weekly Bible classes taught in the homes of these gentlemen of wealth and rank, in some cases in the parlors of those who still decline to mingle with the promiscuous elements of an ordinary congregation. The new church cost $3,300, of which $2,300 has been raised among the congregation and the remainder was very kindly donated by Mrs. John S. Kennedy, of New York.

Central Church.—This congregation is near the centre of the capital, and concerning it the pastor, Mr. Clark, says:

We are having the greatest time in our history. Our attendance is regularly up to 300. We have the city now divided into twenty-four districts, each in charge of a "leader" and these leaders are preaching with might and main in their sections. Every Thursday night I meet them at the church, and every Friday there is a prayer meeting in each of the districts, twenty-four in all. I have three substitute elders who have charge of all the central services, and each has oversight of eight of the above "leaders." Our finances and schools are in charge of six deacons.

We have added one teacher to each of our primary day-schools, making four in all. We have also added a bookseller in addition to our Bible woman. So now we have five and one-half full salaries paid by the church.

The church has only 150 baptized members, but with an average attendance of about 300 we feel they are doing very well. In November we took a special offering for schools and received $62.50. In December again we took another and received $115.00. As twenty cents is the day's wage here, this sum would mean as much to Koreans as about $1,350 would in America. In addition, at Christmas they gave away 270 meals to the poor. They also sent $12.50 to the Presbytery's new missionary in Quelpart. All the above in addition to the regular running expenses, fuel, etc. We feel quite encouraged.

Sai Moon An Church.—This church, on the west side of the city, the oldest church in the capital, has been without the pastoral oversight it should have had, the regular pastor, Dr. Underwood, having been absent on sick leave all the year. Several of the missionaries have been seeking to assist in this place, in addition to their already too numerous duties. The report is one of good progress, however.

As a result of the revival which took place in February, 1907, the whole church was changed and the spiritual tone which it attained to at that time still continues. A sensitiveness to sin, a spirit of prayer, a taste for the spiritual side of the work, and an earnest evangelistic spirit are the chief features of it. There seems to be almost no falling off in the interest. It has been found necessary, because of the constantly increasing attendance, to have the women and the men meet at different times for the Sabbath morning worship.

After much discussion, it has been decided not to remove from the present location, but to build a new and larger church on the present site, and steps are now being taken to that end.

Country Evangelism.—Mr. Welbon's District.—This is the district which by the new arrangements for the division of territory with the Methodist Episcopal Church South is to be almost entirely turned over to that body. It lies north and northeast of Seoul. Mr. Welbon writes:

The year as a whole has been the busiest and best yet spent in Korea. The work has shown a larger growth than in any previous year and seems in good condition. In this district are fifty-four groups and meeting places, five new groups having been reported. During the year 860 candidates for church membership were examined. Of these 108 received baptism and 265 were put into the catechumenate. Two new churches were built and two much enlarged. Sixteen schools were open all or part of the year. Four new ones were started.

Mr. Clark's District.—The district assigned to Mr. Clark in 1906 consists of a strip directly east of Seoul, running to the sea. The work was then composed of four groups of butchers, the lowest caste in Korea, who, though nominally Christian, were almost worse than heathen. Work had been started in six other villages, so that there was a total of ten groups. Now there are believers in forty-six villages, meeting in nineteen centres, three of which number nearly 100 each. A contribution of 450 days of preaching in heathen villages, without remuneration, was pledged by the men and the pledge was redeemed. A recent letter from Mr. Clark says that the Sangsimi Church, which began eighteen months before with seven people, has a beautiful church building seating 100, and out of it had gone forth two other congregations, one of 100 people and one of 40, and he significantly adds:

Sangsimi is one of my 100 churches. Ask the Seminary fellows if they expect to find anything better than that in America.

Mr. Pieters' District.—The growth during the past year has been quite steady. Five new groups have sprung up, 206 have been admitted as catechumens, and thirty-four baptized. Last year only seven of the groups possessed church buildings. Ten other groups have built churches this year.

Bible Classes.—The annual Bible class for men in February, 1907, was the most successful ever held in the Station.

The attendance averaged about 300 and the enrollment was 450. Kil, the elder from Pyeng Yang, assisted. A pledge of preaching days taken during the class totaled 2,200. There was a manifest outpouring of the Holy Spirit. Scarcely a person failed to be stirred to confession of sin and promise of restitution. The effect of the class and the revival is even yet being felt in the country districts from which the men came.

The Woman's Training Class held in Seoul in February, 1907, had eighty women enrolled. The average attendance was good and the study profitable.

Mr. Welbon reports the Bible study and training classes held in his district unusually good, the class in Kangwon province being the largest and most spiritual yet held in the district. The great number who came could not be entertained by the Christians, and the non-Christian neighbors were called upon to assist. Before the class was over all of these neighbors were numbered among the Christians.

Woman's Work.—Miss Wambold reports 131 days spent in the country, teaching the women of the country churches, various classes for women in the city, conducting meetings, visiting in the homes, teaching in various schools and working in our day-schools.

She expresses great joy in the work of the year and thankfulness for witnessing the showers of blessing. Instead of using a Bible woman, different Christian women have accompanied Miss Wambold on her itinerating trips and given their services free of charge.

Mrs. E. H. Miller reports a full year's work: classes in the Union School, in the Girls' Boarding School, work in the Woman's Training Class and the Woman's Bible School.

She reports also the organization of a C. E. Society among the girls of the Yun Mot Kol Church, with some fifty or sixty members, in which much interest has been manifested; also the organization by the people of that church of a primary school for girls, with thirty-six little girls in attendance.

Mrs. Avison, in addition to the care of a large household, has had charge of the work of a Bible woman, has held a weekly meeting for women and visited them in their homes, when possible. Mrs. Welbon has worked in conjunction with a Bible woman, of whom she reports earnest and faithful work. This young woman, in company with her husband and Mr. Welbon, has visited most of the churches in Pai Chun district. Mrs. Welbon has also spent some time in the country with her husband and reports interesting work among the women. Mrs. Clark reports the teaching of a Sunday-school class, various women's classes in the city, and in the country with her husband, visiting in the homes, etc.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Our institution for young men, The John D. Wells Training School for Christian Workers, has undergone many changes during the year. For two years it has been run as a union institution, the Methodist Churches both North and South having joined with us in the conduct of the school. Both of these bodies have now deemed it wise to withdraw, at least temporarily, from the school. Under the union there were 128 pupils last year, of whom seventy-five were Presbyterians; but although the pupils from the Methodist side of the work have withdrawn to attend the schools of their own denomination, the increase in the number of our own pupils has been so great that this year we have more in attendance than attended the union school last year.

The scholars too are now all self-supporting, which is a good forward step. Of course the teaching force has been much diminished by the withdrawal of the Methodists. Rev. E. H. Miller is now in full charge of the institution, and can get but little help from other over-worked missionaries in Seoul. The native teaching force has been strengthened, but more American teachers are sadly needed. This school, like all our institutions in Korea, is for the training of Christian young men alone, not for the gathering in of anybody and everybody.

Girls' Boarding School.—Last year we reported an average attendance of thirty, but this year we report fifty, and there would be many more if we had accommodations for them. At the first graduating exercises last Spring three were graduated.

In the absence of Miss Barrett on health leave, Mrs. E. H.

Miller has been obliged to take full charge of the work, with its heavy demands upon time and strength.

Woman's Bible School.—During April and May a special school for Bible women was held in Seoul, which proved interesting to both teachers and pupils. There were nine women in attendance.

MEDICAL WORK.—We have a fine medical plant in Seoul, presented to the Board some years ago by Mr. L. H. Severance, of Cleveland, Ohio, and called after him, The Severance Hospital. This institution has grown in size and usefulness, Mr. Severance having added by subsequent gifts many new departments of work.

During his visit in Seoul last Summer he promised still more things for the hospital, as he wishes it to be thoroughly equipped for doing the best kind of work in every direction.

Drs. Avison and Hirst, who are in charge of the hospital, have been rushed to the limit of their strength, as is shown by the following extracts from their reports:

There were treated in the wards of the institution during the year 493 cases of great variety and severity. The large majority of them were surgical. The average number of days in the hospital per patient was $15\frac{1}{2}$. The death rate was $11\frac{1}{10}$ per cent., which in itself evidences the severity of the cases.

During part of the year the daily dispensary was conducted in another building down near the street. In that way the hospital was relieved of a great deal of the noise and confusion inseparable from dispensary work. Although the building had not been planned for such work, yet the experiment was so successful that we hope it will be possible in the near future to add a proper building and make this plan a permanent one. If such a building can be secured and also contain rooms for the doctor's private office, electric apparatus, teaching, translation and book work, the hospital proper will be vastly relieved of many of its present annoying features.

A private office clinic for the Koreans has been developed during the year, which included 875 consultations. Each of those patients pay 50 cents for consultation, in addition to the charge for medicines.

The foreign practice included 686 office consultations and 386 visits at the patients' homes. At Korean homes 111 visits were made, besides 121 visits to the Imperial Palace.

These activities may be summarized as follows: Visits made at homes, 618; private office consultations, 1,568; dispensary treatments given, 12,000; 493 patients treated in the wards, averaging fifteen days each and receiving at least one visit per day, making a total of 7,395; total treatments rendered, 21,581.

In this institution also a Pasteur Institute has been brought into successful operation. One case has been treated with virus prepared there, and cases can now be received at any time, or the material can be sent by mail or otherwise to any part of Korea.

All this work has cost our Board but very little, apart from the support of the physicians in charge, as these statistics of receipts show:

From Korean sources, including $1,500 given by the Korean Government.....	$4,094.83
Earned by practice in foreign community.....	1,464.29
Given by foreigners in Korea	309.50
Given by foreigners outside of Korea.....	172.10
Given by the Board for evangelistic and literary work and for outfit.....	262.00
Last year's balance and small sundries.....	246.50

The School for Nurses was instituted in the Fall of 1906 under the supervision of Miss Shields. Four native young women are now in training and one probationer is in attendance. These show aptitude for their work, and sympathy and interest in their patients. The year has been one full of experiments and varied duties for both superintendent and nurses.

LITERARY WORK.—

Mr. Pieters has been the Mission's representative on the Bible Translation Board and reports fine progress during the year. Dr. Gale also has done some translation work since his return, though the bulk of his energies has gone into the revision of the Gale Dictionary, the first edition of which has already been sold.

Mr. E. H. Miller has done work in preparing and revising textbooks, namely, two Arithmetics, a Physics, an Algebra, and also a Harmony of the Gospels. A translation of Dr. Herrick Johnson's Notes on Homiletics is in progress by Mr. Clark. Dr. Avison has been working on the translation of medical books. A Pathology, Diagnosis of Diseases, Skin Diseases, and a Bacteriology have been completed, and he has under way a Surgery and an Advanced Physiology. Mr. Hall before his return to America made a translation of Malachi which was accepted by the Board of Bible Translators as an individual translation.

FUSAN STATION.

The work has been of great importance this last year. Fusan, at the southeast corner of Korea, is the nearest point to Japan, from which it is separated by a strait only 120 miles wide. It is therefore the port of entry both from America and Japan.

The number of Japanese who have settled in Fusan far exceeds that in any other place in Korea, there being about 20,000 in the port, while in the adjacent country the Japanese have settled in large numbers for commerce, farming, and speculation. Of course there have been some of the evils incident to the coming of a dominant race, but on the whole there has been less of unpleasant aggression on the part of the Japanese and less of armed opposition on the part of the Koreans in this section of Korea than in the other provinces. As a result of this less serious straining of relations between the two peoples here, the industries of the people have been more steadily pursued, and their commercial values less troubled than elsewhere in Korea. This has had a good influence on our church work in this part of the empire.

We have known for some time that this part of Korea was thickly populated, but we were hardly prepared for the report of the recent census which gives to the province in which Fusan is located the largest population of any of thirteen provinces, and one-eighth of the population of the whole land, though the province is geographically very small.

As we are sharing this field with the Australian Presbyterians, we are only responsible for one-half of the province, and yet that half, being the most densely populated part of Korea, gives us a fine field for labor. The province has been happily divided by counties between our Mission and the Australian Mission, and both are working in their own counties for the strengthening of the one Presbyterian Church of Korea. They have a strip of territory on the eastern coast and another on the southern coast, while we have a connected work comprising the northern and central counties, immediately contiguous to the territory of Taiku Station.

The Station has been forced to work at great disadvantage for the most of the year, as Mr. Sidebotham left on furlough in July, leaving the whole burden of the evangelistic work on Mr. Smith.

In the seven counties which had been Mr. Sidebotham's particular territory, though there was not a single Christian when he entered Korea in 1899, twenty-three churches had been established by him, and the growth along all lines was very marked, the last year's growth being 80 per cent. And this striking progress from nothing to great things was in spite of the fact that for his first two years the language was his main work; then until 1904 the whole of the Station's territory was under his care—half of which Mr. Smith afterwards assumed—and that Mr. Sidebotham has been drafted away from home time and again to assist in other Stations.

Fusan Church.—There has been much in the past year's growth that has given eminent satisfaction, with nothing very disappointing.

The house of worship has been renovated, a delight which all may share equally, as nearly all the members contributed something—money, material, or labor. The Sabbath-school is now graded, the Koreans themselves superintending and teaching the classes for men and boys, while Mrs. Irvin, assisted by some of her former night school girls, cares for the women and girls. Midweek prayer meetings have gained in attendance, and there is considerable zeal manifest in personal work, both in the neighboring community and wherever in the vicinity interest is reported.

The Deer Island congregation got out of a difficult financial situation by selling its dilapidated property on a rising market, and with the proceeds liquidating a small incumbrance held by their church, and then erecting a more commodious and substantial structure upon a better site. Here the congregation has continued to grow normally in the face of many discouragements to upright living. In the rear of the Japanese settlement of Fusan we have a new company of Korean believers of some fifty in number.

The missionaries have been seeking for a dozen years to spread the Gospel in Tongnai City, the county seat, a place of 10,000 people, ten miles from Fusan. There had been almost nothing to encourage, but last year a Christian of some years' standing in another community moved into the community and immediately began proclaiming the Gospel and gathering those willing to worship on the Sabbath, so that soon as many as fifteen were meeting regularly. Now about sixty men profess genuine interest, and the character of the Gospel has been explained and its claims urged upon them. Socially they are all of the better class, not a few being students.

Milyang County.—Here has been our greatest growth, the annual report showing an increase from 293 to 615 Christians, and there has been a strong increase since that report came to us.

The parent church has dedicated a fine building, the first tiled-roof church in the Fusan field, and as this edifice of size and dignity stands near the high road leading into Milyang City, it has proved a big advertisement of Christianity to the multitudes who pass by. In this church last Summer a young helper, Mr. Kim, was ordained as an elder, the second elder in all the work of Fusan Station. Part of the congregation has now separated itself to form a new church in Milyang City, where a good building was presented to us by a well-to-do Christian, Mr. Ko, who is very anxious to see that city of 10,000 won for Christ.

Among the peculiar developments of the year is a new Christian community which consists of many slaves and many freemen. It was some time before they were sure of their ability to work well together, but now the bondmen and the free are worshiping in harmony in the church they have erected with their joint funds.

Kimhai.—In this city we have the largest single work under Fusan Station's care, there being about 300 in attendance. The better class of the city and the chief officials of the county have taken great interest in the establishment of Christian schools for boys and girls.

Government buildings have been freely tendered for the housing of the schools, and goodly sums of money were raised by the Christians and townspeople for the beginning of a fine educational work under Christian auspices and for the carrying on of the school work. This move is the more appreciated by us because such general movements for Christian education have been rare in Korea until of late, and because the Kimhai City Church, to a greater extent than most of our churches, had drawn its membership from the lower and poorer classes of society.

In Changyung there have been large movements forward. In May, 1907, Mr. Pang was ordained as an elder, and this ordination is of special note, because it was the first ordination in all the work of Fusan Station, though our work begun in 1891. There have been plenty of Christian men, but the missionaries are conservative and feel the necessity for exercising great care in establishing the church.

Far to the west, 150 miles from Fusan, we are told the Gospel is spreading, and all along the path there are springing up groups of believers, so that all parts of the territory of Fusan Station are responding to the tidings of salvation.

MEDICAL WORK.—In Fusan we have a neat, well-ordered medical plant, the Junkin Memorial, which calls forth much praise from the many travelers who, entering Korea at Fusan, see this plant as the first visible sign of the great Korean mission work of which they have heard so much. Dr. C. H. Irvin is in charge.

The record shows an increase in the number of those who had their ills alleviated, the actual number being 10,143, likewise a corresponding increase in the monetary receipts over all previous years in the history of the work, the total receipts amounting to $821.63. Harmony among the staff, sympathy and forbearance toward patients, and faithfulness in the discharge of every duty have made the year replete with precious memories, and have contributed in a large measure to whatever success has attended the work of our hands. The examination of and application of remedial agents to those who came seeking physical relief forms but one department of our two-fold mission. There are two evangelists who preach regularly, and besides their work, each member of the staff, so far as his duties will permit, assists in pointing all who come to the Cross as the only means of man's redemption.

Allied to the medical work, a new branch of Mission work is being established near Fusan among the lepers. In southern Korea there are many of these unfortunate ones, though we are glad to say in northern Korea they are rarely met with. Dr. Irvin says of this class:

To be confronted day by day by a victim in the last stages of this malignant disease, supporting himself on two canes, his feet and hands partly gone, likewise his nose and ears, his body in a putrid condition, his face bloated out of all human resemblance, and over this mass of ruins a few rags, on his back a broken gourd and a straw bag, the one in which to carry his food and the other for his bed—to have such an one prostrating himself before you, making signs and gestures—for the inroads of his disease have hushed his voice forever—pleading for that help and mercy which you are unable to give, is a scene sufficient for a lifetime.

By the help of the Mission to Lepers in India and the East, our Mission is about to undertake some work for the amelioration of the sufferings of these people and the bringing of the light of Christianity into the darkness of their sad hearts.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—

While we have no school of our own at Fusan, we have assisted somewhat in the conduct of others. Mr. Smith gave a month to instruction in the Academy at Pyeng Yang and Mr. Sidebotham two months to the Academy at Taiku, which in everything except management has been practically a union effort. We have supplied a portion of the teaching and a still larger portion of scholars, who have had excellent standing. Mr. Sidebotham also spent a month teaching in the theological classes in Pyeng Yang. Several primary schools have been started during the year.

The annual officers' class, which is used by our Fusan missionaries as the best means for getting all the churches to work along a common line for the evangelization of the fourteen counties assigned to us, and for the developing of a common policy in all the churches under our care, met in December, with increased numbers, in Karekol. Rev. S. A. Moffett, D.D., of Pyeng Yang, assisted in the conduct of the class. The annual men's class was held in February in Kimhai City, where we have our largest church building, and 300 men gathered for a week's study.

The classes for women have been held in Milyang and Chogei. These are instrumental in getting the women, who before they became Christians were very ignorant and much kept at home, to see a little more of God's wide world, and to learn in a deeper way the truths of the divine Word.

PYENG YANG STATION.

This is the best known and the greatest of all the Stations under our Board. Here are 258 places of regular meeting, one-ninth of all we have throughout the world; 6,089 communicants, about a thirteenth of all those under our care; 1,106 communicants were added during the year, about a tenth of all the additions in our various Missions. There are 20,414 enrolled catechumens, children and adherents. Here, too, are 118 schools, with 2,175 pupils, and a college which, with the academy, had 367 scholars last year. This one Station has therefore a larger work than many whole Missions. And yet Pyeng Yang was only opened as a Station in 1894. The success of the Gospel has been pre-eminent here, and we are glad to be able to report that the great work has been greater than ever the past year.

Pyeng Yang City is located on the Taitong River, fifty miles from the Yellow Sea, and is connected by railroad with Seoul, 166 miles to the southeast. It is the capital of the province of South Pyeng An, and is a city of about 60,000 people, the most important place in size, commerce, politics, influence and Christianity in all northern Korea. As a missionary centre its influence extends over the whole country, for here are the theological seminary, the only college in Korea, the largest academy, the largest churches, and though the city is some distance northwest of the geographical centre of Korea, it is about in the centre of the Christian constituency of that kingdom. In a more particular way it is the centre of the church and educational work of all northwest Korea, for though we now have two other Stations in that section, Syen Chun and Chai Ryong, both of them have gained the most of their inspiration from Pyeng Yang, and were until a few years ago integral parts of its territory. Now all three of these Stations are served by the one college and girls' high school, and the students for the ministry all go to Pyeng Yang for their theological training. In church work, however, the territory of Pyeng Yang is confined to South Pyeng An Province and the three counties in the north of Whang Hai Province, which lie nearer to Pyeng Yang than Chai Ryong.

In the city and territory of the Station the Methodist Church North also has a strong Mission. With the Methodist Church, which has five men in Pyeng Yang and eight women, there has been delightful fellowship and hearty co-operation. Daily union prayer meetings are held by the missionaries. The two Missions have united in college, academy and girls' high school work, and there has been an ardent desire to secure such a division of the territory surrounding Pyeng Yang that there shall be no overlapping of denominational efforts. Good progress has been made along these lines, minor divisions of territory have been effected, and the great problems have been approached in a conciliatory spirit, and with the firm expectation that shortly the complete division of territory will be accomplished.

Pyeng Yang City.—In the city alone are four churches with 4,500 believers; five Sabbath-schools for men and six for women; ten Sabbath and five midweek services; four weekly classes for the female and one for the male Sunday-school teachers; four women's classes each week for catechumens; the Library or Church Association with its various departments; a hospital that treated 9,422 patients this year; a theological seminary that requires a part of the Station force for three months of the year; the college and academy requiring the teaching of forty-eight periods per day; the manual labor department demanding foreign oversight; the advanced school for girls and women with an attendance of seventy-two; the special school for married women enrolling forty-three; seven primary schools with seventeen teachers and 658 pupils; a Bible institute for men and one for women in the Spring; a normal class for men and one for women; four training classes in the Winter. Besides this, building operations, the drain upon the time and energy of the missionary with men from the country groups coming with problems to be solved, and many other things not tabulated.

The four churches wield a powerful influence in the city. That the Christians have not entered the church for political reasons was markedly demonstrated last July, when the whole city, aroused almost to riot by reports of events connected with the emperor's abdication, was quieted by Christians going about urging peace and order.

Central Church.—The Central Church is the nucleus whence have sprung the three other local churches, the South Gate, the North and the East. It is imperative that a new church, the fifth Presbyterian Church in Pyeng Yang, be established in the western part of the city, after which the Central Church will still be larger and stronger than when the first separation was made four years ago.

After the evangelistic campaign in February, 1907, it was impossible to provide for the large congregation, though the building seats comfortably 1,500 people. It was decided to divide the regular preaching services, the men and women meeting at different hours. The 117 baptized this year makes a total of 1,076 members; 235 catechumens received gives 385 enrolled. Adding the new believers, we have an attendance of 3,000. Two helpers or pastor's assistants are wholly supported by this church. Two Bible women are also supported. $181.82 has been given by the North and East Churches toward their building funds; $50 was sent to the Chinese Famine Relief Fund. Total collections for the year are $2,411.08.

This church is the one often spoken of as having the largest regular prayer meeting in all the world, averaging 1,100 in attendance.

Here also that greatest of all the native preachers under our church in Korea, Mr. Kil, after being ordained to the Gospel ministry among the first seven last September, undertook the pastor's work; and he is now the pastor in charge of that large church, Dr. Moffett and Mr. Lee, the former pastors, being his advisors.

This church, too, being the largest church building in Korea, was the one in which the Presbytery of Korea was organized last September, its pastor, Dr. Moffett, being the first Moderator of the Presbyterian Church of Korea.

South Gate Church.—This church was set off from the Central four years ago with 172 baptized and catechumens. It now enrolls 600 believers, of whom 200 are baptized and 150 are catechumens.

The pastor's assistant is wholly paid by the church. One Bible woman, without salary, has been assisting the pastor's wife in aggressive work for women. Other contributions amounted to $732.50, making a total of $882.50. A chapel in connection with this church has an enrollment of about 100. There have been many removals from this section owing to Japanese occupancy, but in spite of this the church shows an excellent growth.

North Church.—This church, located as its name suggests in the north of the city, had its birth from the parent church in December, 1905, starting with an enrollment of 154. Growth is shown in its regular attendance of 450 at the church services.

With some help from the other churches, the building has been finished and enlarged without aid from foreign sources. This church, with its missionary pastor, pastor's assistant, Bible woman assisting pastor's wife in woman's work, and its complete organization which has special oversight of all the houses in its section, heathen as well as Christian, will soon evangelize that part of the city.

East Church.—East Church was organized in January, 1906, bringing with it from the overcrowded Central Church 137 communicants and catechumens. It is located on historic ground, using the site and building occupied by Dr. Moffett when he began work in Pyeng Yang in 1893. Through that same old gate the people of the Fourth Presbyterian Church of Pyeng Yang, over 350 in number, have been crowding into the poorly equipped building. Work has begun on a new building which will seat some 600.

Library and Church Association.—The Library and Church Association building has in its reading room the best Korean and Chinese books and the daily, weekly and monthly papers. The lecture room is used for church officers' meetings and for holding classes for Bible study. A night school, enrolling over 100 young business men, was in session for some months during the year.

The bathrooms are in constant use. The young men downtown have a place where they may resort to hear and see the things that uplift and help. Many have been led to believe by having learned of Christ here. A daily noon prayer meeting is held, having a good attendance. This building is the headquarters for the colporteurs. During the year the total of sales of all kinds, Bibles, hymn books and Christian books, amounted to $1,085.65. 6,264 New Testaments alone were sold.

Country Work.—In the small space allotted for this work we cannot do justice to these churches, some of which have adherents to the number of 500, and many of 200 and 300, while one-third of them have reached the 100 mark. The territory of the Station includes all the twenty-three counties of South Pyeng An Province and three counties of Whang Hai, making a total of twenty-six counties, in which are 164 out-stations or churches and ninety-four other meeting places.

Although there are thirty-four helpers, supported by groups of churches, and 171 local leaders, who without salary give time and attention to preaching and church work, the missionary must baptize those passing examination, administer the communion, organize new groups, appoint leaders, administer discipline where it is needed, and constantly give advice in moral and spiritual matters as well as in questions relating to church government. The missionary, in charge of what might be called a diocese, plans to make his tour of the churches twice a year. If this is done, the number of miles to travel is about 4,100, a very little of which can be done by rail. A comparison of some 1906 statistics and 1907 figures is interesting: Communicants increased from 4,037 to 4,817; catechumens from 3,705 to 5,276; new church buildings from 27 to 55; meeting places from 203 to 258; men's training classes from 117 to 192; women's training classes from 48 to 60; total contributions from $6,666.60 to $10,493.50.

But even 1907 statistics, which bring us up to June, 1907, seem like mediæval history when we read that Mr. Bernheisel last Fall, during fifty-five days in the country, traveled 650 miles, visited forty-three churches and several other places where there are interested people, baptized 164 adults, and received 277 people as catechumens; that Mr. Lee last October baptized fifty-seven adults in the Whang-ju circuit; that Dr. Moffett in November received seventy-three adults into the church; and that Mr. Swallen's record for the three Fall months was 500 adults and fourteen children baptized, and 799 catechumens admitted. This magnificent ingathering is not an inchoate, incoherent, untutored mass.

We need often to remind ourselves and the American Church that the standards for admission to the sacraments are nowhere higher than in Korea. An average of eighteen months elapses from the time of belief to the time of baptism in the case of those who consistently show all the time by their purity, prayer and preaching that they are Christians, and the weaker ones are tested and tried much longer. So that even the new members of the churches are well acquainted with the teachings of Christ, are eager to proclaim abroad the good things they have enjoyed, and, having been in touch with a great movement a long time before they are really part of it, they "make good," and cases of falling away are few and far between.

Home Mission Society.—This society was organized in Pyeng Yang seven years ago, and now includes the Stations of Pyeng Yang, Syen Chun and Chai Ryong. Its purpose is to send out native missionary evangelists. These men start new groups that are afterwards organized by the foreign missionary. The churches make an annual offering for the support of these men, and the governing board at its meetings decides who the native missionaries shall be, where they shall go, and what salary they shall receive. During the year five men have been supported and the results of their work are very gratifying. This organization unites all the churches in a common aim for the evangelization of the heathen.

Bible Classes.—Much has been written and said of the Koreans as a Bible-loving and Bible-studying people, and the latest report from Pyeng Yang assures us that this characterization of the Korean Christian is correct, and astonishes us, as it does every year, by the simple narration of facts.

There was a class in January this year for country men only, the city men not being allowed to come. Nine hundred men tramped in from the country, twenty, forty, sixty, eighty, a hundred, a few two hundred miles, with weary feet but glad hearts, to sit at the feet of the missionary and learn for two weeks some of the deeper things of God's Word. The Bible and the hymn book are the only text-books in these classes. Three hundred and fifty had never been to such a class before, though these classes are held every January. These new ones were put into a division by themselves, a rather large division for teaching purposes, some of us might think. The others were distributed in seven divisions, according to the number of years they had attended these Bible classes.

All the missionaries taught in these classes, and it is worthy of note that the four ordained Korean pastors now working in our Pyeng Yang territory assisted in the instruction.

The desire on the part of these willing learners for further instruction was so great that, though they had been in Pyeng Yang for two weeks at heavy expense—and the ordinary Korean cannot play fast and loose with his pocketbook—fifty of them made such earnest request for more instruction, that the missionaries arranged for two weeks more of study for those who were determined to stay.

Every night a meeting for the deepening of the spiritual life was held in the Central Church, and the meeting being only for men, 1,800 men each night packed that large building to overflowing. All dedicated themselves anew to the service of the Saviour, and have gone back with burning hearts to tell the story to the Christians who could not come, and to enter on a new propaganda. One evening the subject was tithing, and several hundred men bound themselves to give one-tenth of their incomes to the Lord—a striking pledge, when we consider that their existence is in extreme poverty.

The Winter training class for women from the country groups had in 1907 an enrollment of 560. The class for men of the city, in distinction from the class for country men, enrolled about 800, and the one for women over 300. In the Spring Men's Bible Institute about 300 were enrolled. In May was held for the first time an Institute for training Bible women. All the churches of the city and all the country circuits were represented by women chosen by those in charge of the work. The attendance was 106. The men of the Station conducted a number of classes in central places in circuits. The women missionaries conducted ten with a total enrollment of 685 women. Besides these, in all the circuits 192 other classes were conducted by elders, helpers and Bible women with no foreign assistance, approximating an attendance of 9,650.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—College and Academy.—In Pyeng Yang we have the only Christian college among the ADVANCED SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AND WOMEN, PYENG YANG, KOREA, 1907.

120,000 believers of all denominations in Korea, all the other Mission institutions being boarding schools that are doing work of high school or preparatory grade or that are distinctively training schools for Christian workers. The non-missionary Korean schools are as a rule worthless from an educational viewpoint, while the Japanese schools thus far do little but teach the Japanese language and some primary studies. So this college in Pyeng Yang has a remarkably high place in Korea, and may well become in time an institution of commanding influence.

It is also noteworthy that this college is a union college, representing three Stations under our Board, Pyeng Yang, Syen Chun and Chai Ryong, and the three Methodist Stations of Pyeng Yang, Haiju and Yung Byen. For over two years these two Missions have been working together in this college, and this last year they have adopted an agreement which looks forward to the permanent union of these two Missions in the one college, each furnishing its part of teachers, buildings, equipment and finances. This union will be of real advantage to the two Missions concerned and to the six Stations which unite in this work.

Connected with the college is the academy, which also is a union institution, the Methodists uniting with us, and here the young men are prepared for college.

The statistics do not clearly distinguish between the college and the academy, but we are informed that the first part of this school year there were 400 pupils in the institution, taught in sixteen sections. A distinguishing feature of this school, as of all our Korean schools, is this, that every student is a Christian. This considerable number of pupils are crowded into two inadequate buildings, one built by the Methodists and one by ourselves. We need a larger equipment, and particularly a building for the college, which is now housed in the inadequate academy buildings. Dormitory accommodations are also necessary, for most of the pupils come from the country.

The Anna Davis Industrial Department, which has been seeking to furnish employment for the young men who were unable to support themselves, has become such an integral part of the institution and the claims upon the services of the Pyeng Yang missionaries have become so great that, on the application of the Mission, the Board last Fall sent out to Korea a man specially qualified for this department, Mr. Robert McMurtrie. We are indebted to Mr. Davis, of Rock Island, Ill., for the gift which made this possible. His former gifts for this department will not be forgotten. A building of considerable size is given over to this department, which already embraces printing, carpentering and blacksmithing.

Theological Seminary.—This seminary has held its sessions in Pyeng Yang three months every Spring for some years back. Much of the best talent of Pyeng Yang goes into making this institution, which had seventy-four pupils last year, a successful educational centre for the coming ministers of Korea. Of course, other Stations assist in the teaching required. A building has been much needed, and now one who modestly wishes to be known simply as "a friend of Missions" has generously supplied this need, and the handsome building is well under way. Pyeng Yang Station furnished twenty-five students this last year, among them four of the seven in the first graduating class.

Advanced School for Girls and Women.—Korea's girls and young women are getting a higher education, a novel thing in that land, where a girl's knowledge used to be summed up in cooking, washing, sewing and ironing. And now above the primary school for girls is this advanced school for girls and women, which is also a union institution between the Northern Methodists and ourselves. The enrollment last year was eighty-two.

A limited number of students are accommodated in a self-supporting boarding department which is a model Korean home, where the girls are taught by the Korean matron in charge that even mud walls and floors can be kept clean and their food prepared in a sanitary way. The women and girls do the work about the home themselves, so that if their parents can provide the necessary rice, a dollar or two for incidentals and fees, and can spare them from the work of the home, their way is comparatively clear. The institution purposes, not to create a foreign environment, but to inspire girls and women to improve their existing environment. Many of the women enrolled are widows who desire to devote their lives to Christian work. We hope for many an efficient Bible woman from these students. This school, with the normal class, is our hope too for the supply of women teachers, who are needed now and will be increasingly needed in the future.

Women's School.—In addition to the advanced school for girls and women, provision is made for the instruction of women who are beyond school age, or whose home cares make it impossible for them to attend the sessions of a daily school. So a special school for these women has been established, having two sessions weekly from October to May. Instruction is given in reading and writing the native character, in hygiene and in the Gospels. Last year there was an enrollment of forty-three, with an average attendance of eighteen.

Normal Classes.—The normal class for women was held in May. Eighty-seven women were enrolled, twenty-one of whom were Methodists and sixty-six Presbyterians. A shortage in teaching force made it impossible to grade the women as closely as was desirable. Not all enrolled were teachers, but all were interested in the schools for girls.

Thirty were young women from the advanced school, who may be available later as teachers.

The union normal class for men, held in July, had an enrollment of 202. One hundred and forty-eight of these were Presbyterians, who represented 3,562 pupils in the schools under their care. The class was divided into six sections and taught in arithmetic, geography and Chinese classics. Besides this daily teaching, lectures were given in Pedagogy and conferences conducted on school affairs.

The educational problems of Korea are to a very large extent in our hands. In this centre of influence, Pyeng Yang, the above facts show what magnificent things are being done by Mission effort; and the peculiar strength of this Mission education is shown by other facts. Last year, for example, pains were taken to get statistics of all the educational work in the city of Pyeng Yang for Korean boys and girls.

In the primary schools of the church under our two denominations were found 624 boys, 464 of them Presbyterians and 160 Methodists; and there were 391 girls, a total enrollment in our parochial schools of 1,015. In all the other schools of the city were gathered together 341 boys—no girls—and they were being taught the Chinese classics only, or the Japanese language only, or possibly both together; nothing essentially Korean, neither of reading, writing, history, geography or literature. Here is a contrast between the old and the new methods and the way in which Christianity fosters education, for heathen Pyeng Yang, though ten times the size of Christian Pyeng Yang, had but one-third as many pupils in its schools. And here is another comparison showing the growth of the Korean Christian's love for education, for our schools are not only church schools, parochial schools, but they are for the children of Christian families only. Note in the following table how these primary schools have grown under the care of Pyeng Yang Station.

Year.	No. of Schools.	Teachers.	Pupils.	Expenses.	Wholly Self-sup- porting.
1905	62	64	1802	2,487.20	60

MEDICAL WORK.—The Caroline A. Ladd Hospital, in charge of Dr. J. H. Wells, has closed its first year of work in the fine new building which was dedicated October 15, 1906. For ten years Dr. Wells had been working in an inadequate building, with poor facilities and untrained assistants, crippled in his dispensary work by the adverse conditions and much less able to do first-class hospital work. Now there is a good building, a fair equipment, and a staff of more or less trained Korean assistants. It is noteworthy that E. H. Follwell, M.D., and Mrs. R. S. Hall, M.D., of the Methodist Mission, have assisted Dr. Wells so much in his work and operations, and that Dr. Wells has assisted them so much in theirs, and they have jointly used the hospital building to such an extent that this institution is ordinarily spoken of as a union institution; and at present it is practically, though not formally, cared for by the missionary physicians of both denominations. The annual report says:

The year has been one full of pleasure, and the rich blessings of the Holy Spirit's cleansing power manifested the past months have been received in large measure in the hospital. The evangelistic opportunities of a dispensary, with its changing crowd of from 30 to 100 new persons daily, cannot be realized. During the year over 9,000 patients, with their attendants or friends who came with them, have each had the Gospel invitation presented personally. This individual work for the individual is the work that counts in the evangelization of the world, even though statistics of results cannot be given.

The almost 200 guests from abroad who have visited the hospital have expressed delight with the simple plan by which it is conducted. The wards in native style have called forth special commendation and praise, because they are so arranged as to be adapted to the regular life of the Korean.

Following is a short summary:

Dispensary patients.....	9,422
New patients.....	6,983
In-patients.....	361

TAIKU STATION.

This Station is located at Taiku, the chief city south of Seoul. It is not as prominent in some ways as Fusan, seventy-seven miles farther to the southeast, where there are great Japanese commercial activities; but Taiku is larger, more essentially Korean, and in most respects of greater importance.

It is a city of about 60,000 people, of whom about 5,000 are now Japanese, and it is the capital of North Kyung Sang Province, which forms the territory of Taiku Station. This province is both large and populous, being exceeded in population only by the province to the south, South Kyung Sang, in which our Fusan work is located. It furnishes a fine field for Mission effort. Our Mission is the only one which has entered this province, and this with the half province to the south, which is also ours, furnishes us with the largest single piece of Korean territory in which no other denominations have any claims, and by far the largest population in which influences of other denominations have not been felt.

Another feature of interest in connection with the Taiku work is its rapid growth. We are used to wonderful development in Korea, but in Taiku, where work began later than in most of our Stations, there has been an even more rapid growth proportionately than in other places. A glance at the table below will show that things have been practically doubling every year:

Summary of work of Taiku Station from the beginning:

	1899	1900	1901	1902	1903	1904	1905	1906	1907
Groups	1	1	9	9	23	33	42	64	105
Communicants	2	4	7	12	33	59	114	235	564
Catechumens	5	10	21	41	80	213	714	1318	2886
Adherents	25	40	100	177	471	965	1917	3876	6145
Contributions	$2.66	13.65	23.21	32.56	98.80	218.40	465.69	812.47	1901.6

The Station during the last year has greatly missed Mr. and Mrs. Bruen, who are taking their first furlough in America, but it has been increased in strength by the return of Mrs. McFarland after a year's absence, and by the arrival of Mrs. Walter C. Erdman, who last August came as a bride from Japan, where she had been a missionary under our Board in the land where she was born, the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. T. C. Winn, so long of Osaka, Japan, but now stationed by our West Japan Mission in Tairen, Manchuria. Taiku Station has also received Mr. and Mrs. Sawtell as new recruits.

Taiku City Church.—This church is the parent church of the province and is the largest and most central. Taiku is not famous for morality, and conditions have been worse since the Russia-Japan War. In spite of this, however, the church has made rapid strides, though conservatism in admitting candidates to full membership has been its policy, as the subjoined figures clearly show.

Membership 79, 32 added during the past year; catechumens 168, 80 added during the year; average Sunday morning congregation between 700 and 800; Sunday-school averaging 450; midweek prayer meeting attendance 250.

The problems of growth are upon this church, for last year the building was enlarged to about double its former size, and seems to have reached the limit of its possibilities. So the people are industriously working for a new and larger building. The rule of the Mission is that the Koreans must provide the full cost of their churches and chapels everywhere, except at the central Stations, where larger and more expensive buildings are necessary. In these central Stations the natives must raise not less than two-thirds of the cost, and then aid from America is accepted for the remaining third. The people having nobly met this condition, Mrs. Mary Borden, of Chicago, generously gave the $1,000 to complete the edifice.

Two elders, the first, have been ordained over the church during the year, and the results are manifest in the spiritual life of the congregation. One of these men, Pak Tuk Il, is now planning to take the theological course. The "Men's Home Missionary (Preaching) Society" of the church has continued its work regularly during the year, with its Saturday night meetings and Sunday afternoon preaching. Two or three country groups have broken off from the city mother church and started their own housekeeping.

In February this year, at the Korean New Year's season, the city Christians had an organized evangelistic campaign, with house-to-house visitation and two public meetings each day. The church was packed at every meeting and a large number of new believers are reported, a genuine revival.

East Circuit.—Mr. Adams, Superintendent, reports: Groups, 12; communicants, 106, of whom 56 have been added this year; catechumens, 486, of whom 340 have been added during the year. The total number of adherents is 1,302. The work of this circuit has considerably more than doubled during the year. One feature of the year has been the organization of church primary schools, five of them being reported.

The Far East and Southern Circuits.—These two circuits, in charge of Rev. E. F. McFarland, join one another and run almost the entire distance of the southern border of the province eastward to the Japan Sea and along the sea northward to Kangwun Province. There are some 35 meeting places, planted like stepping stones from the western border out to the northern one. There are 120 communicants, 56 added during the year; 420 catechumens, 284 added during the year. Adherents number about 1,000.

Eight new groups were established during the year. As in the other circuits, great interest is being aroused in primary schools. There are now eleven established, and a number of groups were expecting to open schools last Fall. The establishment of schools and support of native helpers by the churches has been the chief subject of interest among the Christians during the year. The churches have taken up the matter of giving very earnestly, giving two-thirds more than last year.

The Western Circuit.—This is Mr. Bruen's field, but during his absence on furlough the burden of this large work has fallen on the newer members of the Station. The Station report says concerning it:

Groups, 37; communicants, 245, of whom 128 were added during the year; catechumens, 1,640, of whom 610 were added in the year; adherents, 2,669; churches built or purchased during the year, 13. This circuit has marched on very strongly this year. Mr. Bruen with great effort kept up with the rapidly growing work, and, before he returned to America on furlough, covered most of his territory and managed to hold a number of successful country Bible classes, some three or four being for women, in which Mrs. Bruen assisted. A number of unorganized groups along the northwest border of this province have been troubled by "false prophets" from the adjoining province, and in consequence gave some anxiety and demanded special attention.

In the Spring Mr. Bruen's helper, Kim Chai-su, was ordained an elder, the first in the province. It seemed fitting that, as he was the first helper in Taiku Station, he after fifteen years of Christian service should become the first elder in the province. He is now planning to study for the ministry.

Primary schools, despite the school tax trouble, have grown, and four of the larger churches of this circuit have built during the year nice, clean schoolhouses, and there is a discipline and order which were lacking before. Physical culture is eagerly sought after and boys experienced in drilling are invited to different schools to give training. Much interest is also being given to the instruction of girls and a number are now being sent to school.

Northern Circuit.—This, Mr. McFarland's district, is the most undeveloped part of the Station's territory, the lack of development being in large measure accounted for by its geography, while Mr. McFarland, being a younger missionary, has had less time to build it up. The movement of Christianity began in the south, and spread little by little to the east and west, but has not yet rushed on with such speed into the northern part of the province. Then, too, this northern territory leads away so far from Taiku, 150 miles, that it is difficult to itinerate in those distant mountainous regions, using Taiku as a base.

The beginnings, however, have been strong. The report gives:

Groups 10, added during the year 5; communicants 14, added during the year 12; catechumens 82, added during the year 62; number of adherents 600; church buildings 12, added during the year 11.

During the year Mr. McFarland made two itinerating trips around the circuit, and it was a great joy to see the work going forward so well through the efforts of the helper, Kim Sung-sam, who has been most faithful in his care of the groups. This field, once so difficult and hard to work, is rapidly working up and has made good growth during the year. The desire for primary schools is being aroused in all the groups and some three or four have been established.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—We have an academy for boys and young men in Taiku, the only institution of the kind in the two provinces of North and South Kyung Sang. This school, though under the charge of Taiku Station, gets a large number of its pupils from Fusan Station, and an occasional pupil from the Australian Presbyterians in the province to the south.

This academy began work in a weak way in the Spring of 1906, but the next school year it had forty-eight pupils. Mr. Adams had the main charge, but he was assisted by Mr. Sidebotham, of Fusan, and the various members of Taiku Station also gave some time to the institution. The present year there has been an attendance of sixty young men, taught in three grades, and Mr. Adams has been the only missionary who could give the school much attention. With the help of one or two Koreans he has carried on the work, but for the Spring term of 1908 he has been forced to give the upper class a compulsory vacation, as his time had to be given to his church work and building operations. The lower classes will be run by the Korean assistants as best they can.

The academy has up to this time been housed in very dark, narrow, unsanitary quarters, but a building is being erected this Summer, the gift of the relatives of Mr. Adams. When this building is completed we look forward to a much larger attendance and better work. Some method of self-help for the boys, who are too poor to furnish their own necessities, is also being considered.

A normal school was held during the Winter for teachers from the primary schools of the province, and they were instructed in geography, arithmetic, and pedagogy.

Primary schools are growing in number and size and influence with great rapidity in the province.

The Korean's desire for education grows apace and it will not be long before every group of any size has its primary school for boys and girls. In its last statistics the Station reports forty-nine primary schools with 433 scholars. In Taiku City there is a large flourishing school for boys with two teachers, and a good-sized primary school for girls.

The amount raised from native sources for all of these schools has been $475. A most successful affair of the year was an examination of all primary school-boys held last July. All the country schools were well represented by boys. Their teachers, and some parents even, came to witness the event.

Training and Bible Classes.—The officers' class was held in December, and was the second of its kind. In many respects it marks an epoch in our work at Taiku. The church officers of nearly every church in the province came together and numbered about 200 men in all.

Dr. Moffett, of Pyeng Yang, was present and assisted the local pastors in the conduct of the class. The time was given to Bible study, and conferences on themes and questions relating to church administration and principles, and to Christian, social and personal life. It gave officers a better idea of their duties, and gave an impetus to the organization of schools and the support of the helpers by the churches.

The men's Bible class was held for ten days in February 1907, and enrolled nearly 500.

We were splendidly assisted by Mr. Hunt, of Chai Ryong. The class was divided into five grades, and each missionary gave his proportion of time to instruction. It was our desire that the class be well instructed, but before it met and for some days during the class our hearts' greatest desire and burden in prayer was that they all might come to know and confess their sins and receive the Holy Spirit.

We had heard of the wonderful outpourings in the north, and those reports served to increase our faith and longings. Three days before the close of the class the Spirit suddenly descended and men were mightily moved in prayer, crying on God for forgiveness, confessing their sins and pleading for the Spirit to enter their lives. Then followed such scenes as were witnessed in the great revivals in the other Stations. It was a time when men got right with God and their fellow-men. After the class closed the city church continued meetings for about ten days with great profit and blessing. It has wonderfully stimulated our work spiritually throughout the entire province.

A number of country classes have been held during the year. Last Winter and Spring the helpers of adjoining circuits assisted one another in Bible classes held in all the large groups of their respective circuits. In this way a great many classes were held in places where the missionaries would not have time to hold them, and many country Christians were reached who were unable to attend the big class held in Taiku. A late message without details tells us that in February, 1908, between 700 and 800 men were present at the annual men's class for a week's study.

Helpers' Class.—The annual class for helpers and colporteurs was held in June, our Station uniting as usual with the Fusan Station of our Mission and with the Australian Mission, thus meeting with all the helpers and colporteurs of the two provinces of North and South Kyung Sang. About thirty-five were present. Mr. Smith, of Fusan, and Dr. Currell, of Chinju, came to assist in the instruction of the class. The class opened with examinations on the subjects they had studied during the year, and all who failed were made to take the study over. Two or three of the men have now practically finished the three years' helpers' course of study, and are ready for the theological course.

Work Among Women.—Mrs. Adams writes:

It isn't that this year marks such a wonderful advance in numbers, although as a Station we have quite kept up our usual record of doubling our numbers; but the great joy in it all is the steady growth in spirituality and love toward God, and a greater desire for a more holy life. This was especially marked last Winter among our city women. I have held two Bible classes a week with the different women, besides the Sunday-school work, so that I have come in direct contact with most of the women in the church. I have visited them some in their homes, especially where there was sickness or trouble, and have occasionally entertained them in our home.

We have only one paid Bible woman, and she is very faithful in visiting the sick of our church, going from house to house with tracts, and preaching, and even going out to nearby country groups. She has sold many hundreds of tracts this year.

Mrs. Johnson and Miss Cameron have had charge of a Dorcas sewing society, in which the women made things necessary for use in the hospital. While they sewed one of their number read to them on some helpful subject.

Women's Bible Class.—This class is an annual one, and is held largely for the benefit of women from the country who have little opportunity for Bible study. The annual report tells of the class held for eight days in November, with a total enrollment of 183, of whom 119 were from the country. Many of these brought their babies on their backs and mingled maternal duties with their Scriptural lessons.

During the class they lived in the women's class-room. We knew they were crowded, but we heard no complaint. One morning the news leaked out that a number had sat up through the night, there not being room for them all to lie down. Our woman's work has certainly outgrown the present class-room and the room must be enlarged. This Winter class was probably the most successful of any yet held for the women. All the ladies of the Station took part, and we also had the valuable assistance of Miss Barrett, of Seoul.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruen held three successful classes for women in the western circuit. These classes were well attended and were a means of great blessing to the women.

MEDICAL WORK.—This has been carried on during the year under considerable disadvantage. In May, Dr. Johnson was taken ill, and for long weeks was unable to attend to the medical work at all. Then, too, the early part of the year the work was done in a miserably small temporary dispensary, and the strong energy of the season was put into the building of the new hospital structure, which was completed last Fall, and is now being occupied.

We shall always hold Miss Mary H. Wright, of Philadelphia, in grateful remembrance for her second generous gift for this Memorial Hospital.

In spite of obstacles the last year's report tells of 2,000 new patients seen and 500 out-patients visited, while $92 had been raised on the field and $85 used for running expenses.

Taiku Station is thus pushing rapidly and with virile adaptiveness into the forty-one counties of the province, for all of which our Church alone is responsible. Doubling every year in results! It is marvelous, and comes only from the great Worker.

SYEN CHUN STATION.

The growth of this young Station is one of the wonderful chapters in all the history of Missions. The Station was not opened until 1901 and now it reports: Places of meeting, 102; communicants, 4,039, added this year, 1,085; catechumens, 4,667, added this year, 2,733; adherents, 15,348; theological students, 28; primary schools, 100; pupils in schools, 2,290; church buildings, 89; total contributions in U. S. money, $13,957.19.

Truly God has worked here in marvelous ways. The rapid development in Syen Chun may be seen by comparing the statistics of 1902, when the Station made its first report, with those of 1907, showing a five years' growth. Meeting places increased from 44 to 102; communicants from 677 to 4,039; catechumens from 1,340 to 4,667; total adherents from 3,429 to 15,348; native contributions from about $1,000 to $13,957.19.

This one Station has so increased in size that it is now looking after as much church and educational work as the whole of the Korean Mission with its five Stations was looking after five years ago.

A few geographical and historical facts concerning Syen Chun and its work may be of interest.

Syen Chun is our northernmost Station in Korea, situated 100 miles northwest of Pyeng Yang, in the thickly populated country which borders on the Yellow Sea. The town has but 3,500 people, and is rather a quiet place. The territory of the Station includes nearly the whole of North Pyeng An Province, which stretches far up to the northeast of Syen Chun some 400 miles, making itinerating a difficult and tedious matter, which may well take a missionary away from his home three months at a time. For there is no rapid transit in that hilly part of Korea, and walking is almost as speedy as horse-back riding, the only other possible mode of travel, while the groom on foot leads the horse along the narrow path.

A small part of the province, however, has been allotted in comity to the Methodist Church, and it has a one-man Station in Yeng Byen, which is working a small territory near that city. In the rest of the province our Mission alone is working. The recent census of Korea gives this province a larger population than had been generally supposed. Whereas it had been estimated as 500,000, the census gives the province 600,119, which probably means there are 800,000 people, as a Korean magistrate usually minimizes returns to lessen per capita taxation. Of these two per cent. are now Christians.

The past year has seen the Station force increased by the coming of Mrs. Herbert Blair as a bride, and by the arrival of a new family, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts.

CHURCH WORK.—Syen Chun City.—It is hard to realize that just a decade ago, when Mr. Whittemore made his first visit to Syen Chun, there was just one Christian there. Now the upper half of this town of 3,800 people is largely Christian, and on Sunday shops are closed, the streets are filled by the streams of people going to church, and the sight or sound of any daily work in progress is very unusual.

The local church work is in a thoroughly healthy condition. The large new church building, completed in October, 1906, has proved entirely satisfactory. It seats about 1,500. It has several times been tested to its utmost limit. The total enrollment last June was over 1,500 and the congregation averaged then about 1,000.

Until his return on furlough, Dr. Sharrocks was in charge of the men's Sunday-school, numbering 800. The women's Sunday-school, numbering 733, is in charge of Mrs. Ross, but the Koreans themselves do most of the teaching. The catechumen class for men, conducted by Mr. Whittemore and Elder Yang, has met on Sunday mornings throughout the Winter and Spring months, and 'that for women weekly in charge of Mrs. Ross.

It was a very happy event for this church when its leading Christian, Mr. Yang, who had been its only elder for many years, was ordained to the Gospel ministry by the Presbytery of Korea last September, one of the first seven Koreans to become ordained ministers of the Word. Mr. Yang is now co-pastor with Mr. Whittemore of this large local church.

COUNTRY WORK.—The country work continues to grow rapidly. There are now twenty-one circuits, each under the care of a "helper," and all but one of these are self-supporting. The work in almost all of the circuits is in a prosperous condition and several of them need to be divided as soon as men and support can be obtained. This year there have been twenty-four new groups started.

Wiju.—This important place on the Jalu River has a very interesting history. While the Syen Chun Station was, as already intimated, not organized until 1901, when missionaries first came there to reside, Wiju is the oldest out-station in Korea, the Rev. John Ross, of Manchuria, having opened some work there as early as 1882. However, that work had a chequered experience, and 1887 is the date usually set as the opening of the Christian Church in Wiju County. The strength and weakness of that church even two years later are shown in Mrs. Underwood's book, "Fifteen Years Among the Topnots." Now in Wiju County there are twenty-eight church buildings, 1,033 communicants, 1,357 catechumens, and altogether 4,698 believers; so that, with one exception, Pyeng Yang County, this out-station, is the largest Christian constituency in Korea, and certainly the largest in any place where the missionary does not reside.

The Wiju City congregation had so overcrowded the church building that it became necessary in the Spring of 1907 to buy another building and to divide the congregation. The county is now the most thoroughly Christianized county in Korea, save Pyeng Yang.

Nong Chun County comes next with 3,257 believers. In fact the great strength of the work of Syen Chun Station lies in the six coast counties, bordering on the Yellow Sea, where Christianity has spread most rapidly. These six counties report: Wiju, 4,698 Christians; Nong Chun, 3,257; Tulsan, 1,573; Syen Chun, 2,371; Kwaksan, 666; Tung-ju, 676—a total of 13,241 out of 15,348 in the whole province, where we have twenty counties. These six counties are all within easy reach of Syen Chun, none of them being over fifty miles from the missionaries' homes, and the railroad passing through or near them all.

But far to the northeast of the province are many Christians who are not of such easy access. Kangkai County, with six churches and 519 Christians, is twelve days' journey from Syen Chun. Chasung, with five churches and 170 Christians, is sixteen days from Syen Chun. Huchang is eighteen days away, and Wiwon Chosan and our Manchurian churches cannot be reached easily in less than ten days. In several of these counties work began in 1900 and 1901, and yet they are so far removed geographically from Syen Chun and the Christian world in general that they are happy if they see a missionary once a year. Just as the work in Syen Chun did not attain its proper development while the missionaries worked it from a base ten or twelve days away, so is the Kangkai work needing the resident missionary to give it its right momentum.

For several years our Mission has been planning to establish a new Station in this far northeastern territory, and the city of Kangkai, twelve days from Syen Chun and about the same distance from Pyeng Yang, has been selected as the site for the Station. Lack of men and money have forbidden the opening of this Station up to the present, but it is hoped that with the men and money secured by the Korea Propaganda now in progress it will be opened soon. This region is under Mr. Blair's care and he writes:

The Kangkai district has now three circuits, with three helpers, nineteen churches, 330 communicants, 455 catechumens, 1,317 believers, thirteen school-teachers and three home missionaries entirely supported by the Korean Church, as well as two colporteurs, all of whom should have constant supervision. More recent letters from the field show that these figures have been greatly exceeded in the last few months. The work has developed fast and the people repeatedly write asking that the Station be opened without delay. They are eager and intelligent and among the most responsive and progressive in the province. An instance of the appreciation of these people of what has been done for them was shown last Winter. Sufficient money was raised voluntarily to place a stone, as an expression of affection, at the grave of Mr. Leck, who died while returning from his first trip in that region, December, 1901.

HOME MISSIONARY WORK.—Two workers supported by the Korean Missionary Society have been at work during most of the year in the extreme north of the province, with great success. At a combined meeting of the Syen Chun congregation and the officers of the province last summer $100 was subscribed for the support of a third worker to labor among the Koreans living in Manchuria, which is just across the Yalu River. Various congregations have also supported local missionaries for longer or shorter periods and have seen satisfactory results. Syen Chun has employed, by means of money subscribed one evening by the local class, a worker in the county for five months, and in addition has distributed Japanese and Korean tracts at the railroad station on the arrival of trains.

The Station report speaks in glowing terms of the great revival which reached Syen Chun in February of last year.

We believe that the Church has been purified by the confessions, strengthened by the conviction of sin, and raised to a higher plane by the spirit of love which prevailed. The power of the Holy Spirit has made weak men strong and brought faltering women into a life of purity. During the time of the winter classes in Syen Chun and Wiju, meetings were held every day for both men and women, and far into the night, that time for confession might be given. Wrongs were righted, stolen money returned, and for many it was a time of new birth in their religious life. We pray that all, both foreigners and Koreans, may be upheld in the new life which has been given us.

CHURCH ORGANIZATION.—With the usual conservatism of the Korea missionaries, they have gone slowly and carefully in ordaining men to the eldership and the ministry in this Station. Nine elders have been ordained over seven churches, which would seem to us a small number for 102 congregations and 15,348 Christians. Two more elders have been elected and are taking their studies previous to ordination. There are now twenty-seven candidates for the ministry.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—This year the demand for education and the interest in educational work of all kinds has been unprecedented. It has been impossible to meet the demand satisfactorily, owing to lack of men and funds. New schools have been opened in all parts of the province and the normal classes have had a large attendance.

Primary Schools.—In Syen Chun itself the primary schools, both boys and girls', have been overcrowded, and the need for new buildings is very pressing.

There have been 195 boys studying under four teachers in six classes well graded in accordance with the inter-mission curriculum. Fourteen boys were given diplomas last June at the completion of the course.

The girls' primary schools have enrolled ninety-one pupils with two teachers in charge, and seven girls were graduated. All these graduates expected to enter the academies last Fall. Besides the regular day-schools, a night-school has been held which has given many laboring boys and men the opportunity to study.

The boys' primary school is one of the most encouraging and important features of almost every village and church. With the rudiments of education the boys are learning obedience, cleanliness and good behavior, and a perceptible advance is made almost from month to month. Several new girls' schools have also been started this year, and the people are realizing more and more that their daughters need education as well as their sons. The opening of a girls' school in connection with a church is significant of a great advance in the religious life of the people.

It is noteworthy that though there are only 102 congregations reported by Syen Chun Station, a total of 100 primary schools is reported, all entirely self-supporting.

Boys' Academies.—The boys' academy, which was opened in the Fall of 1906 in Syen Chun, has been well attended. Mr. Whittemore had the supervision of the work at first, but the teaching was mainly done by Koreans, as the missionaries had more than their usual amount of itinerating. Mr. Ross gave much assistance from the beginning, and this school year is giving the larger portion of his time to this work, a necessary arrangement which the Station deprecates, as it leaves the itinerating almost entirely on the overburdened shoulders of Messrs. Whittemore and Blair. The attendance this year is about fifty. The school has been housed temporarily in the old church building, which is entirely inadequate and requires constant expenditures for repairs. We are glad to report that Mrs. Hugh O'Neill, of the Fifth Avenue Church of New York, has pledged $15,000 for the erection of proper buildings and the establishment of an industrial farm in connection with the academy. The school will hereafter be known as The Hugh O'Neill, Jr., Memorial, in loving memory of a son.

In Wiju City an academy was established not long since by the Korean Christians, and it has been very successful.

Two Pyeng Yang academy graduates have taught, and Mr. Blair, Miss Chase and Mr. Whittemore have each spent a few weeks there giving assistance; but it has been conducted almost entirely by the Koreans. The attendance has averaged fifty. At Tyok Chyun two classes of academy grade have been taught during the past year, but an effort is being made to combine this work with the academy planned at Yang Tang, the larger centre. There were also sixteen students from the province studying in the academy at Pyeng Yang.

As a direct result of our educational work, one of the wealthiest families in the province has founded an educational institution at Ean, secured two Christian teachers for the academic department, and strongly urged our co-operation and supervision.

Girls' Academies.—The Station opened in Syen Chun last Fall an academy for girls, with Miss Chase in charge. The need is great, for the graduates of the lower school and the young women of the province are looking for help and greater opportunities for enlightenment.

In Wiju City an academy for girls was in session during most of the year, taught largely by the Koreans, with five weeks' assistance from Miss Chase. It was of great help to the young women of the vicinity, who are intelligent and eager to a remarkable degree.

Bible Study Classes.—The holding of Bible study classes continues to be one of the most successful means of developing the people. The Syen Chun annual class for men, held in February last year for fifteen days, was more largely attended than ever before, 1,180 being enrolled, the largest class of its kind ever held.

In the country nine classes have been held by the missionaries, assisted by helpers, in the important centres of our work. The average attendance was several hundred, the largest, at Wiju, being 500. In addition to these, the Korean helpers have held one or more smaller classes, averaging a week each, in each of the churches, their time being largely devoted to this kind of work during the Summer and Autumn.

The women's classes have been equally successful. In the two classes held in Syen Chun last year the total attendance was 668, a decided gain over the previous year. In the country, from October to May, Miss Chase has held eleven classes of from six to ten days each with an enrollment of 1,023, and Miss Samuels held about eighteen such classes, enrolling quite as many.

Church Officers' Conference.—The annual conference for helpers, leaders and deacons of the southern part of the province was held in July. There were over 200 in attendance.

The churches were well represented and church problems were discussed and satisfactorily settled. A marked deepening of the spiritual life was shown. There were daily devotional hours, Bible study classes, conferences and business meetings. Three new circuits were organized, the salaries of the helpers to be paid by the Koreans.

Normal Classes.—The work of "teaching the teachers" is now recognized as of the utmost importance. Both evangelistic and educational work have reached such proportions that it is impossible for the missionaries to come into personal contact with more than a small part of the people, and therefore the careful training of those who are fitted to pass on to others what they have been taught is a most necessary part of the work.

The annual normal class, in July, brought in teachers from all over the province. We were assisted at different times by Dr. Baird, Mrs. Hirst and Miss Snook.

FIRST SEVEN MEN ORDAINED TO THE MINISTRY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN KOREA, 1907.

There were thirty-four women in attendance and 120 men. The men were graded in three classes and were to have been given examinations at the close, but the political disturbance near the end of the month broken up the class.

In Wiju a normal class was held for two months during the Fall, which was taught entirely by the Korean church officers and academy teachers. Forty men from the county were in attendance. During the Summer two normal classes of a month each were conducted at Kangkai and Chosan by Pyeng Yang academy graduates, assisted by the church officers.

MEDICAL WORK.—The work of the hospital is becoming more and more efficient as the equipment of the building is made more complete and the Korean medical students gain in knowledge and experience.

The hospital buildings and grounds are a constant object lesson to the Koreans in cleanliness, order and beauty. Built in Korean style, the buildings are yet so carefully kept by the Korean attendants, under Dr. Sharrocks' instruction, that they are an excellent example of what can be done in the Korean homes.

One of the features of the hospital which has been of great service to the town is the bathroom, which is open to the public for hot or cold baths every afternoon and evening, at a cost of 2½ cents per bath.

Dr. Sharrocks left on furlough in June. Dr. Hirst and Dr. Whiting supplied his place through the summer. In the Fall and early Winter there was no physician at Syen Chun, but in February, Dr. Purviance arrived from America. He cannot, of course, undertake the hospital work, as he is but beginning the study of the language, but he will be able to care for the missionaries' needs. He is to be located in Chong-ju as soon as Dr. Sharrocks returns.

The medical statistics attached are for the year before Dr. Sharrocks' return to America.

New cases—Dispensary, 6,150; in-patients, 556; visits in homes, 128; eye-glasses fitted, 42; total, 6,876; return cases, 5,854; total, 12,730.

It is gratifying to report that the medical plant is practically self-supporting, if we exclude the salary of the physician in charge. It is expected to make the institution in a year or two entirely able to pay its own way.

BOOK BUSINESS.—The sale of religious books in the province has continued as large as ever.

Five colporteurs, whose work has been very effective, have been employed in the province. Mr. Blair has just secured an additional one for the far north. Near the coast the foreign paid colporteurs will no longer be needed, as in several of the large towns, Wiju, Yangtang, etc., stores have been opened which are carrying on a successful business with their own money and expect to send out colporteurs into the surrounding territory. From now on the book business in this part of the province will be entirely on a native, self-supporting basis.

CHAI RYONG STATION.

This is our youngest Station in Korea, having been opened in 1906.

Some of the churches, however, are older. Among them are some congregations which Dr. Underwood founded in the early days of Korean Missions. Especially worthy of note is the Sorai Church, which will always be famous as the first church in Korea to become self-supporting, self-propagating and self-governing. Here the Koreans erected their first church building, sent out their first evangelist, and here the first elder of the Korean Church was ordained—an elder who has now become one of the first seven ministers of the Presbyterian Church of Korea. In fact, Chai Ryong Station was opened to control more effectively the already large out-station work in this region, which had been developed by Pyeng Yang on the north and Seoul on the south, but which was too distant from those centres to be well worked.

Chai Ryong is a city of 5,000 people, situated in the middle of thickly populated rice land. The territory of the Station includes most of the province. The railroad runs near the eastern side of the work, fifteen miles from Chai Ryong City, aiding somewhat in the eastern circuits, and furnishing transportation to Pyeng Yang on the north and Seoul on the southeast. The itineration is nowhere difficult. Most of the churches lie within twenty-five miles of Chai Ryong, and none are more than seventy miles away. House room has been the chief perplexity, for there are only two residences for four families. This has meant both discomfort and hindrance to the work. The second house was completed last year, Mr. McE. Vickers having secured the funds in the Park Church, of Syracuse, N. Y.

Chai Ryong City Church.—The history of the City Church has been one of rapid growth.

From Mrs. Song and her little band of three years ago to a church with a helper, two school teachers, seven deacons, seventeen overseers of the eight districts into which the city has been divided, and two women as overseers among the women, with a Sunday attendance of from 500 to 600, is quite remarkable. The church, which for years worshiped in a small house, had to knock out first one wall and then another and enlarge to the limit. Then part of the congregation sat out of doors; then the men met at one hour and the women at another; then they attacked the inevitable—result, a new church. This was built on a commanding site in the Fall of 1906, accommodating the men during the Winter, but last Spring we had to build again, this time a building which will comfortably seat 1,000 people. The cost was about $1,000.

Mr. Hunt and Mr. Koons are co-pastors; but as Mr. Hunt lived in Pyeng Yang most of the year, there being no room for his family in Chai Ryong, the main responsibility fell on Mr. Koons.

The eight district prayer meetings, held every Monday evening, were a great success and were well kept up until June, when the long days and short evenings made it seem wise to discontinue them.

Dr. Whiting also has been a steady worker in this home church and its Sunday-school.

Eastern Circuit.—Mr. Hunt, superintendent, who had returned but lately from furlough, says:

It took me some time to get my bearings. The work had grown to such proportions during my absence as to be almost unrecognizable. Small groups have become large and new groups have sprung up in every direction. School work has stepped to the front very rapidly.

Southwest Circuit.—Here Mr. Sharp itinerates in the oldest part of the Station's work, the out-stations founded by Dr. Underwood years ago. His journeys take him to the capital of the province, Hai-ju, and along the southwest coast of the Yellow Sea Peninsula. As he has been forced by lack of house accommodation in Chai Ryong to live in Seoul, 150 miles from the beginning of his territory, his country work has been especially difficult. But he reports:

It has been the best year since the work has been in my charge. Revival spirit has been steadily rising, especially the last half of the year, and there are few places that have not in greater or less measure been affected by it. In many places there is a deeper consciousness of sin, more of a spirit of prayer, more craving for holiness and more dependence upon God than ever before.

A great deal of stress has been laid on class work. Local classes have been held, with one or two exceptions, in all the groups. The helpers have assisted each other in these classes, so that in all the larger two and sometimes three men have taught. Besides the evangelistic work done by the individual churches, the churches have unitedly sent out an evangelist for four months during the Winter and Spring. As a result of his labors, a number of people in a market town professed a desire to believe and met every day for a time to be taught.

Northwest Circuit.—This work, now in charge of Mr. Koons, takes in several of those churches which Mr. Swallen had established here before the territory was separated from Pyeng Yang's. Mr. Koons says of it:

March 21, 1907, the leaders' meeting began. One interesting feature was the report of the number present at each Sunday service, giving as a total average Sunday congregation for the circuit 2,250. Another was a unanimous vote to take a special offering to help build Chai Ryong Church, so that it might be made big enough for training classes.

WOMAN'S WORK.—Mrs. Whiting, in spite of enfeebled health, has been active. She writes:

The first few months the sight-seers demanded most of my attention. Mrs. Song came every market day to help, and every visitor was given a tract and urged to believe. Later, when we admitted them any time, the smaller numbers permitted more personal work with encouraging results. The Korean New Year in February brought over a thousand visitors to our home in five days.

In November a weekly class for Bible study was begun in our home. Four of the six women attending repeated the lesson the following day to groups of women in separate homes, about thirty from the first, thus getting the benefit of what had been taught in the smaller class the day before.

Mrs. Koons writes:

Beside such study as I have been able to do, I have helped Harriette Whiting teach the school-boys singing, and also had a class for the little girls. During the women's class in March I taught singing with Dr. Whiting and Harriette.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The boys' school in Chai Ryong has been moving rapidly. From a small one last year we have now enrolled eighty-five boys taught by three teachers. The microbe of military drill became epidemic this Spring, and the boys and teachers as well spent more time and energy over perfecting themselves in this branch than in any other. The symptoms have abated and we believe that next term the fever will have spent itself.

The girls' school affords an evidence of the genuine fervor of the Church. Two items in connection with the school are worthy of note. First, it was started by the Koreans themselves, and second, it was opened in the house in which the first medical work was done, then a heathen home, but now offered freely for a girls' school, the last thing a heathen Korean would think of doing.

Through the whole of this Yellow Sea province there is the same deep interest in education. All of the older churches have schools, and there are now forty-five schools under the Station, all of them entirely self-supporting, and 831 boys and 145 girls are being instructed.

For higher education this province looks to Pyeng Yang's academy and college. Some of the Chai Ryong boys are already studying there.

Native Ministry.—Two of the seven men ordained as the first ministers of the Gospel in Korea came from Chai Ryong's work—Suh Kyung Jo, the oldest in years and in faith, the first elder to be ordained in Korea, and Yi Ki Poong, who has been sent out as a missionary to the island of Quelpart, far to the south of Korea. Besides these two, who finished their theological course last year, three others from Chai Ryong's territory studied for the ministry in Pyeng Yang during the Spring months.

Bible Classes.—Four large classes were held in Chai Ryong during the year. For ten days in December, 1906, 600 men of the province gathered for study, 350 coming from outside the city.

Mr. Adams, of Taiku, gave valuable assistance. These men had to meet in different places, for there was then no building large enough to accommodate them all. As the new church holds 1,000, this separation will not be necessary again, unless, as is usually the case in Korea, the Christian community grows beyond the church limits again.

At the Korean New Year a ten days' class was held for the men of the local city church.

Then came the woman's Bible class, conducted by Mr. Hunt, assisted by Miss Samuels, of Syen Chun, and Miss Snook, of Pyeng Yang. This class was well attended and was marked by an earnest spirit of prayer. Miss Samuels taught a class in Mr. Koons' district and one in Mr. Sharp's, making a start in a work for women in the country churches. Last, but not least in importance, was the class for helpers and leaders, June 22-30. Fifty out of fifty-eight invited were present.

MEDICAL WORK.—Chai Ryong Station was welcomed not only by Christian Koreans, but by hundreds of unbelievers in Yellow Sea provinces, because it brought them a skilled American physician.

To be sure, because of the unsanitary conditions in which the work was necessarily done during the past year, some pitiful cases have been turned away unhelped, for the physician and his staff of helpers have been crowded into space scarcely sufficient for one person. Yet out of these most untoward circumstances not only has an enviable reputation for the hospital and dispensary been established, but the name of Jesus has been effectually lifted up, thus giving the Station as well the right kind of a reputation.

Dr. Whiting and the whole Station are now rejoicing in the realization of their hope, a fine hospital, the gift of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York. Work on the hospital building began the last of April, and progressed so rapidly that the building was occupied last November.

The statistics for the year's work are necessarily small, most of the doctor's attention having gone to the building of his home and hospital, and into the general problems of opening a new Station. Yet he reports 147 calls, 19 operations, 2,278 dispensary cases and 1,464 return cases, a total of 3,908 cases.

SUMMARY.—The young Station of Chai Ryong has large things before it. Its three itinerators are caring for 98 churches, all self-supporting; for 2,255 communicants, 417 of whom were added last year; for 1,192 catechumens, and for a total of 7,428 believers. There are 45 church schools and 976 scholars, and the Christians have erected 78 church buildings. The natives contributed for their church support along all lines $4,353.48 last year. This is surely a very gratifying development.

CHONG-JU STATION.

Chong-ju has not as yet been formally constituted as a Station, though in most respects it may well be considered one. For over five years the Mission has been planning the opening of a Station in this city, and for over two years Mr. and Mrs. Miller have been living there. Mr. and Mrs. Hall and Dr. and Mrs. Null were assigned to Chong-ju, but had to withdraw from the field on account of ill health before they were well settled. Now Mr. Kagin has been located at Chong-ju and Dr. Purviance, temporarily at Syen Chun, is to go to Chong-ju for permanent residence.

Money has also been lacking for the establishment of the Station work and the building of the necessary homes, but we expect this obstacle will be sufficiently removed this Spring. One residence has now been provided by Mrs. H. H. Forsyth, of Chicago, so long President of the Woman's Board of the Northwest, as a memorial for her beloved son. Because of the prospective speedy accomplishment of the Mission's plans to make Chong-ju a Station, and because the work of Chong-ju is already practically separated from that of Seoul, the parent Station, we are treating its matters in our report in this separate form.

Chong-ju is the chief city of a large district, in some respects the most influential city between Seoul and Taiku. It is situated in North Choong Chung Province, about ninety miles southeast of Seoul and about 110 miles from Taiku, the nearest Station beyond; so that it has a sufficient sphere of influence for a strong work. Two small provinces, North and South Choong Chung, are the territory of the new Station, and the population of the two provinces is near 1,500,000. The Seoul-Fusan Railway runs across the provinces in a way to be of some use to our missionaries in their travels, passing as it does within fifteen miles of the city of Chong-ju. We do not have the whole of these two provinces to ourselves, for in the southwest of the South Province—south only in name, as it is directly west of the so-called North Province, which is really east—the Southern Presbyterians have been laboring for some years, but we shall have no friction with them. An understanding as to our respective spheres has been in force from the beginning. Also in the city of Kong-ju, the capital of South Choong Chung Province, about thirty miles southwest of Chong-ju, the Methodist Church has a small Station, with one man. Some discussion has arisen between the two Missions on account of our proximity here, but the two Missions are seeking to find some fair basis on which we may conserve the speedy evangelization of the two provinces and the giving to each Mission of definitely marked off territory.

Chong-ju City Work.—The Chong-ju City Church, then two and one-half years old, had an average attendance of 200 last Summer. It more than half supports two schools of eighty-three pupils and four teachers, towards which it contributes about $12 per month. One of the schools is for girls and has an attendance of thirteen.

Of the woman's work in Chong-ju, Mrs. F. S. Miller writes:

The work among the women has been encouraging. There are between thirty and forty women among the regular attendants at our Sabbath morning services, and this number is hopefully increasing. Besides these regular attendants we have had from five to forty and fifty women who come occasionally or for the first time. It has been especially gratifying to see how well they listen, and to hear stranger comments on what is being said. One woman's study class has been held, which proved of much help.

Concerning the country work, Rev. F. S. Miller writes:

This work has been a "lengthening of cords," so that instead of 26 groups and meeting places as in our last report there are now 44, instead of 46 communicants there are now 102, instead of 68 catechumens there are 260, instead of 5 church buildings there are 14.

We have groups and meeting places in twelve of the seventeen counties of the North Province and have been working in twenty counties of the South Province, in seven of which we have promising groups.

This appears to be a good record for about three years of work, from an unorganized Station as a basis, and with never more than one man at the task. It is not surprising that Mr. and Mrs. Miller delay their already overdue furlough, because no one is yet ready to care for this fine work while they must be in America.

And here is another interesting fact, for it shows the missionary spirit of the Koreans. The members of Pyeng Yang Church, over 250 miles away, clearly realizing the deep need and great opportunities of these provinces, sent down and supported an excellent worker there for four months of the year.

Concerning Dr. and Mrs. Null, who were expected to be the medical workers of the Station, but who were obliged to leave Korea on account of ill health, the report says:

Though Dr. and Mrs. Null were not able to do much medical work in Chong-ju, their presence was a great help and encouragement. Their love for the Koreans evidenced itself in so many kindnesses that the church was filled with regret and disappointment when their return to America was found necessary. The number of applicants for medical treatment runs into the thousands.

AFTERWORD.

It remains simply to record our gratitude to God that He has given our Church the privilege of being the first and strongest worker in this remarkable field—one of the most remarkable in all the world. A recent graduate of Vassar College, who frankly confesses that before her visit to Korea she was rather skeptical regarding the value of Mission work, wrote from Pyeng Yang:

You know how critical my attitude is, that I do not stand firm for Mission work in a sweeping, general way. However agnostic my attitude, I have nothing whatever to say but that the Presbyterian Mission and the other Missions, too, are saving the national life of this people in giving them through Christianity a life that they could have in no other way.

The missionaries have done a tremendous work and the Koreans have responded marvelously to the appeal. There is absolutely no room for argument against Missions in Korea. The lives of the people are too obviously changed from hopelessness to vivid righteousness to admit of any exception.

Mr. John R. Mott, on his return from a tour of Asia this year, declared:

Korea will be the first nation in modern times to be Christianized, if the Church will take advantage of her present opportunity.

Mr. William T. Ellis, the well-known newspaper correspondent, was so stirred by what he saw in Korea that he wrote to the Board:

Cannot you say something or do something to make the Church in America realize that here in Korea just now is the Christian opportunity of centuries? This situation is extraordinary and amazing. The whole country is fruit ripe for the picking. The direful political conditions have turned the Korean people toward the American missionaries and their message is the only succor in sight. The leaders are openly declaring that in Christianity alone is to be found the political and social salvation of the nation. In their extremity the Koreans are ready to turn to the Living God.

It may not be so two years hence. Conditions of which I dare not write here are changing the character of Korea. If the Christian Church has any conception of strategy and appreciation of an opportunity, and any sense of relative values, she will act at once—not next year, but NOW! Within six months there should be 100 new missionaries scattered over Korea, and let them be men and women of the royal breed now on the field. Even while learning the language they will serve as focal points about which the natives may rally to Christianity. Forgive me if I am intruding advice where it is not asked. But to my unbiased eye, as a journalist, the situation here is imperative.

MEXICO MISSION.

The twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Mexico Mission was held at Aguas Calientes, January 22-31, 1908. This is significant. Up to the present year the Board has had no work at Aguas Calientes.

This is the capital of the State of Aguas Calientes and is a flourishing town of 35,000 inhabitants. It is situated 225 miles northwest of Mexico City. The Cumberland Church has been at work here for a number of years. The union with this Church brought to the Board the Mission at Aguas Calientes, consisting of a valuable church property estimated to be worth $15,000 and a girls' school property worth $10,000. The following missionaries also became members of the Mexican Mission: Rev. J. T. Molloy and Mrs. Molloy, Miss Mary Turner, Miss Kate Spencer, Miss Minnie Taylor. During the year Miss Taylor was compelled to resign on account of ill health.

At Aguas Calientes there is an American church for English-speaking people, a Mexican church, a normal school, and an out-station at Cosia. Mr. Molloy, the missionary in charge, writes:

The year 1907 has been the best of the five years it has been my lot to serve in this place. The American people are more deeply interested than ever, and while the church is not organized as Presbyterian, no one shows the slightest disposition to deny allegiance to the Presbyterian Church. The success of the American work has had good influence on the Mexican work in various ways.

My places of work are for the present among the soliders, among the shopmen, in the "vecindades" (Mexican tenement houses). My equipment consists of temperance charts, portions of Scriptures, Sunday-school chromos, stereopticon views, folding organ, etc. I plan to visit all the various towns and ranches in the State.

The average attendance of the Sunday-school during the school term is eighty; during vacation, forty. Twenty-one adult members have been received on confession of faith and twenty-six children baptized. The Mexican church is under the charge of a Mexican pastor.

The great work of the Mission is the normal school for girls, known as the Colegio Morelos. During the past year 211 pupils were enrolled, fifty-five being boarding pupils and the remaining 136 day-pupils. There is teaching in English and Spanish. Fifty-four of the day-pupils attended the English school, and of this number eighteen were English-speaking foreigners, Americans predominating.

Some idea of the extent to which self-support is carried can be obtained from the fact that during the year no less than $4,298.33 was collected on the field. The graduates of this school are sought for as teachers and governesses, nurses and business women, and they do credit to their training. The growth of the school is shown in the increased enrollment. The last report made to the Cumberland Church showed an enrollment of 150 pupils; this year the number is 211. The instruction embodies everything from the kindergarten to high-grade studies. The practical effect of one branch of the training is very manifest, since all clothing worn by the girls is made by them. Miss Mary Turner has long been connected with the school, and is ably assisted by Miss Kate Spencer. The Mexican Mission is to be congratulated on having such an addition to its working force as the school and church at Aguas Calientes.

The Committee of the Mission, in reporting at the Mission meeting on the normal schools, state of the one at Aguas Calientes:

Examinations in the Colegio Morelos show that this year has been the best in its history, and we have plans for even greater work next year. Reports from the graduates show they are making good use of their time, and are making their influence felt within the respective communities in which they work.

Miss Turner says:

Colegio Morelos is unique among our schools. Aguas Calientes is the only place where there is only one Mission, and consequently we feel that we must at least try to make it broad enough to meet the demands of the city. For this reason we make a special effort to supply a good English school, to have a creditable department of music, to afford a good little Spanish kindergarten and to teach shorthand to those who wish it.

As indicative of future plans, Miss Turner still further writes:

We have always known and deplored the fact that we could not have a systematic course of cutting, fitting and making of clothes, and a regular course in cooking. . . . We are determined to spare no pains to provide these much-needed classes next year.

The Mission was still further reinforced by the group of new missionaries sent during the year, the Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Bloom, Rev. and Mrs. N. J. Elliott, and Miss Anna M. Hunt. The eagerness with which these new recruits were received by the missionaries is evidenced by the adoption of the following minute at the Mission meeting:

We are almost speechless with gratitude to God, our Board and our Church in the homeland for our five new missionaries. As we look into their fresh young faces, beaming with enthusiasm and consecrated common sense, the veterans are renewed in spirit, forgetting those things which are behind and pressing toward the mark for our high calling with all the eagerness of youth. We are also devoutly thankful for our former Cumberlanders, who, though they were with us a year ago, have never really been with us in the harness until this Mission meeting. We are now neither Jew nor Greek, Cumberlander nor Northern Presbyterian, for we are all one in Christ Jesus.

It was not all gain during the year to the Mission. The Rev. C. C. Millar and Mrs. Millar were compelled to offer their resignation at the close of the year because of the ill health of Mrs. Millar; and Mrs. M. T. Campbell, who went to Mexico in 1893, felt compelled to resign in order that she might return to the States to educate her children.

The great event of the year, the silver anniversary of the Normal School at Mexico City, was held in the school building on November 29, 1907. The founder of this school, the Rev. J. Milton Greene, D.D., now of Havana, Cuba, was present and delivered a most interesting and inspiring address. An effort was made to secure the attendance of all the sixty-six graduates of the school. Twenty-two were present and many others wrote enthusiastic letters. In addition to the address delivered by Dr. Greene, addresses were made by representatives of the Baptist and Methodist Churches, by graduates of the school and by Dr. Arcadio Morales, who had known the school from its inception. The Alumnae Society adopted the daughter of a former graduate as their protégé and created a scholarship for her. The Society also agreed to pay the tuition of the daughter of a prisoner, a man who had been led to Christ through the prison work carried on by Dr. Morales. The celebration of this twenty-fifth anniversary of the Normal School at Mexico City brought into prominence the splendid educational work of the Mexican Mission. The schools at Mexico City, at Saltillo and Coyoacan have exerted a most beneficent influence on the whole work in Mexico. In the reports of the itinerating trips made by the Rev. T. F. Wallace, D.D., the Rev. Isaac Boyce and the Rev. C. C. Millar frequent reference is made to the efficient services rendered by graduates of the Normal School or the pupils from the College and Seminary at Coyoacan. The completion of Converse Hall at Coyoacan marks another advance in the educational work of the Mexican Mission.

It is refreshing also to note that there are self-supporting schools in Merida in the State of Yucatan, at Paraiso in the State of Tabasco, at Coatzacoalcos and Vera Cruz in the State of Vera Cruz, and at Silva in the State of Michoacan.

Of the four girls graduated at the Matamoras girls' school in June, three were members of the church and are now engaged in teaching in various places.

The Presbyterian Church in Mexico (this includes the Northern and Southern Presbyterian Churches) occupies parts of eighteen States of the Republic, in addition to the Federal District. Adjoining the Guerrero and Michoacan Stations there are vast stretches of unevangelized territory. The district included would amount to about 40,000 square miles and contain a population of 1,000,000 people.

We enjoy the distinction of being the only Gospel workers in the States of Yucatan, Campeche, Tabasco and Chiapas. The territory is nearly 90,000 square miles, with a population of more than 900,000 people. With the exception of the capital, we alone occupy the State of Zacatecas. A large part of the State of Tamaulipas is exclusively ours. The duty which falls on our Church alone is to carry the Gospel message to nearly 3,000,000 people inhabiting 164,000 square miles of territory.

MEXICO CITY.

EVANGELISTIC.—The work in connection with the Presbyterian Church in Mexico City has gone on uninterruptedly during the year. Rev. R. M. Brown, owing to ill health, was compelled to return to the United States, and the Rev. W. B. Minton was chosen to succeed him. Mr. Minton has proven to be a willing, efficient and consecrated worker. The financial affairs of the Church, through the generous contributions of members and attendants and help from the Board, have been adjusted, and the Church starts the new year with large hopes for greater usefulness.

The evangelistic and day-school work in Mexico City has been in charge of the Rev. Arcadio Morales. In his report of the churches and congregations in the City of Mexico and Federal District for the year 1907 he gives some interesting facts. There are eight congregations, nine Sunday-schools, seven Endeavor Societies, five day-schools, and two Junior Societies under his care. He has received on confession of faith twenty-two. The total offerings have amounted to $3,089.62.

The Church of Divino Salvador in Mexico City is the most active and successful church in the Federal District. The Christian Endeavor Society of this church is aiding in the erection of a church in an out-station. The Sunday-school has ten classes with ten teachers, who attend the Normal class with great regularity. During the year the "Home Department" was established, valuable help being obtained from the young ladies of the Normal School.

A Sunday-school for Chinamen was opened in the choir loft of the Church of Divino Salvador. Mr. Morales reports:

Four hundred and forty-seven pastoral or house-to-house visits. We continue to work in four prisons by means of literature. There are thousands of prisoners who every fortnight read our evangelical literature. We also visit one barracks. Four hospitals have received benefit of visitation.

He preached also in various places in the Federal District, and writes:

There are more than forty generous co-laborers who help me in every way possible in the pulpit, the Sunday-school, in the Endeavor Societies, in the house-to-house visitation, as well as with their money, with their affection and true brotherly love.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Mexico City Girls' School had a most prosperous year. Owing to the fact that Miss Cathcart was able to teach music, the salary of the music teacher, amounting to possibly $400, was saved. The number of boarders was forty and day-pupils thirty-one. The amount received from tuition and other sources was $2,401.12. The school has been greatly handicapped by lack of room. Changes have been made which will increase the capacity of the school, now overcrowded. The religious condition of the school has been excellent. The Christian Endeavor Society, with twenty-three active members and three associates has held regular meetings. This contributes as heretofore to the Junta missionary, to Dr. Morales' salary and to the fund for the earthquake sufferers in Chilpancingo. During the year Dr. Morales interested many of the girls in the Home Department of the Sunday-school, and the members of the Senior classes, together with the members of the Faculty and one or two others, each week under Dr. Morales' direction visited homes, carrying the message of the Gospel. Dr. Morales gave this body of Christian workers instruction from time to time. He visited the school and delivered addresses on evangelistic subjects. His constant attitude of helpfulness has been a great blessing, and these conferences with the girls mean more to them than anything anyone else can do. Five girls were graduated and the school starts on the new year with enlarged hopes.

The enrollment in the Primary School was twenty-nine. This school was under the charge of Miss Cathcart, who in addition to her work in the regular classes gave lessons on the organ and piano, conducted chorus classes, and spent many hours each week in teaching music to the students at Coyoacan.

The College and Theological Seminary at Coyoacan was in charge of the Rev. William Wallace. Fifty-five students were matriculated. Most of these are looking forward to the work of the ministry. The second and fourth year Preparatory boys rank especially high in Christian character. The Introductory and first year Preparatory do not appear to give as much promise as the upper classes. The plan of study approved at last Mission meeting was put into operation at the opening of the school year. It worked some hardships, but the students in general accepted it with good spirit.

The teaching force during the year, in addition to the Faculty, consisted of Miss Mary E. Beckwith, of the Brown Memorial Church of Baltimore; Prof. Benjamin Celaya, Rev. Epigmenio Velasco, Rev. P. Arellano, Miss Rena Carthcart and Rev. W. E. Vanderbilt. The five members of the graduating class gave very efficient assistance, equivalent to the work of a full professor. In the report Mr. Wallace says:

We consider Miss Mary E. Beckwith quite an accession, both as trained teacher and a devoted missionary, although she is not officially connected with the Mission. Miss Beckwith came out under the name of the Brown Memorial Church of Baltimore, of which Rev. Timothy Stone, D.D., is pastor. She had had already over two years experience in the preparation of English Classics for use in schools and colleges in Latin America. It was her interest in the development of such a course that led her to accept a position in our Seminary without salary, the only provision being for her lodging and board. She gives instruction to the students in English, five classes a week, and special attention to the graduating class. In Miss Beckwith we have a living link with the Brown Memorial Church of Baltimore. Mr. Vanderbilt started the boys in athletics at the beginning of the year, but there was no one to take his place when he went on his furlough. One of the scholars in the school won high honors in athletics, taking several prizes in running. All the students with few exceptions have gone out to do evangelistic work in different parts of the Republic during the Winter vacation.

This Seminary is the only school of higher learning for Presbyterian boys in Texas, Cuba and the Republic of Mexico.

Friends have given $316.10 toward the Seminary Dish and Bed Fund. The Seminary boys soon will be well housed and well cared for.

The Work in the Federal District of Yucatan and Campeche.—Mr. R. A. Brown spent part of the year in itinerating in the valley of the Federal District and in the fields of Yucatan and Campeche, and of Ozumba, formerly under the care of Dr. Millar. He reports:

While a rather extensive field was assigned to me at the last Mission meeting, I can scarcely give a first-hand report, as I have never seen the largest part of the field (Yucatan and Campeche); and more than that, Dr. Millar, whose field this was in former years, himself visited it thoroughly this year before leaving for the United States. Except, therefore, in the case of a few churches here in the Valley of Mexico, which were near enough to be visited without the short absence interfering with my work in the College and Seminary, my report must be taken entirely from correspondence and be necessarily limited in detail.

Yucatan and Campeche.—Appended is a translation of the report sent me by the pastor of our church in Merida, Yucatan, Rev. Alfonso Herrera. He is an untiring worker, enthusiastic and consecrated, and certainly has great cause for rejoicing as he sees the rich fruit of his labors all around him. It will be noted from his report that the church in Merida is a real, live, working body. There is no stagnation there; on the other hand, there has been a steady advance in Merida for several years past. Nowhere else in the Republic has self-support attained such proportions. But not only in the matter of finances is there such live interest shown. I think I am safe in saying that nowhere else in our Mexican Church is there so much personal work done as by the members of the Merida congregation. As Paul said of the Athenians, the Yucatecos are zealous in telling and hearing; but here the comparison ends, for the Yucatecos, rejoicing in the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus our Lord, direct their zeal to the extension of the Gospel, not merely to the hearing and telling of some new things. The field of Yucatan and Campeche gives promise of being one of those in which the Gospel shall have freest course, and is fast becoming a stronghold of the Mexican Presbyterian Church.

The Federal and Ozumba Districts.—The churches here have been visited by the missionaries located in Coyoacan and by the students of the Seminary throughout the year. The church in Tizapan has had for its pastor for more than a year one of our Seminary students who is married and has a family. From this same congregation we have had in the College for several years a student, Adolfo Gomez. By a special favor of the German Presbyterian College of Dubuque, Iowa, we were able to send him there this January to complete his education for the ministry.

Another of our theological students who has been taking a year of practice has taught a school in San Lorenzo and had charge of the services there. He has received very little financial help from any source, but has stuck to his post faithfully.

Don Juan Vergara, of Ozumba, cannot be as active as formerly because of his advancing years, but he has been helped greatly during the past year and a part of 1906 by two College students who spent their five months' vacation in his field, one with the congregation of Tepecoculco, and the other up on the side of Popocatepetl with the congregation of Ecatzingo. The young men entered into their work of teaching and preaching enthusiastically, and the people were loath to let them return to College at the end of vacation. In these churches and in Chimal there has been more than usual interest shown, and if we can afford to put some active consecrated man in charge of them there seems to be a probability of a large harvest of souls. The congregation at Tepecoculco is at work now erecting a new and more commodious house of worship.

The yearly report of the Presbyterian church of Merida, Yucatan, corresponding to the year 1907, written by the Rev. Alfonso Herrera, is as follows:

Our church has not only advanced in every sense, but it has also established new congregations, and these in turn do the same.

The work of preparing the place in which the school was to be established was begun and the Mission house suffered a complete change. The total amount spent in the installation of our school and in the repairs on the building was $2,536.52 Mexican. In the church itself we have made a few little improvements. One of the members of the "Tenth Legion" made and donated a beautiful little chest for the reception of the voluntary tithes.

This year we have noted an advance in the knowledge of the Scriptures, more consecration to the work of the Lord, and an intense desire for the extension of the Gospel. A characteristic of this congregation is the desire to attract new members and to talk of the Gospel.

The total number of persons that attended preaching services is 15,299. The average attendance of the Sunday-school is 135.

We must confess that this congregation is distinguished by the fact that almost every family holds a sunrise prayer meeting and has religious meetings in the home.

Our church has been sustaining itself completely now for two years, and thanks to God we have met our obligations, though with some little difficulty. Our members are poor, but they give with all their heart. The "Tenth Legion" was organized with forty-three members. They hold their special meetings, and on the first Sunday of every month open the chest and hand the money to the church, to be used wherever there is need. The total expended during the year was $6,094.96, including the before-mentioned $2,536.52 for the school.

We felt the imperious necessity of a school for our children, but the magnitude of the undertaking held us back until in the present year the congregation decided to get to work on such an important matter. Two professors were brought from Saltillo, Senorita Delia Esparza and Senorita Maria Jesus Muro, at salaries of $80 and $50 respectively. The 5th of February, 1907, the school was inaugurated under the name of "Colegio Pestalozzy." The average daily attendance is forty-five. The school is for girls, and our desire is that it may become a normal school, and that some day in the future we may have a fully equipped educational institution.

THE PRESS.—The output of the Press, located in Mexico City, in pages was 3,403,800. The Press has continued to send out the usual publications as follows:

El Faro , semi-monthly, twenty-four issues	3,500 pages.
Cuadernos , quarterly, four issues	4,150 copies.
Hojas , quarterly, four issues	2,000 issues.
Supplemental Monthly , twelve issues	3,800 copies.
The C. E. paper, El Esforzador , published for eight months to the number of 550 for each issue.

In addition there have been many thousand copies of tracts and leaflets published. The total receipts were $3,736.91.

The Press has received many orders from Chile for books and periodicals, and also various orders from America. In addition it has made most satisfactory arrangements with publishing houses in Spain, whereby the Press becomes a depository in Mexico for the sale of books printed in the Spanish language. Through the substitution of an electric motor, having a gasoline engine, the fuel bill for the year was reduced from $412 to $180. The Press is in great need of additional equipment, not merely to carry on its ordinary work, but in order to take larger contracts which are constantly being offered.

ZACATECAS STATION AND GOMEZ PALACIO AND TORREON.

The southern part of the Zacatecas field has been under the care of the Rev. Charles Petran, and North Zacatecas and Laguna, with Gomez Palacio and Turreon, under the Rev. T. F. Wallace, D.D., and Mrs. M. T. Campbell up to the time of her resignation from the Mission. Dr. Wallace and Mrs. Campbell made their headquarters at Saltillo.

Mr. Petran spent a portion of the year at Mexico City, acting as Treasurer of the Mission. He reports on the work for the southern part of the Zacatecas field as follows:

I devoted some time to the work of the Self-support Committee of the Presbytery. Different letters were sent out to all congregations of the Presbytery on the subject of self-support. The Committee asked for an increase of $720 in the support of the pastors. An increase of over $1,800 was reported, as well as good advances in other directions.

The Fresnillo Church, while showing a decrease in receipts of some $30 or $40 from the previous year, really makes a remarkable showing, considering that thirteen members were lost during the year by removal to other parts of the Republic. The total amount raised was $284.37. Of this $114.57 was for the school.

I would like to acknowledge the kind hospitality in Fresnillo of Mr. T. J. Nye and A. D. Sproat, manager and superintendent respectively of the Fresnillo Mining Company.

The salient feature of the Zacatecas Church is the fact that the pastor is gradually making a place for himself in the community. There are new faces in the congregation, and the attendance increased. This is not due to immigration, for it is all the other way, but to the fact that the pastor is making a good impression on the community.

According to reports, the mining in Zacatecas is deadlier than what we considered dead last year. The crops in many places through the State have been a failure or very small, so that I look upon the financial outlook for this year with some concern, but we will pull through some way.

From Zacatecas to the west, we visit congregations at Moral and members at Jerez. At Jerez the congregation has not picked up yet. At Moral we have quite a few members, but they are not well instructed. Some of our best members in Zacatecas have come from this ranch, however. In Jerez I have urged upon a small group of young ladies in the Fernandez family the study of the Sunday-school Lessons, and as I have just received an order for the Guaderno and Faro, I do not doubt that they plan to be faithful in this. Moral and Las Lajas have been visited by Antonio Senti, a Cuban student. He has done enthusiastic work and has managed to get out good congregations on his visits. The student above mentioned also visited Las Pilas and San Geronimo. He worked on this general field for about four months, visiting the ranches in turn and holding services nearly every night. He also helped Mr. Euresti in Zacatecas. In December he again returned to the field and has made his first trip or round. This year he will include Ojo Caliente, Refugio and Jerez in the places to be visited.

The early part of the year, I visited Ojo Caliente and Refugio several times. The members always turn out, and one is greeted by as big a congregation as can crowd into the room.

The work in the Valley of Talatenango and of Tabasco has been taken care of by Rev. Juan F. Márquez. He has been there for some years and the Protestants seem to form a large family of which he is one. It has never been possible to get them to see their obligation in the way of self-support.

From the ranch of Buena Vista one gets a sweeping view of the Tabasco Valley. In the ranch are hearts sincere which rejoice in the simple presentation of the Gospel themes. At other points there are members on our church rolls, but not the kind that recommend Christianity.

I hope to see a man put in this valley who will traverse its length and mountain sides, instructing and preaching to these people. I have kept one or two places well supplied with literature.

The Zacatecas south field is a field of magnificent distances—one on which you can push out in all directions and not strike into other occupied territory. To the south; to the north along the line of the Central and in the new mining camps now being developed; to the east toward San Luis Potosi; and to the west toward the Bolañas and the Huichol country, in every direction unoccupied territory. To get over these distances I have at my disposal the Central Railroad, a hand car, a stage coach, a two-wheeled mail carrier's rig and an old stumbling white horse.

Dr. Wallace reports for the northern Zacatecas and Laguna fields:

I have made two visits over the whole of these fields, and to a number of the congregations and churches various others during the year; and the favorable change in activity and deepened interest along all lines of Christian work, as well as in the spirituality of the members, has been more marked and encouraging than in any previous year of my long connection with these fields.

San Miguel District.—The four congregations of this district—Santa Clara, San Miguel de Mezquital, Sombrerete and Rio Grande—are in towns of the same name in the northern part of the State of Zacatecas. These four congregations, as during the previous year, were under the care of Evangelist Estevan Ramirez, aided this year as last for three months very efficiently by Felipe Cruz, a student of our Seminary. This young man has shown an excellent spirit, and has endeared himself to the people in the congregations of that field. He asked to have his way paid this year and last from the Seminary to that field, and be allowed to work, without saying a word about remuneration.

Rio Grande.—The congregation at this place has been working for two or three years to raise money to put up a chapel. A location has been secured, and lumber and other material necessary are all on hand, and they expect to be in their own chapel by the middle of the present year.

Laguna Field.—This field proper comprises the organized churches of San Pedro, Torreon and Gomez Palacio, with congregations of Lerdo, Sierra Mojada and Viesca, and two or more preaching points. During the year 1906 there was only one native Mexican worker—an ordained minister in charge of the Torreon Church—with Mrs. Campbell and the missionary in charge on this whole field. The two latter looked after San Pedro, Gomez Palacio, Lerdo, Sierra Mojada and Viesca. Through Mrs. Campbell's persistent and prudent work the Gomez Palacio Church increased gradually in attendance upon regular services. A Sabbath-school was organized with officers and six or seven teachers. The Primary Department, which began with only some six or eight, soon increased to thirty-five. Self-support was also worked up there, and at San Pedro systematic giving was inaugurated, and by the end of that year both churches united in calling Antonio Arellano, formerly a student under care of the Presbytery. Only a few months after he came the Gomez Palacio Church concluded that they needed all the time of Mr. Arellano, and Presbytery authorized him to take charge of that church and the small congregation at Lerdo, only three miles distant. Mr. Arellano's helpmate is not only his "better half" as a wife, but most emphatically his "better half" as a co-worker in all departments of church work.

Torreon Church.—This church is in charge of Rev. Cipriano Frausto. The church now has a larger attendance than ever before in its history. The Sabbath-school has increased during the year from an enrollment of some seventy to over 120. Several revival meetings were held during the year, and the pastor attributes the marked change in the church to the spirit of prayer poured out upon his people. Besides regular Sabbath and week-day services, cottage prayer meetings are held in different parts of the city, and they have kept up an uninterrupted work. The money contributed for all purposes by the church has increased from $500 the previous year to $1,000 the year just closed. They have invited the "United Society of Christian Young People" in the Republic to hold their annual meeting there this year, and are already preparing to provide liberally for its entertainment. The three churches in the Laguna district, mentioned in this report, as well as the congregations at Lerdo, Viesca and Sierra Mojada, own their own chapels, and San Pedro and Sierra Mojada have houses for a pastor, and the chapels at San Pedro and Gomez Palacio have been repaired, replastered and painted. A meter and incandescent lights have been introduced into the Gomez Palacio Chapel. A new and larger organ was purchased by the Torreon people, and Mission day-school was kept up there a part of the year.

Of the work in Gomez Palacio, Mrs. M. T. Campbell writes:

The work with the children is the most promising. Our Sabbath-school is increasing in numbers a little, but what pleases me most is that there is more regularity in attendance and more interest taken in the study.

The Junior and Primary C. E. Societies show more promise than the Senior, but I have not lost hope for that. The young children are learning texts of the Bible, and the older ones are taking up a course of study including the names of the books of the Bible, the first and twenty-third Psalms, thirteenth of First Corinthians, Commandments, Beatitudes, etc., also the lives of the Patriarchs and of Christ. It is getting to be popular to get their lessons, and although there are many who do not come, and of those who do many do not learn what I should like to have them, yet others are doing so, and I hope that soon the rest will be influenced. Already the work among the children is beginning to have its effect upon the older people.

SAN LUIS POTOSI STATION.

The report of this field for a year ago was lost. The Rev. C. Scott Williams reports for the year 1907-08 as follows:

The work in the Central Station started in under favorable auspices, but through some mistakes made by the native pastor it was deemed expedient to dissolve the pastoral relation, and this interfered with the progress of the work. The church, however, raised its quota of $30 a month as agreed.

Charcas.—I visited this place in April and held two very interesting meetings in the house of a tailor, and found about twenty people who were believers. There are some mining camps in this region that supply work for some of the people, but the town is a very sleepy and intensely fanatical place.

Cardenas.—This is a railroad camp and machine shop, full of vice and full of opportunity for service, though correspondingly difficult. A woman who is a church member lends us her house for the services, which are held whenever Sr. Solis can come, which is about once a month.

The Huasteca.—The point at which I get off the train to enter the Huasteca is San Dieguito, where there is a small American colony of farmers. I have preached here twice in English and held one meeting with a Mexican audience, in which my theme was temperance and my object the closing of the saloons of the place on Sundays. We put through a petition and gained our point, or at least got an order from the Governor to that effect.

Tampemoche.—This is a little ranch on the top of the divide before descending into the Huasteca Valley. The administrator is a good friend of mine, and I have made good use of him in getting him to care for my horses when not in use. I found on my last trip that the man's wife is the daughter of an old member of the Guayabos congregation, and so I offered to hold a service in the house and succeeded in interesting them all. I do not know what will come of it.

Coxcatlan.—The work here was flourishing up to the end of April, when it dropped down on account of the young student returning to Coyoacan, but it has revived again with the advent of another student at the end of the year. A good start has been made and four were received on profession of faith. At the services the attendance often reaches eighty persons.

We have to lament the death of our dear friend and co-worker, Dr. Alexander Marchand, ex-prelate of Rome, doctor in medicines and doctor in divinity, a wonderful orator and strong polemic preacher of righteousness. He died of fever in Tancanhuitz and was buried with the highest honors by the authorities of the city.

Pisaflores.—The work here presents no new features. Mr. Gomez has sent in a very meagre report, by which I see that the two points of Pisaflores and Tlacuilola have each contributed $5 a month for the salary of their pastor, something they had never done before.

Jiliapan.—This is a little country village over among the hills where there is no priest and where we have a nice church and quite a congregation. This is the place of residence of the young preacher, Abimael Gutierrez. The points are Pacula, Potrerillos, Canoas, Adjuntas, Milpas Viejas and Santa Maria. The proper caring for these places makes it impossible to visit Zimapan and Encarnacion, of which I shall speak in a moment.

I have not as yet decided on receiving into communion any of the numerous candidates in the outlying ranches in this district, as we wish to bring them farther along to the point of real Christian activity. Services have been started in two new places, Adjuntas and Santa Maria.

Zimapan.—This is the largest city in all this region, counting nearly 8,000 inhabitants. After long years of waiting the mines have started up again and there is some prospect of commercial life, and that will mean opportunity for us. We have a few faithful families there, but they do not meet by themselves for worship, and none of them are in a condition to help toward self-support.

SALTILLO STATION.

The Rev. T. F. Wallace, D.D., spent a portion of his time visiting out-stations and the churches in the Saltillo district, baptizing members and administering the Lord's Supper. No events of special interest are recorded in his record.

The Girls' Normal School.—Miss Jennie Wheeler reports:

There were enrolled seventy-five boarders, but four were obliged to leave in September. The day-pupils in the advanced grades numbered fourteen and in the primary department twenty-five, making a total of 114.

Our primary department was exceedingly small, for we charge a small tuition, and the public schools are now so well conducted and ask no tuition that people are sending their children more and more to them.

As a Normal School it is, of course, necessary to maintain a practice class for the graduating class, so we wish to keep twenty or twenty-five primary pupils.

The interest in the public examinations, the attendance at the alumni reunion, and finally the success of the commencement exercises, all testified to the good standing of the school.

Three girls were graduated, and while a small class numerically we hope will make up in good work.

We have now graduated ninety-one from the full course of study during the eighteen years and a half of the existence of the Saltillo school. Of this number five have died, thirty-one are married, one is a dressmaker, one a trained nurse, forty-nine are teaching and four are unemployed except at home.

I believe we can report advance along the lines in regard to the teachers sent out. We have now only one Mission School in the Saltillo field, outside of the Normal School; one in Zacatecas field and one in the San Luis field. So necessarily our teachers must enter the Government schools, and this year there has been a great demand for teachers. Mr. Osma even this last week asked me if I could not possibly give him four more. He reports all doing good work. In Coahuila the teachers are receiving from $30 to $65 a month. This year we have three teachers in Saltillo City schools.

Forty-seven of the boarders are members of the church, and several others are waiting to be received. The Christian Endeavor Society belonging to the school held regular meetings, exerting a good influence over the girls. The Senior class pupils attended the church society as during past years, and the school attended the church services in connection with the Saltillo Church, giving such help as called for.

The pressure from new applicants is almost more than the house can endure. Thirty-one new girls have applied for places up to date. I think I can arrange to take seventy-five in all, but nearly all the pupils of last year wish to re-enter and only three graduated.

We received from all sources from February 1, 1907, to January 13, 1908, $4,344.44. The total expense for the same time was $9,326.84. Received from the Board, $5,250.

I would not like to close this report without a word in appreciation of Mrs. Campbell's work during six months. Her faithfulness in Mission work and interest in our educational work we all know and honor. Her going will be a loss to our work.

CHILPANCINGO STATION AND JALAPA.

The Mission assigned the superintendence of the work in the State of Guerrero, in which Chilpancingo is situated, to the Rev. Isaac Boyce and Rev. C. C. Millar, D.D. Dr. Millar made a long trip in the Summer, occupying seventy days, and during that time visited less than half of the congregations in the State.

Dr. Boyce visited Guerrero in October and December. He visited eighteen points where special work was established, and several places in which were Christian families. He held forty-five services and distributed 8,000 pages and tracts.

Dr. Millar reports as follows:

The first place I visited was Iguala, some eight hours by rail from Mexico City, where lives a faithful evangelist who holds services in his own house and visits a number of places from five to twenty miles distant. From there I went to Tuxpan, an hour's ride by horseback, where in addition to the congregation is a Mission school with forty-two pupils enrolled and an average attendance of twenty-eight. The school is under the charge of one of the graduates of the Normal School in Mexico City.

The pastor in charge, the Rev. Felix Gomez, accompanied me on the rest of the trip. Two days' riding towards the south brought us to Cochipala. Here is a small congregation which receives occasional visits from the pastor at Chilpancingo. There is a day-school connected with the church which is partly self-supporting. Thence the journey was taken to Zumpango, where there is no church, no congregation, but a little group gathered in the house of the evangelist who teaches them the Word. Two hours' ride southeast is Chilpancingo, the capital of the State, and consisting of 4,000 inhabitants. The earthquake in April, 1907, greatly injured the city.

The members of the congregation in Chilpancingo pay only $3 a month toward their pastor's salary.

Nine or ten miles east of Chilpancingo is Tixtla. We have a day-school there, with an enrollment of seventy-eight and an average attendance of forty.

Four days' hard ride over bad roads from Chilpancingo is Acapulco. There are no large towns, only small villages and little settlements, and these are far apart. In them and in Acapulco we have no work established. Twelve miles from Acapulco is Puerto Marques, where some of the members of the Chilpancingo congregation live. Now it is only a railroad grade and camp, but it is to be the terminal of a railroad that is to go from the coast at that point to a large copper mine known as La Dicha. The chief engineer of this road is a Presbyterian, and other members of the force are Christian men. They gave the missionary a hearty welcome. There is a great opportunity for work here.

From Acapulco we journeyed to San Jeronimo, where are a few Christians; thence to Otayac. Here is a small church of twenty members. In the mountain north of Alyac there are many persons who have heard a little of the Gospel and are interested to hear more.

We visited a number of other places where we found groups of Christians needing instruction. This entire field is almost wholly destitute of the Gospel.

Dr. Boyce visited a portion of the field, for the most part not visited by Dr. Millar. He writes:

In Politla, where two families were attacked by a mob thirty years ago, I found a man, a member of the church, who was present at the time of the massacre. He was but a lad and escaped by crawling into an oven, where he passed the night in terror. The next morning he started for his home and gave the news of what had occurred. The authorities seized all the goods of the murdered families, and it was in such an out-of-the-way place no notice was ever taken by the Government.

In La Reforma, a rancharia some three or three and a half leagues to the south of Tlacotepec, we had by far the largest congregations we met with on the trip. There are not over twenty houses in the village and, situated as it is on a barren mountain top, it is one of the last places on earth one would expect a large gathering; yet at our first service there were about eighty present, and at the last one more than 100 were present. The inhabitants of the region are hardy mountaineers who love their native hills, and who do not understand why one from the hot country should shiver in the rare cool atmosphere of their mountains. They present curious contrasts in their character. They are most enthusiastic Protestants, but not overpious—rather their piety will not keep them from mixing in worldly affairs which not infrequently gets them into trouble. The whole mountain region is peopled by small ranches. The major part of the inhabitants are "moonshiners" of the most pronounced type. In spite of their business, the people of the section are a virile, hopeful race. They are strong, rugged and independent, and will in the long run play an important part in the evangelization of the State of Guerrero.

We have a day-school in the village, taught by Sra. Epifania Alarcon do Kruger. I attended the examinations. There were some twenty-five girls and boys present, and they passed a very creditable examination.

From La Reforma to Chilpancingo is two full days' ride. We reached the capital on Friday evening. We found Mr. Zavaleta sick and unable to be out as he was suffering from boils. He was very much annoyed by the insistence of the new Governor of the State that he should take the prefectura of the district of Chilpancingo. I saw the communication sent to Mr. Zavaleta by the Secretary of State, insisting that he (Zavaleta) should make up his mind on the subject before noon of the day following our arrival. I confess it increased my respect for this brother when I read the answer he sent the Governor, in which he positively refused the position, with an offer of $200 per month, or more if he asked for it.

Dr. Boyce lives in Jalapa. In addition to his trip to Guerrero he made a trip to Tabasco. He attended the meeting of the Gulf Presbytery at Merida, in the State of Yucatan, and after the meeting of Presbytery he made a number of other trips.

During the year he was absent from home a little over 200 days. He conducted 140 services, traveled in canoes over 300 miles, on horseback about 800 miles, and on railroad trains 6,750 miles. He did not lose a day on account of sickness during the entire year. He writes:

The recognized centre of the State of Tabasco is the capital, San Juan Bautista. The largest congregation is that of Paraiso. The best work and the best people we find in the ranches and plantations outside the towns. The character of the inhabitants of the State is peculiar and interesting. There is a frankness about the people which I have found in no other part of the Republic of Mexico, a frankness which to a stranger might be taken for forwardness, if not impertinence. In my report I will speak principally of our work among the farming population of Tabasco. In San Juan Bautista our work has gone on as usual during the year. The business of the city is in the hands of the Spaniards, and the mass of the people are "hewers of wood and drawers of water" to them. No man can start up in business, as the Spaniards will ruin him in some way or other before he is fairly established in it. This is just as true also with regard to Americans or other foreigners attempting to establish any kind of business which is any way comes into competition with the Spaniards. As a result foreigners stay away, and the Mexican people suffer.

In the district of Paraiso, on the northern coast of the State, the conditions are very different. There are some Spaniards in the town, but not enough to absorb the life of the people.

La Ceiba, a league from the town, is the point at which we have our most aggressive and most promising work. The whole settlement, for miles along the river banks, is practically Protestant. We spent two days in the village and had most enthusiastic meetings. These people are carried on the church roll of Paraiso, and attend Sabbath service in the town. Lying back at a distance of some ten or twelve miles from Paraiso and close to the coast are a number of rancherias where we have some believers.

About Arroyo Hondo there is an open field for us, and the only opposition practically is from the Mormons who are colonizing in that region. A Mormon company has bought some 70,000 acres of land, reaching from near Huinanguillo almost to Arroyo Hondo. This influence is quite strong in Cardenas and the whole surrounding region. It can only be combated by a strong man who will expose their system. Fortunately the women are strongly opposed to the Mormons, so there is reason to believe that they will not be able to make large inroads in the district. We ought not, however, to count too much on this fact. We ought to go in and possess the land.

The work in the State of Vera Cruz has gone on as usual during the year. No notable incidents are to be recorded. It has been a normal year, full of hard work on the part of all engaged in evangelical propaganda. I have been absent from Jalapa so much during the past two years that I do not feel like giving much of a report on the work. I will only say that we have gone on steadily in the propaganda, and feel that real progress has been made. Our Sabbath-school is well organized, and we have a very fair corps of teachers, trained and directed by Mrs. Boyce. There is great interest in the school, and we have a lot of bright youngsters in it. The Junior Christian Endeavor is under Mrs. Boyce's charge, and she will no doubt speak more at length with regard to it.

ZITACUARO STATION.

The field was in charge of the Rev. W. E. Vanderbilt. He and Mrs. Vanderbilt made a trip to part of the field. Mrs. Vanderbilt writes:

This was the first trip to the ranch congregations. I thoroughly enjoyed taking part in the services held in the homes of these simple people, and thus having the opportunity of becoming acquainted with the members of the various churches. I especially enjoyed my visit to Agostadero, away up in the mountains. Over 100 people attended the services and nine new members were received into the Church. During the five and one-half days we traveled 100 miles on horseback.

Mr. Vanderbilt writes:

The life of the Zitacuaro Church has fluctuated greatly both in attendance and in Christian activity. No members have been received during the entire year, contributions have fallen off, and in general there is demoralization. That this is not entirely due to the worker in charge is evidenced by the present condition of the San Francisco Church, which is but a short distance from Zitacuaro. The brethren at this place withdrew from us in 1902 and set up an independent organization, which they continued until March of this year, when they sent me an official communication asking to be received again into the Presbyterian Church and that a pastor be appointed to take charge of the work. It was my privilege to be present in the district and personally inaugurate the new plans. For nearly five years I had been holding on to the hope of welcoming them again into our Church. It was a long time, but at last all breaches were healed and the entire work of the district was again united.

Southern Group.—At the beginning of the year this group gave splendid hopes of having a prosperous year. Later on, however, the religious life of the church came to a standstill, but we have hopes that they will soon get tired of the new path that they are treading and may return to us.

The rest of my report for this year will be made up of a translation of the reports of their work which Messrs. Castillo and Falcon have sent me.

From Mr. Castillo's report I quote:

As points which stand out in my ministerial life during the past year I must mention the following: I received twelve members to the Church in full communion, being additions to the churches in La Colmena and Agostadero. By my coming to Agostadero there was erected a new edifice for the school entirely at the expense of the brethren. It is one of the most prosperous years that I have had in the work. These two congregations raised $473.96. In these two churches there are good foundations on which to build up self-support in the future. The Sessions of the churches are working in harmony with our Discipline and Form of Government. The hope that some of my pupils may enter the sacred ministry inspires me in my work.

Mr. Falcon has sent me the following report for the year 1907:

"Report of the Church of the Divine Redeemer of Toluca, State of Mexico, for the year 1907: Total membership, forty-six. There is a C. E. Society with twelve active members. This society has truly been a great help to the church. Its members are faithful workers. They collected during the year the sum of $140 and bought a new organ for $225. Also they help the pastor in his visits to the church members. I cannot give an exact account of the receipts of the church, but from all sources there was collected about $460, of which there was paid $180 for pastor's salary, $30 for lights, $25 for local expenses, $10 for literature and $200 for an organ and installation of electric light. I have been able to take up the work of visiting the small congregation of Tlacotepec every two weeks, and it is getting along better in spite of the proselyting of the Mormons."

MISSIONS IN PERSIA.

The last annual report told of the accession of the new Shah and the stirring political events connected with the establishment of Parliament and the first steps toward constitutional government. Such a political movement is of the utmost significance to the friends of Missions in a Mohammedan land, where religious liberty has been either unknown or much restricted, and the political events of the year have created the atmosphere in which the missionary work has been done.

Teheran has naturally been the storm-centre, the Shah and the Parliament being engaged in a struggle each to limit the authority of the other. Matters came to a crisis in December, which is briefly described in the following report of a resident of Teheran, dated December 21, 1907:

For the past week everything in Teheran has been in confusion. The Shah has been attempting to overthrow the Majles, and with it the Constitution for which it stands. Some time ago, following the example of Russia, he proposed to prorogue the Majles (Parliament). He said, "I stand for the Constitution, but I am not satisfied with the present membership. I propose to dismiss this Majles and call a new election after a few months." To this the Majles demurred. They called to His Majesty's attention the fact that before he ascended the throne he had promised not to prorogue it for two years, and refused to be dismissed. Failing in this, His Majesty decided to try a coup d'etat. It began last Sunday evening, December 15. A crowd gathered in the Cannon Square near the palace. Some patrolled the street in front of the palace, crying, "May the Shah live! May the Majles die! May the Koran live! May the opposers of the Koran die!" Later it became known that this spontaneous uprising of the people had been planned by the Shah himself, who had hired some of the mollahs and the roughs of the city to make a demonstration against the Majles.

Meanwhile a number of the ministers had been summoned to the palace. The Nassir-ol-Molke, the Prime Minister, was arrested and threatened with death. Through the intervention of the British representative he was given permission to depart for Europe, which he did early Monday morning, accompanied by three trusted servants of the British Legation. The Ala-Doleh and the Moeen-ol-Molke, the two brothers of the president of the Majles, also were arrested and started off into banishment.

Monday it was announced that Tuesday at 11 o'clock there was to be a "Jehad," or holy war, and all good Moslems were adjured to be ready to march against the Majles which had trampled the Koran under foot. Tuesday some 400 peasants from the Shah's own villages came in from Veramin, but otherwise there were no accessions to his following. It became evident to everyone that the attempted uprising was proving a ludicrous failure.

PERSIA AND KURDISTAN.

Monday and Tuesday to outsiders it looked as if the Majles were doing nothing, and that the Shah would have his own way, but it turns out that their inaction was not from weakness, but from conscious strength. They knew all about the Shah's plans and knew that he could effect little or nothing. They let him do all he could in order to show him how powerless he is, and show the people how little he is to be trusted. In the beginning they announced that they would make no attack upon the Shah, but if attacked they would defend themselves. This accounts for the fact that his numerous threats to bombard the Majles never materialized.

Tuesday P.M. the Shah professed to come to terms and promised to disperse the mob. Wednesday evening the tents were taken down, and the occupants thereof camped in some of the buildings connected with the palace, whence they promised to make another "spontaneous" uprising. This they attempted Thursday afternoon, putting up the tent again, but their efforts were futile, and now (Saturday) the disturbance seems to be really ended, save that robbers and thieves are taking advantage of the disorders and are making the streets unsafe at night.

The Shah has been forced to give in to the Majles. He has consented to the return of all whom he ordered banished.

In spite of constant discussion and political unrest—perhaps on these very accounts—there has been an increased measure of religious toleration. Dr. Potter writes of this in reporting the growth of the newspaper press:

The crop of newspapers which has recently sprung up in the capital of Persia is considerable, and it is interesting to see the newsboys actually running uptown with a bundle of papers fresh from the press. Some of them are issued daily, except on Friday. The names are indicative of the new aspirations which have arisen in this land subsequent to the Japanese war with Russia. Thus we have The Assembly, Civilization, the Cry of the Country, Justice, Progress, Knowledge, The True Dawn.

One is called Sur-i-Israfael, which may answer to Gabriel's trumpet, and bears a picture on its first page of the angel flying over a thickly populated cemetery, and from the graves the dead are coming forth to life. Attached to the trumpet of the angel is a scroll bearing the Arabic motto, "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity." A recent issue of this paper has a sympathetic article concerning the raid upon the Nestorians in Western Persia by the Turks; and in addition has sent around to the Legations and to the Mission a remarkable letter. Our copy is addressed to the Prayer House and School of the New World. The letter is written on paper with a heavy black border, used for funeral notices, and the message of condolence may be translated as follows:

"As your honorable mind, from the testimony of history, is aware of the manifest humanitarianism of us children of Persia, without regard to religious or denominational lines; and you know that we Persians are free from religious bigotry, ascribed to some Moslem nations.

"On this account, in the dreadful calamity at Urumia, and the barbarous conduct of the Turkish troops toward our Christian fellow-countrymen, we, in harmony with you, are pained and affected. And our partnership with your high Excellency and fellow-countrymen respecting this disaster which has fallen upon your Christian brethren, the Nestorians, and our fellow-men and fellow-countrymen, we have made known as far as possible in (our) paper. And on suitable occasions having expressed these our deep feelings, you will accept our partnership of grief and pain concerning these brethren of your religion, and Nestorian countrymen of us Persians."

The political events of the year which caused the missionaries most apprehension have been connected more with the dispute with Turkey over the northwestern boundary than with the internal political discord. During the Summer the Persians sent a military expedition against the Kurds, who for the last three or four years have been making life uneasy for everyone in the Urumia region, and would have brought them to terms, but Turkish troops crossed the border and supported the Kurds, and the Persian expedition fled. For some weeks the plains between the Urumia Lake and the mountains were subject to constant depredations from the Kurds, the Turkish troops meanwhile having settled on the Persian side of the boundary. Later some of the Turkish troops moved to the southwest of Urumia, and Turkey is now claiming sovereignty over territory which for generations has been acknowledged to belong to Persia. The Turkish troops later took their Kurdish allies in hand, however, and conditions have been somewhat better than they were, and a joint Turko-Persian Commission is now sitting in Urumia, discussing the boundary question.

When the expedition failed the Persians were disposed to lay the blame on the missionaries, charging that the expedition would not have taken place if it had not been for the insistence of the American Government on the punishment of the murderers of Mr. Labaree, although the missionaries had requested that nothing further should be done. When, in defending their own course, the Turks charged that the Persians were invading Turkey, there was an additional reason, on the part of some of the Persians, for laying the blame of the expedition on the Americans. Through the kindness of the British Minister in Teheran correct representations were made in Constantinople as well as in Teheran.

It should perhaps be recorded that of the fourteen persons charged with the crime of Mr. Labaree's murder, while none have been punished by the Government, three have already died violent deaths.

The cities of Persia are in a ferment with the new political ideas, and the movement toward freedom seems to be a genuine one. Mr. Shedd writes:

It is easy to depreciate the whole movement. The people do not know the meaning of the words they use. The popular government is weak and often corrupt. The people do not know how to use the rights they have extorted from their rulers. Hypocrites have always been more than plentiful in Persia, and many, possibly most, preach this new gospel in pretense and not in truth. All of these statements may be admitted, and the present political movement may meet only with disaster. Nevertheless Persia has begun to learn the meaning of liberty. Not a few are preaching it because a woe is laid on them if they preach it not. The new youth of freedom is being born in their hearts, and a new Persia is to be born.

This new Persia is to be found not in the hearts of the young alone. One grim old merchant said to me, "I will see only the troubles and difficulties of this new age, but my children may see its blessings." Some of the leaders are old men, but most of those who see visions of a free Persia are young men, and if the hope ever is more than a dream, the young men will bring it to pass. This young Persia has not cast off all the teachings or all the errors of the past. Most of the dreamers see the vision of a Mohammedan State, strong in freedom and true to the faith of the fathers. Yet if freedom often has found a foe in the Christian Church, how much more certainly must battles be fought with the Mohammedan hierarchy? Proof-texts for representative government are still drawn from the Koran, yet there are both friends and foes who point out that Islam is a fixed and infallible law, and that a code of law subject to change by a popular assembly is contrary to the very foundation of the faith. The struggle has already begun, and the king is doing what he can to play mollah against people by refusing to sign constitutional changes unless they have the endorsement of the chief clergy. This young Persia is very ignorant, and is asking to be taught. It believes that science has given the West its pre-eminence, and so it asks for modern science. It is inclined to believe that science is all, and so some are becoming materialists. When the conflict between faith and science comes, as come it must, many will reject faith. Besides parliaments and assemblies, young Persia is establishing printing presses and schools, and is buying books and newspapers. The new schools are not in the mosques, and are different from the old ones, even in the method used for teaching the alphabet. The newspapers are crude, but they are outspoken for the people, and no one dares as yet to stop them. Young Persia is going West to school. Young Persia has some ugly, dangerous traits. It is buying arms and is drilling. Some are learning methods of assassination and terrorism. Anarchistic teaching begins to be heard, and there is danger of much irreligion. Said one of the leaders, a man wearing a mollah's turban, "The people will cast off Islam, but do not imagine that they will accept Christianity in its stead." The new spirit may bring a curse rather than a blessing. What can be done by those of us who believe that the kingdom of true liberty is the Kingdom of Christ?

EAST PERSIA MISSION.

TEHERAN: capital of Persia, 70 miles south of the Caspian Sea; population 300,000; work begun in 1872. Missionaries—Rev. J. L. Potter, D.D., and Mrs. Potter, Rev. Lewis F. Esselstyn, D.D., and Mrs. Esselstyn, J. G. Wishard, M.D., and Mrs. Wishard, Rev. S. M. Jordan and Mrs. Jordan, Rev. Charles A. Douglas and Mrs. Douglas, Miss Cora C. Bartlett, Miss Mary J. Smith, M.D., Miss Rosa Shoenhair, Miss Annie W. Stocking and Miss Flora G. Bradford.

KAZVIN: 100 miles northwest of Teheran. Missionaries—E. T. Lawrence, M.D., and Mrs. Lawrence.

RESHT: 170 miles northwest of Teheran, near the Caspian Sea; occupied 1904. Missionaries—Rev. H. C. Schuler and Mrs. Schuler and J. Davidson Frame, M.D.

HAMADAN: 200 miles southwest of Teheran; population 40,000; occupied in 1880. Missionaries—Rev. James W. Hawkes and Mrs. Hawkes, Rev. N. L. Euwer and Mrs. Euwer, Rev. F. M. Stead and Mrs. Stead, J. A. Funk, M.D., and Mrs. Funk, Miss Annie Montgomery, Miss Ada C. Holmes and Miss Clara H. Field, M.D.

IN THIS COUNTRY: J. G. Wishard, M.D., and Mrs. Wishard, Mrs. Esselstyn.

The Mission was reinforced during the year by the appointment of the Rev. Frank W. Moore as a member of the Teheran Station, by the going out of Mr. Arthur C. Boyce for three years as a teacher in the Teheran Boys' School, and by the appointment of Miss Flora Bradford as a matron nurse for the hospital. A nervous breakdown shortly after his reaching the field compelled Mr. Moore to return to the United States, and Dr. Wishard, partly on account of Mr. Moore and partly because of his own health, was obliged to return with him. Dr. Frame, of Resht, had come to Teheran for a visit and took up Dr. Wishard's work on his departure.

The special features of the work of the year in the Mission were the outbreak in the Teheran Boys' School, the building of the Lily Reed Holt Memorial Hospital in Hamadan, and the interesting evangelistic work among the villages around Kermanshah.

TEHERAN STATION.

THE CHURCHES.—Of the Armenian Church, Mr. Esselstyn writes:

There is practically nothing of interest to relate except that there still remains a small membership of about thirty more or less faithful, though displaying no particular church activity or spiritual life. One young man, son of an elder, was received into church membership.

The old difficulties impede progress—at least it appears so, judging from a human point of view. There is something innate in the Armenian character that prevents them from working for any great length of time in harmony with themselves or with anybody else. Armenians are always happy when interested in a quarrel. There is no church quarrel at present, but there is a spirit of distrust and dissatisfaction with each other that militates against church life.

Persian services have been conducted as usual in the Mission chapel.

The number of Moslems coming for personal inquiry has been less the past year, but a good number have attended the Persian preaching service and also the Persian Bible class. Political affairs have engrossed the attention of the people at the capital so largely that their religious interests have, for the time, been obscured.

It is worthy of note that one of the converts from Islam who was much maligned at the time of the strike in the boys' school, under the trial developed a remarkable courage and faith. Casting himself entirely upon the protection of the Lord, he decided quite distinctly that his proper course was to remain at his post as an officer of the school, and not to withdraw from Teheran for a time, as was suggested by some. His acceptance of Christianity with his baptism was published in one of the Persian papers, in connection with the account of the occurrence in the school. His faith and courage were justified by the outcome, for though he remained at his post, performing his regular duties in the school, until the end of the term, he was not molested.

The English service has been maintained regularly on Sundays for the English-speaking residents, especially those connected with the legations. The highest attendance was 110, and the average fifty-two. The English services resulted in generous contributions of more than $1,000 toward the hospital, the girls' school, and cemetery and other purposes.

ITINERATING WORK.—Comparatively little itinerating work has been done during the year. At the close of the year, however, Mr. and Mrs. Schuler were transferred to Teheran on account of health, and Mr. Schuler took up the country itineration.

WORK FOR WOMEN.—Mrs. Potter carried on evangelistic work in the woman's ward of the hospital and in the Mission chapel and home visitation. As Mrs. Douglas reports:

It was gratifying to note the number of women that gathered Sabbath after Sabbath under Christian instruction. Though they may listen with unbelief and sometimes with open opposition, one has the satisfaction of having made plain the Gospel invitation. It was noticed that the classes were made up not only of day-school pupils and their mothers, but of women coming from we knew not where. Sometimes the women will not give us their names or addresses and we never see them again, and could not recognize them enveloped in their "chuddars" were we to pass them on the street. In such cases of "sowing on the waters" we can only offer a silent prayer that some word may have been spoken to find lodgment and strike root in fertile soil.

Mrs. Potter and the writer were very anxious to gain entrance in the homes of some of our school-girls. As there seemed little hope of our receiving invitations from them, a tea and a good time was given them one afternoon. Almost the next day an invitation was given us by the mother of one of the girls. Before the Winter was over we had visited nearly all the homes of the girls. In some of the homes visited a foreign lady had never entered, and consequently we excited great interest. But what contrasts in these homes! One day we would enter a richly and elaborately furnished house, the next a room that might be called only a hovel. We were always received kindly and cordially and entertained according to the Persian custom, i.e., seated in front of a large table loaded down with all kinds of sweetmeats, nuts and fruits. It is not always easy to lead the conversation to the all-important subject. Whenever the visit was coming to a close the girl was asked to repeat some Psalm or Scripture verses she had memorized, and in this way it was possible to leave a little word.

The ladies connected with the boys' school have splendid opportunities for evangelistic work in a social way, as the boys always seem eager for the ladies to call at their homes and meet their mothers.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Boys' School.—While Mr. Jordan was at home, where he secured generous help for the support and enlargement of the school, Mr. Douglas was in charge. He reports:

Early in the year the school was honored by visits from both the British and German Ministers to the Shah's Court, each of whom, after carefully observing the work of the school in different departments, expressed his surprise and gratification that an institution of such a standard of thoroughness was to be found in Persia. The many parents and friends of the pupils and other visitors throughout the year never failed to overwhelm us with complimentary Persian expressions of approbation, the father saying, to convey his confidence in our educational work, whilst he presented some black-eyed little lad in high hat and long coat, "He is yours. I give you his skin and flesh and retain only the bones myself"; while the casual visitor remarks, "Everybody knows that the Americans laboring in Persia are lovers of mankind, and that your school stands ahead of all others."

Some of our best boys were led off by lucrative commercial positions, and some to other schools or places. Of the seven students from Persia this year at the Syrian Protestant College, Beirut, four were from our school here, and the others from the Mission school in Tabriz. The number of competing schools mentioned in our last report has been increased by a new German school, amply supported by the Imperial German and Persian Governments. They are erecting a fine, spacious building on the block next to our premises, and have already begun with seventy high-class Persian pupils, whom they purpose teaching French and English as well as German. The lines of competition and opposition are being drawn so closely around our work from all quarters that our cords must be lengthened and our stakes strengthened if we mean to hold our pre-eminent position.

The enrollment for the year, 236, was the top notch thus far attained, and the figures show an increase in every nationality in attendance over last year, viz.: Moslems, 130; Armenians, 91; Jews, 8; Zoroastrians, 7. Tuition collected amounted to 958 tomans. Both income and enrollment would have surpassed these figures had not a deterring incident occurred shortly after the end of the fiscal year. We have previously reported the details of the strike or revolt that took place on April 18, by which it was sought either to force us to make certain concessions to Mohammedan prejudices or to break up our Christian educational work. After united prayer and conference, we were led to take a firm stand for our future protection, and already events have worked out to prove the wisdom of such a course.

Led by a fanatical sayid and mollah, some forty-two students and four teachers, all of them Moslems, withdrew from the school in disorder and subsequently twenty students more were induced or intimidated, many against their wish, into leaving us. As near as we can fathom the mysterious workings of the Oriental mind, the affair was an outbreak of religious zeal, giving vent to itself through the new nationalistic movement felt all over Asia and North Africa since the recent war. A comparatively trivial incident was manufactured to exploit a carefully formulated and long fomented plot. Complaint was made against us to the Persian Minister of Education, who started a rival school under Islamic auspices. The local press was filled with malicious articles, and the sky was black for a time with mutterings and threats. But the Lord marvelously prevented a hand being lifted against us or anyone connected with us, and the outcome of it all was that the one native teacher whom we valued soon returned, as did some of the recalcitrant pupils with many apologies and promises. Their new school, named "The Eternal United School," facetiously enough soon disintegrated from internal dissension, while the leaders stand discredited and repudiated by the public authorities, and most of the remaining pupils are longing to re-enter our school at the next session, though we purpose to take back only those not likely to make mischief again, and have definitely excluded twenty-three of the pupils and two of the teachers who were most guilty. The storm seems to have left our Mission school in an even stronger position, with an augmented popular esteem and a clearer field for future action.

In spite of the outbreak the school was regularly carried on, with thirty Moslem students and all the Armenian, Jewish and Zoroastrian boys.

GIRLS' SCHOOL.—The school started with sixty-nine pupils, but enrolled during the year 137, of whom forty-nine were Moslems, two Fire Worshipers, seventy-eight Armenians and eight of mixed parentage. The capacity of the year was enlarged during the year, and a still greater number of Moslem pupils might be taken in if there was room. Miss Bartlett reports:

We had two nieces of the late Shah spend the day with us, with the expectation of entering. They were announced by a head-servant, and brought in a swell carriage, and ushered in with a maid-servant who stayed to wait on them. After a few hours of absorbing the attention of the whole school, we politely suggested that it was their noon and that they were probably tired; but no, indeed, their noon meal was to be brought. They had consulted the oracles, and it was a "lucky day for beginning to read," so they stayed on. One was for taking part in everything, writing on the blackboard and reading, and if necessary she would get a hat before to-morrow, while the other only criticised the first in a loud and shrill little voice. We failed to secure them, as we insisted that they could not have their servant stay with them.

Our "outlook" for the coming year is the brightest. Persia is astir. The girls are determined to have an education, and whoever comes to our school loves it. They are often dissatisfied when a holiday is given, preferring to be in school rather than stay at home. We have many "ups and downs" before us, but we are not "afraid." If by your help we can hold the first place, and never do any veneering but only solid work, we will at the close of this year raise another "Ebenezer" and press right ahead.

In addition to her work of teaching in the school, Miss Shoenhair reports:

A class in Armenian, which met with me four times each week for the study of Genesis and Exodus. This class in the Bible was composed of nine little Armenian girls who attended regularly.

One hundred and twenty calls were made during the year. Without exception there was a cordial welcome in each home visited.

MEDICAL WORK.—The number of patients admitted to the hospital has been larger than ever before. Dr. Smith reports:

As the private rooms in the men's hospital have not been needed this year for women, it has been possible to admit a larger number of private patients than formerly. The advantage of treatment in a hospital over that to be given at home is coming to be recognized by the higher classes, and those who a few years ago thought it a disgrace to go to a hospital to stay, looking on it as a charitable institution for poor people without home and friends, are now quite willing to honor us by coming.

Many of the surgical operations, both among the men and women, have been of a very serious nature, bringing heavy responsibility and oftentimes great anxiety to the surgeon. The fact that as the years go by there is an increase in the number of serious surgical cases brought shows the confidence of the people in the skill and carefulness of Dr. Wishard in his work.

The new addition, the pavilion for women, was dedicated and formally presented to the Station. It was an occasion of great joy and thanksgiving. Of the erection of these rooms, the money for which was given by a wealthy Mohammedan lady for her poor, suffering sisters of Persia, accounts have already been written and the facts are well known. Of the actual good accruing to our work and the relief and joy it has been to those of us in charge to have this place of their very own for the poor women, only those can appreciate who have experienced the inconvenience and responsibility of caring for women in the little rooms in a men's hospital in a Moslem land. The lady who gave the money is interested in the patients, particularly the severe surgical cases for whom nothing could have been done outside of a hospital. She has come informally to visit them, at one time being accompanied by her daughter-in-law, a daughter of the late Shah.

Are the women willing to come and stay? The fact that this year sixty-two patients have been admitted to the woman's hospital shows that there is a readiness on their part to come to us.

As to the class of patients. There has been the lady of some rank, with her own servants to wait on her and able and willing to pay something for treatment; those of the middle class, with a home and friends to be interested in their welfare and receive them gladly when ready to go home, and last the poor outcast and beggar, brought in a dying condition to be left and never inquired for again. One old Sayid Khnum came to the dispensary and refused to leave, saying she was going to stay with us the rest of her life, and if she got well enough she would work for us. What could we do but let her stay till the end came, which, was not long? One drawback has been the difficulty in finding a responsible woman to stay with and wait on them.

When you go in and find a woman whose eye has been operated on for cataract a few hours before sitting up and calling for her pipe, another walking out of doors or lifting up the bandage to test her sight, you realize the utter uselessness of leaving them to the care of their friends.

RESHT STATION.

The work of the Resht Station was interrupted somewhat during the year by the illness of members of the Station, necessitating the transfer of Mr. and Mrs. Schuler to Teheran; but after Mr. Jordan's return Mr. and Mrs. Douglas and Miss Stocking were transferred from Teheran to Resht.

Mr. Schuler conducted an interesting Friday evangelistic and social meeting, attended almost entirely by Persian men. He writes:

The first arrival was frequently at 1 o'clock. We did not consider it necessary to force the conversation into religious channels with the early arrivals. They sat drinking tea, smoking if they desired, and conversing as they chose in a social way. We are happy to say, however, that often the conversation was entirely religious, as a man would sometimes come early with the express purpose of asking questions that the meeting of the previous week had suggested. At 3 o'clock a formal address was given on some one of the fundamental teachings of Christianity. These addresses were in a series, the first being on "The Bible: Its Formation and Fundamental Teaching." This was followed by such subjects as "The Chief Teaching of the Towrat," "The Chief Teaching of the Zaboor and Schofe-Anbeea" (the Hagiography and Prophets); then several on what the New Testament teaches about Christ, two on what the Bible teaches about God, etc. One prayer was always offered, usually two. Following the formal meeting, informal discussion was held with as many as desired to remain. Usually all remained for at least a while, and the departure of the last man was usually about 7 o'clock. Tea was served again during the informal discussion. Questions and answers were the ordinary method of discussion. The attendance at this meeting was larger than that of two years ago.

Several incidents during the year are indicative of movement of thought among the Armenians. One was the application to us of the Armenian priest for Commentaries on the Bible. He seemed much gratified when we furnished him with thoroughly evangelical and spiritual works. Another incident was that of an Armenian who applied to us to give him a course of instruction in theology, offering to pay for the lessons. It developed that he was contemplating the Armenian priesthood, and wished to study with us a partial preparation previous to his departure for Julfa for instruction and ordination. "If I am a priest," he said, "I wish to be able to preach and expound the Scripture as well as to use the ritual. Consequently I apply to you."

One missionary tour was made during the time covered by this report—that of Mr. Shuler to Mazenderan, in November and December, a separate report of which has been rendered.

Bodyvilli (Rev.) Mehran Dombourajian, of Teheran, also made a tour in the Resht field in the interests of the American Bible Society. From Resht he went to Enzeli, from there by boat to Astāra, returning to Enzeli through Talesh by land. Not only was the number of sales remarkable, but the conversations held were encouraging. Quite a good many of the sales were to Russian fishermen along the coast.

Mr. Schuler's trip was made primarily to accept an offer of the Jews of Barfarush looking toward the establishment of a school in that place. On his arrival, however, he found that their enthusiasm had somewhat cooled and that they were inclined to make conditions which he could not accept. Before he could get everything straightened out a recurrence of severe neuralgia compelled him to return to Resht.

Of the medical work Dr. Frame reports:

Perhaps from a professional standpoint the most trying difficulties are found in the people themselves. It is so hard to get them to carry out one's instructions faithfully. One of the old Persian physicians, who, for a wonder, does not try to use foreign drugs himself, sends his difficult cases to a number of foreign physicians, and after getting their suggestions advises the patient which one to patronize and sometimes tells him that none of them are any good. Last Winter he called me in consultation over his nephew. They gave one dose of the medicine I recommended; then, seeing no results, called another consultant. The patient died a few days later from neglect to use any one treatment effectually.

Most of our patients go away and we never hear from them again. From November 1 to June 15 we saw 278 new cases, and had 502 return visits from patients, and about 420 visits from friends of patients and social callers. At times we have had opportunity for religious conversations.

In the large district between here and Astarabad, including the cities of Barfarush, Sari, Amol and others, there is, as far as I can learn, only one foreign physician, a Greek located at the port of Barfarush, Meshed i sar.

The woman's work and the day-school were under Mrs. Schuler's care. The school has grown steadily from fifteen boys and one girl, four years ago, to twenty-six boys and fourteen girls.

KASVIN STATION.

Dr. Lawrence writes:

I have so often found that the patient who has been successfully treated is the one whose heart is widest open to the Gospel message.

Only a few days ago, a man who had been coming regularly to the dispensary for about two months, and had heard many of my discussions with a lot of sayids and mollahs, said to me, "I know your book is true, and I am not of the same religion with these sayids and mollahs, who the other day claimed that the true Gospel had been taken back to heaven"; but this he said in a very low voice, fearing that the servant standing outside the door should hear him. Only a few days afterward another man came to the dispensary for medicine, saying that the book which I had given to him had gotten him into great trouble. He had taken it out to one of the neighboring villages, where he came in contact with a lot of fanatical mollahs, who fell on him with sticks and beat and bruised him because of his departure from the so-called orthodox Moslem faith.

The attendance upon the dispensary has been the largest and the medical receipts have been the best of the four years that I have been in Kazvin. I have sold more Bibles and Testaments than in any preceding year. Many have spoken words of appreciation and kindness.

HAMADAN STATION.

The Station narrative begins with the words:

The story of Hamadan Station, as told by the reports this year, is a story of eleven men and women (with native assistants) doing work in homes, schools, hospitals, dispensaries, churches, Sabbath-schools, prayer meetings, Bible distribution, study classes, and social life with Christian, Moslem and Jew, beggar and those of high degree, in ten or more different places, and using nearly half as many languages, and all of these in such a manner that seldom is one such reported to have failed.

CHURCHES.—Of the St. Stephen's Church, Mr. Hawkes writes:

The feeling among the members is comparatively good, but it will take years to recover from the effects of the disturbances caused by the coming of the Armenian Vartabed. He discovered the futility of his efforts to break down the Protestants and that he was damaging himself more than anyone else. Friendly relations were restored. The next day the whole community met and made the round of calls as of old. Harmony prevailed. During the same week the Vartabed called on all the gentlemen of the Station and showed a disposition to make up for the past.

Of late Moslem attendance has been increasing to its old proportions.

The total number enrolled in St. Stephen's Church since its organization in 1877 has been 214, of whom sixty-two are now living in Hamadan in good standing. One new member was received in Peniel Church, a woman who had once been a staunch Behai. She and her husband and four children are on the roll of the church. This is the first case of a complete Jewish family, including children, to be entered on the roll of this church. Since its organization in 1898 there have been forty-nine names on the roll.

OUT-STATIONS.—The out-station work has been maintained at Kermanshah, Lilihan, Nahavend and Sheverine.

Mr. and Mrs. Stead have now taken up their residence in Kermanshah. Mr. Stead writes:

After spending the Christmas holidays in Hamadan, I made a trip with Mirza Ibrahim to Kermanshah and the region of Bevel Nij. Special attention was paid to the Ali Ilahi villages, and further study made of the conditions for evangelistic work among the people of this sect. The reception accorded me and the general observations which I made strengthened the conviction which I had held ever since coming in contact with the Kermanshah Ali Ilahis three years ago, viz., that the Ali Ilahi villages of the Kermanshah Province constitute the strategic point for work in the Hamadan field and perhaps in the whole of Persia.

The present outlook is encouraging. The prevailing disturbed condition of the country, while checking somewhat our traveling, has markedly tended to make the people more receptive of the Gospel, and has so far proved more of a blessing than a hindrance. So far as this field is concerned, the present is the time to strike. If we hold back for fear of unduly exciting the people when they are in an agitated mood, we shall be criminally guilty. In my opinion, while the country is in a turmoil is the time to press forward, and I am convinced that here in the Kermanshah field, at least, it is the time of a crucial opportunity. My reasons are as follows: The fanatical people are so engrossed in their own affairs that they do not care to concern themselves with opposing us. Masses of the people, especially of the common people in the city and villages (the same who heard Christ gladly), are thoroughly disgusted with political, social and religious conditions and are clamoring for a change. They are saying, "When will a foreign government assume control of Persian affairs, that we may have liberty and peace?" And hundreds are going deeper yet and saying that religious conditions must be changed first of all. So far as many of the Ali Ilahis are concerned, a religious crisis has come and there may never be another opportunity like the present to preach the Gospel. False prophets, such as Nihmat Allah, have arisen, gathered many followers and then failed to satisfy their adherents, and many are at a loss to know what to believe and waiting only to hear the Gospel to accept.

Extracts from the detailed reports of Mr. and Mrs. Stead are full of items of deepest interest. Mrs. Stead writes from Kermanshah in June:

We brought Mirza Ibrahim and Malekeh with us as far as the large village of Sannah, two days' journey from Kermanshah and largely Ali Ilahi. They have both been most untiring in their efforts to bring the village to a knowledge of Christ, and not without effect, for the topic of general conversation in the tea-houses and fields is the religion of the Christians. Malekeh won friends by making the women feel that she was one of them, by sitting down on the ground beside them and reading the Gospel to them while they were at their work, by going to their houses again and again and encouraging them to come and see her. Soon inquirers appeared. Later a class of young women and girls gathered to learn plain sewing and embroidering sweat caps to be worn by the male relatives of the class. A few girls were persuaded to learn to read, and have now passed the A, B, C stage and are using St. John's Gospel for a text-book. A report was circulated that Malekeh was teaching the girls our language so we could take them away to America, and the class was scattered, but confidence was soon restored and the girls returned to their work. Day by day Malekeh gathered the inquirers in her own room, or went to theirs, so that there is now a goodly company of women who believe. Four of these she fondly hoped would be baptized when we visited them last week, but unfortunately there were husbands to deal with. One of the husbands himself believed and asked for baptism. But after passing a satisfactory examination his courage failed when he found that the rite must be publicly administered, and his wife, little son and sister-in-law decided to wait a little longer also. One young woman who expected to be baptized with her three little children was at the last moment forbidden by her husband and was heart-broken over it. She spent all Sunday morning in the field entreating him to reverse his decision. Her sister, a young girl of fifteen or so, when asked if she did not wish to wait till the others were ready, said, "No, I will be baptized alone." I suggested that her brother-in-law, upon whom she was dependent, might put her out or beat her, but she said, "Though they kill me, I will not turn back." As soon as the services were over she took tea and sugar, which she had bought with a few bits of money she had saved here and there, and went to the field. After putting the tea to steep, she hunted up her brother-in-law and said, "I have been baptized. Give me your blessing." He said, "You have done well. May it be blessed, but where is your treat?" It is a custom that when any special blessing comes to one, that one give a treat of sweetmeats, tea, sugar or a dinner to his friends. The girl was very happy, for she expected hard words or even a beating. She brought her tea and poured it, then hurried back to tell her teacher how she had been treated. This man is himself a believer and has given up cursing, wife-beating, in a measure Sunday work, and other sins for Christ. He was perfectly willing for his family to be baptized, and indeed disappointed that we did not baptize his baby son, whose name he changed from Ali's sacrifice to John, but at the last moment fear of having his fields taken from him by the Moslems caused him to forbid it. Some of the school-girls told me that they would be ready for baptism when we came back again.

The work among women is very different from what it was two years ago, when I found it very difficult to get anyone to sit still long enough to get a comprehensive idea of the Gospel. They have learned to know my Book, and if I do not have it in my hand when I come to the dispensary they ask where it is. I have had an unusual number of callers from the wealthier homes and everyone has been entertained by the Book. With the exception of one, all were interested, and many asked me to bring the Book when returning the call.

The disturbances here, still going on, have made a great impression upon the people in the way of making them think. They are realizing that it is the dead religion of the country that is making it what it is. The fields are white to the harvest, and if the sickle is not quickly forthcoming a great opportunity will be lost.

Mr. Stead writes:

On Tuesday, January 22, we left Kermanshah for the Ali Ilahi villages beyond, where we spent two weeks and visited Sichyah, Gavarreh, Tut Shami, Sar Tang and Sheikh Hassan. The largest of these, Gavarreh, is an Ali Ilahi town about forty miles from Kermanshah and under the jurisdiction of Hosein Khan, the chief of the Gal Khani tribe. While the people of the town and of all the villages in that region are wild, uncouth Koords, yet they are in a way friendly, and are anxious to prove their kinship to Christians. Tut Shami is the residence of Sayid Rustam, the head of the sect, whose word is accepted by thousands as the word of the Lord. He claims 500,000 followers in Persia and Turkey. Doubtless, however, this is an exaggeration. We spent two nights with Sayid Rustam, one on our way to the villages beyond and the other on our return, and were most hospitably entertained. During several conversations with the so-called prophet, he showed himself friendly and desirous of being fully informed as to Christianity. He carefully refrained from raising objections to the message we presented, but at the same time studiously avoided committing himself wholly to its acceptance. The two things that seemed to affect him most and shake the foundations of his faith in things previously accepted were (1) Mirza Ibrahim's testimony that he had come out of Islam to be a follower of Jesus Christ, and (2) my statement of the Christian's arguments against Mohammedanism. He said, "We are very near to you in religion. Perhaps we have never obtained an entrance to your religion. It is better for you to seek to bring into the road those who are far away." Mirza Rahim, Sayid Rustam's scribe, was more interested than his master and spent each evening of our stay in Tut Shami with us, asking questions and seeking to know further of the truth. When we told Sayid Rustam that we thought of spending some time among his people with a view to teaching them more about Christianity, he said that, so far from opposing us, he would serve us and try to make us comfortable. He is a good man, given to hospitality, of a forgiving spirit and living at peace with men. I was told that he displays no malice to the murderer of his father, though the man is only a peasant and easily within Sayid Rustam's power.

I wish to record my conviction that the most favorable field for work that has come under my observation in the Hamadan territory is the Ali Ilahi, Davudi, and Nosairi villages of the Kermanshah region. My reasons are as follows:

1. It is possible to preach the Gospel openly in these villages without opposition, as it is not possible in Mohammedan villages. And where the Gospel is preached I believe that "it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth."
2. The people, while uncouth and wild Koords, have many attractive and endearing traits of character that the Sheah Turks and Persians do not possess, and, therefore, seem to be better soil for the reception of the seed of the Kingdom.
3. Their religion does not enjoin those beliefs and practices which prove such barriers to successful work among the Sheah Moslems, e.g., (1) They do not believe in ceremonial cleanness and uncleanness. (2) They do not consider those of other faiths blasphemers, but hold it as a fundamental tenet to speak well of all religions and be favorably inclined towards the teaching of all. (3) They do not attach importance to outward acts of merit as a means of salvation, and neither fast nor pray nor go on pilgrimages, but readily admit the necessity of a vicarious atonement as a means of salvation.
4. Their religion possesses some positive elements favorable to the introduction of Christianity, e.g., (1) They believe in incarnations of the Deity. (2) Many of them venerate David as their greatest prophet. Hence they are willing to listen to the voice of David's Son, Jesus. (3) Some of them (Nosairis) believe that they were originally Christians, and are not averse to the idea of returning to the faith of their fathers. (4) Curious customs exist among them, which might almost be considered as borrowed from a crude form of Christianity, such as the partaking from time to time of bread and raisins, after the manner of the Lord's Supper.

5. Hated and despised by Moslems and living in constant fear of persecution, they are not likely to persecute those of their number who may become Christians.

In view of these facts, I believe that the Ali Ilahi villages constitute the strategic point of our field, and would advocate an immediate and aggressive effort to evangelize them. "Say ye not there are yet few months and then cometh the harvest. I say unto you, Lift up your eyes and look on the fields, for they are white already to harvest."

We remained in Sannah from May 7 to 13, and I was much encouraged by the outlook. Mirza Ibrahim and Malekeh were praying earnestly for converts and working with serene faith in the outcome.

We talked of going from Sannah to visit Hodji Nihmat Allah, a man who for some time has been claiming to be a prophet and who promised to save the people. Thousands had become his followers, but when he failed to make good his promises many had fallen away, and he, fearing that he would not be able to do all that was expected of him, retired to the little village of Kazvin, about twelve miles from Sannah, and shut himself up, refusing to see anyone for a year, and asserting that he was waiting for the coming of the Holy Spirit. He got word that we were coming to see him and wrote a letter to Mirza Ibrahim, in which he confessed himself to be an humble follower of Jesus, but said he was waiting for the coming of the Spirit, and being now in retirement and engaged in fasting and prayer could not receive us, but as soon as he received the anointing would himself come to see us. The letter was a curious mixture of confession of failure and self-abasement and of claims to possess supernatural knowledge and power. He pretended to have seen Kasha and me in a vision, and spoke of our appearance and ages as of persons he had seen (though his guesses came wide of the mark). He also sent a lump of clay which Jesus had stepped on, and which he said would cure the heart trouble that one of us had. As nearly half the village of Sannah still profess faith in Hodji Nihmat Allah, this letter came among them as a bombshell among a group of soliders not expecting it. The Nihmat Allah section of Sannah is headed by Sayid Rahmat Allah, a brother of Faraj, the big man of the sect, and he with many of his followers were at morning service Sunday. Many of the people as they heard of the letter that morning went away, saying that this was all that they had been waiting for and would now become Christians.

We left Sannah Monday morning, May 13, convinced that God intended to give a blessing there that would be a testimonial to Christian workers throughout Persia.

It is worth while, in this connection, to observe that the occupation of Sannah and similarly situated villages means more than local evangelization. It means preaching the Gospel to the farthest limits of Persia, for a daily procession of pilgrims to every part of the kingdom and regions beyond pass that way. From May to October, moreover, these pilgrims stop in the gardens outside the village, where they are easily accessible to the preaching of the Gospel.

WOMAN'S WORK.—Woman's work in Hamadan includes a prayer meeting in the Jewish quarter on Tuesday afternoon, Sheverine on Thursday afternoon, at the Faith Hubbard School on Friday, in the dispensaries and from house to house. Recently much friendship has been shown by Persian ladies, and one company in a Mission home was composed of sayids' wives and mollahs' daughters.

Faith Hubbard School.—Miss Annie Montgomery completed during the year her twenty-fifth year of work in Hamadan. Extracts from a paper of reminiscences will be of special interest:

Arriving in Hamadan, Wednesday, October 25, 1882, on Monday,

October 30, I took charge of the girls' school, which Mr. Hawkes, who came the year before, had established in the Armenian quarter of the city. I began with one teacher, and that morning, before school, gave him my first English lesson. As Mr. Hawkes had given him a good start, he was able to teach me the Armenian for "Do as I do," which I used in the school in the afternoon with some comical results. One of my most vivid impressions, as I entered the school that day, still remains—that of a little boy, sitting cross-legged on a bench, his head all shaved but a tuft of straggling hairs on the crown, which fell over the white scalp, as he sat studying natural history from specimens found on his own not more than half-clothed body. Ten years after it would have been hard to connect that boy with a finely dressed successful gentleman in a telegraph office. That first teacher was with me, with the exception of two months, for twenty years.

Soon after Miss Sherwood came we felt we must take the boarders we hoped to train, so we had holes cut in the roof of what had been a Persian kitchen, put glass windows in it (our parlor windows were paper then) and took two girls, daughters of a widow in Sheverine. The next was fatherless, and the next two daughters of a woman whose husband had left her to provide for four children as best she could, and whom her friends thought had disgraced herself by becoming nurse in the home of the missionary physician. Now what a change! Work is so honorable that we have no difficulty in getting girls to do our housework.

The King's brother issued edicts forbidding anyone to sell or lease to me. Schools and churches were closed again and again, and orders were issued that no one was to let us have a place for a school, but in spite of all God answered our prayers and the first answer that came was very wonderful. The Nestorian pastor came to me in great excitement on Wednesday. He said, "Lady, you will never get a school in Hamadan. This morning there is a new order posted by the Governor that no one is to give you a place." I said, "Kasha, if the Lord wants me to have a school He will give me a place; if He does not want it, I do not." On Friday the good old man came in radiant. He had a letter in his hand from the one who controlled this part of the property which said, "If the lady wants that place for the school, sell it to her." The man was in Tabriz, out of the reach of the Governor, and the Station decided to ask Mr. Whipple to complete the purchase there, and he, ever ready to help, completed the purchase of what was little more than enough land on which the house could stand, so that when someone said to the mason, "Why are they building such a building in such a little place?" he said, "Oh, they expect the Lord to rain land from Heaven for them." The Lord did not need to do that, but He used Mr. Hawkes, so that by his tact and wisdom he secured enough land for the needs of the work, and every foot of it says that God hears and answers prayers. Work was begun on the new building June 8, 1885.

One day a little girl, lame and sick, was brought to Miss Sherwood and me, and the mother, who was a widow, said, "She is sick and lame, and I can never get a husband for her. I want you to take her." As she lived near and we only accepted as boarders those who lived too far away to attend daily, we hesitated, but at last said we would take her, if she would remain and teach after she finished her course in the school. We took her and she made rapid progress, but the widowed mother was poor and had a boy to support, so the daughter, in 1888, before she could graduate, began to teach to provide for the family. For twenty-five years she has been with me, first as pupil, then as teacher, and since our first matron left us to marry the chief of the Armenians, she has taken also the duties of the matron. She has been a blessed help in all, and especially during the two last hard years.

She was devotedly attached to my sister, and promised her before she went away that she would do all she could to help me, and nobly and faithfully she keeps her promise. In the first years we had to live down many foolish notions, which were sources of much amusement. The first was we were going to take the girls to America, and I simply laughed at them, telling them we had plenty of prettier girls in America and did not need them at all. Another was that we wanted to make foreigners or them, which we were determined never to do, and will not now, when the same people are most anxious to ape so many foreign customs. Then we wanted to make nuns of them, but most of all we gave them beef to eat, and surely when they were married their children would all be girls. However it was, alas! only too soon that they began to marry, and when so many "little grandsons" as they called them were born, they "changed their minds" and concluded that the danger for beefeaters must be in some other direction. The early marriage of girls was a custom hard to break up, but now an Armenian would be ashamed to give his daughter in marriage as young as nearly everybody did when we came here.

Of the 141 boarders who have spent longer or shorter periods with us, and some of them have been very short, twenty-four have graduated, but only three of the day-scholars have finished their studies and received diplomas. Those who did not seem to have ability to graduate we have trained as cooks, waitresses, chambermaids or laundresses, till the time, only too short, when they are claimed as brides; but we have been happily surprised to find in some of these a marked ability to teach, especially Bible truth, in which we have striven to have all well grounded. Of the twenty-seven graduates, eighteen became teachers, and three of those who did not graduate also do good work.

While the training of these girls cost the school money, much has been paid back by their cheap work. They begin with fifty cents a month, which is increased that much every six months till it reached what was the maximum till last year, $2.50. Then the Station permitted us to give those $3 who had been specially long in the service. I am using now the present rate of exchange. For a number of years the number of dollars was very much smaller. To be sure those teachers who live in the house have their board; but their care of the boarders, the house, the sweeping, cooking, baking, washing, mending, teaching crocheting and knitting, and helping to teach the fancy work, cutting, fitting and dressmaking more than repays all they receive in that way. Starting with the idea that work may be made worship, the girls are imbued with that spirit, and all the wages paid by the school for the part of the baking, washing and carrying all the water which the girls cannot do was the last year only $4 a month, and now less than $6. Then once a year it costs about $2 to prepare the bread fuel, which my keeping horses provides for the school, and beyond that the school pays no wages.

Every large girl, besides taking charge of the cooking and sweeping on alternate days, with four small assistants, has a little girl over whom she must exercise a motherly care, so they go out from us, not only ready to be good wives, but, what is more necessary, in some measure ready to take good care of their children, for of all the needs of Persia the very greatest is good mothers.

The only difference we have made on their own home customs, and on these we rigidly insist, is that their work be done in a cleanly, orderly manner, and with as much personal cleanliness as possible. Many of our girls would now appear horrified should some little creeping insects be seen on their garments, while I much amused my class of young mothers, twenty-four years ago, by my dismay at finding one creeping up my dress, as I sat before the class, and one especially laughed heartily and said, "Oh, lady, that is nothing!"

Of the 164 members received into St. Stephen's Church since my coming here ninety-nine have been pupils of the school, and forty-five of their children have been baptized.

We close this year with seventy-five in attendance, eight boys and sixty-seven girls; forty-four of whom are boarders.

BOYS' SCHOOL.—Mr. Euwer writes:

On the first day of school there were forty-seven pupils present. On the day of writing this there were sixty-six. In the month of March the enrolled pupils were fifty-seven. In the same month the average daily attendance was fifty-four. The average monthly enrollment was fifty-six. The average daily attendance for the year was fifty-three.

The attendance of Jewish boys has been from ten to twelve. The attendance of Moslems has been from nineteen the first month to twenty-eight in the last two months. The attendance of Armenians has been from eighteen to twenty-one. It is the belief of all that when we are able to locate in another place the attendance will be very considerably increased.

On January 18 the Governor of the city visited the schools. The large room was furnished for the occasion. A few of the older boys had prepared Persian essays on the subjects studied in their English text-books. Some younger boys had declamations. All had ready their copy-books in English and in Persian. The text-books in use were displayed. He seemed to be pleased, and we had a very pleasant afternoon. In the Hamadan newspaper, printed at that time from a gelatine hektograph, the following account of his visit was given:

"His Excellency the Governor—may his shadow continue great—according to the invitation he had received, took honor to the American school. It is more than twenty years that this school has been opened and conducted by the spiritually minded of America. It has fifty boys and about 100 girls, whom they instruct freely. This spiritual work of the Americans, in whatever part of the world it may be, is service out of compassion to humanity, which is the basis of every religion. They know their obligation, and by the Truth it is clear that they have no other purpose than to discharge the duties of a man."

A man brought two sons of a widow to me, having taken them from another foreign school in the city, larger than ours, saying: "They come out of that school atheists, with no reverence for the prophets and no belief in God." I do not believe this man is a very religious man, but he felt that boys should acquire a reverence for holy things with their education. The only place that this could be accomplished, he felt, was in our "spiritual school."

New land has been bought for the boys' school, but the old property has not been sold, so the school has not been removed.

MEDICAL WORK.—Through the generosity of Mrs. Reid, of Lake Forest, a beautiful hospital, in memory of her daughter, Mrs. Lily Reid Holt, has been completed, and the Summer offering of the New York Woman's Board has provided furnishings and a residence for the medical missionary. Meanwhile the work has been carried on in the old quarters in the city.

Dr. Funk writes:

During the past nine months there have been thirty-eight patients admitted to the wards, these being with few exceptions surgical cases. Of this number four died, twenty-five were discharged cured or improved, four unimproved, and five are still here. Total number of operations performed by the men's department was fifty-four, about forty-eight in the hospital and six in private houses. The cases comprised the following: Bone necrosis, 19; ankylosis, 2; amputations, 2; compound fractures, 4; mastoiditis, 3; laparotomy, 1; cataracts, 9; diseased glands, 5; gunshot wounds, 2; hernia, 1; harelip, 1; miscellaneous, 6.

The dispensary has been open practically every morning throughout the year, Sundays excepted. Until April 24 the men and women were received and treated in the men's rooms, after which time Dr. Field opened her women's dispensary rooms and treated her patients there. No classification of the cases treated by the writer and assistants has been made, but they were as varied as in any clinic at home. The number of patients treated averaged twenty-three and one-half daily, making a total for 234 days of 5,492. Minor operations in the out-patients' department numbered 110.

One of the leading men of Hamadan has promised to erect an entrance to the hospital, consisting of a gate and gate house, as recognition of the treatment of his wife, a sister of the present Shah.

Of the woman's medical work Dr. Field writes:

The Orientals believe our physicians are able to cure everything in the category of disease. As a consequence the incurable victims of Persian doctoring and all sorts of hopeless cases are brought to us.

Deep-rooted superstitions and customs, religious mandates, among which is the slavery of woman to her husband (who may treat his wife as he chooses) and the unclean methods of midwifery make the path of the physician a thorny one. Therefore many lessons in patience and forbearance and tact and grace must be learned day by day in our contact with all classes. As an illustration let me cite the case of a prominent official's beautiful wife. She was treated by a native midwife for a condition that did not exist. Septicæmia was the result. I was called to undo the work, which, alas! could not be undone. She died. I had to bear the calumny of the crime.

None more forcibly illustrated woman's bondage to her husband than the following. A young Armenian woman, formerly a teacher in Faith Hubbard School, was subjected to all sort of maltreatment. As a consequence she to-day suffers from a condition that requires a radical operation, which was urged. The husband refused his consent to the operation, because I could not give a promise that her childless condition would be changed. The fact that she herself and her mother are eager for the operation carries no weight whatever. She must continue to suffer, a slave to her husband.

A rigid belief that has been so annoying to us is the "sabr amad" or wail. It follows a single sneeze. It is looked upon as an omen so bad that no good Mussulman in his senses could be persuaded to "eat" medicine, begin a journey, or undertake a new work until two hours had passed. To disregard this divine warning is to invite disaster. One can appreciate the disadvantages of this belief to both patient and doctor. On the contrary, a double sneeze signifies good fortune. (We have become adepts in producing double sneezes.)

A case that has excited much comment among the high and the low may be of interest to readers of this report.

The patient is the wife of a prominent sayid who is connected with the highest ecclesiastics of the city. Dirty midwifery was responsible for the disease. Early in the illness I was called, but my plan of treatment (which included curretage) was promptly rejected because it involved the use of instruments. (The Persian has a mortal dread of surgical instruments.) Ten days later, when all hope was lost and the patient's feet had been turned toward Mecca, by subterfuge Dr. Funk was called in the hope he would cure without operating. His opinion was that but slight hope remained, and that our hope was in the treatment that had been refused. Again I was called. The hopelessness of her condition made me reluctant to take the case, and only after assurances from the mollahs and sayids of her family that in the event of her death I should be exonerated from blame did I finally consent to do what was possible. Eight weeks of constant care, with two daily visits, three minor operations and much prayerful thought, resulted in controlling the disease. Her recovery is of inestimable value to the progress of woman's medical work of this character. It also opens a way among the higher classes which could not be accomplished through any other agency. Social relations have already been established between the members of these families and the ladies of the Station. The Orientals love slowly and trust slowly, but when love and trust are gained our influence is great.

WESTERN PERSIA MISSION.

URUMIA: a fortified town, 480 miles north of west from Teheran, the capital. Station begun under the American Board, 1835; transferred to this Board in 1871. Missionaries—Rev. F. G. Coan, D.D., and Mrs. Coan, Rev. W. A. Shedd, D.D., and Mrs. Shedd, Rev. Robert M. Labaree and Mrs. Labaree, Rev. C. E. Sterrett, Rev. E. W. McDowell and Mrs. McDowell, Miss M. K. Van Duzee, Miss E. T. Miller, M.D., Miss Mary E. Lewis, Miss E. D. Lamme, Harry P. Packard, M.D., and Mrs. Packard.

TABRIZ: nearly 360 miles north of west from Teheran. Station begun 1873. Missionaries—Rev. J. N. Wright, D.D., and Mrs. Wright, Rev. S. G. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, William S. Vanneman, M.D., and Mrs. Vanneman, Rev. Charles R. Pittman and Mrs. Pittman, Rev. F. N. Jessup, Miss G. Y. Holliday, Miss M. E. Bradford, M.D., Miss Lillie B. Beaver, Mrs. L. C. Van Hook.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Dr. M. E. Bradford.

No new missionaries were sent to the West Persia Mission, but Mr. H. C. Baskerville, a graduate of Princeton College, was sent out as a special teacher in the boys' school at Tabriz. During the year Miss Jewett and Mrs. Cochran resigned to remain in the United States, Miss Jewett after thirty-six years of service. Miss Jewett was the senior missionary of the Women's Board of the Northwest, and one of the most indefatigable missionaries in Persia, touring far and wide, living for months in distant places alone in order to reach the people, and when not in the country villages, always at work in her home station in Tabriz.

URUMIA STATION.

The general political conditions prevailing in the field have been described in the introduction to the report of the Persia Missions. In the midst of all the disturbances around the region of Urumia the missionaries have been kept in perfect security.

EVANGELISTIC.—Mr. Labaree reports:

A couple of years ago there were probably not more than two or three persons in our whole membership whose annual subscription to church expenses was over ten tomans; this year there is a considerable number who are giving from twenty to thirty tomans; and the subscribers of ten tomans or more have increased many fold. In addition to this, in the city and Gulpashan large sums have been raised for their respective church buildings, the former having contributed about 500 tomans for their new edifice, beside assuming quite heavy burdens for the coming year in order to complete it. The Evangelistic Board, too, which closed its last fiscal year with a debt of nearly 200 tomans, has paid this debt, and, thanks to the largely increased gifts of the churches, is likely to close these twelve months with all its obligations met.

Through a rearrangement of the parishes in the Urumia Plain, a smaller number of ministers have been able to care for the field, and this has made it possible to provide out of the Mission funds and the increased contributions of the congregations more adequate salaries for the native preachers. Mr. Labaree reports of the spiritual growth of the churches:

Like the preceding year, this has been one of great opportunity. The power of the Russian movement has collapsed. Everywhere there has been a readiness to hear, and an access into homes closed against us for some years past, that gives us new hope and incentive to work. Wherever there has been earnest effort there has been a most encouraging response. In some of our churches the deep work of the previous Winter was carried forward and made even more fruitful. The City Church, although not blessed with any great revival, has enjoyed the most prosperous year of its history. While the additions to the membership of our churches have not been quite as large as those of the preceding year, nevertheless they will be much greater than the average of recent years.

It would not be fair, however, not to mention the other side of the picture. The condition of our church life is very far from satisfactory. Our congregations are crippled by the migration of their best young men to Russia or America. Churches like Degala, Geogtapa and Gul-pashan have upward of one or two hundred men each in foreign lands. Worse than this is the spirit of worldliness and greed which has taken possession of the people as a whole. Their new-found power to earn considerable sums of money in Western countries has stimulated rather than satisfied the appetite for wealth, and a spirit of self-seeking has taken possession of our members and even of many of our workers. We fear that a large number of those who have visited the United States have received but little benefit from that experience; and their return to their homes does not result in good to the life and discipline of our congregations. The mercenary spirit is so prevalent that everyone connected with us is suspected of it; even the missionary does not escape. It is very plain that nothing but an outpouring of God's Spirit can work the radical change that is needed to baptize our churches and workers with the spirit of sacrifice, and to lead them forth into truly aggressive effort for the bringing of Christ's Kingdom.

Work in Tiflis.—The work in Tiflis, which promised so well, has been much disturbed by schism and dissension, but strong work has nevertheless been done by Kashas Ishak Yonan and Auraham Moorhatch. The field is needy, as multitudes of young men from Urumia and the villages around about go up to Tiflis for work, and are assailed by fierce temptations, against which they need all the help that can be given.

Work for Women.—Mrs. Labaree reports of the Woman's Work in the villages:

Conventions were held on one river only in the Fall, as roads were considered unsafe, but this Spring we held them on all the rivers. I arranged individual church gatherings to take the place of the district conventions, and they proved to be so helpful that, in the future, we will substitute these for the district conventions and hold general gatherings in the Spring only. In the village visits church and house meetings, large and small, were held with church members, inquirers, Russian, Papist and Old Church women. My object has been to lay on consciences responsibility for ignorant Christian and Moslem sisters.

Of some of the woman's work in the city, especially among Mohammedans, Miss Van Duzee writes:

The work which has absorbed most of my thought has of course been the school. The forenoons of every day have been devoted to my girls, while the afternoons, as far as possible, have been spent in calling on their parents and others. I have been much interested in a Persian lady who began this year to read her Testament in course. It was wonderful to watch the opening of her mind to the truth, and to see how God by His Spirit led her step by step. She would mark every verse which she did not quite understand, and then, from time to time, would bring her book and learn the meaning. As she drew near the close of the New Testament, she had about decided not to read the Old, because Christ had become so precious that she wished to read only about Him. But one day she read the first chapter of Genesis, and seemed to see Christ in the light which was God's first creation. She also found His divinity in the expression, "Let us make man," and became interested in the origin of sin, man's creation in God's image, etc., and concluded to continue reading the Old Testament, because she found its fulfillment in Christ. One day, comparing the law of sacrifices with Hebrews, she said it seemed as if the daily sacrifice was like paying a great debt shie by shie, while Christ's sacrifice was paying it all at once. This lady has been working earnestly for others. A company of her neighbors have been in the habit of gathering at her house for reading, and she has two or three times gone to the dying, to try to point them to Christ. Now she is very anxious for her mother, who is strong in her faith in Islam. From time to time this lady has come to ask for a Testament, to give to some one who had become interested in hers and who wished one for himself. One of these was a relative of hers, who purchased a Testament, and taking it to his village gathered the neighbors every night for reading. They said: "Would that you had brought this book a year ago."

Every Sunday morning I have had a Bible class for Moslem women, and every Sunday afternoon a Bible lesson with a few Moslem men who are in our employ. Saturday afternoons I have had a Bible class for Jewish young men, and every other Friday a reading with the Bible woman who works among the Jews, at which time she also reported her work. There is much to encourage among the Jews, but they are still far from Christ.

EDUCATIONAL.—The College was closed during the year.

Of Fiske Seminary Miss Lewis reports an attendance of seventy-five girls, thirty-four being boarding pupils from the plain and twenty-one boarders from the mountains. The tuition fee was advanced from twelve tomans to twenty tomans, which made it impossible for some girls to go, and all the mountain girls had to be helped, although eight paid an average of half their expenses, including clothing.

The week previous to the opening of the school, in October, the usual institute for the village teachers was held in the Seminary with an attendance of fifty. Again, in February, the Midwinter institute met here for two days; both were conducted by Rabbi Yohannan (John Mooshie), superintendent of village schools.

We have had the usual Christian Endeavor Societies, six in number, which met on Sundays in the Seminary during the Winter.

In June we graduated a class of sixteen girls, most of whom will teach in the village schools. Aside from the regular course of study, they have had one year in Methods and Practice of Teaching, as well as a shorter course in School Management. The primary school of Murt Muryum met in one of our rooms, and we selected children from that school for our practice classes.

The Commencement exercises were held in the large tent in the school yard before an audience of 500 people, gathered from all parts of the plain.

The Moslem Boys' School.—Mr. Shedd reports:

The enrollment includes seventy-seven names, of whom four were Jews, ten Syrians and sixty-three were Moslems. The lowest average attendance any week was thirty-nine twice during Ramazan, and the highest fifty-four, the average being forty-eight.

I am trying to assimilate the course in English and in science to that in the preparatory department of the Syrian Protestant College at Beirut.

The school has been prominently before the public the last year. It was discussed a good deal in the Anjuman, and the proposition was made to furnish us with a mullah to give suitable religious instruction to the boys, the reward for such complacency on our part being that the school would be adopted as a sort of national institution. Needless to say, we did not accept. When the people were stirred up petitioning the king for more constitution, all the schools in the city joined in the demonstration. It seemed to me the best course to dismiss the school for a day or two. The boys marched in a body in the sacred cause of liberty with banners, but without their teachers, and sent off a telegram on their own account. Several of the boys are members of the volunteer cause of "fidai" (patriotic military bands), and I hope are a grade better and more intelligent than most of their fellow-patriots. There are a number of new schools in the city. One of them is managed by a young man who deserves a good deal of credit for his energy and enlightened enterprise. Another has lately been opened with a great flourish of semovars and pipes for the benefit of thirty orphans of the city, who are taught, clothed and given dinners free, and others who will be expected to pay tuition. If it lasts, it too is a credit to the place. I make it a point to try to get on pleasant terms with my rivals in the teaching fraternity.

Mr. Shedd has sought to follow up the openings given by the school into Moslem homes, and has also tried to get into touch with the heretics in the city, Behais and others, and has conducted a regular service on Sundays in Turkish.

Moslem Girls' School.—Miss Van Duzee handed over this work to Miss Lammoe. The school closed with sixty-seven pupils.

Last year, while the girls paid for most of their books, there was no tuition fee, but this year we charged a small monthly sum of two krans. Those who were unable to pay this took turns in remaining after school to sweep the rooms and put them in order for the next day.

The closing exercises of the school were held July 11, and about 200 of the mothers and friends of the pupils were present. There were recitations in Turkish, Persian and English, after which the sewing was exhibited. The friends seemed much pleased, and promised us more girls in the future.

Village Schools.—

Of the sixty-three schools this year, twenty-nine increased the number of pupils, seven remained the same, while twenty-seven decreased. Only four out of these twenty-seven lost pupils through the unfaithfulness of teachers and churches; the other losses have been due chiefly to the influence of other sects, especially independent missionaries. The total number of pupils, 1,787, is higher than any previous year. The average salary is five tomans a month.

The number of pupils in the two higher grades was 573, an increase over four years ago when Rabi Yohanian (John Mooshie) took charge of 302, and means that 573, or about one-third of the whole number of the pupils, study Advanced Reading, Persian or Turkish, English, East Science, and Arithmetic beyond fractions. The general desire for education is growing rapidly, those who went over to the Russians a few years ago all returning.

The teaching force was very satisfactory, for while there were few of the best ones to take the place of the young men who had gone to America, there were also few of the poorest type. There were two successful institutes held during the year, a Fall institute of five days and a Midwinter institute of two days.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR WORK.—Miss Lewis writes:

There are sixty-two societies in thirty-two villages with a membership of over 2,000. Many new lines of work have been taken up. In several of the larger villages the C. E. Societies have provided a course of lectures in the churches. One society organized a sewing bee, a young men's society provided a teacher and bought books for the poor children of the village. Some societies subscribed toward repairs and furnishings for the church. Several reported visiting small villages where there are no regular services; another paid a teacher in a village where there was no school, thus not only providing the school, but also showing themselves friends to a girl who needed them, and giving her employment to keep her from running wild. A great many societies have given clothing to the poor. Best of all, a larger number of associated members have become members of the church than in any previous year.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Packard reports:

The first year in Persia has been a very busy one. The study of the new language has occupied much of the time, but this study has of necessity suffered many interruptions. We have completed the full requirements for the first year, have taken our examinations, and are now voting members of the Station. This makes us feel more completely within the inner circle, for we are now a "part of the concern," as the small boy said.

The erection of the memorial to Dr. Cochran promises enlarged facilities for the medical work in Urumia, but this work has demanded much time. New modern equipment for the operating and sterilizing rooms and iron beds for the patients are on the way. These things will make possible much surgical work that has been hitherto neglected here of necessity. To this work I have given myself most willingly, because of what it means for the medical work here in the years to come. It will increase our capacity by one-half, and under great pressure would make possible the receiving of 100 patients in Westminster Hospital.

There have been calls to receive and return. This pleasant duty occupied much of the time in the first few weeks here. I found a warm and tender place in many hearts since the death of Dr. Cochran, and hosts of those who have been helped by him were waiting with open arms to receive a helpful friend in his place. This has touched me deeply, and I pray that God will not fail me, that I may by His grace and His gifts to me enter His open door for me.

THE PRESS AND LITERARY WORK.—

The regular work has been continued. The Rays of Light, our Syriac paper, has appeared monthly, and the Sunday-school Lessons and the Christian Endeavor Topics each quarter.

In June a year ago about nine or ten young men of Urumia formed a partnership company to publish a national paper. This group contains some of the most wide-awake, progressive young men of our Syrian people. Arrangement was made with them to print their paper, named The Star, on our press, and the contract provided that they were to furnish their paper, pay the wages of the printers, and pay a small monthly rental. The paper started as an eight-page monthly. The second issue they made it semi-monthly, and it has continued so ever since. Such a paper aroused considerable interest among the Syrians, and many, especially in America, not only subscribed but also sent in contributions to help on the national cause. They find at the close of their year that it is not a profitable business; but, not discouraged, they have increased their paper to twelve pages. Their constituency is much the same as ours, but we find so far that our list of subscribers is affected very little, although it may be too soon to decide that point yet.

No work on new books has been undertaken this year. The Persian Tract for Hamadan Station was finished and sent to them. The book, "Poor Boys Who Became Famous," being short biographical sketches of Lincoln, Greeley, Booker Washington, Jacob Riis, Spurgeon, Stanley, Garibaldi, Bunyan, Columbus, Farragut and Moody, was finished and put on sale. It is most popular, sells well, and we can scarcely keep the book-room supplied. Its edition of 500 copies will be exhausted this Fall. Would that we had the funds to publish many such inspiring, instructive and useful books!

With the awakening of the new spirit in Persia, the forming of anjumans or popular assemblies, the consequent liberty for speech, thought and printing, there came a great increase in the number of papers. Papers from Tiflis, in Turkish, from Teheran, Calcutta, and even London, in Persian, came in ever-increasing numbers, and enthusiastic newsboys and agents sought subscribers on all sides. Newspapers in Tabriz were born in a night until the number reached eighteen in a few weeks. Khoi, Salmas, and other towns began to clamor for a paper of their own. Urumia was not far behind the others, and three liberal-minded young men, merchants of the city, began the publication of the Faryad, or Outcry. Their paper is a weekly of four pages. The first number appeared in March, and up to April 30 six numbers were issued.

With the coming great awakening in Persia our Press must serve not only the Syrian people, but also the great Mohammedan population. We must step in and supply the needs of this new mental hunger, otherwise it will find food in other quarters. Clerks, Government employees, and all others who know French are reading French books, and thus are coming under the influence of its license and infidelity. Our Press can and must be the means to give them the truth in religion, in history and science in their own tongue.

MOUNTAIN FIELD.—EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Mr. McDowell reports:

There has not been as much itinerating evangelistic work done as is desirable, but this has been due to the prevailing political conditions. In Bohtan, where traveling is exceedingly unsafe, Kasha Elea and Rabi Ishak made an itinerary of Attil and the villages on the way, but on their way home they were robbed by some Kurds.

On my recent visit to Bohtan I found Monsoria, Maryokhanan, Marakha and Shakh deserted, the people being scattered among the neighboring villages, Christian and Kurdish, many of them being in or near Jezireh. The story of the first three is exceedingly sad. For several years two factions of Kurds, of the same tribe, have been quarreling over these villages as to which of these factions should have the mastership over them. They have been sometimes in the hands of one of the parties, sometimes in the hands of the others, and sometimes in the hands of both. Kasha Yokhanan was appealed to to decide between, but wisely declined to do so, saying, "You two aghas are oxen goring one another over some fodder. We are the fodder. What have we to do with choosing? Our business is to be eaten." Several times the Kurds came to blows in the village, and in February, on a Sabbath day, there was a pitched battle, in which one of the factions, with the aid of Government soldiers, secured by bribery, gained a decided victory over the other and took possession of the village. The people had remained passive, keeping under shelter in their own houses or the house of the pastor, who read the Scriptures to them and prayed with them.

At the close of the battle Kasha Yokhanan went out to greet the victorious agha, who, however, showed signs of anger and threatened to kill him, on the ground that he had supported the agha's rival. Kasha succeeded in mollifying the Kurd, who then turned his rifle toward the rais (legal head) of the village, making the same accusation against him. The pastor began to intercede for his friend, and in doing so took hold of the rifle. A Government soldier standing by, thinking to please the agha, struck him on the head with the butt of his gun, rendering him partially unconscious. Rahani, Kasha's wife, and Tirza, his brother's wife, ran between him and the soldiers to protect him from further blows, and were assisting him into the house, when another soldier fired at him, but the bullet struck Tirza, killing her instantly. Two young men were then killed by the soldiers, from no other cause than that of their own murderous instincts. The Government sent some officers to the village to investigate the incident. They had the bodies exhumed and made a show of taking evidence, and then demanded as their fee fifteen liras, which would be 300 days' wages. This is the only notice the Government has taken of the matter. It was after this that the people all fled from the three villages. They are still dispersed, according to letters just received, and their harvest is rotting on the ground or being carried off by the Kurds.

This will illustrate the conditions which still prevail all over the country and which make it very difficult to prosecute the work.

This Summer I visited Bohtan, going by the way of Mardin, where I spent two or three days very pleasantly with the brethren, seeing their work and talking over with them some of the questions common to both fields. In Bohtan four of our villages, during the time I was there, were deserted because of oppression by the Kurds, and my work was confined to Jezireh, where many of our people and our workers had taken refuge. Nine days were spent there, during which an informal spiritual conference was held with all our workers and the communion of the Lord's Supper administered to a large congregation. To me it was a delightful and impressive service. Beside the resident members and our refugee members who were living in the city, some of our people came from other villages especially to attend this communion service. All of them had suffered loss, some had lost friends at the hands of the Kurds, and one of the pastors, Kasha Yokhanan of Mon-soreeya, had been wounded and had narrowly escaped death, but their faces were lighted up with spiritual satisfaction as they partook of the sacred emblems of the death and the love of their Saviour, thus giving silent testimony to the reality of their faith and to the reality of the grace of our Lord.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Mr. McDowell writes:

Last winter forty-eight villages were taught. They were distributed as follows: Gawar, 9; Ishtazin, 1; Jelu, 5; Baz, 4; Diz, 1; Tal, 1; Tkhoma, 5; Tiary, 5; Berwar, 7; Supna, 2; Bohtan, 7; Van, 1; total, 48. Our boarding school is in Baz.

Most of these schools are small, averaging ten or twelve pupils each and teach only Reading, Spelling and Writing, and in some cases Arithmetic and Ancient Syriac. Nine or ten of the schools are larger, having in some of them thirty or forty pupils enrolled, and the lessons include Geography and Turkish. All of our schools read only four months during the Winter, which is entirely too short a term, especially for the larger villages, where there is increasing demand for better schools and a longer term.

The boarding school in Baz, under the efficient and faithful superintendence of Kasha Daniel, is doing good work, as I have had personal opportunity to learn, and year by year is growing more popular with the people of the mountains. Much emphasis is laid on the thorough teaching of the Bible, and the spiritual interests of the boys are not neglected. Both last Winter and the Winter before the pupils seemed to be thoroughly awake to their spiritual needs. Some of the boys impress me as being promising material for future workmen, teachers and preachers. We opened a school in Dizza last Winter, which we hope to see develop into a high school for Gawar and the neighboring districts. We were unable to open such a school in Jezireh, as we had planned to do, but I have given instructions to open the school this Fall.

TABRIZ STATION.

TABRIZ CHURCH.—The church has for another year been without a pastor. Mr. Jessup reports for it:

Since last October there have been six deaths among our members. Among these was Yagoot Vartanian, for seventeen and a half years a member of the Tabriz Church. She had for many years been a faithful Bible woman, and died witnessing a good confession. Another whose loss is and will be felt greatly, especially among the Nestorian community, was Kasha Moshe Benjamin. Fifty years ago as a young man in Urumia he was converted and decided to give himself to Christ's work. After some years as teacher and preacher in Urumia, he came with his wife, Miriam, in 1874, to Tabriz to work. He and his wife were spit at in the streets, insulted and cursed. In later life he used to delight to reminiscence of the old times and to speak of the great change in the attitude of all towards true Christianity, and the much wider opportunities now afforded us. He spent much time in the bazars talking with Mohammedans, who liked him and still speak of him. He was a friend and father to all the Nestorians here; poor travelers used to make their home with him in passing through, the servant women went to him for advice and sympathy, and many strangers in distress were succored by money he had collected for them. He did more than any one else to hold together the little community of Protestant Syrians here, nor has any one been found to take his place.

Since last October eleven have been received to membership on profession of faith, and there are besides six on probation, most of whom will be received a month from now. This is the largest number received in any one year since 1894. Of these eleven, five are pupils from the girls' school and four from the Memorial School. In fact, a glance through the church register will show that almost all who join our church are led to Christ while in these two schools and under the strong Christian influences there. In this Moslem and Armenian community very few grown men and women are won to Christ, and the great hope seems to be to get hold of the children through the schools.

Last March we were all stirred by a visit of Baron Abraham Jahaniantz, formerly of Tabriz, but now with the Swedish Mission in Baku, who told of revivals he had seen in Paris and Scandinavia.

Meetings were held every night for two weeks in the Memorial School, and were well attended by Armenian young men and several school-boys, other than those who have joined the church, confessed their sins and their desire to serve Christ. At that time, too, the church members met together a number of times to pray for the Holy Spirit, and were greatly helped and drawn together.

ITINERATING WORK.—The Tabriz Station has continued its extensive and persistent itinerating work in the regions to the south and west. Mr. Pittman reports:

The work in Salmas has met with a loss in the passing away of Hurma Sarkis, a Syrian woman who for twenty years has labored as Bible woman there, and who had lived for some years in San Francisco as matron of the Chinese Home of the Occidental Board. Although for the past five years she has not been able to go to villages on account of the infirmities of old age, yet she has exerted a strong Christian influence among her own people and was highly respected by both Armenians and Moslems.

We are glad to report an increase of touring by missionaries over last year. Five missionaries, viz., Miss Holliday, Mrs. Van Hook, Dr. Wright, Mr. Jessup and myself, have made tours. Eighty-eight weeks have been spent in touring, forty by the ladies and forty-eight by the men, in which ninety-eight towns and villages have been visited.

The districts visited this year by missionaries and natives include Salmas, Khoi, Maku, Marend, Ardebil, Hashdarood, Maragha, Miandub, Sain Kala, Sakkiz, Gyunaa and Tabriz. The unsettled condition of the country prevented tours to Zenjan and Karadagh which had been planned, and the tours made have not been without danger and hardships. One of our evangelists was severely beaten.

Of his own tours Mr. Pittman writes:

Winter is a good time for village touring, if one can find a room in which he can put a stove where the men of the village may gather. They are almost entirely idle during the Winter months and are glad to gather in a warm room, where they can sit and smoke and hear something from the outside world. I took a small stove with me, as they are seldom found in the villages, and in the first village where I stayed four days I had from twenty to thirty men a day.

I reached Salmas on New Year's Day and remained five weeks with our preacher, Kasha Yohannan, in Hefdawan and Baron Gazaxian in Old City. Besides having regular Sabbath services and observing the Week of Prayer, we went to fifteen villages on the Salmas plain and visited eighty-five homes of all classes of people, Moslems, Armenians, Syrians and Jews.

From Salmas I went to Khoi and remained twenty-six days. Baron Gazaxian went with me, and we held daily meetings for a week for our church members and other Armenians. We began with an attendance of twenty-five at these meetings and increased to over forty. At the close we had a communion service for our twelve church members and received a Syrian woman into the church.

I returned to Tabriz March 8, and April 13 started on a week's tour to Maragha, Miandub and Sain Kala. I had not been over this route for three years, and was glad to see again the acquaintances I had made on my four previous trips. I found the people as friendly as before, and some of them I had reason to hope were nearer the Kingdom. I stayed nine days in Maragha with our preacher there, Kasha Moshe. The feeling of increasing political freedom gave more boldness to Moslems in expressing their religious convictions and heretical sects are growing in strength.

We visited a Moslem school in Maragha, which had just been opened under the direction of the local senate. The principal teacher was a Tabriz man, who had spent two years in Moscow, Russia, and was trying to introduce modern methods into the school. The seventy pupils were seated on benches, instead of on the floor, and he expected to grade them and have separate rooms. Besides the common branches, as Persian, Arithmetic and Geography, he was teaching Russian and French. The owner of the school building was a friend of Kasha, and we were received very cordially and an examination was held for our benefit, after which Kasha made a few remarks, congratulating the school on the start it had made and expressing a hope for its future success, and then we were taken to the yard of the school, where we watched a drill by the pupils. While much of the work was superficial, yet it showed a readiness and desire for reform in education which I think the ecclesiastics will not be able to restrain.

It is a joy to find among the Armenians, so given to worldliness, those who have longings for spiritual things. In Maragha, an Armenian at the age of fifty has recently learned to read, in order that he might read the Scriptures for himself, and has finished the Gospel of Matthew. In a private conversation he said he gave his heart to Christ.

In the town of Binob an Armenian carpenter from Maragha has his shop. In his shop he keeps three Bibles (his only books), one an ancient Armenian, one modern Armenian and one Turkish. The verses he had marked to ask about showed that he studied them and also gives the Gospel to Moslems. During the Summer I spent seventeen days in Osdkee and two in Khosrovshah, villages about sixteen miles from Tabriz, and was accompanied by Baron Mirza, of the Tabriz Bible Depot. In Osdkee we found unusual freedom both for going about and talking with people in their shops and for receiving them at our lodgings. The unusual interest manifested by several there showed that the previous visits made to that village and the seed sown has not been in vain.

Dr. Wright reports of some of the work to the west and southwest:

In Diliman, the main Moslem town of the plain, we were received cordially and spoke the truth boldly. The Moslems all over that plain are well inclined, and gave us a good hearing whenever we visited them. The way is open there for open medical and educational work among them, and a tactful man can preach the Gospel boldly anywhere. But as yet there is not enough toleration to allow of public assemblies among Moslems. The work must be done from house to house.

In the Spring and early Summer I made a two months' tour in the regions of Marend and Khoi. In the Marend region I had Baron Mirza Sayadian as an assistant, and during the twelve days we were together I found him very useful in the way of making acquaintances and bringing them to our inn for private conference. We found the governor and the chief of telegraph especially friendly. We distributed considerable sacred literature and tracts among the callers. Marend used to be one of the most fanatical Moslem regions in the Tabriz field, but this time we met with the most friendly treatment by all classes.

From Marend I went to Khoi, and spent by the way almost a day in Koske Sarai. When I found the people ready to gather in crowds to hear God's Word, I had three meetings there, and left a Persian Bible with one of the most interested men, with the promise that he would read it to the others.

The work for Armenians has received a check at Khoi by the opposition of the revolutionary bands, one of the officers of which has become their priest, after acting as muleteer for the bands for some years. He is an ignorant and bigoted man. Another chief officer calls himself a Monist, and, having graduated in Germany, is zealously propagating the pantheistic doctrines of Heckel and the Buddhists of India. They have such a power over the Armenians there that all feel compelled to obey them, and to contribute regularly to them for revolutionary purposes. All stand in mortal fear of them. So that while this state of affairs lasts, we cannot expect much of an advance of the Gospel among them. If we hold our own, we will do well.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Memorial Boys' School.—Mr. Wilson reports:

In spite of all the agitations and revolutions, promulgation of constitutions and election campaigns, patriotic processions and demonstrations, plottings of Royalists and Nationalists, closing of bazars and suspension of business, riots, mobs and murders, rumors of wars and drilling of volunteers, Kurdish raids, anticipations of invasions of Turkish Hamidieh and Russian Cossacks, the Memorial School has gone on quietly and regularly with its work. The reactionaries have manifested considerable opposition to the Persian schools which have the modern curriculum and against the Russian school, but ours has remained undisturbed.

The attendance of Persian pupils has increased to eighty, of whom fifty are over sixteen years of age, in addition to 135 Armenians. Some of the Persians are from the families of Hadjis, Sayids and Mullahs, but more largely they are from the ranks of the nobles. It is curious to call a roll in which more than half have the title of Khan, followed by their father's title, such as "The Regulator of the State," "The Glory of the Court," "The Prosperity of the Kingdom," "The Splendor of the Country," "The Pride of the Army," "The Sword of the Physicians," etc. Our primary Persian teacher is a Khan and a General, and our Arabic teacher a descendant of Mohammed and son of the Noble of the Mullahs. The fact that we are training the sons of the ruling class has a marked significance in this new era of Persia's development. Besides leaders of the people, we are training teachers for their new schools.

An encouraging fact is the increasing desire of the Persian pupils to pursue a course of sound learning. Formerly a smattering of languages satisfied them. English is now fully introduced as the language of higher instruction. This has given prestige to the school. My trip to Syria, Turkey and Egypt was useful in enabling me to make this change and to introduce the best methods and suitable text-books.

The boarding department was restarted with twelve pupils, increased this year to twenty-two. . . . At present the boarders are Armenians. We have had pressing applications from Persians (Moslems) to be received. For the Shiah Moslem to eat with Christians or to eat food prepared by them is an abomination. But the applicants are willing to lay aside their old prejudice. We hope to solve the social questions connected with the mingling of the different races in a boarding school, and to get young Persians under the stronger influence which we are able to exert over the boarders.

The religious instruction in our school is emphasized. In our Persian advertisement of the school it was plainly stated that instruction in the Old and New Testaments is a part of the curriculum. Morning prayers are held in both Armenian and Turkish. The latter is attended by the larger Armenian and the Persian pupils. There is a daily comment on the Scripture lesson. Some of the Persians attend the English Bible lesson, some on the French and others have ethics and evidences of Christianity. Some come to the Sunday-school. One former pupil, who was baptized at Baku, has been studying with another convert from Islam in Bulgaria. Another is witnessing a good confession in America. Another continues his profession while studying medicine. We trust we are influencing the Moslem pupils Christward. Let me give an incident. One day after school, a pupil, a Kajar prince, came to my study. He said that he had lost faith in Islam, and was ready to receive any doctrine that would commend itself to him as truth. I had a long talk with him, and he assented gladly to the truth of Christ. I gave him a copy of the "Sweet First Fruits," which he found so interesting that he said he could scarcely lay it aside for his lessons.

In March some special meetings were blessed to these pupils, and nine of them professed conversion and six of them united with the church.

Tabriz Girls' School.—Miss Beaber writes:

The girls' school opened September 10, 1906, with a good attendance and a good outlook, but early in the year a movement of opposition to our schools was started in the Armenian community by the partisans of the Armenian National Schools and the Revolutionists, in which a committee of Armenian revolutionists made a house-to-house canvass, collecting a tax and compelling, as far as threats would do it, the attendance at their own schools of the Armenian children.

A number of our girls left immediately, even though they had already paid the tuition to our school. Others were badly frightened, but refused to withdraw their daughters during the current year, promising to send them to the Armenian school the next year, while still others took a firm stand that it was a matter for them to decide personally, paid the tax imposed by the Armenians, and refused to make them any promises whatever.

At the close of the year we had but seventy-eight pupils remaining of the 168 who had been enrolled during the year. These pupils were of seven grades and the kindergarten, the seven grades having sixty-three lessons per day, divided between four native teachers for all day, two native teachers giving a half day and myself.

Five graduates received diplomas from the shorter course, which includes Armenian reading through a series of Armenian Readers and Armenian Literature (we use the New Testament as a supplementary reading text-book), Writing, Grammar, Spelling, Arithmetic, Geography, Physiology, Natural Science, Armenian History, General History, Turkish, Persian, English, Singing, Drawing, Needlework, and Bible Study. Three of these graduates have returned this year to pursue the higher course, which includes Ancient Armenian, Algebra, Physical Geography, Astronomy, Botany, Physics, Pedagogy, Mental Philosophy, Evidences of Christianity, Church History, Dressmaking, and a continuation of English and Persian.

Moslem Girls' School.—

The pupils were eight in number; all were young ladies who wanted principally needlework and English.

TABRIZ BIBLE DEPOT AND BOOK-ROOM.—Three hundred and nine Scripture portions were sold in the book-room, where a helper spent every morning, going in the afternoons to the bazars for conversation.

MEDICAL WORK.—Mr. Jessup reports of the special evangelistic work attempted in connection with the medical work:

This Spring a work not recently done at Tabriz was started at the men's dispensary. This is to spend the morning in the waiting room talking to the patients. The work was begun by B. Garabed and for six weeks he was there daily. During this time he counted an attendance of over 1,600 men, women and children. But this was at the "rush" season. The average would probably be about 600 to 1,000 a month. In April, when B. Garabed left, I took the work up and have carried it on for about three months. It brings one in contact with every class and condition of Moslem and Armenian, and while often one meets discouragements in trying to preach Christ to a company who do not want Him, yet there is often much friendliness shown.

Dr. Vanneman writes of the impossibility of his devoting his time to hospital work in view of the outside demands:

It is impossible for me to lay aside the visits to the homes, which take up most of my time. The people have learned to send for the medical missionary when seriously ill, and there are very many people ill here, a much greater per cent. of the population than in America. Not counting the thousands of people in the near villages, there are 200,000 here in the city and we are in the centre of it. A city of this size in America would have over 200 physicians. In Tabriz there are five or six European trained physicians, and a few trained in Persia (Moslems). In the hundreds of villages about us there is not a physician of any kind.

As to surgery, there is not a trained surgeon in Tabriz.

The dispensary has been open every week-day during the year. The attendance of patients has been 10,905, which is greater than any previous year. The patients generally bring servants and friends with them, so the total attendance in the waiting-room is much more than 11,000. During the past year more direct evangelistic work with the patients has been done than heretofore. Mr. Jessup has spent considerable time in the waiting-room, reading and talking with the patients.

In the dispensary work I have an assistant, Dr. Eshoo, who puts up most of the medicine and sees many of the dispensary patients. My mornings from 8.30 until 12 are spent at the dispensary, seeing patients and having general oversight of the department. The dispensary is visited not only by the poor, but also by the wealthy merchants, Khans, Moslem ecclesiastics and Europeans. The attendance of the wealthier classes means that we have to have our medicines prepared in a palatable form, and no little time is required to keep the dispensary supplied with suitable preparations of medicines, all of which are brought from London. This patronage of the rich enables us to give freely to the poor. The dispensary not only reaches every class in the city, but many come from the villages. We also see many Moslems from Russia who are passing through on their pilgrimage to Kerbali, and some have come from the Caucasus in Russia, three or four days away, especially for treatment. We cannot tell how much influence our dispensary work has. We know that our work is known all over this part of Persia, so much so that the native evangelists find it of advantage in their work in the villages to tell the people that they are our men.

The visits to the homes form a prominent part of our work, more prominent than in any other medical missionary work with which I am acquainted. We consider this kind of work important. My afternoons are given up to it. The past year we made 1,419 medical visits, nearly all made by myself. These visits are the same as the physicians make in America, except we must go horseback and stay much longer at the house, not less than a half hour, many times an hour, often an hour and a half. We not only have to prescribe and give directions, but also oversee the nursing, as there are no nurses in Persia. To average four or five of these visits every afternoon consumes time, but we feel that we are fully repaid for it. Every house in Tabriz is now open to the medical missionary.

Most of my visits are consultations. In most every district of the city (there are twelve) there is a native doctor, somewhat trained in European medicine. These in difficult cases send for me, and I give my directions to them. Thus I do not have to see the cases every day. I am a help to these native doctors, and they are a help to me. In no other way would it be at all possible to meet the demands made upon us. But in this way we are able to cover the whole city. The cases seen in the homes are different from dispensary cases. These in the home are mostly confined to their beds and are really hospital cases. So we are doing hospital work in the homes. In this way we have been treating all grades and kinds of people, from the Governor of Northern Persia, residing in the Crown Prince's palace, down to the very poorest residing in a hovel.

Our work has been mostly for and among Moslems. The year has been one of great political unrest and change in Persia. Tabriz has been several times on the point of revolution. We are thankful for having been permitted to do the work of the past year. It has been the largest and we think the best we have done.

The receipts a little more than pay for the whole expense of this department.

THE PHILIPPINE MISSION.

This Mission has had another record year. About 2,100 adults were received and our Presbyterian membership has now passed the 8,000 mark. This is remarkable when we remember that the first missionaries, Dr. and Mrs. Rodgers, did not arrive until 1899, and that several of our Stations were not established until several years later. Surely results have abundantly justified the opening of this Mission. The Philippine Archipelago is now one of the most fruitful fields in all the world.

There are still some people who feel that the Philippines belong to the Roman Catholic Church. They evidently do not know that the Roman Church has already lost a majority of the people in the Philippines. It is perhaps too much to say, as some have said, that four-fifths of the people in the Archipelago are not now connected with the Roman Catholic Church; but one of our missionaries declares that nine-tenths of the intelligent people of the Archipelago are now outside the Roman Church. Many of them at first attached themselves to the Aglipay movement; but that movement had no real spiritual basis, and since it has lost in its legal struggle for the possession of church property, it is showing signs of disintegration and a large number of its former adherents are drifting from it. They are not going back to the Roman Catholic Church, but are lapsing into irreligion. It is believed that by far the larger number of these Filipinos, and they are the best class in the Islands, will never return to the Roman Church, so bitter is their memory of their former sufferings at the hands of the friars. Our Protestant missionaries therefore are not trying to win people from the Roman Catholic Church; they are trying to reach people who are not connected with any church at all.

We regret to report that the fanatical Roman Catholics in some places are showing a spirit of persecution. We have mentioned in connection with the Cebu report the outrage perpetrated upon our Christians in that field, an outrage which was incited and led by a Roman Catholic priest.

The union with the Methodists in educational work in Manila is proving a most happy arrangement, and it promises large things for the future.

The Board and the Mission deeply sympathize with the Hon. H. B. Silliman in his bereavement in the death of his beloved wife. Dr. Silliman's generous gifts to the Silliman Institute at Dumaguete have led us all to feel that in him the Philippine Mission has a wise and good friend and counselor, and his sorrow is the sorrow of us all.

The Mission force was enlarged during the year by the arrival of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles R. Hamilton, the Rev. and Mrs. George W. Dunlap, and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Carter. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton have been assigned to Laguna Station and Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap to Cebu Station. Dr. and Mrs. Carter are assisting temporarily at Dumaguete, during the furlough of Dr. Langheim; but on his return they are to go to the Leyte Station.

MANILA STATION.

The ninth year of our work in Manila Station has been one of steady healthful growth.

During Mr. Wright's short furlough, his work was divided between Messrs. Lamb and Rodgers. The sudden departure of Mr. and Mrs. Snook in March threw the care of Laguna Station on Dr. Rodgers and Sr. Zarco, while Mr. Magill took care of the upland towns at both ends of the province, until the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton in October.

The division of labor for the coming year will be as usual: Dr. Rodgers, with Messrs. Estrella and Zarco, will have the care of the churches in the city, Cavite, Rizal and Batangas Provinces, a great diocese involving much labor. Dr. Rossiter and Mr. Hillis will continue their excellent work in the American Church; Mr. Lamb, treasurer, business manager, editor, and general superintendent of Sunday-schools. Mr. Wright and Miss Bartholomew will have charge of the Ellinwood Training Schools. Mr. Wright will continue his interesting work among lepers.

Let no one think that this division of responsibility implies that each missionary confines himself to that work. Duties are inter-related in many ways and new ones are constantly arising.

The business work of the Mission treasurer has increased greatly in the last few years. Mr. Lamb has given many weeks of unremitting service to this necessary work.

The Bagong Araw has been published during the year with regularity and is accomplishing much, not only as a means of communication with our scattered churches in the Tagalog field, but also as a bond between the various sections of our work. A Spanish page or two has been introduced in order to make the paper accepted in the South, but it remains a fact that the influence of papers such as this must be confined chiefly to the dialect in which they are published. An arrangement has been made with the Methodist Episcopal Press to unite the Tagalog Christian Advocate with the Bagong Araw. By this means the cost is lessened and the size and quality of the paper increased and improved. Both titles will still be used, but the material will be the same.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Ellinwood Training School.—During Mr. Wright's absence, Mr. Lamb had charge of the school building and Dr. Rodgers assisted in the teaching. The plan was to hold institutes each month for the leaders and workers, as was done in 1906. This plan was carried out, and gave good results.

At the suggestion of Bishop Oldham of the Methodist Church and after several conferences the union of our Ellinwood Training School and their Nicholson Bible school was effected. The agreement was for the scholastic year only, subject to renewal if it proved pleasing to both parties. As the Methodists have no building, the sessions were held in the Ellinwood building, the Methodist Mission contributing toward the general expenses as well as paying the expenses of their own students for six months.

Mr. Lamb had charge of the building and business management and Mr. Farmer, of the Methodist Mission, of the plans for studies and courses. Dr. Rodgers and Mr. Farmer taught during the entire term and Mr. McLaughlin and Mr. Hamilton for a short time. Thirty-three students were matriculated, twenty-six of whom were from the Methodist churches and seven from ours. One of our most promising students, Angel Estrella, died during the year.

This experiment of a united theological seminary has been a complete success. Relations between the Missions, teachers and students have not only been most harmonious, but the relationship has had a distinctively beneficial effect in broadening the knowledge and sympathies of the students. We feel that the actual teaching has done much good. Both Methodists and Presbyterians are in favor of continuing the plan for another year, as we consider it most effective and economical.

Instruction was given in Spanish and English, as there were men from five dialects studying. Mr. Wright plans to devote the dry months to institutes in Laguna and Cavite, and then a large general institute in Manila.

At their annual Conference the Methodists appointed a committee to meet a similar committee of our Mission to study the problem of a Protestant College in Manila. We hope and pray for the raising up of such an institution. The only place open for young men who desire a collegiate education is the University of St. Tomas. The Government has no plans for a university at present.

Ellinwood School for Girls.—No classes were held after Mission meeting last year, as Miss Bartholomew was transferred to Dumaguete until March, to supply a vacancy at Silliman Institute.

In May a Conference for women was held in connection with the Conference for evangelists. Twelve women were present, representing congregations in Cavite and Laguna Provinces. One of the practical results of the Conference has been the organization of two Bible training classes for older women, one at Tondo and one at Malate.

The first regular year of the Girls' School opened June 11. The number of students enrolled was eighteen, twelve the first term and fourteen the second. As we found last year, the most promising girls and women were unable to pay their board; but five this year were able to pay something, part in money and part in rice and other food materials. Students were enrolled from the provinces of Cavite, Laguna and Tayabas and one from Iloilo.

The teaching was in Tagalog and English. Courses of instruction were given in Bible, methods of Sunday-school and personal work, English, vocal and instrumental music and domestic science. Instrumental music was in charge of Mrs. Rodgers; vocal music, Mrs. Cook; English, Mrs. Hillis and Miss Bartholomew; Bible study and domestic science, Miss Bartholomew. Gymnastics were required regularly during the rainy season and exercise out of doors in good weather. Dr. Hamilton gave a short course of lectures on physiology and hygiene. Special stress was laid on practical housekeeping, cooking and sewing.

The girls did all the work of the school, taking each part in turn. The classes in sewing earned a little money by doing work for Americans in the city. The Bible lessons were given in such a form that the girls may reproduce them at their homes. We expect during the coming vacation to have a number of such classes organized. Saturday afternoons a small class in the Catechism for children of the Malate congregation was conducted by one of the girls.

Dr. Edwards has freely given his services for the students during the year, and in several cases of serious illness he has been exceedingly kind. A number of girls had to be sent home during the year, victims of tuberculosis or other serious diseases.

We feel that the school is well begun now, though on a small scale. Most of the girls were leaders in the congregations from which they came. They did earnest and thorough work. All but five had been baptized before they entered. Four of the latter have been baptized since last Mission meeting, and the fifth is only waiting for the dedication of the chapel in her home town. During the second term all the girls took their turns in leading chapel and prayers at night.

The school is becoming known among the Filipinos and requests for admission are coming in constantly. We hope to be able to receive as many as the building will accommodate next year.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The work in the churches in the city of Manila has made quiet but steady progress. Twenty-seven were received in the Tondo Church and eight in Malate. The Sunday-schools in both places are in excellent condition and command the hearty support of the members.

The total number of new members received throughout the Station was 325. The older churches have had a good year.

San Roque is pushing work in Cavite and Caridad. The Bacoor Church found its congregation so scattered that it built two other chapels and divided into three parts, but all the congregation meets monthly in the principal chapel. Old Cavite has not had a very prosperous year, but its officers are pushing its work in the neighboring towns with determination and will gain a blessing. Their chapel is unfinished, but they will have a fine one when they succeed in getting it completed.

The Malabon Church, though it has not gained many members, has opened work and has a new congregation ready to be organized in the barrio de Amaya. Amadeo and Naic have done excellent work in pushing the preaching of the Gospel to intermediate towns of Baylon, Alfonso and Indang.

Sr. Juan Estrella continues in charge of the work on the hill circuit in Cavite Province and has done excellent service this year. His salary is paid by the Y. P. S. C. E. of the American Church.

The Binan Church, which was joined to Manila Station in Presbytery, has pushed work into the barrios of the adjoining towns and expects a good harvest in time. The Imus Churches—there are three with a promise of a fourth—have done excellent work and their congregations are prospering. The Pasig Church has done well in spite of the attacks of the Cristianos and the Spiritualists.

The work in Batangas has prospered under the direction of Pastor Estrella. He moved to Lipa in April, and as a result of his work there is a flourishing church there with regular services in four barrios. The Bawan Church is doing a good work. One of its members is now Presidente of the town. In the city of Batangas, however, the group is small but vigorous. Sr. Zarco has acted as assistant and alternated with Dr. Rodgers in visiting the churches in both this and the Laguna district.

The work in the San Lazaro Leper Hospital has been carried on steadily, though the Americans have done little actively. The Society for the Evangelization of the Lepers has given, through Mr. Jansen, £50 for the support of an evangelist.

Dr. Rodgers adds:

The question that has preoccupied our minds to a large extent during this year has been that of self-government and self-support in the churches. In the matter of care for themselves and the direction of their own affairs the congregations have made excellent progress. We have followed the system of monthly visits by an evangelist from Manila and a quarterly visit from the pastor, either Sr. Zarco or Dr. Rodgers.

As yet no church has assumed the support of an evangelist, an end toward which we are working. As long as the people do not feel the necessity for a resident preacher, and as long as we have few educated evangelists, it is not strange that there has been no demand. There is little money in the congregations, and unless they are deeply moved they will not bestir themselves to pay the salary of an evangelist. There are, however, indications of a growing desire to have settled pastors, and we feel confident that by the time we have the men ready there will be congregations ready to support them.

There has been a notable absence of persecutions in this field, perhaps owing to the fact that there was a political campaign that gave vent to evil feelings, perhaps to the fact that in these campaigns the votes of the Protestants have been sought and therefore they have been spared hatred—a happy result surely of the growing autonomy of the land. In some cases the Protestants have been pushed forward into positions of leadership quite unsought.

Of the spiritual condition of the churches we are glad to say that there is a growing sense of the truth of the Gospel and of higher ideals of the Christian life.

THE AMERICAN CHURCH.—Dr. Rossiter and Mr. Hillis have had a very busy and a very successful year. The great event was the dedication of the handsome Emerson Memorial Chapel, November 3, 1907. The dedicatory exercises were largely attended and attracted widespread interest. This church is believed to be the only one in the world which has a service on the roof. Dr. Rossiter conceived the happy idea of having a flat roof so arranged that it would be adapted to evening services. This is an ideal arrangement in that tropical climate where everybody wants to be out-doors in the evening. The singing of hymns, the reading of the Word of God and the preaching of the Gospel in the solemn hush of the evening and under the shining of the stars are exceedingly impressive.

A generous gift of $5,000 from Mrs. Russell Sage, of New York, made possible the purchase of an adjoining lot which was greatly needed.

Manila is attracting an increasing number of tourists and the American Church services are popular with all classes. The Church is in fine condition. It is gradually assuming the real proportions of a church, namely, families in their usual seats, the audience room well filled with our regular people, and many strangers who are here for the first time.

There seems now a genuine love for the Church, which four years ago was lacking almost absolutely. All the departments of church work are now working well, and are much better organized than ever before. We have now a full Board of Trustees of fine men and a full Session of consecrated men.

Ninety-five persons have been brought into the membership of the Church during the year, and fifty-seven have been returned to the States. We reach 1,000 persons in the provinces by the printed monthly sermons, and we keep in contact with seventy-five of our members in the provinces by personal letters and circulars. We feel justified in all the labor this involves, for it gives these people a touch of spiritual things from month to month, and they have no other religious privileges during the whole year.

Our Sunday audiences are large and there are an enthusiasm and interest in the church services which are very pleasant to witness. Visitors express not only pleasure but surprise at the tone and charm of the Sabbath services.

ILOILO STATION.

The work of Iloilo Station falls naturally into four divisions: Educational, Work for Foreigners, Evangelistic, and Medical. In each of these departments God has prospered us richly.

MEDICAL.—The hospital was in charge of Dr. Thomas, of the Baptist Mission, from January to September, when Dr. Hall returned from furlough. The Mission was fortunate in having the services of Dr. Thomas for the interval, for he is an efficient physician and missionary. The question of a second American nurse was providentially settled when, looking to a union with our Board in the hospital work, the Baptist Board engaged Miss Klein to return to assist Mrs. Brinton pending the consummation of the union sought.

The proposition was made by the Baptist Mission that, instead of establishing another Mission hospital in Iloilo, as they at first planned to do, they take a half interest in the one already established by our Board, which would mean a double force for one institution, instead of being divided in maintaining two weaker ones. While the final consummation of the union has not been completed, there is every reason to believe it will be, and in that event there will be two physicians instead of one, and two American nurses to help in training the Filipinos. All denominational teaching and literature are to be excluded, and the aim will be to evangelize and leave the converts free to join whichever denomination they may prefer. The union of the two physicians in the hospital work will permit each to continue his outside district work as before, and at the same time insure a continuous service at the hospital.

Owing to the fact that nurses as a class are unknown in the Islands, and that the people have not yet learned the true dignity of such service, the work of nursing the sick has not appealed to the more enlightened class as we had hoped it would. Instead, it has attracted the ignorant but well-meaning peasant class, who, while not possessing the same degree of intelligence, have shown themselves ready to make great sacrifice and thus far have proved themselves capable of doing fairly good work under supervision. In fact some of those who have now been in training for a year and a half have proven to be very satisfactory and trustworthy, and have been praised again and again by foreign as well as native patients, who have been delighted to see how efficient they were.

There are many difficulties to contend with, but by carefully selecting for training those who show special aptitude for the work, there is reason to believe that in a few years we shall have a corps of Filipino nurses who will do efficient work under supervision, and may even be counted on to take more or less individual responsibility.

There are now twelve nurses in training, some who have been tried and dismissed, while others have been taken home by their parents to be married or help in the maintenance of the family. They have not yet learned to honor a promise to remain for a definite time. On the other hand, some have been like the "new broom" during the two months of probation, and after the hospital had agreed to keep them for the three years of training, they have sooner or later lost their interest and ceased to do good work. The term of probation has therefore been lengthened to three months, instead of two, and may be made even longer to test the candidates before finally being received for training.

It is the hope of those in charge of the hospital to have the entire staff composed of Christians, but thus far this has not been possible, and we have been forced to employ a certain number of assistants who, while doing their work efficiently enough, have nevertheless been more or less demoralizing to the others in different ways. Some of these are becoming converted, while the places of others are being taken by members of our congregations, as fast as suitable ones can be found to take up the work, and we hope in the near future to have a staff of workers composed entirely of people who will be living practical examples of the Christ life in work and talk.

Worship is conducted regularly every morning before the day's work begins, and all the patients can hear at least the singing. Testaments are distributed in the wards and literature given out from the dispensary. A class has been started for the Christian members of the Filipino staff on Sunday evenings, the object of which is to keep prominently before each member his privilege in the matter of personal work in a quiet way with patients.

We are sorry to report that receipts do not yet meet expenses, the former being 10,693.68 pesos, while the latter were 13,290.04 pesos, leaving a deficit of 2,596.36 pesos. Every effort is being made to reduce the expenses and increase the receipts. When the Annual Report of the hospital is issued, it is hoped that many will respond to our appeal, and as the hospital becomes more widely known and more paying patients are received, it is hoped that the institution will become self-sustaining; but that time has not yet arrived.

The hospital continues to grow in popularity. When the Provincial Governor was brought in, shot in three places and seriously wounded, the hundreds who came to see him or to inquire after his condition freely praised the splendid work being done in the hospital, and more than one was heard to say that in the event of illness or injury he wished to be brought to the hospital for treatment. In fact, only the day before the shooting, the Governor himself, passing the hospital with a friend, made the same remark.

During the year 7,140 patients have been treated in the dispensary and 332 in wards. Of these, 3,297 were surgical and 4,175 medical cases. One hundred and forty-six operations were performed under anæsthetics and 2,017 minor operations and dressings were made. We gratefully acknowledge the very kind services of Col. L. A. LaGarde, Chief Surgeon of the Department of the Visayas, and Dr. Bruns, in charge of the Post Hospital, both of whom have given their advice and assistance promptly and cheerfully.

There have been a number of conversions in the hospital during the year. Many have become interested and later have come into the church as members, while others have had their prejudices removed by what they have seen of the work done in the spirit of love and sacrifice.

I will cite but one case, a very touching one, showing the bearing of fruit after many years. A Chinese had apparently been taught in his earlier years by a certain Mrs. Wilson to repeat the Lord's Prayer and probably a good deal more. But he had not become a follower of the Master, and had lived the usual godless life of so many of the Chinese in the Philippines. He finally found his way to the hospital to die of a chronic disease. Toward the end, as he became weaker, he seemed to have a confused idea that Miss Klein was Mrs. Wilson, and spoke of going home to China and of what he would bring her when he returned, calling her all the while Mrs. Wilson. Finally, he began to repeat the Lord's Prayer slowly with many stops, and at last gave it up saying: "I can't finish, Mrs. Wilson." Miss Klein said: "Can you finish if I help you?" and together they finished the prayer. Then there was a silence as the breathing came harder and more labored. He finally said in a low voice between gasps: "Mrs. Wilson, I—Christian, I—Christian, I—Christian," and with these words on his lips he passed away to Him whose love he had at least come to appreciate.

EDUCATIONAL.—This includes training classes for Filipino workers and the dormitory for students of the provincial schools. As usual two training classes have been held this year, one in March and one in October, each lasting four weeks. They were attended by forty-six men and women, preachers, Sunday-school workers and other helpers. The instruction was entirely in the Bible. These classes have become so successful that it is the intention of the missionaries to hold two separate classes next year, one for a few selected men who preach more or less regularly, and the other more general for all workers. Some attempt was made this year to follow up the work of these classes by local classes in the various congregations, but press of work made it impossible to do more than make a beginning. The classes were closed each time by the celebration of the sacrament, and the men and women went home to their villages deeply impressed. For the first time the congregations contributed to the support of these classes.

The dormitory work is now in its second year. The fire of last April destroyed all the furniture and made it necessary to spend about 500 pesos for new equipment, the money being provided by the weekly offerings of the foreign congregation. Since June there have been from twenty-seven to thirty-one boys in board all the time, seventeen of them being boys who were in board when the school closed last March. Two of the boys are Christians, two others have professed a desire to be baptized, and a number of others are only waiting the consent of their parents. They have of themselves introduced the custom of returning thanks before meals.

Practically all the boys are from the better class families of Negros and Panay, about one-third of them being in the High School proper and speaking English fluently. If this work is kept up, there is no doubt that the same boys will return to the dormitory year after year until their school days are over, thus coming under the immediate influence of the missionary for from five to ten years. A committee chosen by the boys and by the missionary in charge manages all matters connected with the government of the dormitory. The missionary tries to visit the house, which is located about a mile from Iloilo, every day or two, holding Bible classes in English twice a week. On Sunday the boys are required to attend church and Sunday-school, which they gladly do, many of them also coming to the midweek meetings of the Iloilo congregation. It is hoped that this work will eventually become a union work with the brethren of the Baptist Mission, and that a suitable building for the dormitory may be erected. At present the ten pesos a month charged the boys is sufficient to take care of all running expenses and apply about ten pesos a month toward the rent of the house, the remainder of the rent, twenty pesos, being taken from the offerings of the foreign congregation.

FOREIGN WORK.—The work for foreigners has this year included the Y. M. C. A. work and the usual preaching and pastoral work of the foreign congregation. Little pastoral work has been done owing to the press of other duties, but the regular preaching services have been held every Sunday morning, the missionary in charge being occasionally relieved by the brethren of the Baptist Mission. In July, Bishop Brent of the Episcopal Mission spent several days in Iloilo, putting his time entirely at our disposal, so that a number of most helpful and largely attended services and lectures at the chapel and the Y. M. C. A. could be arranged. These morning services have averaged an attendance of between thirty and thirty-five, the congregation being made up of all classes of men drawn from the British and Swiss and American communities, which aggregate about 250 persons.

This year the army people in particular have been loyal supporters of the work, General and Mrs. Mills among others being regular attendants. Seven have affiliated themselves with the congregation during the year; one infant was baptized and 570 pesos were contributed to the work of the Station. In connection with this work, Mrs. Doltz, aided by an earnest Christian woman, has kept a very flourishing Sunday-school for foreign children in progress. She has also done much in arranging special music, besides entertaining at our table from ten to fifteen guests every month.

As the Y. M. C. A. has been without a secretary during the entire year, the burden of this work has also fallen largely upon the missionaries. Reading and game rooms furnished with a piano and billiard table are kept up, where young men may pass their leisure time, and on Sunday evenings a Gospel service is held. A library containing 600 volumes is very generally patronized, and an attempt has also been made to keep the railroad and lumbering camps, as well as the ships having station at Iloilo, supplied with old magazines and periodicals.

To keep this work going about 150 pesos is needed every month, which is obtained from local subscriptions, subletting of rooms and entertainments. During the year four lectures, a military band concert, a minstrel show, and a musical and literary entertainment—the last a benefit for the Iloilo fire sufferers—have been arranged in connection with the Y. M. C. A. Not only have current expenses been met, but some 600 pesos have been accumulated as a nucleus for a building fund.

EVANGELISTIC.—With the growth of the work the congregations attached to Iloilo Station have become divided into six groups, two under the care of Dr. Hall and four under Mr. Doltz. There are now nineteen congregations with chapels, and seven preaching places where preaching services and Sunday-school are conducted regularly every week or every other week. The first group comprises the work in Iloilo and the immediate vicinity, consisting of the Filipino and Chinese congregations in Iloilo and congregations with chapels at Mandurriao, a suburb of Iloilo; at Balcon, a village across the channel on Guimaras, and a group of believers near Nagaba, another village of Guimaras. This work is cared for largely by workers from the Iloilo congregation, who go out on Sunday and during the week to the outlying Stations, as well as to three street meetings in the city itself. The membership of this group is 356, thirty-three having been added during the year.

The congregation of Iloilo is now finishing the third year of the pastorate of Rev. Paulino Solarte. It continues to make substantial progress, the services being well attended and the spiritual life well guarded by the pastor and four elders. In the April fire about half the families in the congregation lost their homes, but, with the exception of one month, the pastor's salary was promptly forthcoming through the efforts of the deacons. The membership of the congregation is now 240 and the average attendance at Sunday-school 170. Sixteen adults and twenty infants have been baptized during the year, and 710 pesos contributed for congregational expenses.

The Chinese congregation has been in charge of an evangelist, Tan Su Wong, who has just gone back to Amoy for another year of study. A meeting, attended by about twenty-five Chinese, is held every Sunday afternoon, and a well-attended prayer meeting on Thursday evening. Mr. Wong is very active in pastoral visitation among the 1,000 Chinese who make up the community in Iloilo, and also conducts a school for Chinese children. A little more than half his salary of 40 pesos per month is subscribed by the thirty-five members now on the roll, a portion of whom are, however, always absent from Iloilo. Twelve adults have been added to this congregation during the year.

The congregation at Balcon was this year increased by five, and has shown a very good spirit in the settlement of a dispute which arose last April. The group at Bagaba is preparing to build a chapel in the town, that it may have services more regularly and exert more of an influence on the community. The congregation at Mandurriao shows growth in numbers. It contains some of our most faithful brethren, and has lent the services of its leader several times during the year for work in the mountains.

Group No. 2 consists of the congregations with chapels at San Miguel and Leon, towns respectively twelve and eighteen miles from Iloilo, and at Tuba, a mountain village about twenty miles back of Leon.

This is the second of Dr. Hall's groups, the evangelist in charge being Sr. Pedro Recto, who has so far recovered the use of his limbs that he can now walk fifteen to twenty miles in a day. All of these congregations are in a good, healthy condition, each one having had some accessions during the year, and San Miguel having sent out its influence to the neighboring town of Alimodial, where the nucleus of a congregation is forming. The congregation at Tuba has had considerable influence in diminishing the ladrone spirit of that district, a number of the ex-robbers having been converted. This group now numbers 655, as against 600 last year. Leon is our strongest work, having thirty-five on the roll.

Group No. 3 includes the work in the southern part of our Iloilo field and consists of congregations with chapels at Oton, Maaslug and Banga.

This district has been nominally under the care of Evangelist José Moleta, who has been seriously handicapped for the past two years by illness. Several have been added to the congregation of Oton, as also that of Banga, and in the former place the people, with the help of Iloilo brethren, have just completed a new and very neat chapel. Maaslug is in a village which was abandoned some years ago on account of the ladrones. Under the leadership of a local worker from the Oton congregation the people have gone back, rebuilt their homes, and with a chapel in the centre have formed the beginning of what we hope will be a strong centre of influence. Seven have been added to this group, making the membership 172.

Group No. 4 comprises the southern part of the province of Antique and includes congregations at San José, Osorio and San Rafael, with groups of believers at two other villages.

Each of these congregations, as nearly all the others in the entire district, has its local preacher, but at present there is no evangelist in charge of this district, Rev. Reyes having at the beginning of the year transferred his residence to the northern end of the province. Osorio, like Tuba, is a mountain village with a similar constituency and a similar influence. San Rafael is another village where a chapel has just been completed, the directing influence being that of an ex-robber. None have been baptized as yet in this congregation, but about thirty are waiting for baptism. In several other villages groups of believers are awaiting the return of the missionary, anxious to be baptized and to build a chapel. In this group twenty-four have been baptized and the total membership is now ninety-seven.

Group No. 5 consists of congregations with chapels at Tabong Tabong, Igtiring and Lumbuyan, mountain villages about forty miles north of San José.

Evangelist Clemente Constantino had been in charge here, having been willing for the past year to live separated from his family in order that he might preach the gospel where it was needed. The people are now building him a house, so that he may move his family up. All three of these congregations are new this year, Tabong Tabong having been organized last April and including now 196 brethren from the surrounding villages. The chapel at Lumbuyan was dedicated in November, four people being baptized and fifty being received as candidates. At Igtiring the chapel has just been completed and the first converts will be baptized on the missionaries' next visit.

Group No. 6 is the northern end of the province of Antique, 135 miles from Iloilo. It includes congregations and chapels in the town of Culasi and the villages of Pitac and Tigbabuy, and is under the immediate charge of Evangelist Reyes.

The chapel in Culasi was burned last February by Aglipayano partisans, but was immediately rebuilt larger than before. The work grows stronger continually and now includes members of the best families in the district. Mr. Reyes has transferred his residence permanently to this end of the province, where the work at present looks most promising. In the town itself the Aglipayano movement is losing ground, and when the church property reverts to the Roman Church, which will prove a deathblow to the Aglipayano Church, we expect a large ingathering. Among the mountain people also there has been a decided movement. In August an old man of eighty, who is the leader of a large mountain district and who through fear of the friars had not been in a town for forty years, was baptized and since then 400 or 500 have presented themselves for baptism. In this group 370 have been baptized this year, bringing the total membership of these churches up to 663.

The total number of converts connected with Iloilo Station is now 2,110 adults and 706 children, 414 children being received this year.

This report would not be complete without a reference to the faithful and efficient services of Pastor Reyes.

Under the Holy Spirit, much of the work of Antique is due to the judicious and indefatigable efforts of him and his wife. He has shown himself at all times eager to promote the best interests of the kingdom and to sacrifice his own personal desires to those interests, willingly moving his residence from one place to another and giving up a long-promised vacation when it seemed wise to do so.

The Mission feels that the needs of the Antique field are great. There are now over 1,000 members in this district, and new towns and villages are opening up constantly. To reach even the nearest congregation from Iloilo requires a hard day's travel overland, as water transportation is costly and cannot be depended upon.

Iloilo Station has never received a penny of special appropriations for this work, it having developed so far entirely out of the funds for the Iloilo work, which accounts for the deficits for our Station in Classes 4-9 during recent years. We have had, for instance, 185 pesos to pay the traveling expenses of missionaries and evangelists whose aggregate mileage easily reaches 10,000 miles.

DUMAGUETE STATION.

Silliman Institute.—Again Silliman Institute, under the efficient leadership of Dr. and Mrs. Hibbard, is able to report the best year in its history. Both in numbers and in character of work done the school has perceptibly grown. The enrollment has been 332. The spirit of the boys has been earnest and healthy.

In addition to the regular religious services of the college, two prayer meetings have been carried on by the students themselves. We are happy to state that eighteen boys have professed their faith in Christ and have been baptized during the year. There are nine students looking forward to the ministry.

The teachers have been compelled to carry too many classes. Owing to Mr. and Mrs. McIntire's absence on health leave, Miss Bartholomew aided us for two months. Mr. Rath also gave about three months of efficient service. We are very grateful to them for this assistance. Mr. Smith has continued to teach during the year, and has proved himself a valuable and faithful helper. We were glad to welcome Dr. and Mrs. Carter in October, particularly on account of the medical work among the students. They have also assisted in teaching. The school is becoming better known throughout the islands and visitors are constantly coming to see it.

Many students were turned away last year, but when the new building is completed we hope to double the number of students. Looking upon the work and its growth, we cannot but feel that God is showing it His gracious favor.

Industrial Department of Silliman Institute.—Mr. Glunz wrote, before he began his work as superintendent of this department:

Given a pile of logs and sundry lots of nails, galvanized iron and paint, the students will build their own workshop, durably constructed, neatly finished and with glazed sashes and moulded doors.

Time has vindicated his judgment.

This year, as last, the chief effort has been spent on the workshop, which is now in use. The machinery has been installed, the press was moved in, the tool-room finished, and part of the second story has been used as a class-room. The building has two floors, 40 by 80 feet, an engine and fuel-room with cement floor, 16 by 40 feet, and a tower-room, 12 by 16 feet. More than nine-tenths of the work was done by student labor.

No soliciting for outside work was done, but as soon as the roof of the new shop was on outside work was received. This amounted during the year to about 1,200 pesos ($600 gold). The value of the labor on this was about $240. Owing to the amount of work on the shop building proper, which was enough to keep all the boys busy, several native carpenters were employed part of the time; but the amount which the students actually earned on this outside work amounted to probably $150, aside from about $50 for sawing.

Those who know something of the Filipino dislike of manual labor will appreciate the triumph in the following:

The chief items which made up this sum of $600 worth of outside work were ten benches for the Provincial Building Court Room, 100 school desks for the Provincial High School (for which all material was supplied by the Educational Department), fourteen benches for the Municipal Boys' School, four desks for the Municipal Treasurer's office, two gates for the Constabulary building, tables, book-cases and filing cabinets for the office of the Provincial Treasurer, two sets of pigeon-holes for the Post-Office, turning for the Geodetic Survey, several hundred rings for a merry-go-round, several show-cases for business men, the repair of a revolving lighthouse mechanism for the Bureau of Navigation, ironwork for the foreman in charge of bridge construction, besides several cabinets for private parties. An order was received from a municipal treasurer on the Island of Siquijor for two desks like those made for the local municipal treasurer, at a considerable advance in price, but owing to lack of time it had to be refused.

The average number of interno students who worked at carpentry was thirty-five. These worked three hours on each of five afternoons per week and five hours Saturday mornings. An average of eighty externos worked five hours every Saturday morning, a large part of their work being the care of the grounds. Aside from these, five boys worked in the printing shop, seven in the dining-room, five as caretakers of the main building and three as assistant teachers. The plan is to have every student receive some manual training.

The press has been kept busy, printing a total of 284,000 pages, an increase of 66,000 pages over last year.

It has not yet been possible to use any student labor on the farm, situated two miles from the school; but by having part of it worked on shares some copra, corn, rice and vegetables have been secured.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The increasing demands of the school on the time and strength of Dr. Hibbard and Mr. McIntire have left the evangelistic work with less supervision than ever before. They have been able to care for the work in Dumaguete and the surrounding towns, but Amblan and Guijulan can be visited only in vacations, and no new towns have been entered, although there are several open to the Gospel. During the last long vacation Dr. Hibbard visited Guijulan and Amblan and baptized a considerable number. There have been seventy-four baptisms this year, of whom twenty-two were children and eighteen were students in the college.

We have had the same number of paid evangelists as before, namely four. One of these, Sr. Sotto, was with Mr. Rath in Baybay part of the year. We have used a larger number of students for preaching in the near-by towns. Groups go out each Sunday afternoon to Sibulan, Luzuriaga and Bacong, and another group holds a street meeting in Dumaguete. One of these students, while returning from Bacong at night, was set upon by two men with clubs and escaped with two bruises. We were able to identify one of the men and prosecuted him.

in the Justice's court, but he has appealed to the Court of First Instance, and may be able to fix up his witnesses so that their testimony will hold water better than it did at the first trial.

Sr. Sotto and two of the students spent the Christmas vacation of two weeks on the Island of Siquijor.

This is the first time we have attempted to open work on that island. From Amblan the preacher also goes once in two weeks to the next town, Taujay. Occasional meetings have also been held in Bais. During the Christmas vacation Amblan will be visited again, but Guijulngan cannot be reached until the long vacation in March, and we hear rumors of some of the members having taken up Spiritualism. From all this it will be evident to the Mission and to the Board that a new man is needed in this Station to care for and push the evangelistic work. The demands of the college will not grow less, but rather more, especially with the increased capacity incident with the completion of a new building.

CEBU STATION.

During the past year God has opened up several new districts and led us to enter; and not being able to tell whence the wind cometh or whither it bloweth, we cannot explain why much blessing has been given in the south of Cebu and withheld in the north, or why the north of Bohol has opened to the Gospel and the south of Bohol has been sealed. The older out-stations have not yielded their usual harvest of souls, yet the Spirit has moved the "dry bones" in other places. Early in the year we heard of a poor man (a revolutionist in the early days, converted during his imprisonment by a Bible given him by Mrs. Jansen) who was now preaching the Gospel throughout the southern end of the Island of Cebu and distributing Gospels wherever he went. He was so poor that he had only one suit of clothes, which he had to wash himself and wait along the banks of the stream for it to dry. Senor Ricardo, the Filipino pastor, went to investigate, and found in Badian a group of people rejoicing in the truth that he had taught them. This poor man and another faithful old elder from the Dumanjug congregation came to Cebu for six weeks' Bible study with Dr. and Mrs. Graham, and then returned to their old fields to give out what they had received. The result was congregations formed at Badian, Ginatilan, Oslob and Santander. Chapels have been erected in two of these places and are in process of erection in the other two locations.

Another interesting work has been going on during the year in the north of Bohol, among the fishermen and others who inhabit an island called Bapinin or Mino. The Word was sown there by one of our Cebu members, an old pilot called Marcus, who went to live on that island because Dr.

Graham advised his wife to take outdoor treatment for phthisis from which she was suffering. He preached the Gospel and spread leaflets among the 2,000 inhabitants of the small island, with the result that we have there to-day a congregation of ninety-nine adults and forty-eight children, while about as many more are asking for baptism, and the evangelist has a daily school of over 100 children.

The results for the year, as far as figures go, are a total of 620 adults baptized and received into the church, and 249 children baptized.

PERSECUTION.—Dr. Graham writes:

One of the results of the work has been persecution; and in one sense we rejoice in it. It tries our people and keeps out impostors, yet we protest against persecution from the authorities who are supposed to represent the Government of a land glorying in its religious liberty. Religious liberty is a myth in Cebu; and apparently the Government is not able to cause it to exist. Our evangelist in Badian was struck in the face, while preaching, by the Presidente of the town, and he and two other members were thrown into prison with brutal blows and many insults. Lepers were collected by the municipal authorities to spit into the faces of Protestants and paw them with their mutilated hands while service was being held. At another place one of our members was thrown into jail by order of the priest, on the charge that the man's brother owed him for having married him several years before. He was in prison, illegally of course, and lay there without trial for twenty-four days, often offered his liberty if he would kiss a crucifix and renounce Protestantism. He remained firm through it all, and when a procession passed his cell window he was thrown down and held there by two policemen until it passed. At length he escaped to Cebu and came to us. Nothing was done beyond the dismissal of the magistrate. Now this same man has had his land virtually stolen from him, because he is true to his conscience and his God.

In Bohol one of our people was sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment for burying his child in a Protestant cemetery. True he had technically broken the law, as he had failed to get a municipal permit because of insurmountable obstacles. I am pleased to report that Governor-General Smith pardoned the man before his sentence expired.

In Dumanjug a worker went to jail for a week for preaching the Gospel, and afterwards, when a mob ransacked his house, he was refused police protection. In many other cases have our people been stoned, ill-treated, arrested on false charges, and threatened; but having "obtained help of God," they "continue unto this day."

The final outrage of the year in Cebu was, however, the riot and murder at Santander, December 16.

On that day our brave, faithful Filipino pastor, Ricardo Alonzo, with a company of the Oslob Christians, went to the neighboring town of Santander to dedicate a little chapel which the company of forty-five believers there had built. Before going they asked the Presidente for police protection from violence, as they knew well the history of the Spanish friar in that place. The protection was refused them. After the dedication service, while they were all eating in the houses of the Protestants near the chapel, 300 men, armed with bolos and lances and headed by the priest and a concilor, marched on them, heralding their approach with a bombardment of rocks, shouting "Kill the Protestants!" Pastor Ricardo immediately gave the word to flee to Oslob, and soon all the Protestants had disappeared in the bush—all except one, who was brutally murdered and left lying in his blood. The houses were wrecked inside, partially robbed, one man losing 140 pesos in money, etc. Some of the children were lost in the bush, and as far as we know two of these children are still missing, though within fifteen hours of the receipt of the telegram the governor, the fiscal, the chief of the constabulary and Dr. Graham were at the scene of the trouble. What Dr. Graham saw saddened his heart, yet that same night, when leaving the people, he reminded them that God was love, and that if they were His children they too had love and must show it to their enemies who had shown such hate. Through their tears they muttered assents, and there was something divine in the face of the poor widow of the martyr. She had been found trying to keep hogs from the dead body of her husband, but she held her child to her breast and murmured: "Yes, yes, we must love." Brethren, we have the solemn privilege of reporting a martyr for Christ's sake in Cebu this year.

The civil authorities took prompt action, but whether the persecution will cease is doubtful.

MEDICAL WORK.—This has been very encouraging. The dispensary was busy when Dr. Graham was in Cebu; and though it was often closed when he was away on itinerating trips, yet the crowds still came. While he was in steady attendance the treatments averaged about 600 a month. Altogether the attendance during the year has been over 5,000. Most of the patients pay a peseta (twenty centavos) per treatment, so that the dispensary is expected to be self-supporting the coming year.

Mrs. Graham has helped in the waiting-room, working among the patients by explaining the Gospels and leaflets she gave them. The dispensary has been the great centre of Gospel and tract distribution during this year for all parts of Cebu, many parts of Bohol and even Leyte. The number of people that come with each sick one varies from two to five, and this increases the opportunity for giving the truth.

Mrs. Graham has also spent much time in the preparation of Visayan Sunday-school lessons, which are sent to all our congregations, as well as two Visayan tracts, which we have given to all our patients and their friends.

AMERICAN CONGREGATION.—The services for English-speaking people were held every Sunday till May, when they were suspended until September, because of the absence on itinerating trips of the only available missionary and the vacation season of the teachers of the public school who make a large part of the congregation. Mr. Dunlap has had charge of this service since his arrival in November, and we are anticipating a revived interest.

LAGUNA STATION.

The sudden resignation of Mr. and Mrs. Snook in March, 1907, on account of Mrs. Snook's seriously impaired health, left the Station almost at the beginning of the year without a missionary. The loss of these faithful and highly capable missionaries is keenly felt. Mr. Snook was rapidly building up a splendid work. The arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton last Fall was therefore a great satisfaction to the Mission.

During the time that the Station was without a resident missionary, Dr. Rodgers and Mr. Magill agreed upon a division of labor that has cared for the direction of the work fairly well.

There are three distinct groups of congregations in this Station. First, the one that has Pagsanjan for its centre, and which consists of Pagsanjan, Santa Cruz and Pila, with the five towns of the Baybay or eastern shore of the lake.

The Pagsanjan Church is the leading church and is one of the most energetic congregations in all Luzon. It has a membership of 176, but its influence is twice that size. It has conducted its own affairs with decorum and efficiency, and has not only maintained the services in its own well-appointed chapel, but holds regular services in the surrounding barrios and towns. It was organized with elders and deacons in June, and the officers have cared for their flock in an exemplary manner.

The church at Santa Cruz, the capital of the province, is situated in one of the barrios and is small and humble, but very much alive. It has taken the first step toward self-support by promising ten pesos monthly to the evangelist who is to have charge of it.

In the other towns of this section there are small congregations of twenty to thirty which maintain regular services and keep up a good spirit. They need constant care, however, and will improve now that we have an evangelist who can live constantly among them, and push the work in their towns and barrios.

The second group consists of the churches at Binan and Calamba. Binan has already been mentioned as under the care of the Manila Station. They make a good circuit for an evangelist, however. The church in Calamba is about to dedicate its second chapel and has been doing excellent work for this year.

The third group is that of Tiaon, San Rosario and San Pablo, three small congregations on the hills back from the lake toward the south. Mr. Magill has visited these churches by the road from Tayabas. The Tiaon Church is the strongest of the three. We hope that during the coming months careful work by one of our best evangelists will be accompanied by abundant blessing.

San Pablo is the largest town in the province. Mr. Snook and the Filipino ministers have had audiences of from 200 to 1,000, but the net results have been small. When the railroad reaches there and eliminates the bad road by which it is now reached, San Pablo will be a centre for the work of this part of the province.

There are two special problems in this field. The first concerns the location of the missionary.

There is no doubt that at the present the best town is Pagsanjan. It is desirable both because of its geographical location as the centre of a large district and also because our representative can live there under circumstances that will be less strain on health and nervous force than almost any other in the Islands. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton have therefore established themselves there for the present, keeping in mind, however, that it may seem wise to change to Santa Cruz or San Pablo after a year or two. Santa Cruz is to be the centre of the educational work of the province, and no finer line of work can be done than that which Mr. Snook did so well, influencing the young people in the schools toward the Gospel.

The other problem is the launch. It is absolutely necessary in order to reach the many towns in this extensive region, a large number of these towns being upon the shores of the great bay. Mr. Snook understood it, but even with him it had its coy moments. After he left it proved to be rather unmanageable. Mr. Hamilton came and it seemingly submitted to his artful efforts. It is doing fairly well now, but trips upon it are subject to uncertainties.

During the year ninety were baptized by Dr. Rodgers and Pastor Zarco. Dr. Rodgers writes:

The Laguna Station has the framework laid for a large structure. The Word has been scattered widely by preaching and printing, so that every town knows much of the work of our Mission. Mr. Snook excelled as a beginner of work, and as we turn over to his successor the work he did so courageously and widely we wish him wide ambitions and a full realization of them under the blessing of God's spirit.

LEYTE STATION.

Our readers will note the change of name. Tacloban, which has hitherto given its name to the Station, is only one of several towns on the large island of Leyte. As the field of the Station is the whole island and as the centre of operations was shifted during the year to another city, it has seemed wise to give the Station this more descriptive title.

Mr. Rath, the solitary missionary on Leyte, has had four weary and lonely years among a people who seemed less responsive to Protestant effort than the inhabitants of the other islands.

A Spaniard recently said that there never were any friars in Leyte, and that for over 100 years there had been no Jesuit priests. As this Spaniard is an old resident of Leyte, he is probably acquainted with the facts. This may be a possible explanation why the people of Leyte have been so slow in accepting Protestantism. They have never experienced the abuses of the Spanish friars, and so their antipathy has never been aroused so keenly as in other parts of the Philippines. The Roman churches have been administered by their own Filipino priests, and though there have been many abuses, yet they would more readily suffer abuse from their own people than from foreigners.

At last, however, signs of a spiritual harvest are appearing and Mr. Rath rejoices greatly.

A visit to the west coast after the last Mission meeting revealed a greater eagerness on the part of the people to accept the Gospel than I had found at Tacloban. It was therefore decided to leave Tacloban for a while, and devote the time to the southern part of the island, namely the district in the neighborhood of Baybay and Maasin. Events have proved the step to be a wise one.

Baybay.—As a different dialect is used in this part of the island, this step necessitated the learning another dialect. It is the Cebuano dialect with slight variations. Jacinto Rubi, a student from Silliman Institute, was secured for a few months to help in the work, and he rendered valuable assistance in the work of evangelization.

Open-air meetings were held, and Sunday afternoons an outdoor service was held in front of the cock-pit, where we were enabled to reach people from the mountains and the surrounding barrios. Tracts and Gospels were distributed, and these people in returning to their homes carried the Gospels and tracts back with them. During all my experience in Leyte, I never had seen the people so eager to receive tracts as they were in Baybay during the first weeks of my residence there. They would run after me on the street and ask me for them. However, they were soon awed by the threats of the Roman Church. Two Jesuits arrived in Baybay a couple of days after my arrival, and soon had many scared. They warned the people that if they did not come to confession, fire would fall down from heaven and burn them up, which many believed.¶

¶ In May, through the kindness of the Cebu Station, Rev. Ricardo Alonzo was enabled to spend two weeks in Baybay. His preaching was greatly blessed of God.

During June, July, and August, Mr. Rath had to go to Dumaguete to fill the vacancy in the teaching force of Silliman Institute caused by the health trip of Mr. McIntire. The Baybay work was left in charge of a Filipino evangelist.

The Roman Catholics tried their best to intimidate all who attended the meetings. Every meeting held in the chapel was stoned. The stones, falling upon the iron roof of the rented building, made a noise not unlike a cannonade. The attendance soon fell off, and Mr. Rath on his return was surprised to find that a damper had been placed upon our work in Baybay. Since that time the work in this town has not progressed as we should have desired. But the rainy season had set in, and it is hoped that when the dry season begins there will be renewed interest.

Maasin.—This town is by far the most encouraging one that we have on the island. Here is stationed our only Filipino evangelist, and for the time that we have occupied the field, the results have been adequate and give promise of a very bright future.

There was a believer, an old man who was very sick, in fact near unto death when he was notified by the padre that he must confess, and that if he did not confess and have the last rites of the Roman Church he would die unsaved. Though he had not yet been formally received into our membership, he remained true to the end, and was buried in the Municipal Cemetery. Our chapel is a rented room within a stone's throw from the Catholic Church, and the meetings here have been well attended.

Evangelists Needed.—The urgent need of the Station is for at least two Filipino evangelists. Though we have had many additions this year, we have not as yet been able to find capable men to train for this work.

Itineration.—Not much itineration has been attempted this past year, on account of the necessity of learning a new dialect, and the necessary absence of the missionary at Dumaguete during the best part of the season. But nearly every town from Baybay around to Malitbog has been visited, and in many of these places tracts and the Visayan Gospels have been distributed.

During the four years that this field has been occupied, your missionary has visited almost every municipality and many of the barrio towns of any importance upon the coasts of Leyte. In fact, there remain only a few municipalities in the province that he has not been in; so while the Word has not been preached in all of these places, he has derived a general idea of the situation.

Baptisms and New Memberships.—During the past year thirty-six adults have been received into the church, fourteen at Baybay and twenty-two at Maasin. Five children have also been baptized, one of them an American.

Gospels, Bibles, Tracts.—

This has been a great year for seed sowing. More Bibles and Gospels have been sold and distributed during this past year than in all the three preceding years. About 3,000 Visayan Gospels must have been distributed in the southern part of the island, as well as a great number of Bibles and Testaments. The receipts from this source amounted to about 148 pesos. Besides this, thousands of pages of Visayan tracts have been placed in the hands of the people. Surely there will be a harvest from this seed sowing, and we pray that it may be this coming year.

ALBAY STATION.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown having gone to the United States on furlough in September and being the only missionaries of Albay Station, the care of the Albay work, according to the Mission action last year, was left to the care of the Manila Station. Pastor Zarco made one trip in November. He visited all the Stations except Tobacco. On this trip he baptized forty-five new members. The total number received during the year was 112.

The year has been one of the continued working of the Spirit of God. Although the numbers gathered into the Kingdom this year is not so large as last year, the same eagerness to hear the message has been in evidence. Possibly the work this year shows the working of the Spirit more in the development of those who have already accepted Christ as their Saviour; in other words, in spiritual growth.

The opposition has been stronger and more severe than in the past. After the new congregation at Polangui had gathered materials for a new chapel and had it well under way, some one set fire to it and the chapel was burned. But we are happy to say that this did not have the desired effect, for materials for another chapel were soon gathered, and the good members at Polangui are dedicating a chapel even larger and better than they had planned before.

A small congregation has been gathered in the town of Tobacco. There are two principal shipping towns in Albay Province, Legaspi and Tobacco. These two towns are separated by that most beautiful and majestic volcano, Mount Mayon. It has often been in the mind of the missionary to do work in Tobacco, but the lack of workers and travel money kept this desire from being fulfilled. But this year the way was opened up and a small congregation has been gathered.

The work among Americans has been most encouraging the past year. While it is true that one must keep urging in order to get a congregation, yet that has been easier this year than last and the results have been far more encouraging than formerly. This year there was an average congregation of from fifteen to twenty men and women every Sunday.

The American work necessitates the preparation of a sermon each week for this congregation. This, together with the necessary effort to get the congregation together and other pastoral work, adds quite an additional task upon the missionary, who has so large and rapidly developing a field to look after in the Filipino work. There is a great need of another missionary for this place. The Americans in the town of Sorsogon, the capital of Sorsogon Province, have been anxious to arrange with the missionary at Albay to visit their city at least once a month and hold services. Besides this there is a desire growing among the Filipinos of Sorsogon to hear the Gospel.

Albay is also a strategic place to locate a medical missionary. The railroad, which will run from Albay through the heart of the province to the capital of the next province, will enable a medical missionary to reach a very wide region.

One of the encouraging features of the year's work was the gathering of twelve or more workers from the various congregations to study the Bible and best methods of work. For two weeks this class was in session and took the deepest interest in the work. It is felt that these workers will do a splendid work in their home villages which will surely tell in the next year's work.

TAYABAS STATION.

Mr. and Mrs. Magill, who have been alone at this Station from the beginning, write:

We close the year with thanksgiving and bright hopes for the future. We have not been sick a day since we came to the Islands, for which we are profoundly grateful to our Heavenly Father. It has been a great joy, in our daily devotions, to remember each Station and its missionaries and workers; it has also been a source of strength to know that others have been remembering us at the "Throne of Grace." We have found our environment very pleasant and satisfactory during the past year. The general conditions of the province are improving. Times are somewhat easier in financial affairs; work is plentiful; wages are better; crops have been good; the people seem better contented than formerly; there is less talk about "Independencia" and more talk about agriculture, schools, better roads and the coming railroad. Peace has reigned throughout the province, and we hear of a "ladrone" or "tulisan" only once in a great while. We believe that all these circumstances are a good omen of progress in the condition of the people and also in the advance of the cause of Christ.

One thing that has made the work pleasant is the friendship, sociability and courtesy of the people. As a rule, we find them courteous and respectful, not only to us but to the cause which we represent—to the work—to the Gospel. Not only are the people courteous and respectful, but they are interested. I believe that the interest and the results are deeper and broader than we can see at first sight, or on the surface. There are leading men and bright boys and girls thinking and talking and inquiring about Protestantism among themselves, who are not yet allied with our work, and there is a silent influence wielded by them which bespeaks for our work and belief. I believe there is a better understanding on the part of Protestants and Catholics, and that many of the Catholics are as liberal in their religious toleration as some of our friends at home would be. For instance, the Presidente and Consejales of Mauban, who are all Catholics, very cheerfully tendered the use of their handsome new school building for our services on Good Friday. Our service was the first meeting of any kind that was ever held in the building, even preceding the inauguration or formal opening. The Presidente of Gumaca, whom I have not yet had the pleasure of meeting, has ordered two boxes of Bibles, and he himself sold them out to the people. As he says, the Bibles or Testaments were sold as quickly as the boxes were opened. The Treasurer of Sariaya has kindly offered his services to secure a lot in the centre of town for a chapel. The Presidente of Lucban has offered his services to secure a lot for a Protestant cemetery. The Clerk of the Court of First Instance, a resident of Boac and perhaps the brightest Filipino in the place, has long been in favor of Protestantism.

Mr. Magill is planning to enter Gumaca, Lopez, Antimonan, Lucena, Pagbilao, Tayabas, Boac and Santa Cruz, the latter two being located on the island of Marinduque; the whole island has a population of 51,694. Boac, which has a population of 22,799, and Santa Cruz, with a population of 16,350, are the two largest municipios in Tayabas Province. The people of that island are very industrious and friendly to Americans, and as a rule are liberal-minded people, especially in Boac. It would be a great blessing if we could locate an ordained Filipino pastor in Marinduque permanently.

We have been unable to extend our work as far as we would like to have done, and as far as open doors would have permitted, for two reasons especially: With a little more than a year's Tagalog study, I could not enter the new fields, and until April we did not have a single evangelist in the whole of Tayabas Province, and since April we have had but one, viz., Mr. Francisco Beltran, a native of Lucban, who has done faithful work since that time. He has held services in fifteen towns and barrios since April, and has visited some of the places four, five and six times. On a number of these trips we have both been with him, and have helped as far as language ability would permit.

Regular services have also been held in Lucban, with large attendance. The visit and work of Pastor Estrella in Lucban were very helpful and gratifying during the August fiesta. At that time a congregation was organized which now numbers sixty-six. These members form a catechumen class, and they are growing in information and strength of belief. Most of them are ready for baptism, and will soon be received.

The congregation at Sariaya was formed last June and has a membership of forty, with twelve waiting for baptism. The people are planning to build a new chapel. The Church at Mauban dedicated a handsome chapel last July, at which time Pastor Zarco rendered valuable assistance for a few days in holding special services. The structure is of wood and iron and cost about 1,000 pesos. The chapels at Louisiana, Sanguiren and Tiaon have been enlarged and repaired since July.

During the year 110 adults have been baptized, besides the sixty-six who have been received in Lucban on probation; thirty-one children have been baptized; six couples have been married, and five funerals have been conducted.

We are hoping to have at least one more evangelist for the coming year, for it can readily be seen that one evangelist is altogether inadequate for Tayabas Province, which has a population of 210,000 and is the longest province in Luzon, the total length being 250 miles. The distances are long and the roads are bad, in many places there being nothing but a very poor horse or carabao trail. Truly, for such distances and so large a population, the harvest is great and the laborers are few.

SIAM AND LAOS MISSIONS.

The Siam and Laos Missions have had a fairly quiet and prosperous year. The danger of disease is always to be taken into consideration in this tropical region, and both bubonic plague and cholera visited some of the Siam Stations. God graciously spared all of the missionaries; but Mr. and Mrs. McClure mourn the loss of their little child, Wallace. Miss Edna Bissell passed away after much suffering, but she had already left Siam and her last days were spent in California.

Conferences for the deepening of the spiritual life of the native Christians and for better equipping the native pastors and helpers for evangelistic work were again held in both Siam and Laos, and were exceedingly helpful and inspiring. These conferences are doing much to stimulate the native Church and to direct its activities along more aggressively evangelical lines. The following action of the Siam Mission at its annual meeting we earnestly commend to the sympathies and prayers of the home churches:

In view of the gracious revival that we are experiencing, we earnestly recommend that each Station of the Mission strive to get the co-operation of the new converts, as well as the reclaimed and revived disciples, in active personal work for the Master, believing that we shall thus the easier keep them in the Church. That we consecrate ourselves to more watchful and constant effort in behalf of the Christian training and education of the children of the covenant in all our churches.

That each missionary, so far as practicable, make a covenant of prayer with one Siamese Christian worker, to meet daily to pray for certain definite persons or objects agreed upon between them; pleading the promise of our Lord to two who shall agree as touching anything that they shall ask (Matt. 18 : 19), following up these prayers by personal efforts, and consulting together concerning the progress of the work.

That all the missionaries of each Station meet those thus pledged to the prayer covenant, from time to time, for conference with regard to the work, no others being present.

That all this work be reviewed at the Annual Conference for Christian Workers, in which only those pledged to the prayer covenant shall be present.

No record of the Mission work in this part of the world is complete which does not include mention of some who, though not officially connected with our work, are nevertheless in a very real sense an important part of it. Prominent among these are Dr. George McFarland, Superintendent of the Government Hospital in Bangkok, who with his wife enters most heartily into the work of the Mission and co-operate effectively in many ways. Mention should also be made of the Rev. John Carrington, the efficient agent of the American Bible Society; and of the Hon. Hamilton King, American Minister to Siam. Mr. King is a Presbyterian elder and, with his good wife, helps the missionaries in innumerable ways. They have repeatedly placed us all under large obligations, by their kindness and sympathy and substantial co-operation.

This is a detailed historical map of the South China Sea region. The map shows the coastlines of China, Vietnam, Cambodia, and the Malay Peninsula. Numerous place names are labeled in both Chinese and English. Key locations include Hong Kong, Canton, Hanoi, Saigon, and various islands in the South China Sea. The map also shows the Gulf of Tonkin, Gulf of Siam, and the South China Sea. The map is oriented with North at the top and includes a scale bar at the bottom.

The Siam Mission had the pleasure of a short visit in February from the Rev. John Fox, D.D., a member of the Board and Secretary of the American Bible Society. The visit was greatly enjoyed by all the members of the Stations which he could visit.

During the year His Majesty the King of Siam visited Europe. His return was enthusiastically welcomed by all the people, the missionaries included, for His Majesty is one of the most intelligent and enlightened of Asiatic rulers, and he has repeatedly shown himself the good friend of our missionary work. He is not among those who criticise foreign missionaries or hold a light opinion of them. The Laos Mission sent to him the following telegram:

HIS MAJESTY THE KING, Grand Palace Bangkok:

The North Laos American Presbyterian Mission, now convened in annual meeting, begs leave heartily to congratulate His Most Gracious Majesty the King on His Majesty's safe return, in improved health, from the tour of Europe. The Mission daily prays the blessing of Almighty God ever to rest on His Majesty's person, government and people.

DANIEL MCGILVARY,
HUGH TAYLOR.

To this telegram His Majesty made the following reply:

MESSRS. DANIEL MCGILVARY AND TAYLOR, Chieng Mai:

I received with pleasure your telegram conveying the resolution of North Laos American Presbyterian Mission in its annual meeting, congratulating me on safe return from European tour and invoking blessings on my person, government and people, for which I return hearty thanks.

Dunlap and Mrs. Dunlap, Rev. F. L. Synder and Mrs. Snyder, Mr. Robert O. Franklin and Mrs. Franklin, L. C. Bulkley, M.D., Miss Edna S. Cole, Miss L. J. Cooper, Miss Annabel Galt, Miss M. C. McCord, Rev. W. G. McClure and Mrs. McClure, C. C. Walker, M.D.

PETCHABURI: on the western side of the Gulf of Siam 90 miles southwest of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station, 1861. Missionaries—E. B. McDaniels, M.D., and Mrs. McDaniels, Rev. J. A. Eakin and Mrs. Eakin, and Miss Ednah Bruner.

RATBURI: on the Po river 60 miles west of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station, 1889. Missionaries—Rev. Egon Wachter, M.D., and Mrs. Wachter.

PITSANULOKE: on the Menam river 200 miles north of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station, 1898. Missionaries—Rev. A. W. Cooper and Mrs. Cooper, Carl Shellman, M.D., and Mrs. Shellman, Rev. R. C. Jones and Mrs. Jones.

NAKAWN: on the eastern side of the Malay Peninsula 320 miles south of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station, 1900. Missionaries—Rev. C. E. Eckels and Mrs. Eckels, W. J. Swart, M.D. and Mrs. Swart, and Rev. R. W. Post and Mrs. Post.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, and Miss L. J. Cooper.

BANGKOK STATION.

It has been a good year, though there have been hard places and sore trials.

The Bangkok force, always far too small, has been the last year particularly undermanned. This has been due to the absence on furlough of Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, the only ones appointed especially to evangelistic work in this city, and also to the fact that the place left vacant by Miss Bruner in the H. M. House School has never been filled. In January, Miss Cooper, of the same school, left on furlough, and thus the staff of missionary workers was reduced to two, Miss Cole and Miss McCord.

But we are glad to report that, notwithstanding the few workers, no department of the work has been abandoned and every street chapel has been kept open. With a spirit of true devotion, each member has helped to carry the double portion of work that has come to him.

CHAPEL OF CHRISTIAN BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL, BANGKOK, SIAM.
CONFERENCE OF CHRISTIAN WORKERS IN SIAM, 1907.

While God has not left us here in Siam without the witness of Himself, and we are able to report more additions to the churches than for some years, we realize that thus far we have not had a share in the Great Awakening of which we hear from time to time, and which is fast becoming world-wide. Not satisfied with meagre results, we have desired greater things. Already God's children are bestirring themselves, for do they not now hear "the sound of a going in the tops of the mulberry trees?"

There have been some changes in the personnel of the Station. Dr. Eakin resigned his position as Principal of the Christian Boys' High School on account of Mrs. Eakin's ill health. Rev. W. G. McClure and Mrs. McClure were then appointed by the Mission to take charge of the school, and entered upon their work November 1, 1906.

In February Dr. Walker, of Pitsanuloke, came to Bangkok to take charge of the erection of the Boon Itt Memorial building, and he remains a member of this Station.

November 30, 1906, Miss Edna Bissell passed to her heavenly home, after eight months of patient suffering in the Garden City Sanitarium at San Jose, California.

Eight years ago she was one of a party of seven sent to Siam. In less than two years four of this number were compelled to lay down the work on account of failure in health, and at the present time only Mr. and Mrs. Jones continue in the Mission work.

Miss Bissell knew much of ill health and now her long, silent suffering is over. Her last messages were to the Siamese she loved so well.

Twelve children of the families of this Station are in America. Loving prayers are often offered for them.

An epidemic of measles and other illness swept through the Christian High School and included the little ones of the Mission families there. July 13, little Wallace McClure was taken by the Good Shepherd to the shelter of the Heavenly Fold. Our hearts are united in loving sympathy for the parents who have been so sorely stricken.

First Church.—Kroo Yuan still continues the faithful pastor of the First Church, at Sumray. Assisted by Elders Kroo Soon Ho and Kroo Heng, he has maintained the usual Sunday and week-day meetings, as well as the Sunday afternoon service at Sup Sumpantawong Memorial Chapel. The additions to the church roll number twenty-three—sixteen adults and seven children.

Two hundred ticals have been contributed for Home Mission work among the Siamese and 100 for the Bible Society.

Here we record the death of two of the strongest members of this church, or indeed of the entire Christian Church in Siam: Kroo Tean Pow, whose death occurred in November, was elder of the First Church and also Superintendent of the Sunday-school. Perhaps his loss was felt even more in the Christian High School, where he had so long been recognized as the head teacher. Nai Samuel, though a business man, was equally as valuable to the Church. His death, following so closely upon that of Tean Pow's, left our band of workers sorely stricken and weakened.

The Sup Sumpantawong Church, which is a Mission of the First Church, has continued to maintain a place in the religious life of our English-speaking community. Following a Siamese service each Sabbath afternoon, there is a short English service conducted by the missionaries in turn. Several Danes and Norwegians have greatly appreciated worshipping in God's house whenever in port.

Second Church.—The regular services of this church have been maintained throughout the year. Nine have been added on profession.

The young women of the "King's Daughters" meet the last Sunday of each month, and for greater convenience and more effective work they have met in two divisions at two different points. Dr. George McFarland, one of the elders of this church, has assisted the pastor, Rev. J. B. Dunlap, by taking the service every other Sabbath morning for the greater part of the year.

Third Church.—The Third Church has been in charge of Rev. W. G. McClure, and Kroo Choy continues to do the same faithful service as in former years. This work is always encouraging, and seventeen have been added to the roll.

Boon Itt Memorial.—The contract for the erection and completion of the Boon Itt Memorial building was signed March 28, 1907, and the work commenced immediately after. The Mission has been fortunate in having secured a reliable man as contractor, and the work has been done very satisfactorily. Dr. Walker writes:

Building in Siam is necessarily slow work. The work of driving the long ten-foot piles for the foundation was begun early in the rainy season, the rains flooding the trenches and causing the ground to settle well as the walls progressed. The building has been delayed somewhat owing to the contractor's inability to secure materials at different times, but we hope soon to see the building enclosed ready for furnishing.

The building is well located on an important road with a trolley line and only a few minutes' walk from the old city wall. The association hall for lectures and concerts will seat 400 people. In addition to this large room, there is a smaller lecture room, a dining hall which will seat 100, and a reception room where members may entertain their friends.

There are also a reading room, a guest room with two large beds for transients, two small Bible study rooms, and a social room and kitchen. The dining room when not in use may be used for light gymnastics. Downstairs there will be, in addition to the association hall, bath-rooms, office and recreation room. The walls are of brick, and there will be front and side verandas on both floors. We are encouraged to believe that this work will prosper and meet a great need in the lives of many young men in this city.

As we see this handsome Memorial approaching a reality, we remember gratefully all who have had a part in establishing the work.

From first to last Dr. E. P. Dunlap has been its inspiration. He not only first conceived and proposed it, but he raised in Siam over 17,000 ticals, the price of the lot.

Gratitude is also due Dr. Brown and the committee at home which secured the generous sum for the erection of the building. The untiring efforts of Dr. Fitschen, of Ithaca, N. Y., and of Dr. Stone, of Baltimore, Md., will never be forgotten.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Dr. and Mrs. Dunlap and Dr. Bulkley made a long (six months') tour in the Puket region. This is their seventh trip across the Malay Peninsula. Early in the year the usual tour of the east coast was made in the mission schooner "Kalamazoo," and other short tours were taken. The following extracts from Dr. Dunlap's report are interesting:

I wish that I could write you a full account of our long tour, in many respects the grandest we have ever taken. I should like to live a hundred years for this kind of work. The greatest joy in the world is to be found in telling others about our precious Lord. During this tour it has been our privilege to receive twenty-one adults and three little ones into the company of disciples on this Peninsula. By faith I can see a large ingathering for the Master here, and that not many years hence. Let us pray and labor for it.

In crossing the Peninsula we took a new route, that we might publish the Gospel to those who had never before heard it. After about one month's work in Chumpon and the Island of Samooie, we entered Bandon. There we had precious services and struggled to save some of the poor people from the grasp of that dread disease—cholera. From here we went by canoes up the right branch of the Looang river, stopping for work in many settlements, in the ampurs Keree, Panom and Pasang. At these places we talked from a large map of the world and Bible pictures. We also used many scientific slides, illustrating the rotundity of the earth, diurnal motion, eclipse, etc., etc. The hospitality of the Siamese people, the kindness of officials, all the way, would be hard to surpass.

At ampur Panom we failed to get elephants enough for our party and baggage. The elephant offered to Mrs. Dunlap and myself was very cross. We were advised not to mount him. So I said: "Wife, what shall we do?" With her usual courage, she answered by taking off her shoes to wade the first stream and said: "Let's walk." And walk we did for thirty miles, through jungle, over mountains, through streams, forests and broad plains. Not bad for old folks in the tropics, was it? On the second day, at 3 P.M., we reached our destination and were soon surrounded by people eager for medicines and to listen to the teachings.

Shortly after dark, feeling rather weary, we retired. I should not have said retired, for we slept on the ground. We were too sleepy for star-gazing, and we slept as soundly as if in a soft bed at home. One of the first things in touring is to be able to feel at home wherever night overtakes you. In the early morning, we received elephants for the remainder of the journey to the edge of Panga Province. We were kindly received by the Kamnan, who shared part of his home with us. Here we were thronged by people troubled with red eyes and fever, and worm medicine for the children was in demand. I tell you there was a lively squirming in that village for two successive mornings, santonine, rhubarb and calomel doing the deed.

Two days' canoeing brought our journey over the Peninsula to a close. We were sixteen days in crossing slowly, because we wanted to sow good seed all the way. We were given a hearty welcome by the disciples in Panga. I wish I could tell you of our three months in that charming province and introduce you to some of the followers of Jesus there. It was our joy to receive twenty-one into the little company here. At one service they resolved to build a place for the Master, and enough money, material and labor were subscribed for a chapel and rest house for the missionary. During our sojourn here Dr. Bulkley came, and I was truly glad to see a real doctor.

From Panga we went to Puket, where we had a good interview and also a good dinner with the High Commissioner. We are human enough to enjoy a good square meal, when we can get it. Our interview was concerning the hospital which His Excellency is about to build for our Mission. He is in earnest about it. Subsequently we spent twelve days in Tap Teang Trang, where the hospital is to be built. His Excellency had instructed the Governor of the Province to meet us there, and together we selected the ground, for which His Excellency paid $350. He drew up plans for the hospital and dwelling for the medical missionary. The location is good and the work is to be soon taken up. You may imagine the joy that fills the hearts of your old friends over the establishment of a Mission Station for the Montone Puket. For this we have labored fifteen years, and now it seems to come to pass in His Name.

During the tour we were able to reach many places never before reached by the Christian missionary. At Bandon a disciple is holding on to a good piece of land, with the hope that the Mission may occupy it as a Station. More than fifty Christians are living within easy reach of Bandon City.

En route we stopped at Chompon, baptized one more person and received several into the inquiry class. His Excellency the Governor of the Province, one of our old school-boys, gave us a warm welcome, lodged us in his own home and placed a boat at our disposal. During this six months' tour we traveled on ten steamers, twenty elephants, numerous buffaloes, carts and dugouts and walked long distances. About 3,000 books and Scriptures were sold along the way.

Dr. Bulkley's work in the past year has been varied. His tours with Dr. Dunlap have already been referred to. The Fall spent in Bangkok gave him opportunity to teach some classes in the High School, and to form a pleasant acquaintance in this way as well as through the athletics with many of the boys. Teaching Sunday-school and occasionally leading in prayer meeting and Sunday service were other Bangkok duties and pleasures.

On account of Dr. Walker's appointment to Bangkok, Dr. Bulkley was directed to assist Dr. and Mrs. Shellman in their new work at Pitsanuloke, and accordingly he started for that city in February.

During the frequent stops for rest, food or sleep we improved the time, giving the Gospel message, selling books, treating some sick and vaccinating. Near our destination a Chinese of seventy with calculus was visited and advised to follow on to the hospital at Pitsanuloke for operation. Three days later we had the pleasant surprise of seeing him there, and shortly afterward of sending him home minus his painful affliction, but plus a fair knowledge of the Gospel, which he received with manifest interest.

Three months were very enjoyably spent in Pitsanuloke, assisting Dr. Shellman in the work of the hospital and in charge of it during his absence on a tour. A daily hospital service was held which Kroo Tooie and I led in turn. Sunday morning service in the chapel and as long as possible a Sunday afternoon service in the market was maintained. As the senior missionary at the Station I seemed called on to take part in the services in this way, notwithstanding my very limited command of the Siamese language, and I greatly appreciated the opportunity which the obligation brought.

In June Dr. Bulkley rejoined Dr. and Mrs. Dunlap at Panga, on the Peninsula.

The day after my arrival Dr. Dunlap baptized one of last year's patients, a crocodile-bitten cripple. All we had done for him was to make a pair of crutches, the first ever seen in that region. What a change it had made in his life! From lying on his back helpless for seven years, he was now an active, independent member of the community. His name changed from "dog" to "happy." It was hard to make him admit his former name. His mother was baptized with him, the first woman in Panga. Among the dozen or so that were baptized that month in Panga were two others who were brought by the medical arm of the service, treated by Dr. Dunlap before I joined him. One a Chinese, long a slave to strong drink and much broken down by it, the other the husband of a woman whose head had been badly injured and whose case had been considered hopeless. He said to Dr. Dunlap, "You have saved two lives," meaning the wife and her would-be murderer.

From Panga we took a short trip to Puket, interviewing the High Commissioner, His Excellency Phya Ratsada, in respect to the hospital that he expected to build for us at Tap Teang. This is still another fruit of medical missions. For it is a mark of gratitude to Dr. Dunlap, who a few years ago was able to cure His Excellency of a dangerous and painful abscess. Tap Teang is a promising field; there is already one Christian family and others are interested. The market every three days brings in hundreds of people, many of whom will hear the Word and take it back to their homes.

No operating work worth mentioning was done on this trip, and speaking professionally I did not see a great deal that would be called interesting, but simple cases that can be relieved make it worth while. Our Saviour must have seen a great many of the same kind besides the lepers, demoniacs, paralytics and others that are recorded in the Gospels. We cannot all hope to have the honor of doing a prominent and brilliant work that the world would applaud. Let us rather hope to hear Him say, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

Harriet M. House School for Girls.—The school has had an average attendance of 100 during the year. We have already noticed how the staff has been reduced this year, leaving Miss Cole and Miss McCord responsible for the care of a very large family.

The teaching force has been still further reduced by the marriage of two of the Siamese teachers and the loss of Maa Tow, so long one of the two most experienced and valued instructors. The Government Educational Department was in need of a well-trained teacher to take charge of the Queen's School, and Maa Tow was asked to take this responsible position. It was hard to give her up, but here was a chance for a Mission School to stand true to its ideal, character building. Maa Tow, like many another, has gone out from Wang Lang to be a centre of light and influence.

Satisfactory work can be done only as the staff of native teachers is directed and trained in the best methods. The Government appreciates and is requiring better trained teachers, and it is well worth while to develop them in order to secure the best results. Miss McCord has given a good part of her time to this Normal training the past year. She adds:

It was my great pleasure to go to Japan in March, with three Siamese friends, to attend the Conference of the World's Student Christian Federation. We attended the Shanghai Centenary Conference also, and found both conferences very helpful.

I learned a great deal from visiting the schools of Japan and Shanghai. The Siamese delegates had a good opportunity to observe that Japan has many noble men and women of high education and social standing who are engaged in Christian work.

I have one great cause for thanksgiving. When I first came to Siam it was my great desire to see the Siamese take up daily systematic study of the Bible. I have succeeded in getting one of the teachers to translate "Murray's Life of Christ according to Mark," and there is now a class of five who have promised to do regular Bible study.

Christian High School.—Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Franklin have shared with Rev. and Mrs. W. G. McClure the work and responsibility of the school throughout the year. Miss Galt was assigned to this school and began work upon her arrival from furlough, June 17. Miss Lucy Dunlap gave valuable assistance during the temporary absence of one of the missionaries on account of furlough adjustments. In addition to the missionary teachers there are six Siamese teachers, and all have done faithful work. The school has prospered as in former years and a gradual increase in attendance is reported. The enrollment averages 240, with an average attendance of 215.

Within the year an important part of the school plant has been completed, that is, the chapel with a seating capacity of 300 or more. Above this chapel are comfortable rooms occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Franklin and a dining room for first-class boarders. Though these are enlarged accommodations, they do not provide the additional room needed for dormitories and class-rooms, except that the chapel is utilized as a class-room in the absence of a more suitable room.

While this school has prospered and good work has yielded satisfactory results, those in charge realize the limitations which hinder a still greater advance. The Principal, Rev. W. G. McClure, writes:

Our teaching force is not adequate for the work we are attempting to do, and for other work that we ought to do. We should have the very best teachers; but the school can afford to provide only inexperienced ones who are willing to take small salaries.

The capacity and equipment of the school are inadequate. More classroom, seats, better apparatus, more land and a gymnasium are needed. Our dormitories are full.

The time seems ripe for an enlargement of the scope of the school. While the present course of study has met the past requirements, there is a desire among our students for a higher education than we are now able to give them. This seems to be an opportune time for adding another year of study to the course, if the way were only clear to provide the necessary teaching force. There is also a great need of a course of teaching for Christian work, to which the attention of Christian pupils may be called as supplementary to their literary studies, and which will thus be an incentive to our educated young men to take up Christian work as a vocation.

The religious interest manifested in the school has been not unusual, but gratifying. The large and interesting Sunday-school in the Sup-Sampanfawong Chapel has been composed chiefly of the Christian High School pupils. After this a voluntary class of believers meets for special instruction. Several pupils have made public profession during the year and several more have made private profession in the inquiry class. In the new chapel the daily religious exercises are conducted by the teachers in turn, and some of the teachers as well as many of the pupils have showed great interest in all Christian work.

The day-school at Sumray continues to prosper. Kroo Heng, the head teacher, is an elder of the First Church as well as superintendent of the Sunday-school. He was one of the delegates to the Christian Conference held in Tokyo.

MISSION PRESS.—Nothing unusual is reported by the Press Manager, Rev. J. B. Dunlap. Twelve thousand copies of the different Gospels have been printed. The Christian Calendar was issued again and the periodical, Daybreak, has taken a new lease of life. Dr. McFarland kindly edited the paper after Dr. Eakin had to leave on account of Mrs. Eakin's health.

He has been very successful. The reading matter has been increased sixteen pages for each number. The cover has been changed and is now illuminated by beautiful bromide photographs of scenic and historical places in Siam and Laos. Several woodcuts have been inserted to illustrate scientific articles and a few pictures have needed no words to tell their story.

A new tract on temperance, a booklet, "Special Texts for Christian Workers," and a translation of "Daily Food" are some of the new issues for the year. A Geometry and Trigonometry in one volume was printed for the Government Survey School. A Siamese-English Handbook was printed for one of the masters in the Government educational service, and we are now printing an edition of 2,500 Siamese-English dictionaries for the same author. This is one of the longest and most tedious jobs of the year.

To the equipment of our press a new folding machine has been added. It will fold anything up to the size of 20 x 30 inches, folding three times. It is the first and only one in Siam, and many native-printers have come to inspect it and have shown their amazement and delight at its performance.

The work of handling freight to and from interior Stations and for the Laos Mission continues to consume a considerable part of the time of one of the two or three ordained men of this Station. This work will be lightened when the railway is completed to Pitsanuloke and later to Chiang Mai. Then goods can go on at any time of the year, whereas now the bulk of the work must be done at the close of the rainy season only, when the water is highest.

No worker in Siam has ever lacked opportunity, but now as never before, perhaps, we see right at hand many an open door which we long to enter. The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few—so very few in Lower Siam. With united voice and heart we pray the Lord of the Harvest that he will send more laborers to this part of His Vineyard.

PETCHABURI STATION.

The transfer of Mr. and Mrs. McClure to Bangkok left no one in direct charge of the evangelistic work at the Station, and frustrated many of the plans for the year's work, disappointing the hopes of the Christians who had attended the Annual Conference. Dr. Eakin's arrival in May, on his return from China, was therefore gladly welcomed. Throughout the year the Sunday services were kept up; Kru Song and Kru Boon preaching faithfully.

CHURCHES.—Dr. Eakin's hard up-building work has already brought encouraging results. There is a deepening of the spiritual life of the church members. Much attention has been given to family worship; more concern has been shown by Christians for their friends out of Christ. Special effort has been made in behalf of the heathen husband or wife in a Christian home, and in nearly every case that one is now a hopeful inquirer.

The Christians have been taught the duty of personal work for Christ. Eight of them entered into covenant to pray daily with the missionaries for definite persons and special objects. In each case, so far as we know the facts, we can see that the answer has come or is coming.

At the recent communion there were several candidates for admission to church. They were advised to wait until they should show their willingness to obey our Lord's command to bear witness for Him, and seek to bring others also.

The four country churches in this province have no place of worship. Four visits have been made, when services were held in the homes of members. There is a fair prospect that two of the congregations can be induced to erect a church building next year.

Weekly prayer meeting is held at the Mission compound, which is attended mainly by pupils in the school and Christians who live near by.

There is also a weekly meeting for women conducted by Mrs. Eakin, assisted by Maa Kru Cham, teacher in the school. This gathering of from twenty to thirty women each Saturday morning does our hearts good, and we know it will be a great factor in the winning of Petchaburi for Christ.

TOURING.—Dr. Eakin has made a number of short tours to outlying villages, selling books and tracts and preaching in the market place and homes of the people. In several places the people have promised to erect a building for a school at their own expense and to support a teacher. These buildings would be available for preaching places in the future.

During the time we were alone at the Station, Dr. McDaniel visited some of the scattered Christians in the country districts. More extensive tours are planned for next dry season, covering most of the province as far as it can be reached overland and by boat.

MEDICAL.—Dr. McDaniel reports:

Greatly enlarged plans were made for the medical work this year. Almost without exception these plans were frustrated. In some cases even now we can see that this was for the best; in other cases we cannot understand the reason why.

The great need in this department is a consecrated Siamese assistant. Without such a helper we are greatly handicapped. Medical evangelistic tours, which serve so well to reach the people, have been impossible on account of the limited number of workers. Kru Song helped in evangelistic services at the hospital. A number have shown considerable interest, but, as far as we know, there have been no conversions as a result of the medical work.

Bubonic plague was worse here than in the preceding year. At the request of the Bangkok officials, Dr. McDaniel took charge of the heavy task of treatment and prevention, and for two months and a half gave time and strength to it.

Still praying that this branch of the work may be effective in accomplishing its full measure of good, we labor on, fully conscious of our limitations, but trusting in the Name of Him who said, "As ye go heal the sick."

SCHOOLS.—The boys' school began the term in May with a larger number of pupils. Kru Noon, a graduate of the Christian High School at Bangkok, had been secured as teacher. Tuition was raised, and within a few weeks thirty-one were enrolled, twenty taking English.

The girls' school is more in name than in number; its enrollment this term was eight. The teacher, a graduate of the Wang Lang School at Bangkok, teaches boys a part of the day.

RATBURI STATION.

During the past year the working force at this Station consisted of two families—Dr. and Mrs. Wachter and Mr. and Mrs. Moody. The latter, on account of Mrs. Moody's failing health, were compelled to return to the United States. Their stay was only eighteen months. We were sorry to part with them, for they gave promise of great future usefulness.

Two Sunday services were held regularly throughout the year, Sunday-school and preaching, the same audience attending both services. The average attendance was forty-five. Four adults were baptized, one a woman sixty-eight years old. Two more, having been baptized in infancy, came to the Lord's Supper for the first time.

We have now twenty-one Christians living in the province of Ratburi, nine of whom are closely connected with the missionaries and are regular attendants on the means of grace; the other twelve are either irregular in their attendance on services or are neglecting them altogether. All, except one whose domicile is not known, have been visited during the year.

No evangelistic touring has been done, save in connection with medical touring, when the physician in charge went out into the country to vaccinate.

There are two schools at the Station; one for boys and one for girls. The boys' school was in charge of Mr. Moody, who did all the work without help. The number of pupils was forty-five; the average attendance twenty-five. Four of the boys were carried off by the plague.

This school suffers from the too frequent change of teachers. The native teachers come to us without any previous training and leave after a few years' service; and as to the missionary in charge, three changes have been made in the last two years.

Mrs. Wachter has continued in charge of the girls' school. It has been in session ten months of the year. In August it came near dying of plague, and it is just recovering from the scare. This, however, has been its best year. The members have increased so that it was necessary to engage a second native assistant.

Mrs. Moody gave valuable help in this school, substituting and taking charge of it in the absence of the principal.

The number of pupils enrolled is fifty-three, ranging in age from six to sixteen, and in rank from the High Commissioner's children down to the children of his slaves. Two from the school united with the church. Three of the pupils are now church members, and nine are children of Christian parents.

Last year the school was nicely fitted out with desks from America, the gift of Mrs. Woolsey, of New York, and the ladies of the South Presbyterian Church, Syracuse. This year a beautiful $20 globe was presented by Miss Annie Faries, of Minneapolis.

The Medical Department remains about the same from year to year. There were thirty-four patients in the hospital, eighty-five visits were made, and 1,180 children were vaccinated. The whole number of patients was 2,100. Since this department became self-supporting the amount of free treatment has been increased, but only as far as children are concerned. It is difficult to give efficient treatment to the children of the poorer classes except it be given free, as parents will not pay for it.

PITSANULOKE STATION.

Many changes have taken place in the working force of the Station.

In December, 1906, Rev. and Mrs. Cooper left for their well-earned furlough, already a year overdue. February 2, 1907, Dr. C. C. Walker was called to Bangkok to take charge of the Boon Itt Memorial work. This left Dr. and Mrs. Shellman alone for three weeks, and as they had only been in Siam three months, and were unused to the language and customs of the people, little missionary work could be accomplished. Then Dr. L. C. Bulkley was sent here, and remained three months before resuming his medical touring on the Malay Peninsula. Again for a few weeks Dr. and Mrs. Shellman were alone, and then Rev. and Mrs. Jones arrived to be regular members of this Station.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Although no definite results can be reported, the outlook is by no means dark, as several have shown a deep interest in the Gospel, and some have expressed a willingness to confess Christ.

For the greater part of the year we had no ordained missionary here, but services were held every Sabbath, conducted either by the physician or Siamese Christians. One of the encouraging features of the work is the increased attendance at services and the attentiveness of the listeners.

Two evangelistic tours were made during the year, one to the northward by Dr. Walker, visiting the villages along the river for 125 miles, and one by Mr. Cooper up the Raheng River, which bounds the Station field on the west.

Dr. Walker held services in almost all the villages, and was able to help many with his medicines, which found a ready sale. He also sold and disposed of a great many tracts and portions of Scriptures.

Mr. Cooper with Kroo Kien Koo, who was at that time first assistant at the hospital, started up the Raheng River early in December. A large stock of Scriptures, tracts and medicines were taken along. Nearly every evening Mr. Cooper showed the stereopticon views and preached to the people, usually having large and attentive audiences. During the daytime the sick were treated and medicines sold. The country along the Raheng River is one of the most neglected parts of Siam. No touring has been done there since Mr. Cooper toured up the river over twelve years ago. Few people were found who had ever heard the Gospel before.

There is an imperative need for more workers in this parish of over 600,000 souls, and where it takes weeks to travel from one boundary of the field to the other.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The school work has suffered for lack of workers more than any other work. After a vacation lasting from November 15, 1906, to August 1, 1907, the school was reopened and is now in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Jones. At present, although the attendance is not large, it is encouraging in that there are more pupils from the city of Pitsanuloke than ever before.

We are most fortunate in having such a capable assistant as Kroo Soon See, who is an unusually well-educated Siamese, and also has English well at his command. He not only takes a deep interest in his school work, but also takes an active part in all religious services.

MEDICAL WORK.—This has had a very successful year. Although the receipts were not as large as the previous year, all other signs point to a greater confidence in our work and in our medicines, and show a stronger hold on the people through these means. There were ninety-two in-patients and 142 out-patients. We made ninety-four calls into the homes of the sick, and vaccinated 1,957 persons. The receipts for the year were Ticals 7,229.12. Although our hospital of fourteen beds is only three years old, it is already too small, and several times has been filled to overflowing.

Three tours were made, on which medicines were sold. The first was made by Dr. Walker in a region where few knew of our work and our medicines. Over 500 children were vaccinated and much medicine was sold.

The second tour was made by Kroo Kien Koo in company with Mr. Cooper up the Raheng River, where medicines found a ready sale and many were vaccinated. Several patients came to the hospital. One man, bitten by a tiger, traveled over 200 miles to Pitsanuloke in a small house-boat, after being told his wounds could be healed here.

Dr. Shellman made a tour of 125 miles across the country to the Sawankaloke region, where the Governor had paid for enough vaccine virus for 1,000 children. Nearly that number were vaccinated, and medicines sold in that corner of our field, where but few had ever known of our work before.

During Dr. Bulkley's stay, several surgical cases were successfully cared for that probably would have been impossible for one man to undertake alone. Dr. Bulkley spent what little spare time he had in personal work among the patients, and in looking about for those who needed help.

With increased facilities obtained during the year, and with the increased confidence of the people in our work, we are looking forward to greater opportunities of relieving suffering, and of also bringing light and healing to the soul.

NAKAWN SRITAMARAT STATION.

The report begins with a sentiment which should characterize Christians everywhere:

We thank our Father in Heaven for his presence with us during the clouds and sunshine of the past year. We ought to forget the clouds and be inspired by the sunshine.

Visitors mean much at this lonely, isolated, tropical Station where white faces are seldom seen.

Among the brightest days of the year have been those in which we have enjoyed the society of visiting friends. In January, Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Cooper and Miss Cooper paid us a visit on their way home on furlough. In March, Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Moody spent about two weeks here. Their having been with us so recently makes us feel all the more keenly their return to America. In May, Dr. and Mrs. G. B. McFarland, of Bangkok, were with us for a week. In June, Mrs. Wachter came for a brief visit. June 25, the senior members of the Station returned from furlough in America and were gladly welcomed.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—This was in charge of Mr. Post until the arrival of Mr. Eckels, with all the members of the Station assisting in one or more different ways. Kroo Chaang, the first assistant in the hospital and an elder in the Church, conducted the preaching service when Mr. Post was absent itinerating.

His zeal for the spread of Christianity is evidenced by his spending and being spent in the furtherance of the Kingdom of God. At the last session meeting he made the suggestion, which we agreed to carry out, that we follow the Pauline method of sending letters to the far-away groups of Christians whose names are on our roll. Nai Chuang, the second hospital assistant, conducted a number of the Sunday afternoon services. Both of these young men have given this part of their service without compensation.

The Sunday-school has continued its good work, with a membership of about sixty.

The Sunday morning service has had an average attendance of about forty.

The service formerly held Sunday evening at the homes of missionaries was merged into an afternoon service at the new hospital. The hospital, by reason of the large open hall and the folding doors of the chapel directly in front of the entrance, has served in some degree as a street chapel.

Mr. Post made nine tours during the year, varying in length from one to three weeks. He averaged one service a day, disposed of more than 1,000 portions of Scriptures and Mission tracts, vaccinated 365 persons and sold a considerable amount of medicines.

At several places there seems to be good and encouraging reason for future visits. All the places visited, except one, had been visited the year before, and there was almost always some one at each of these places who recognized me, and would herald the purpose of my visit.

One member was received at Ban Ta Nien, while ten were baptized at Nakawn, three of this number living at Haw Mok. Dr. Dunlap having baptized twenty-five persons during his tour on the Peninsula, the number of accessions to the church at Nakawn during the year is thirty-six.

MEDICAL.—This has been a notable year in the history of medical work at this Station. Prayers have been answered in the completion of the "Sritamarat Memorial Hospital." During the short time since the doors have been opened to the public the wards have been filled almost constantly, and at times patients have had to wait for admittance. Many have returned home, having been healed of their diseases, and not a few have professed their belief in Jesus Christ as the true Saviour from sin.

The buildings were completed, according to contract, by December 25, 1906, and were subsequently fitted up with the necessary fixtures and appliances, at a total cost of Ticals 24,769.75.

February 3 our little company of Christians and a number of the in-patients assembled for the first time in the hospital chapel, and with an appropriate service, in which the Rev. A. W. Cooper and Rev. R. W. Post assisted, we dedicated the chapel and the hospital as well to our Heavenly Father, that His name might be glorified in all the work that shall be performed within the walls of the institution.

Following the dedication, we began to get ready for our "Formal Opening," March 6, 1907.

Among those present were H. E. Phya Chone, the High Commissioner, H. E. Phya Trang, the Governor, and nearly all of the local officials and business men, about seventy-five in all. The exercises consisted of the opening prayer by Mr. Post, and addresses by Dr. Swart and H. E. the High Commissioner, who made a most appreciative address. After this light refreshments were served and the friends were conducted on a tour of inspection through the buildings. Many expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the hospital and its equipment.

During the year we have treated 134 in-patients, 113 of this number being received since the opening of the new hospital. We have performed nearly 100 major operations, beside a larger number of minor ones. We have treated 8,997 dispensary or out-patients, dispensing 9,972 prescriptions or portions of medicine. We have made 194 visits, treating 99 patients in their homes, and have vaccinated 7,417 persons, the Government furnishing us with free virus. Our medical receipts for the last fiscal year were Ticals 8,015 and 20 Atts, the whole amount being expended in the work. During the four months of the present fiscal year just ended, the receipts have been Ticals 3,474 and 40 Atts. With the increased work and receipts there has come increased expenditure; for instance, the hospital staff has been increased from four to ten helpers.

The most hopeful part of the work is with the in-patients, because there is time for intimate acquaintance and because also convalescence is the most impressionable time to teach them of the love of the Great Physician. Nearly all of the in-patients, as soon as they are able to leave the wards, attend regularly the daily morning chapel service.

Wednesdays we make an effort to have a special message to those who may have never before heard of the love of Jesus, as this is our vaccinating morning and we are sure of an entirely new crowd of listeners of from 75 to 400. Another of our special efforts to reach the in-patients is our Sunday afternoon service in the chapel, alternately in charge of the Doctor and his first and second assistants, and occasionally assisted by Mr. Post and Mr. Eckels. Mrs. Eckels has recently opened a Bible reading course with the women in the wards, planning to occupy an hour every forenoon.

During Dr. and Mrs. McFarland's visit in May, several of the patients declared their belief in Christ. Later an inquiry class was organized with Mr. Post and Kroo Chaang, an elder, as teachers. This class grew until there were nineteen names on the roll. Six of these were received into the Church. A second class of ten members was opened, with Mr. Post, Mr. Eckels, Kroo Chaang and Dr. Swart alternately teaching, and at the last communion two more were baptized and received into the Church. There are yet a number on probation who will probably be received later.

We praise our Heavenly Father for this small beginning in the work of healing souls as well as their foul and diseased bodies, and we trust this work will continue to be owned and blessed of God until every patient will go out from these wards a Christian, to be a light in the darkened homes from whence they came.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The school for girls was continued under Mrs. Post's care until February, when the native teacher removed to another province and it had to be discontinued. There is no immediate prospect of its reopening.

The Station is unanimous in the opinion that the time has come when we should reopen the boys' school, closed over four years ago. Dr. Swart offered to arrange so that three of his hospital assistants, all trained in our own schools, can each give an hour a day. We deemed it best to open the school at our present central location, with the intention of moving it to the new compound when that is occupied. It is proposed to use the building formerly used by the hospital for the school. Mr. Post has been appointed to take charge of the school, unless the Mission can arrange to give us a single lady who has had some experience on the field.

NEW PROPERTY.—A little less than half the funds for the third dwelling were secured by Mr. Eckels while at home. About the time of his return, the Board kindly advanced the balance of the sum needed, hoping that friends at home would make further donations for this object.

THE LAOS MISSION.

CHIENG MAI: on the Me Ping River, about a month and a half by Laos boat or 500 miles north-northwest of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station 1867. Missionaries—Rev. Daniel McGilvary, D.D., and Mrs. McGilvary, Rev. D. G. Collins and Mrs. Collins, J. W. McKean, M.D., and Mrs. McKean, Rev. Howard Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, Rev. J. H. Freeman and Mrs. Freeman, Rev. William Harris, Jr., and Mrs. Harris, Rev. M. B. Palmer and Mrs. Palmer, C. W. Mason, M.D., and Mrs. Mason, Miss E. M. Buck and Miss Mabel Gilson.

LAKAWN: on the Me Wang River, 320 miles northwest of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station 1893. Missionaries—Rev. Jonathan Wilson, D.D., Rev. Hugh Taylor, D.D., and Mrs. Taylor, C. C. Hansen, M.D., and Mrs. Hansen, Rev. Roderick Gillies and Mrs. Gillies, Miss Elizabeth Carothers, and Miss E. Van Vranken.

PRE: on the Me Yom River, 280 miles north of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station 1893, and carried on by missionaries of other Stations.

NAN: on the Me Nan River, 380 miles a little east of north of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station 1894. Missionaries—Rev. S. C. Peoples, M.D., and Mrs. Peoples, Rev. David Park and Mrs. Park, Rev. Arthur Barrett and Mrs. Barrett.

CHIENG RAI: on the Me Kok River, 460 miles a little west of north of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station 1897. Missionaries—Rev. W. A. Briggs, M.D., and Mrs. Briggs, Rev. Howell S. Vincent and Mrs. Vincent, Rev. Henry N. White and Mrs. White, C. H. Crooks, M.D., and Mrs. Crooks, Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Dodd.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Dr. W. A. Briggs and Mrs. Briggs, Miss E. M. Buck, Mrs. C. C. Hansen.

At the beginning of our report we wish to express gratitude to God for His guidance, and for manifold blessings bestowed upon the Mission during the past year. Though the health of some members of the Mission has suffered and disappointments and discouragements have come to all, He has made the year in some respects the best year of all.

Although the large ingatherings we read of in other fields have not come to Laos, the slight but steady increase in accessions each year for five years past speak of substantial progress. Last year 254 were received on confession; this year we report 280. It has been a good year too in the schools. They report a larger enrollment than ever before, and the evangelistic influence of both schools and dispensaries was never more marked. We rejoice in the completion of Butler Hall of the Prince Royal's College in Chieng Mai, and in gifts from America that have made it possible to begin work on the needed buildings for the Boys' School in Lakawn.

The friendly attitude of the Siamese Government to our work has been shown in many ways. Their appreciation of Dr. Peoples' medical services was shown by a voluntary and large increase in their allowance for that work. The generous offer of the Siamese Commissioner in Nan to aid our schools there shows his confidence in our educational work, and the grant of land for a leper asylum in Chieng Mai shows appreciation of Christian philanthropy. Last, but not least, the courteous reply of His Majesty King Chulalongkorn to the Mission's telegram of greeting on his return from Europe emphasized the fact that our work is welcomed by princes as well as people. The number of those who are really convinced of the truth we preach, although they have not yet openly acknowledged it, is increasing.

Although circumstances have in a measure hindered evangelistic work in nearly every Station, the Gospel has nevertheless been preached during the year in many communities which had not hitherto been reached. Specially noteworthy was the month spent by the Keng-tung Commission in the region near the Salween, where Chieng Mai, Keng-tung and Burmese territory meet, and where no missionary had ever gone before. Mr. Campbell says:

The Gospel was preached in many places where it had never been heard before; tracts and books were distributed and eagerly read. At the Buddhist monasteries our message was received with special interest. In one instance the abbot of the monastery kindly had our meeting announced by the town crier and the monastery drum beaten to call the people together. My pulpit was within a few feet of a large image of the Buddha, and scenes from the life of Christ were thrown upon a screen stretched in front of that image.

NEEDS.—The Mission writes:

Our most urgent material need as a Mission is for larger means for our educational work; second, men and means to reopen Pre. Although reinforcements have been sent to us from time to time, so many have been forced by ill-health or other causes to return to America, that our available force of missionaries in 1907 is only a little larger than it was in 1896. Meantime, our churches have doubled in numbers, and much more than doubled in effective force, and a new Station has been opened. In order to maintain the work elsewhere, the experiment has been tried of working Pre from Lakawn, seventy miles or four days' journey distant. It has not been a success. Pre must be reopened, or the ground already gained there will speedily be lost. We cannot do it unless the Board sends us men to fill the vacancies caused by the resignations during the past two years. Health reasons have forced three to withdraw; it is feared that the next few months will see a fourth family added to this list for the same reason. Who will come? Who will send? God calls. Who will answer?

CHIENG MAI STATION.

The work of the Station, as of each Station, falls into six departments: Evangelistic Work, Care of the Churches, Educational, Medical and Literary Work, and Building. In Chieng Mai, in addition, the Press takes nearly the entire time of one man. Since that is a department not of the Station, but of the Mission, the Press and all literary work will be considered together at the close of the report.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—For some years the field of Chieng Mai Station has been so divided that one or more districts are assigned to each member of the Station; each of them assuming responsibility for the oversight of Christians and Christian work in his district. Although the Press manager, the two physicians, and those in the schools can do little touring, each realizes that this is his primary work and gives to it no little thought and time. Mr. Collins especially has often gone beyond his strength in caring for the work in the large districts under his care. Only Dr. McGilvary, Mr. Campbell and Mr. Freeman are measurably free for touring work. We quote from the personal report of each.

Dr. McGilvary's Touring.—

Early in the year I took a few short trips, not worthy to be called tours, where old acquaintance had given me some hold. I met with gratifying encouragement, particularly at Ban Ta-Ton-Quao. The interest still continues there, and we look for large accessions there in the near future.

As I was once again becoming thoroughly interested in my favorite work, it was suddenly cut short by a fall which at the time threatened to leave me a cripple for life. From such a dreaded calamity I was mercifully spared, and in six weeks I was able to begin to walk. Now the fall has scarcely left any perceptible trace; for this I desire to render devout thanksgiving to God.

After that fall, I resolved to yield my judgment and preference to the oft-expressed wishes of the Board and the Mission, and enter more heartily into the task of collecting and putting in permanent form the incidents of my past life and work. Though I make that my chief work, hardly a day passes when I do not have calls from my priest friends in the city and the country around. I almost invariably stop to welcome them and talk with them. I would be glad to know that in this work I am aided by the prayers of the Church. I am assured that I have the interest of the Board and the Mission.

Mr. Campbell's Work.—

Owing to my long tour in the work of the Keng-tung Commission, I have had less time for general evangelistic work than usual. Since my return to Chieng Mai, I have made thirteen visits of one to five days to various out-stations. . . . I have devoted a larger share of my time this year than formerly to the instruction and oversight of native evangelists. Very faithful and efficient work has been done by these helpers.

Three native ministers and six elders have been regularly employed, their support being largely met by native contributions. One tour by Elder Sao was noteworthy. Word came from Muang Pao, four days distant, that ninety Christian people were ill with malarial fever. Medicines were gone, and two had died. It was the middle of the rains and roads were almost impassable. Elder Sao cheerfully undertook the task, for which his work in the hospital peculiarly fitted him. Dr. McKean sent a good supply of medicines. His report is in part as follows:

Upon arriving in Muang Pao, I consulted with Kroo Chaima (the native minister there) and together we began work. All of the Christians were visited—some of them many times; we instructed and encouraged them, prayed with them, and treated the sick. Each evening a meeting was held for study and worship. A school with sixteen children in attendance was organized, and a class of fifteen men spent five days in studying the Scriptures and the use of medicines under our instructions.

In the course of a month every one of the ninety patients recovered, and at a communion service fourteen persons confessed their faith. The recovery of all the patients had a peculiarly strong influence on the community, because these Christians had built their houses on land commonly believed to be the haunt of evil spirits.

Mr. Freeman's Touring.—In the absence of Mr. Campbell, Mr. Freeman undertook the care of a part of his field, in addition to his own field in Lampoon. Early in the year he spent two weeks in a visit to Muang Pao and Chieng Dao, each three or four days north of Chieng Mai. Later he made three visits each to Tong Peng and Me Aouw, which lie adjacent to his own field. Half the support of two evangelists was contributed by the churches in Lampoon, and they have done good work. Besides supervising their work, Mr. Freeman has himself spent ninety days in touring. He held communion in twelve different places, and baptized seven adults and twenty-seven children.

Other Touring.—In June Miss Gilson and two of the teachers from the Girls' School, with Elder Nan Chak, made a tour of three weeks and visited thirteen villages. The native teachers presided at the organ and contributed much to the success of the trip. A number of new pupils were secured for the school.

During several months of the year, Mrs. Freeman regularly visited seven villages, and occasionally four others, holding classes for Bible study and teaching the women to read. With the help of a Bible woman the work was continued until rice-planting began.

Mr. Collins has had charge during the year of Bethlehem and San Sai Churches and of Ban Taw district. He reports that he has spent a Sabbath each month in each, save for the two months when he was gone to Bangkok. Other members of the Station make less definite reports, but all have spent many Sabbaths in out-station work.

Training School.—The work of the training school for Christian workers is so connected with the evangelistic work that it is reported here. Only one session was held this year, since nearly all who attend it came in each month during the dry season for Bible study in the vaccinators' class. At the session in September Bible studies were conducted by Dr. McGilvary, Mr. Freeman and Mr. Campbell. Dr. McKean taught them in medicine and Mr. Palmer gave effective drill in music. Seventy-three men were in attendance, representing twelve districts. Supplementary classes were held in Lampoon by Mr. Freeman, and in Muang Pao by Elder Sao.

THE CHURCHES.—1. Chieng Mai Church.—This church includes not only those who assemble in the city, but the Christians in seventeen outside districts as well. In the care of this large and widely scattered congregation all the members of the Station, ladies as well as gentlemen, have co-operated, although the real burden rests upon Mr Campbell. Of the ninety-seven received on confession the past year, thirty-five were scholars in the schools, and twenty-four others had at some time attended the primary or higher schools of the Station. This fact testifies to the strong Christian influence of our educational work. Seventy-two catechumens, including a number of new families, are already under instruction, most of whom should be received early in the year. More than twenty were received at the communion in December. We hope, therefore, that the opening year may see a large ingathering. Sabbath services have been well maintained; the music, furnished by a chorus from the college and the Girls' School, has contributed not a little to the interest of these services in the city. This church now reports a total membership of 1,216.

2. Dawk Deng Church.—The year in this church has been encouraging. The Laos Convention, which met there last February, was an inspiration and stimulus to the people; twenty-four persons were added to the communion, and others are ready to be received. In addition to Sabbath visits, Mr. Harris spent two weeks touring in the district, and has supervised the faithful work of the elders. He now reports a membership of 283.

3. San Sai Church is gradually gaining ground. Eight have been received on confession, and most of the timbers are on the ground for the new chapel the people hope to build the coming year. Despite the defection of an elder, Mr. Collins reports the spiritual condition of the church as good. The membership is 118.

4. Bethlehem Church is also under Mr. Collins' care. Most of its members live within easy reach of the church, so that all its services are well attended. They also maintained a school at the chapel for three months without outside assistance. The Sabbath-school is well sustained, and thirteen have been received on confession of faith. A number of catechumens are under instruction. The present membership is 116.

5. Me Pookah Church has had a discouraging year. The rice crop failed and several of the strongest Christian families therefore moved away. Still, one has been received on confession, and with promise of a good rice crop we confidently look for better things spiritually. Mr. McKean reports sixty-nine members.

6. Chieng Dao Church is located full fifty miles from Chieng Mai, and has suffered because no missionary could visit it frequently. Mr. Freeman and Mr. Campbell each made it a brief visit, and Kroo Pook has been there twice. No accessions. Membership forty-six; four catechumens.

7. Muang Pao Church is situated sixty miles north-northeast from Chieng Mai. It has received very large accessions of strength the past year by immigration from Chieng Mai and Wang Moon, Christians as well as non-Christians being attracted thither by the cheapness and fertility of the land. Kroo Chaima has done faithful work, and the people were helped by the visits of Mr. Freeman and of Elder Sao. Fourteen have been received on confession, eight catechumens are reported, and many among the thousands who have recently gone there seem friendly to the Gospel message. There is no place in Chieng Mai field where a missionary, native or foreigner, could look for speedier fruitage. Present membership 125.

8. Lampoon Church.—This and the two following churches in Lampoon Province are all under the care of Mr. Freeman. He reports encouraging progress in the Sabbath-school. Especially among the women the growth in intelligence and knowledge of the Scriptures has been marked. The two superintendents are doing good work, and the contributions for all purposes have been larger than usual, amounting to about Rs. 200. Five have been received on confession and fifteen catechumens are under instruction. Membership 122.

9. Bethel Church has received six on confession and twelve others are to be counted as catechumens. Especially at the village of Wang Pao there has been an increase of interest that promises well for the future. Membership 101.

10. Wang Moon Church.—This church was greatly weakened by the removal of nearly one-half its members to Muang Pao. There has been a feeling of discouragement, but a better spirit seems to be gaining the upper hand. Two have been received on confession and there are ten catechumens. The present membership is fifty-four.

The ten churches of Chieng Mai Station report accessions for the year of 170, a total membership of 2,250, and about 140 catechumens.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Prince Royal's College.—Notwithstanding grave anxieties and financial difficulties that seemed at times overwhelming the college reports a most successful year. Timely gifts from America have made it possible to complete Butler Hall, containing class-rooms and a fine assembly hall, without debt, and warranted the beginning of a small dormitory. The building fund has received gifts during the year amounting to over $3,000, but a larger dormitory and a house for the Vice-Principal, Mr. Palmer, will require $6,000 more. The school is not yet doing college work, but each year the demands upon it are being increased, and its standards are being raised. We must make generous plans for the future.

The coming of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer greatly strengthened the teaching force. Mr. Palmer has taken charge of the English work and splendid work has been done. In English, mathematics and in Bible study the standard has been raised the past year, and a further advance is contemplated the coming year. We were fortunate in procuring the services of a young Christian Eurasian teacher who knows both English and Siamese. With one Siamese and two well-trained Laos teachers, we have a strong teaching force.

The enrollment for the Spring term was 105, as against sixty-nine the year before; for the Fall term 102, the largest enrollment for that term in the history of the school. The receipts from tuition, board and the sale of books and school supplies was Rs. 1,226, an increase of Rs. 500 over any previous year; but the expenses have also grown in similar proportion. We believe that an endowment of $50,000 will be required before many years, if we are to furnish suitable education to our Christian boys, poor as well as rich.

Religious interest has grown steadily throughout the year. A prayer meeting Friday afternoons, conducted by Mr. Harris, has developed practically into a Y. M. C. A., the boys choosing their own leaders and leading the meetings. A Saturday evening service for the boarders, conducted by Mr. Harris, gives an opportunity for intimate talks with the students from the country. Together these meetings have developed a religious interest that has found expression in work for other boys and in a higher standard of morals and manners. Over twenty boys have united with the church during the year.

The Girls' School.—Another prosperous year has passed, but what has been accomplished is, we hope, but the beginning of a higher and more far-reaching work for the women of this land. The first term seventy-seven pupils were enrolled, the last term ninety-seven. This was, we believe, the largest enrollment in the history of the school, and with an actual attendance most of the term of over ninety, and more than fifty boarders, both school-rooms and dormitory were crowded. The present quarters are cramped, especially the dormitory and playgrounds. A new bridge, soon to be built next the compound, will make it uncomfortably noisy and public, and at the same time valuable for business purposes. "The day is not far distant when the school must seek more commodious and quiet quarters. Receipts for the year were about Rs. 515.

Ill health compelled Miss Buck to ask for furlough and a heavy burden was thereby placed on Miss Gilson. The time has passed when one woman can fairly be asked to carry the whole burden of this school. Fortunately Miss Gilson has had the help of a Eurasian girl trained in the Mission schools in Burma, a sister of the new teacher in the college, who could take much of the English and sewing. Owing to the pressure of other duties, music lessons have had to be somewhat irregular, but some of the girls have made excellent progress. They often play the organ at school prayers and Sabbath afternoon services.

Weaving has been added to our industrial work. Four looms have been kept in operation and over 100 yards of cloth have been woven and sold at a little profit. The parents are interested in this work, as they are quick to see its value. All the children have been kept at work—sewing, weaving, sweeping the yard, pounding rice for themselves, and for the training school while it was in session. Both in work and in play the spirit of the school has been good. Eleven "outside" girls have been in attendance, three of them from Laps families of high rank and one the daughter of a Siamese official. Twelve girls have been received into the church at the city during the year.

Day-schools.—The Phraner Memorial Primary School at the Chieng Mai Church has been in session seven months in the year, with an average attendance of about forty-five boys and girls. Mrs. Campbell has had charge of the school and has spent a part of each day in teaching. The two native teachers have done very satisfactory work. The closing exercises of the school drew many of the parents to the school.

A school was held in the Lampoon Chapel during six months of the year, with an attendance of twenty. Mrs. Freeman has taught them in the Scriptures and in singing. The children have made good progress. An interesting fact is that the past term nine children from out-villages brought their "rice," and lived on the Mission compound. In a small way it was therefore a self-supporting boarding school.

Three other schools have been held for shorter terms in out-villages in Lampoon, two in Me Dawk Deng, one each at Bethlehem, at Me Poo-Ka, at Muang Pao, at Me Aous, at Nawng Fahn and at Chang Khum. In all, for longer or shorter terms, thirteen day-schools have been in session with a total enrollment of about 200.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. McKean has continued his superintendence of the very large and increasingly influential medical and evangelistic work centering in the hospital and dispensary.

The coming of Dr. and Mrs. Mason has been a great help, and has given time and strength without stint. Fresh from the best hospitals in America, aided by the trained skill of Mrs. Mason who has had years of experience as a surgical nurse, many surgical operations have been successfully performed, some of them of a nature never before attempted in Siam.

The income of the dispensary (including that of Lampoon Dispensary) amounted for the year to Rs. 21,330. This is very largely from the sale of drugs. Much medicine is sold to the vaccinators and others who have acquired some slight medical knowledge, and through them some at least of the benefits of the dispensary are carried to the distant parts of our field. In the same way the dispensary at Lampoon is reaching a larger constituency than before. Dr. Mason has made semi-monthly visits to Lampoon.
